LOCAL MILITIA UNITS HOLD GARRISON CHURCH PARADE

Four Units Unite To Attend Service For First Time Since Before War.

LARGE TURNOUT.

Capt. the Rev. Dr. Blagrave Preaches Fine Sermon to Large Congregation.

St. John's Anglican Church on Sunday morning presented a scene and ceremony that revived memories of ten years ago, memories of the great war and of the men that paid the supreme sacrifice. The first garrison parade was held in Peterborough since before the war. The units fell in at the armouries and the following were in the parade: Headquarters and C Squadron, 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, Major C. H. Stuart in command; 4th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, Major J. W. Stevenson; Peterborough Rangers, Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D.; and No. 3 Company 4th Battalion, C.M.G.C., Major Hurse Dodds. The parade was in charge of Col. Hall and was escorted to the church by the Rangers' Band. Lieut. R. A. Sheehy was in charge of the cathedral party that paraded earlier to St. Peter's Cathedral.

The turnout of the men was exceptionally large, filling most of the centre seats in the church. They paraded from the Armouries to George street, down George street to Hunter street and along Hunter to St. John's Anglican church.

The scene from the church door as the soldiers came up the hill to the church and filed silently through the door was very impressive. The men filled the main body of the church and something, about the color of the uniforms seemed to lend strength to the appearance of the church.

The church was filled to overflowing, chairs being placed in the rear. The summer colors of the ladies dresses made a very pleasing contrast to the sombre khaki, while the scarlet uniformed bandsmen reminded one of past days.

Lieut.-Col. Charles Ackerman read the lesson, while Capt. the Rev. Dr. Blagrave addressed the assembled units. His text for the occasion was the sixth verse of the 95th psalm—"O come let us worship and bow down, let us kneel before the Lord our Maker."

The Sermon.

Dr. Blagrave opened his sermon by extending a most cordial welcome to the members of the garrison, "On behalf of myself, the officers of the church and the congregation we welcome you and are very pleased to have you."

"There has been no such service for fifteen years so this is a historic occasion and much has happened in the past period. Such a period of time changes greatly the face of life. Ordinarily that length of time changes the youth into a man and the man well on to old age.

"During this period we have been living in extraordinary conditions, and changes of gigantic nature have taken place. The great war brought out the best and the worst features in human life. Heroism, duty, self sacrifice, were revealed while some of the most savage features were also brought out. The good and the bad were developed to the greatest extent and men were undeceived by their own nature. This self revelation has had a subduing effect and has opened our lives much for the good and bad.

"The four years of the war took many of the best men from our land as well as from other countries. It has been a high price to pay and we seldom appreciate that our liberty has been preserved by such a price. It showed that one nation could not control the world and that we should pay tribute on this occasion to those who paid the supreme sacrifice seems fitting. We do not forget those either who offered the same sacrifice, but were saved by Providence—the men who returned.

"The changes, during the fifteen years, are not confined to the first four years of war. The last ten years has changed many things. It has almost created a new world not at all the same as before 1914. These have been changes in National outlook, social changes and scientific changes, and changes in communication such as to revolutionize the whole world. The changes in our religion and religious outlook causes controversy, but these are necessary for progress. These must be since mankind is active and seeking for the very best and highest attainments. Among these are those bad and those good, some full of danger and some full of good.

Two Important Changes.

"There are two changes that I wish to speak of, first the change in social conscience, the respect men and nations feel for each other in their senses of justice, humanity and equity. Men now feel that the social conscience has made such tremendous progress that conditions fifty years ago would shock our generation. Possibly in fifty years that generation will be shocked at ours.

"The second thing I wish to speak of is the League of Nations. This is a new sense in the International morality, co-operation, goodwill and peace of the world, a means by which the conscience of the civilized world finds expression. The League of Nations is very significant of the memory of those who died. They did something eternal, something to better the world. It was a war to end war, for world peace.

"The changes and alterations contribute to the wealth of human life and happiness. Expression can make a fuller and better and richer life. We speak of economic or scientific progress, but what is progress? Do all the ad-

Eight Lose Lives In Oklahoma Tornado

BLAIR, Okla., June 18 (Associated Press). — Eight known deaths was the toll of the tornado that struck Blair, Headrick and other points in South-Western Oklahoma Saturday night, with a list of more than a score of injured.

Four persons lost their lives here and four others, the latter negroes, were killed at Headrick.

The storm, which did damage estimated roughly at $1,000,000, centred its force here, where every building in town was badly damaged, many of them being demolished. Every business building suffered except a brick bank building that withstood the force of the twister without even losing a window pane.

NEVER ANXIOUS SAYS AVIATRIX

Plane Behaved Beautifully in Long Flight—Steering Difficult.

COLUMBIA READY.

BURRY PORT, Wales, June 18. — (Canadian Press).—"I am very glad we have done it, and very happy we've landed," said Amelia Earhart to the correspondent of the Associated Press as she stepped ashore from the monoplane Friendship.

When asked what Miss Mabel Boll, who had hoped to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic, would think now that the Boston social worker had made the trip, Miss Earhart said, "Oh, there was no race between us across the Atlantic. That was faked by American newspapers."

"I've realized my greatest ambition," she went on. "I always felt sure the Friendship could do it and I was right. The conditions weren't very favorable, but I can honestly say I never felt the slightest anxiety. The plane behaved beautifully, and there was never a sign of engine trouble. The only real difficulty was that of steering a course."

Columbia Prepared.

HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., June 18 (Canadian Press).—In the face of continued adverse weather conditions over the great circle course, the monoplane Columbia was groomed for a possible trans-Atlantic hop to-day, while its crew strove to conceal disappointment at the march stolen by Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions aboard the Friendship.

Determined To Fly.

LOS ANGELES, June 18 (Canadian Press).—A picture of his daughter as a slight but determined girl, who did not let parental disapproval stand in the way of her learning to fly, was shown here to-day by Edwin S. Earhart, father of Amelia Earhart, who crossed the Atlantic in the Friendship.

Earhart revealed that his daughter was wealthy in her own right, that she had been flying for ten years, that she speaks five languages, and that she did outstanding work in both experimental and calculative chemistry at Columbia University.

PETERBOROUGH BOY TO HOLD SERVICES

Rev. Wesley Armstrong Will Preach Every Evening This Week at Tabernacle.

Rev. Wesley Armstrong, of Mitchel, North Dakota, U. S. A., will be conducting evangelistic services in Bethany Tabernacle every evening this week. Rev. Mr. Armstrong is the son of Mr. J. A. Armstrong, corner of McDonnel and College streets, this city. Recently he has been laboring in the evangelistic field. His last meetings were held in New York State, where he held a very successful meeting in Ithaca. Mr. Armstrong came to visit his father and has consented to give this week to Bethany Tabernacle in the Gospel ministry.

Mr. Armstrong is a fearless preacher, but his heart is tender and his messages grip the hearts of his hearers. Services every evening this week at 8 o'clock.

Rumors Denied That Stragglers From Nobile Expedition Had Been Located

ROME, June 18. — The rumors of last week that three members of General Umberto Nobile's Arctic party, who started to walk from near Foyn Island to Cape North, had been found by the sealer Hobby, became current here yesterday. Official denials were forthcoming but several newspapers issued extra editions before the Ministry of Marine could give out an announcement.

Commander Sansanetti, chief of the press section of the ministry, wired the base ship, Citta di Milano, at King's Bay, but could get no confirmation of the report. It finally was pointed out that Saturday's messages from the Hobby showed she had not reached Cape North, being held by the ice near the entrance to Hinlopen Strait.

Admiral Sirianni, under secretary of Marine, supplemented Commander Sansanetti's statement by saying that all news about Nobile which the ministry had given out through Stefani, the official agency, was "scant but complete." He warned the correspondents that he was putting his faith in the rescue of the stranded explorers elsewhere.

The only thing held back, the Admiral declared, was Nobile's first report that there were bears in the vicinity where the party came down, and that firearms were lacking. He did this, he said, in order to prevent anyone from spreading the report that the bears ate up General Nobilee's radio set and thereby prevented him from sending news.

The news from the Italia that General Nobile and two others were wounded, Admiral Sirianni declared, was temporarily withheld from the public in order that the Ministry might first notify the families of the men and assure them direct that there was no occasion for undue alarm.

GREAT CHANGES IN MARKETING ARE DESCRIBED

H. B. Cowan Discusses Significance of Three Developments of Recent Years.

EFFECT ON CANADA.

Managing Director of Rural Publishing Company Addresses Rotary.

The great changes that have occurred within recent years in marketing methods formed the subject of a most informative and interesting address at to-day's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club by H. B. Cowan, managing director of the Rural Publishing Company.

Mr. Cowan dealt with the committee of direction in British Columbia, the Patterson scheme in Australia, and the Nary-Haugen bill in the United States, explaining the principal features of these developments in a manner that threw fresh light upon them and their effect upon Canada.

Alpine MacNab introduced the speaker as an authority on marketing problems.

Mr. Cowan first touched upon the committee of direction plan in British Columbia, describing first the developments tha led up to its adoption. He pointed out that as fruit farming increased in that province and the surplus available for export grew larger co-operative schemes had been launched and had failed largely because some twenty per cent. of the fruit growers remained outside of the co-operative effort and took advantage of the prices made possible by the 80 per cent. which did enter into the scheme. Finally came the present plan by which the sale of fruit was by an act of the Legislature placed in charge of a committee of three, one representing the co-operatives, another the independent growers, and the third appointed by the government, and having complete control of the fruit crop. This scheme, Mr. Cowan said, was working out splendidly.

In regard to the Patterson plan, Mr. Cowan explained that it was based on the principle that a tax of three cents per pound was paid on every pound of butter produced, while a bonus of six cents per pound was paid for eevry pound exported. As a result of this measure large quantities of Australia's butter had been shipped into Canada, lowering the price here and causing Canadian dairymen to absorb a corresponding loss, while at the same time the price paid by the Australian consumer was increased. The plan, from an Australian standpoint, had been an unqualified success, so much so that New Zealand commenced shipping butter into Australia to take advantage of the higher prices there.

Finally Mr. Cowan discussed the much heard of McNary-Haugen bill by which it had been proposed that the government of the United States should set aside $400,000,000 as a revolving fund to set up a scheme of marketing much along the lines of the Patterson bill. The speaker explained how this bill had twice been vetoed by President Coolidge, rightly so in the opinion of Mr. Cowan, who reviewed Mr. Coolidge's reasons for refusing to give his assent to the measure.

The effect upon Canada were the McNary-Haugen proposal to become law, would be to bring about lower prices for Canadian products, Mr. Cowan pointed out in conclusion.

The speaker was heartily thanked by President Killaly for his fine address.

President Killaly described for the benefit of his fellow Rotarians the meeting of the Ottawa club last week at which the European delegation to the convention of Rotary International at Minneapolis were welcomed. The experience of meeting Rotarians from 14 or 15 countries was of much interest, as was the fine speech of welcome given by Hon. Col. Ralston, Caanda's Minister of Defence.

Rotarian J. H. Seels again urged members to use every effort to secure boys for Camp Skookum.

Electing Speaker For British House

LONDON, June 18.— (Canadian Press.)— A new speaker of the British House of Commons will be elected this week for the first time in seven years, and the function will occupy four days, following the traditional form. The actual election of a successor to the Rt. Hon. J. H. Whitley, who has had the position since 1921 and is now retiring, will take place on Wednesday. Capt. A. H. Fitzroy, Conservative member for Daventry and deputy chairman of committees, is the popular choice. Mr. Whitley formally announced ihs resignation to-day.

MANSLAUGHTER HEARING IS HELD

Judgment Reserved in Charge Against Wesley Devall.

FIVE WITNESSES CALLED.

The preliminary hearing of the charge of manslaughter against Wesley Devall was held by Magistrate Langley this morning in Police Court. His Worship reserved judgment as to whether there was sufficient evidence to send the accused on to trial before a Supreme Court Judge.

Only the Crown submitted evidence calling five witnesses. Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the preliminary hearing and V. J. McElderry, K.C., epresented the accused. Alex. Elliott watched the proceedings for Donald McMillan, father of the little chap who died on May 24th, after being struck by a car driven by Wesley Devall on Young Street, North Monaghan.

Donald McMillan was the first witness called. He said he was not at home at the time of the accident, and when he arrived his little boy had been taken to the hospital. Sandfield McManus, who was in the car at the time of the accident, told the Court that before Devall started he went around the back of the car after letting him into the front seat. He acknowledged drinking beer at the Johnson home, but said he could not swear that Devall had drunk any beer, although he saw a glass in his hand.

Wesley Peters was 600 feet from the place the accident ocurred when the boy was knocked down by the car, and he heard the people screaming. Dr. F. C. Neal said the child was suffering extreme shock when he saw him, but could not say whether it was the cut on his chest that caus-

BROTHERHOOD IS SUBJECT OF A.O.F. SERMON

Members of Local Courts of Order Attend Mark Street Church.

ADDRESS MOST FITTING.

Rev. A. E. Thornley Urges Foresters to Practice Program Given in Scriptures.

Members of the Ancient Order of Foresters attended divine service in Mark Street United Church yesterday morning, when Rev. A. E. Thornley, M.A., delivered a most inspiring and spiritual address on Brotherhood. Members of the Court Stanley, Queen Alexandra Circle, Court White Lily, Sunbeam Circle and visiting brethren from surrounding lodges in the district assembled in the Woodman of the World hall and paraded to the church, more than filling the centre pews.

The speaker conjured all present to practise the highest program of Brotherhod as taught in the Scriptures, and to put away jealousies and the arraying of one faction against the other.

"We do well to assign a little special interest to the first message of Jesus after he ascended from the dead," said Mr. Thornley. In this one verse there are many subjects that I might speak to you on, but to-day I chose to discuss the Brotherhood of Man which implies the Brotherhood of God and likewise the Brotherhood of God implies the Brotherhood of Man.

"We to-day would know nothing about brotherhood even in its most limited sense if it were not for the teachings of the Scriptures. In these teachings the brotherhood of man includes the sisterhood all welded together by ties that bind one family to each other.

"In everyday life we find strong examples of ties of brotherhood and sisterhood. But these ties are not strong enough to meet all the needs of man. In the first family there were two brothers, and they quarreled. Later on, we read that Isaac had two sons and the younger stole the older brother's birthright; but chickens come home to roost, and we find that the sons of Jacob sold their brother Joseph into slavery. This brotherly tie, strong though it may be, does not meet the needs of humanity.

"If the Ancient Order of Foresters stands for and exemplifies the tie of Brotherhood, it is doing some good, for it teaches us to love one-another.

"For the most part brotherhoods teach their members to love one another. We do not want them arrayed against each other, and we do not want factions within the rank. We want brotherly love and co-operation in the things that are expressed in the words of the text, so that we might love God with all our heart, mind, and strength, and our neighbor as ourself.

We to-day are making a tremendous mistake if we think the fraternal movements, and I belong to a fraternal organization, can be a substitute for the church. Their program does not go far enough. In your Order you have a program and one of the stipulations is that a member must be in good physical and mental health. Well, perhaps this is necessary from the standpoint of the insurance features that go with your program. The program of the church admits everyone and it has not limitations as to those who might belong. Its program is to minister to the needs of sin-thirsty manhood and go out and teach brotherhood to the human race. If there are exceptions it is to the underprivileged who should be compelled to come in, for God has made of one blood all nations on earth and we are all brethren.

"Don't let us be narrow, only asking blessing for the members of our own family, but let us seek blessing for the community and for the nations, and let us help on the great movement when man to man the world over shall be brothers for all that."

In conclusion, Mr. Thornley made a plea to his hearers to help the church get away from the sectarianism and let everyone work together for the coming of the kingdom.

45 MEN ON LIST AS WANTING WORK

Tradesmen Placed Without Difficulty, Employment Bureau Reports.

Labor conditions around the city are in fairly good shape. There is a list of forty-five men awaiting positions at the employment office. Most of those on this list are older men or young boys for whom positions are scarce. Tradesmen's names are not so numerous as these have been placed rather regularly. The placement of men has been rather steady in this line.

Did Not Transmit Messages Saturday

ROME, June 18 (Associated Press).—It was officially announced yesterday that the stricken dirigible Italia did not transmit any messages to the base ship Citta di Milano Saturday. This absence of direct word, however, caused no concern in Rome, as it is felt that the wireless operator aboard the Italia was conserving his batteries for any emergency that might arise before a relief expedition penetrates the northland.

The ice-breaker Braganza and the sealer Hobby passed Cape North and are near Castrena Island. Foggy weather still prevents Captain Riiser-Larsen and Lieut. Holm from making reconnaissance flights in the vicinity of Foyn Island, where General Nobile and his party are divided into three groups awaiting relief.

BETHANY BOY SHOT IN BACK

Andrew Heaslip Seriously Wounded While Riding Through Wood.

BOYS SHOOTING AT TREES.

(Examiner Correspondence).

BETHANY, June 18. — Andrew Heaslip, son of William Heaslip, lies in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, seriously injured as a result of a shooting accident two miles west of Fleetwood yesterday afternoon. He has a bullet wound in his back and his condition is serious.

The boy was riding a bicycle through a wood in which several boys were shooting. As he was passing along the road one of the boys aimed at a tree and fired. The shot missed the tree and struck the boy in the back, passing almost through the body and lodging below the ribs.

Dr. Hamilton of Bethany was called and attended the boy, having him rushed to Lindsay Hospital right away.

RAY COPPERWAITE ESCAPES AGAIN

Is Seen By Chief Light Near Round Lake, But Gets Away in Bush.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18. — For the second time, Ray Copperwaite has evaded the police. On Wednesday, June 13th, he was sentenced by Magistrate Payne to four months' imprisonment on a joint charge of housebreaking and theft. Between the time he received the sentence and that set for his departure for Cobourg, Copperwaite made good his escape. Since then a warrant has been issued for his arrest on a charge of jail breaking, but he was seen yesterday afternoon.

Following a clue, Chief Light took a trip into the country north of Havelock toward Round Lake. While on the road, he spotted his man in a car which he was about to pass. Before the Chief could get to him, however, the young man jumped from the car in which he was riding and made his escape into the bush, succeeding in getting clean away.

The Chief's trip was not altogether fruitless, however, since he recovered a bicycle which had been stolen from a Frank Street resident's veranda during the night of June 13-14.

The description of the missing man has been broadcast by the police.

BUCKET BRIGADE SAVES CAVAN HOME

Neighbors and Passers-by Extinguish Fire In Wilfrid Elson's House.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 18.—Fire broke out in the farm home of Wilfrid Elson, Seventh Line, Cavan, on Sunday about 3 p.m., a defective chimney being the cause assigned.

Fortunately a large number of the men of the district, with others from passing cars, were soon on the spot, and due to their effective work as a "bucket brigade," with some assistance from a chemical fire extinguisher supplied by Edgar Fallis the flames were stayed before any great amount of damage was done.

A large hole was burned in the roof of the frame dwelling, and this was accounted the chief amount of harm done. The loss is covered by insurance.

Earlier in the season Mr. Elson had his colony house, with four hundred little chickes, burned as a result, it is thought, of a dropped coal from the brooder stove.

Reaches Burryport On Bristol Channel In 21 Hour Flight

Miss Amelia Earhart Has Honor of Being First Woman To Cross Atlantic By Plane — Started on Sunday From Trepassy.

CROWD CROSSES MARSHY GROUND TO SEE PLANE IN BURRY ESTUARY

Aviators Appear Well After Long Journey Which Ends in Little Bay Off Bristol Channel in Desolate Part of South Wales.

BURRYPORT, Wales, June 18 (Canadian Press). — The trans-Atlatic monoplane Friendship landed in the Burry estuary, on the Carmarthenshire coast, shortly after noon to-day owing to lack of fuel.

Her crew looked very well when taken ashore by motor boat, and did not appear fatigued by the 2,000 mile air journey from Trepassey, Newfoundland.

The Friendship was first sighted at Llanelly, near Swansea, about noon. She was flying low through the mist, and was skirting the coast looking for a suitable landing place on the Llanelly foreshore. Then she disappeared toward Burryport.

A few minutes later she was sighted by Burry Port, circled the Burry inlet for a few moments and then dropped to a landing. She taxied along the river Llwchwr and came to a halt soon after, making fast to a buoy.

A motor boat immediately went out and took plane's passengers ashore in the presence of hundreds of people, who ran across a marshy swamp near the scene for a distance of three quarters of a mile to greet the intrepid aviators. The region in which the fliers had ended their flight across the ocean made a depressing scene, but the aviators did not seem to mind, and looked well after their long journey.

It was 12.40 p.m., just 24 hours and 49 minutes after the Friendship took off from Trepassey, Newfoundland, where she had been held about ten days by unfavorable weather conditions and the difficulty in making a take-off with her great load of gasoline.

Miss Amelia Earhart, Boston social worker, is the woman member of the crew. Wilmer Stultz is the pilot and Lou Gordon is the mechanic.

The monoplane with Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmar Stultz and Louis Gordon abroad, left Burryport at 5.37 o'clock this afternoon for Southampton.

Had Narrow Escape.

CARDIFF, Wales, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Eye-witnesses to the landing of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Friendship state that the plane had a narrow escape from disaster just before landing, passing within thirty yards of a chimney stack at the Burry Port Copper Works.

At the time of the hop-off, weather bureau reports indicated the fliers would have little better than possible flying weather at least over the first half of their course, which is laid along the Great Circle. Should weather conditions threaten the success of a safe passage to Ireland Stultz said before the start he would alter his course and head for the Azores.

Miss Earhart has achieved the honor of being the first woman to fly across the Atlantic. Three women have lost their lives and a fourth was forced down at sea and picked up by a ship in attempts to be the first of their sex to make the hazardous crossing.

Tri-Motored Plane

The Friendship is a tri-motored Fokker monoplane, equipped with pontoons for taking off from and landing on water.

The ship carried approximately 700 gallons of gas. Two radio sets, one operating on a 600-metre wave length and the other on a low wave length emergency sets are located in the plane.

Preparation for the attempt were made in secret, and it was not until two weeks ago yesterday, when the monoplane arrived here from Boston, that it became known Miss Earhart and Stultz contemplated a trans-Atlantic flight.

Bought From Byrd

The monoplane Friendship was tested by pilots for Commander Richard E. Byrd, with a view to determining its qualifications for use in Byrd's proposed South Pole flight. After Stultz had been making tests with the plane in the vicinity of Boston for some time, its sale by Byrd was announced, although the identity of the purchaser was not made known. After the ship left Boston it became known that it had been acquired by George Palmer Putnam, publisher, and a group of associates for Miss Earhart's trans-Atlantic flight attempt.

Two of the women, who lost their lives in efforts to be the first of their sex to complete the air crossing of the Atlantic, disappeared while attempting the westward air crossing of the North Atlantic.

BOAT EXHAUSTS ANNOY CITIZENS

Complaints Registered Against Disturbance at Nights and On Sunday.

BY-LAW PROPOSED.

Many complaints were registered to-day over the extraordinary noise created by speeding outboard motorboats in Little Lake yesterday, the sound of the motors penetrating all parts of the city and disturbing many citizens.

"Those boats are all privately-owned," explained Claude Rogers of the Peterborough Canoe Company, when seen by The Examiner in regard to the complaints. "Our own boats are never operated on Sunday or after dark on week-nights. Usually they are run only during working hours, but often we allow them to be used in the early evening by young people practising aquaplaning."

In regard to the noise, Mr. Rogers pointed out there was no need of it, inasmuch as these boats were sold with standard equipment, including mufflers. Purchasers, however, in order to get the last bit of speed out of their engines have cut out the mufflers. Hence the din.

It is understood that the city council is to be approached for legislation dealing with the operation of these boats within the city limits during certain hours.

THREE CLASSES OF LICENSES

Every Person Driving Car Must Have Permit of Proper Type.

EXAMINATION REQUIRED.

Much confusion has arisen lately at the license department of the Peterborough Automobile club as to the differences in the various licenses and permits issued for the operation of automobiles.

The instruction permit is good for sixty days during a period of instruction. Each person learning to drive must have one of these. They do not allow a new driver to drive alone but he must have a person holding a regular operator's license in the seat with him. These cannot be issued to anyone under sixteen.

The operator's license is issued only to persons over eighteen, no matter if he has driven all his life an applicant must now pass a test in order to get a license to operate a motor car.

The chauffeur's license goes to chauffeurs, by which is understood anyone that operates a motor car and receives compensation for it. This requires a more thorough examination.

Persons between the ages of sixteen and eighteen must pass the chauffeur's examination before being allowed to drive.

No one under the age of sixteen is allowed to drive. Harold Dunford is the [illegible] miner.

MRS. DAVID LUNN IS HOSTESS TO MISSION CIRCLE

Decided By Members To Hold One Meeting in Holiday Season.

ABOUT AUGUST FIRST.

Will Make Party To Attend the Sessions at O. L. C., Whitby.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 18. — Mrs. David Lunn, Fourth Line, Cavan, was hostess for the June meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle, held on Thursday afternoon, with over thirty in attendance.

A number of the young people enjoyed a game of softball while the tea was being made ready, the tables being laid on the lawn, healthy exercises sharpening appetites for the substantial menu provided.

The president, Miss Jean Burnham, took the chair for the formal meeting in the house after the supper hour, the superintendent, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, leading in prayer during the devotional period.

After discussion it was decided to hold one meeting during the holiday season, probably about the first of August, as several members are home then who are not able to attend the circle gatherings the other months of the year owing to teaching duties at various points in the province.

Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. Lambert, and the president were appointed a committee to arrange to have one or more carloads of the members attend the sessions of the interdenominational missionary conference held at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, in the early part of July.

The president distributed prayer sheets, listing definite work on the home and foreign fields as subjects of prayer each day of the week, the members to use these during the holiday season; the idea is to sustain interest in the mission fields by this definite form of service while the circle is not holding regular meetings, and members may be widely separated as vacations are enjoyed. This prayer chart is from Dr. S. D. Gordon's "The Quiet Hour."

Psalm 121 was recited in unison, and Miss Elsie Spence gave a reading, "Does God Hear Prayer?" recounting one missionary's experience during a trying time in India, of the marvellous manner in which God gave deliverance from great danger, as the result of persistent, believing prayer.

"My Faith Looks Up to Thee" was the hymn which appropriately followed, and Rev. F. H. Howard gave an address emphasizing the infallibility of prayer, and the necessity of people giving themselves to this important service because of the crisis which prevails now in the church and community life to-day.

"We need to pray to have our eyes opened to realize the gravity of the situation at present existing, and to be ready for our share in it."

"Africa" has been the subject of study in the Mission Circle through the winter months, and Mr. Howard directed his listeners' thoughts to some phases of the work in that continent in his concluding remarks, taking incidents from Dan Crawford's missionary experiences as the basis of his theme.

This was Mr. Howard's concluding address to the Circle, the change in pastorates taking place by the end of this month, and in referring to this fact, he especially urged the members to "ask counsel of God" in all their undertakings.

Personals.

Mrs. Whiteman and daughter Geraldine, of Wingham, are visiting her sister, Mrs. M. McDowell.

Miss Roma Roberts, of Port Hope, is visiting this week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. G. F. Harrington.

Mrs. E Whyte has returned after a pleasant month's visit with her sister, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald, Toronto.

BARN RAISING.

Melville McWilliams Replaces Barn Destroyed By Lightning Last Fall.

(Examiner Correspondence).

A successful barn raising took place on Wednesday at the home of Mr. Melville McWilliams, Bridgenorth, when he raised his new barn, 30 by 60 feet, to replace the barn destroyed by lightning last fall. The men turned out in such goodly numbers that the sheeting was almost completed by night.

Quilting Party.

The W.M.S. of the Lakevale Presbyterian Church held their annual quilting party at the home of Mrs. J. Irwin, Fowler's Corners, on Thursday, June 14. The weather being ideal, the quilting of three quilts was accomplished on the lawn.

Mr. McMillan of Omemee gave an interesting address on missions, after which the hostess served afternoon tea on the lawn to about sixty women and children. The following are those who were present: Mrs. J. Proudlove, Mrs. J. K. Moore, Mrs. C. E. Moore, Mrs. J. Archer, Mrs. H. Archer, Mrs. J. Stinson, Mrs. M. Archer, Mrs. E. McManus, Mrs. Sullivan, Mrs. Richmond, Mrs. E. Mahood, Mrs. W. Darling, Mrs. E. Mahood, Mrs. J. Hunter, Mrs. W. Howden, Mrs. E. Deyell, Mrs. I. Moore, Mrs. G. Deyell, Mrs. Blackwell, Mrs. Fife, Mrs. H. Fowler, Mrs. F. Fowler, Mrs. J. Tully, Mrs. S. Tully, Mrs. Evans, Misses Bell, Stinson, M. Deyell, Dench, O. Fife, M. Fowler, H. Moore, B. Young, M. ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED AT ST. JOHN'S

Campbellford United Congregation Hears Two Fine Sermons.

REV. DR. LAIRD PREACHES.

General Treasurer of United Church Once Lived in Campbellford.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18.—Large congregations attended both morning and evening services in St. John's United church yesterday on the occasion of the anniversary services there. The special preacher for the day was the Rev. Robert Laird, D.D., Toronto, general treasurer of the United Church of Canada. Dr. Laird is well known to many of the older citizens of Campbellford, having perached here on various occasions and having been, several years ago, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church.

The front portion of the auditorium of the church was beautifully decorated with spring flowers for the occasion. The special music by the choir was suitable to the occasion and showed a remarkable degree of intensive training and practice on the part of the organist and leader, Mr. Hazell and the choir. At the morning service there were anthems, Rejoice To-day, (Turner), and Praise God in His Holiness (Turner), the solo part being sung by George Lucy, tenor. In the evening there was an anthem, "How Lovely Are Thy Tents," (Neale), solo by Mrs. H. O. Richardson; a duet, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," Miss L. Young and Mrs. F. J. Smith; trio and chorus, "O Lord of Hosts," (Rossi), the solos and trio parts being sung by Miss Cherry Turner, aWiter Henson and George Lucy.

At the morning hour of worship, Dr. Laird selected his text from two chapters of the writings of the Apostle Paul, Paul's letters to the Corinthians and Paul's letters to the Galatians, chapters three and five and verses sixteen and twenty-two. Dealing with the fruits of the Spirit, Dr. Laird recalled how Paul had not been content with reminding men of his day of the Spirit of God, but strove to instill into them that they must set an example to other men and that the srength of the church lay in the character of the men in the church. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

On the occasion of any anniversary it was customary to look back over the past and to endeavor to predict the future. It was an occasion for giving thanks and praise to God for past goodness and should be an occasion for remembering that the spirit of God dwells within each man. "Without it we are not men of God, nor is our church His church," he said.

Last Sunday, Dr. Laird pointed out, was the third anniversary of the United Church of Canada. It was now entering its fourth year. All would recall the events of 1925, the confirmation services in thousands of churches throughout the Dominion, marking as it did, the uniting of churches for God. At that time the people realized that they could never hold Canada by a broken organization. But the change had cost something and the people in Campbellford had probably realized it. Nothing had been surrendered which was of any consequence. The spirit of God had been found in a larger measure than ever before.

During the executions of his duties said Dr. Laird he had travelled from coast to coast of the Dominion of Canada and was convinced that the United church had made more progress in its three years of existence than had been expected of it in seven or eight years. There were difficulties but these were gradually being dissolved and disappearing thanks to the leaders of the church in its various organizations. An eminent Scottish clergyman after paying a visit to Canada was addressing a gathering in a large auditorium of one of the churches of the United Free Church of Scotland. He said that the Union which was being consumamted in Scotland was a small thing compared to what had taken place in Canada. Other great ministers claimed that the example set in Canada has carried conviction to the whole Anglo-Saxon world.

In a brief summary Dr. Laird said that in the three years there were 375 mission fields that had been dependent on larger churches for assistance that were now self supporting. This had enabled the church to open up between eight and nine hundred new fields in new communities. There were fifteen churches in the city of Montreal and fifteen in the city of Vancouver, B.C. In Toronto there were forty, he said.

But the work of the church was not all of an external nature and was not to be judged by the number of fine buildings which bore its name.

IN MEMORIAM.

NICHOLAS—In loving remembrance of our darlmg little boy, Bobbie, whom God called suddenly home, June 17, 1927, age 3 years.

"Sweet little flower of heavenly birth,
He was too fair to bloom on earth,
So angels came with speedy hands
And bade him bloom in a better land.
Do not ask us if we miss him,
Oh, there's such a vacant place;
Oft we think we hear his footsteps
Or see his dear sweet smiling face.

God has taken home our darling,
Placed our bud among His flowers,
Taken back the babe He lent us
To a better home than ours.
Had He asked us, well, we know,
We would cry, O spare the blow.
Yes, with streaming eyes, would say,
Lord, we love him, let him stay."

W. A. MEET AT MOUNT PLEASANT

Society of St. John's Church, Ida, Meet in Parish Hall.

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 18. — The Mount Pleasant Branch of the Women's Institute were entertained at the home of Mrs. Henry Lowes on Wednesday afternoon, June 13. There was an attendance of twelve members. The new president, Mrs. Thomas Graham, was in the chair, and conducted the meeting. Ten members answered the roll-call, which was "Hope chest suggestions." The new secretary and treasurer were also present and took charge of their respective duties—Mrs. T. C. Morden and Mrs. George Jamieson. Numerous letters of correspondence were read: From the League of Nations Society, acknowledging receipt of membership fee from the secretary, for Mrs. Ira Lowe, who was appointed a member of the League of Nations Society. From the Grand Temperance Lodge inToronto, stating that the Temperance Hall in Mount Pleasant has been given to the Women's Institute. From the Red Cross Society—a donation of five dollars was given to this worthy cause.

New Roof on Hall.

Plans were made regarding putting a new roof on the hall, with Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. Clew Morden, Mrs. George Jamieson, and Mrs. Hannah Rutherford as a committee in charge of the plans.

It was decided to have the roll-call rally contest for another year with Mrs. Clew Morden and Mrs. George Jamieson as captains. This contest worked out well during the past year, encouraging the members to attend the meetings as each lady who is in time for the roll-call and answers pertaining to the roll-call subject receives five points. The side with the lowest number of points is entitled to treat the winning side.

Good Program.

A splendid program was given at the meeting. Mrs. Melville Jones and Mrs. Garnet Shield were the committee in charge. Mrs. Jones introduced a contest, "Floral Wedding Story," which was very entertaining. "Making Life Count" was the subject of the paper given by Mrs. Shield, and a reading was given by Mrs. George Jamieson, "Women's Rights." Miss Lena Finlay also gave a reading telling how the hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," came to be composed. A social half-hour was enjoyed while the hostess, assisted by the Lunch Committee, Mrs. Melville Jones and Mrs. Harry Bland, served refreshments. Those present included Mrs. Thomas Graham, Mrs. George Jamieson, Mrs. Rosenburg, Mrs. Clew Morden, Mrs. Gertrude McLean, Mrs. Norman Fee, Mrs. Hannah Rutherford, Miss Lena Finley, Mrs. Garnet Shield, Mrs. Melville Jones, Mrs. Harry Bland.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

This short-sleeved boy's suit o natural-colored crash is as appropriatef for play hours for the small girl as for her brother.

No considerate mother would expect her five-year-old son to wear his sister's out-grown bloomer frocks for play time, but most little girls are only too delighted to wear big brother's suits. Much as you may have done to root out a feeling of sex inequality in the minds of your children you will doubtless still notice that your son resents being called a girly girl whereas your daughter is quite willing to be called a tomboy.

There are very serviceable play frocks for little girls—and you may have chosen some of these for your own daughters—but many mothers much prefer little boy suits instead. For dress-up occasion your Jack and Jill may appear in brother and sister ensemble, but for playtime they may look like two little Jacks instead.

Middy and navy suits for both girls and boys are extremely smart, as part of the general revival of yachting fashions this season. The boy's suits are made with very short trousers with trim little middy blouses extending just below the hips and may be worn in warm weather without the dicky at the front. The little girl's matching suits are made with the same sort of middy blouse—only with very short pleated skirts.

Some women cannot resist the temptation to dress their little daughters in clothes of a more frilly, feminine sort, but where the best-dressed children are to be seen you will see a surprising dearth of these fussier frocks.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

THERE was a perfect picture of childish pleasure on Homewood avenue yesterday. A little boy, playing with a huge Airedale, lay on his back while the dog romped over him. His squeals of delight were something to make the day brighter.

A home on this avenue, by the way, has one of the neatest bedroom ideas of this progressive age. Just at the head of each twin bed is a niche in the wall for books, where they are handy to both bed and bed-light.

On Monaghan road is a new rose garden which promises a display of rare beauty should summer ever come. A rose salesman declares more rose bushes sold in Peterborough this year than ever before.

Two still youthful girls lingering over cigarettes in a George street restaurant at closing-time (2 a.m.) raise the natural question as to whether mother knows they are out.

A lady in Douro, who has already sent us a recipe for reproduction on the Women's Page, earns another vote of thanks by telling a way to restore last year's "pet" straw hat. "Get oil paint of the correct shade, thin it with gasoline, and paint the hat," she says. "It will dry quickly, and you can't tell the result from a new hat."

Faces beaming, if a little scratched; shoes and socks dust-laden; grimy little hands that had not lost their dimples, three children were walking toward town on the road that leads to the "Green hill." Their arms were filled with wild flowers, which they were probably taking home to mother, in the sure expectation of her enjoyment. Then a bully of a lad, about 16, shouted at them, demanding where they "stole" the flowers. They dropped their precious bundles and ran, pursued by the jeers of their tormentor. Why isn't one allowed to spank others' children who are not taught kindliness in their homes—apparently?

There's a very practical model in linen or pique shown in one of the uptown shops. Cable stitching at the yoke is repeated at the lower sleeves, and the skirt is gracefully pleated.

A new cream advertised at a city drug store is said to give perfect protection against sun and wind, enabling the thoughtful user to romp all day, apparently tanned, and appear in the evening with a creamy-white skin. The chameleon is put to shame!

A Peterborough physician so well known in his profession that his opinion counts, says that women put off consulting a doctor long after their condition warrants it because of fear of his diagnosis. Most diseases can be halted if caught in time, and no woman should adopt an ostrich-in-the-sand attitude when dealing with so important a question as her own health.

PRIZES GIVEN TITLE WRITERS

Mrs. Blanchard, Miss McNulty and Mrs. Watson Suggest Winning Names.

MANY SUBMITTED.

"The Whatnot" has been chosen from the names submitted for the Women's Page column, and as two ladies sent in the same suggestion, both receive prizes of fine stationery. The third prize has been awarded for another suggestion, which, while not considered suitable for the "column," is wonderfully appropriate for another section. "Society" did not seem to be the correct heading for the small personal notes which appear daily on this page, since this section tells more of people's comings and goings, and their little private entertainments, than of society affairs. On the other hand, "Personals" is so hackneyed as a heading. Very happy, indeed, is the heading which makes its appearance to-day for the first time—"Neighborly Notes."

The suggestion to use "The Whatnot" was sent in by Mrs. T. H. Blanchard, 529 Homewod avenue, and Miss Marcelle M. McNulty, 289 Hunter street, while "Neighborly Notes" was suggested by Mrs. C. F. Watson, 182½ Hunter street, Apartment 1. The prizes have been sent to-day to these ladies.

A dictionary describes "Whatnot" as: "An article of furniture having shelves for ornaments, nic-nacs and mementos." One recalls with ease the corner whatnots of the last generation, gathing places for interesting and entertaining fragments collected on holiday trips and given by friends on various occasions. This column, now called "The Whatnot" will carry odds and ends of interesting and entertaining news and comment; it will be a cross-section of the women's community, just as the old whatnot was a cross-section of the family's life and adventures; and, if friends are as ready to respond to this invitation as they were to answer the request for name-suggestions, it will carry a miscellany of items which they contributed.

Other Names Suggested

Among the many splendid names suggested for the column, from which the selection was difficult, were the following: "Home Notes," by Mrs. G. Nimmons, 334 Downie street; "Newsy Notes of Nifty Niceness," by Mrs. Wilfred Boorman, 228 Dublin street; "Seen and Heard in Our Town," by Miss Alice Bradshaw, 523 Romaine street; "Clever, Cute, and Comely," by Miss E. Coombes, 124 Lansdowne street; "This and That," by Mrs. A. W. Clarke, 321 Simcoe street; "Local Detector," by Mrs. Fred Elliot, 263 Rubidge street; "In Peterborough Circles," by Miss M. Finnegan, Marmora; "Here and There," by Mme. S. Goulet, 500 Gilmour street; "Mainly Around Town," by Mrs. Kent, 493 King street; "Local Items of Interest," by Mrs. N. McWilliams, 653 George street north; "Ideas That Count," by Miss Irene Graham, Box 372 Preston; "Here and There," by Mrs. N. Todd, 151 Hart avenue; "Entre Nous," by R. Brooks, 243 Westcott street, and K. Masterson, 140½ Hunter street; "Peacock Feathers," by Mrs. W. E. Herrick, 694 Water street; "A Little Bit of Everything," by Miss Florence Crough, Omemee; "Daily Tid Bits of Fact, Fancy and Fiction," by Mrs. G. E. Lougheed, R.R. 3, Embro; "Local Nuciel," by Miss Winnifred McInroy, Stirling; "Chit-Chat Column," by Miss Mary Moore, 506 Bolivar street, "Wydawake Column," by Miss Anna Ingram, 506 Bolivar street; "Gossip and Grumbles," by Mrs. M. G. Nimmons, 334 Downie street; "Wit and Wisdom," by Mrs. Peggy Taylor, 334 Downie street; "Daily Gems," by Mrs. H. Wood, 273 McGill street; "Local Tid-Bits," by Miss G. H. Brownlie, 6 McGill street; "Tete a Tete," by Mrs. Sisson, 187 Sherbrooke street; and all of the following by Miss E. Aldridge, 377 Water street: "The Home Forum," "Helpful Hints," "Sunbeams," "Sparklets," "Some Suggestions," and "Good Ideas."

All of these titles are being saved and if any of them fits a column started in the development of this page, a prize will be awarded.

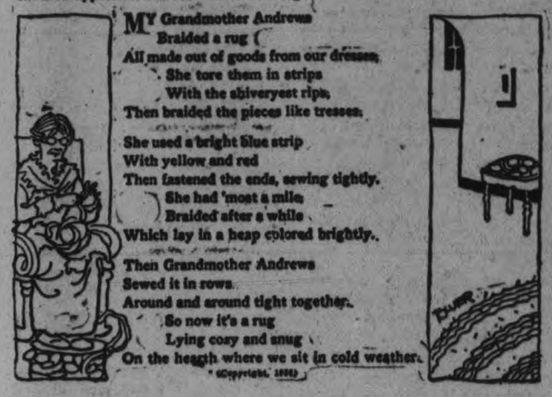
By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

THE now-a-days folk are rather prone to value things by what they cost. It's the modern trend to pay too much attention to the price tag and forget that there are other values in life which are really more important. We have so much more of the Things of life than grandmother had that I sometimes think we fail to appreciate anything for its real value. In these days of easy merchandising where we can buy things and replace them so easily it's no wonder the children fail to realize that everything they have cost somebody effort or sacrifice. Then, too, because we do just go out and buy so much we lose that sense of sentiment and personal touch. After all it isn't always the intrinsic value in an article which makes it desirable. It may be a labor of love, or a personal sacrifice which gives it a value far beyond what money can buy. Let us take care to help the children appreciate the real worth of things.



My Grandmother Andrews
Braided a rug
All made out of goods from our dresses.
She tore them in strips
With the shiveryest rips,
Then braided the pieces like tresses.

She used a bright blue strip
With yellow and red
Then fastened the ends, sewing tightly.
She had 'most a mile
Braided after a while
Which lay in a heap colored brightly.

Then Grandmother Andrews
Sewed it in rows
Around and around tight together.
So now it's a rug
Lying cosy and snug
On the hearth where we sit in cold weather.

looked at Dorothy covertly—there seemed to him a halo about her golden head. "I believe she'll keep him there until the old folks come," he whispered to the surgeon as together they left the room. "If she does it will be a miracle," was all the elder man said.

Miracles are still possible. King woke from three hours' sleep, distinctly better. Throughout the hours Dorothy had sat holding his hand, willing him with all the ardor, the contrition of her impetuous soul, to make the man-fight she knew lay ahead. All night she stuck to her post. And in the gray morning she had her reward—the sick man seeing her against the dawn-glow, murmured: "I am coming up—from hell—by help of—an angel."

In a month he was well enough to be moved—there was hope that in a year he might walk freely, though full strength was too much to hope for. His father and mother besought Dorothy to go home with them—the savior-wife of their son, for whom all the world was not sufficient reward. But the son himself had learned wisdom—he had seen the faces of Dorothy and the young doctor answer each other across his sick bed. She had given him back life—he would give her happiness. So at last, pale but illumined of face, he joined their hands firmly saying as he smiled at them: "You are to let me play fairy godfather, for being a good patient."

GODFATHER.

By BROWNLEY JONES

"If only you had one saving imperfection!" Dorothy said plaintively with her most fetching glance. Her sole auditor, J. Hubert King, Esq., accepted the tribute within at face value, though he made a pretense of deprecation with, "That's just your awfully too-kindness."

"Impossible," said Miss Dorothy, with an accent deserving italics. "I've watched and studied you ever since you came, trying to pick a flaw. Tell me—is there anything—anything at all—you really can't do?"

"That remains to be seen," J. Hubert answered with a significant look. Dorothy dropped her eyes, murmuring delicately: "When you see—won't you please tell me?"

"If you promise not to sympathize," from J. H., essaying the subtle. She clapped her hands crying joyously: "Instead I shall felicitate you. It must be dreadfully lonesome—this being in a class by yourself."

She was, you perceive, wholly devoid of conscience—at least where the male of her species, oozing fatness, conceit and wealth, was concerned. J. Hubert was truly as perfect a specimen of the gentleman strictly hand-made as was ever turned out by tutors, tailors, masters of each social grace, as ever admired himself in the finset French plate mirrors. He was indeed the supreme achievement of his worthy parents—plus the millions thriftily accumulated in the cloak and suit trade. They had toiled early, married late—after the money began rolling up, came this crowning mercy, a son to inherit it. So nothing had been spared much less scanted, toward his perfecting. It spoke well for his native fibre that he had not come through such bringing up utterly worthless.

Dorothy, in the rashness of youth, did not see that the superpolish masked a real man. His conceit offended her, also amused her—she felt it rather the part of womanly duty to abate it. Therefore she played will o' the wisp, letting him approach within arms' length, then dancing, glancing, beyond reach or comprehension. Now and then unkindly, she treated herself to flattering him to the top of his bent. He purred under it so naively, it was worth while. Besides she truly owed him something for the orchids, motor parties, candy and so on wherewith he had strewed her path since he dawned upon the scene.

Six hours later Dorothy came to a crucial, vital moment she never forgot. She bent to hear a feeble voice say from swathing bandages: "Please marry me! At once—they will come too late—I want to leave them—something in my place."

It was King who implored. He had saved a child from death under a lumbering motor truck and been crushed in doing it—fatally crushed, said the surgeons. Struggling back to consciousness he had asked for her—his people were a thousand miles away. Twelve hours of life remained to him by the word of wisdom. Dorothy alone dared to gainsay it. She caught his one free hand in both her own, saying clearly: "Listen! It will be harder to live than die—but better worth while. You must not talk of marriage nor think of dying. I shall stay here to prevent it. A hero does not shrink from anything—"

"You—you mean you won't be my wife?" the weak voice half sobbed.

"Not now. Weed's wouldn't in the least become me," Dorothy flashed back. "Get well. Give your whole mind to it, then we'll talk further about it. I can't let you think so ill of me as that I would make a deathbed bargain."

"Will you promise?" King began. She cut him short with: "Only to stay with you until I can tell your mother you are going to live—to be the man she has given the world. You have no right to sulk, because you are suffering tortures. Fighting is a man-size job. I know you can do it—and you must.

The nurse tried to check her, the surgeon looked gravely concerned. But his young assistant murmured half under breath: "Good work!" He

ALBERTA BUREAU ADVISES WOMEN

Information on All Kinds of Topics May Be Obtained.

Edmonton, Alta., June 18.—In the Alberta Women's Home Bureau the thirst for information which possesses all women at some time is quenched as frequently as possible by Mrs. Evelyn Murphy, but sometimes she throws up her hands in despair.

Requests for information come from all parts of the province. One letter brings an inquiry concerning the raising of chinchilla rabbits. An ambitions gardener desires directions for building a greenhouse, and another wants to know how to eliminate gardening pests. A cook on construction work, a newcomer to the country, writes in to inquire how to make baking powder biscuits and bread on a large scale, and a farm woman seeks information regarding the making of rugs. Debating material is sought in season, and statistics are asked for to settle arguments.

The little office on the ground floor of the government building is a busy place and as full of information as a hive is full of honey on a June day. The work reaches out into homes all over the province, and the demands are not confined to women. Men have also learned where to look for information, and they do not hesitate when the need arises.

Between three and four thousand folders containing information on various subjects line one side of the room. Above are smaller cabinets containing indexes which reveal at a glance just which folder contains the desired information. Much of the material is collected from newspapers and magazines, bulletins issued by the government, both at home and abroad, and by commercial organizations, are also a boon and a blessing; reference books contribute their share.

Those Charming Forties

are but the natural reward of youth safeguarded, as thousands will tell you, in this simple way

YOUTH at forty means caution at twenty, extreme care through the thirties . . . and rigid avoidance of untried ways every day of one's life.

Thus modern beauty culture turns now to natural means, and frowns on the artificial and often dangerous ways of yesterday.

The scientific skin care of today starts with the proved doctrine of pores kept open, of the skin cleansed daily with the balmy lather of Palmolive.

It is a simple method, but certain in results, and what it is bringing to millions, it will bring to you.

Retail Price 10c

MADE IN CANADA

Palmolive Soap is untouched by human hands until you break the wrapper—it is never sold unwrapped

This is the method. Follow it, please, for one week . . . note the difference then

Wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive. Then massage it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all. Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening.

Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away.

Avoid this mistake

Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or one represented as of olive and palm oils, is the same as Palmolive.

And it costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes.

THE VALUE OF THE LABORATORY.

The resolution passed by the Peterborough Medical Society in regard to the Provincial Laboratory here should do much to convince laymen that every effort should be made to keep the Peterborough Laboratory in operation and to extend its facilities, as the motion recommends.

The Examiner has heard citizens question the value of the Laboratory to this community, and declare that its passing would be a matter of no particular consequence.

Members of the Medical Society, whose profession it is to look after the health of the public, do not share that opinion; they appreciate the facilities of the Laboratory and find them of the greatest benefit to them.

It would be a step backward to allow this institution to close its doors and to make it necessary to depend upon the laboratories in Toronto, and the opinion of the medical profession should have great weight when the matter is under view.

In such an important question as the health of the community, it is necessary to be guided by the advice of experts; the lay view is more likely to be swayed by consideration of the financial side than by a thought of the value of the Laboratory from a health standpoint.

YESTERDAY'S PARADE.

The church parade of the Peterborough garrison yesterday, the first of its kind since the years before the war, served to draw attention to the great changes that have occurred since the last previous parade, and to the fact that Canada's militia, despite public indifference and criticism from citizens of short memory, is still "carrying on."

Older residents thought, with a pang in their hearts, of well-remembered faces missing from the ranks yesterday, the faces of men who often marched in times of peace along Peterborough's streets, and who now lie in military cemeteries somewhere in France or Belgium.

They did not wear khaki back in those days before the war, and their church parades were brilliant affairs with white helmets and scarlet tunics, but their spirit was the same as that of the more somberly clad marchers in yesterday's parade.

They were ready when duty called, just as the militia of to-day would spring to the colors were their services needed.

It is well for Canada that she possesses men patriotic enough to give of their time, and money, too, to keep alive a militia force that is available as the nucleus of a military defence should the occasion arise.

There are too many people in this country who fail to appreciate the public service rendered by such citizens, who forget the part played by Canada's militia during the war, and who would leave the Dominion without the suspicion of a defence force if they could have their way.

EXPORTING BRAIN POWER.

"Canada will not be the gainer by exporting its brain power to other countries," was the timely note of warning sounded to a group of Toronto men by George L. Moore of the Sherman Corporation, a well-known United States business expert, the other day.

Mr. Moore voiced what is the opinion of many Canadians, who feel that this country has been lagging behind not only in the attention it pays to research work but in the remuneration it provides for its trained men.

The Examiner referred the other day to research workers who were lured out of Canada by much larger salaries elsewhere.

So much of that kind of thing is going on that Canadian leaders are beginning to grow alarmed—and rightly so.

It is obvious detrimental to Canadian progress that we should develop and train experts and then allow them to drift away because we fail to realize that it is the best kind of business to pay such men enough to keep them at home.

Most of them would prefer to remain in Canada; they don't want to leave their native land and live under another flag if they can help it.

But unless we keep pace with what other countries are prepared to do to secure the services of trained Canadians we must be prepared to see the export of brain power continue.

MISS MacPHAIL MAY BE WRONG, AGAIN.

Miss Agnes MacPhail's references to English immigrants, "we stress the qualities of the British immigrant too much, particularly the English immigrant," seem to indicate that the lady member of the House of Commons doesn't know much more about immigration than she does about the Trent Canal.

There may be, as Miss MacPhail puts it, "duds" among the English immigrants who come to Canada, but there is also a whole lot of splendid material for all departments of Canadian life—not including agriculture, in which the member for Southeast Grey is particularly interested.

That fact that in twelve out of the sixteen years since the competition was begun English immigrants living in Canada have won the world's championship in wheat, and that not one of these winners had any previous experience in farming before coming to this country, should be a sufficient answer to Miss MacPhail's charge.

Some Englishmen do not make good in Canada, just as some immigrants from other countries fail to succeed, but the West is full of examples of successful English immigrants, not the least distinguished of which is Canada's Minister of Railways and Canals.

THE MORNING AFTER IN THE STOCK MARKET.

Being wise about yesterday's stock market is as easy as making a par score on the "nineteenth hole" or over shandygaff in the locker room. This article, however, is not to say "I told you so." We confess, sadly, that when it comes to the stock market, we are no more infallible than anybody else; if we were, then instead of having to stay in a hot office and write this article, we'd be in a pleasure yacht somewhere in the South Sea Islands. But the story of the stock exchange during the past week calls, it seems to us, for at least an attempt at a little sensible comment.

Everybody knows, many to their sorrow, what's happened. For a year or more, all sorts of stocks, almost regardless of what they represented, soared skywards. Almost over-night, we became a nation of speculators. Mah Jongg and the cross-word puzzle gave way to trading in the stock market, the plumber, the tailor and candlestick maker all built their castles in Spain. And everybody—for a time—made money. Gold, it seemed, was at the end of every rainbow; no matter what was bought, no matter how fantastic seemed its prospects, the buyer got up a few mornings later to find that his stock had gone up five or ten or more points. Countless people who had been previously satisfied with moderate wages or salaries suddenly began to dream of Utopia round the corner.

The thing, of course, couldn't last. It couldn't last for the simple reason that, ultimately, the value of stocks is determined by simple and unchangeable economic laws. It is determined, in the last analysis, by the capacity of the enterprise stocks represent to earn profits upon the capital, the money, which is invested in it. When, therefore, the common stock of any company or enterprise soars in stock-market value out of all proportion to its actual worth in relation to what that company's earnings or profits enable it to pay in the shape of dividends, then, quite obviously, a reaction is inevitable. If, for example, people trading in the stock market during the past year had had regard solely to the dividend-paying capacity of the various enterprises whose stocks were being traded in, then the prices quoted and paid would in many cases have been but a fraction of what they were.

There is, of course, an element of sane speculation "Nothing ventured, nothing gained," is almost a truism; and men who believe that a certain industry, or mine, or some other venture, is surrounded by certain circumstances, or possesses certain advantages, will speculate on its future earning powers regardless of its existing position. Even here, however, there is a point beyond which, having regard to certain economic laws, one should not go. For, after all, it does not seem sensible to expect that some new industry, or mine, or something else, is going to return vastly greater profits than any similar enterprise has ever done before.

People, during the past year, were heedless of these things. They thought, or appeared to think, that stocks could keep on soaring forever, never apparently pausing to reason out what would happen to industry and to the whole economic structure, if that should actually take place. An army of small traders, buying on "margin," and necessarily blurred about underlying world and national conditions, not to speak of the actual financial basis and prospects of the companies whose shares they bought, invaded the stock exchanges and deluged them with trade. Men who never even bothered to find out about a company's capitalization or management gaily entered into the game, while women who would spend hours debating about a new hat, or trading keenly at some bargain counter over a few yards of silk, rushed into brokers' offices and put down their money for stocks about which they didn't have the foggiest information.

Those who knew, or who at least knew more than the rest of us, tried to stop it all. Leading economists, bankers, great captains of industry, people whose knowledge of world and economic conditions made them realize that a gigantic superstructure of speculation was being reared upon a foundation of sand—all issued warning after warning. And they took serious practical steps in an effort to restore people to sanity. But the small speculators—and some large ones—wouldn't heed. They picked up their paper every morning to see that the market had taken another flight; they laughed at the wise prophets whose predictions were being confounded; they began to think that they knew more than men who had been in the market for years. So they rode confidently down town and put more of their savings in stocks—and spent some of their profits.

Now is the morning after. The economists and the bankers and the industrial captains were right after all; the rest of us are sadder, and, let us hope, a little wiser. There is no use crying over spilt milk, and some who have had a good time and lots of stimulation while the spree lasted, are perhaps philosophers enough to hold that it is better to have speculated and lost than never to have speculated at all.

Yet the moral of it all should not be lost. It is that there is no sure short cut to the goal of riches. If there were, if getting rich simply meant buying a stock one day and selling it the next in a stock market that always went up, then all of us would soon be rich, and being rich wouldn't mean anything. Life, unfortunately, is more complex than that.—Ottawa Journal.

The Question Box

Blue Laws

K. L.—Q: What are blue laws?

A: The most famous were passed in Connecticut, providing, among other things: "No one shall run on the Sabbath-day, or walk in his garden or elsewhere, except reverently to and from meeting. No one shall travel, cook victuals, make beds, sweep house, cut hair or shave, on the Sabbath-day. No woman shall kiss her child on the Sabbath or fasting-day. The Sabbath shall begin at sunset on Saturday. Whoever publishes a lie to the prejudice of his neighbor shall sit in the stocks or be whipped fifteen stripes." And here are two that make good reading today: "Married persons must live together or be imprisoned; No man shall court a maid, in person or by letter, without first obtaining consent of her parents—$25 penalty, for the first offence; $50 for the second, and for the third, imprisonment."

Longest Telegram

F.S.—Q: What is the longest telegram allowed to be sent?

A: There's no limit. As far back as 1822 a record was made when the entire New Testament as revised was telegraphed from New York to a Chicago newspaper. The "telegram" occupied 16 pages of the paper.

Fahrenheit and Centigrade

M.D.—Q: When a thermometer registers 98 fahrenheit, what is that centigrade?

A: 36.7 (blood heat).

Verses in the Bible

A.G.—Q: (1) How many verses are there in the Bible? (2) What word is most repeated?

A: (1) 31,173. (2) "And," 46,277 times.

A Thought

QUIETLY—EARNESTLY

Silence marks the working of the greatest forces of life. No ear hears the sun draw up into the sky the countless tons of water that fall in rain. No man hears the groaning of the oak's fibres as it grows to its strength and height. Noise is usually an after-effect, and does not often accompany initial power. Sounding brass and tinkling cymbal are noisy, but not powerful. So the will reaches its decision in silence, and it does not need much shouting to know when a man is in earnest. Love grows without a sound. We need not become anxious when our sincerest work makes no great noise nor has any immediate effect. If we are dead in earnest, let us do what we can and keep still. Our great partner is a silent partner.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 18 (Canadian Press).—Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain here Saturday, there being little or no demand from foreign buyers. There was no improvement in the demand for cash grain in the spot market and car lot prices for oats were again easier.

The demand for Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour continued of a limited character, but prices were firm.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a moderate demand from local and United States buyers. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats were quiet and prices were easy at the late decline.

The consumptive demand for eggs continued good and the undertone to the market was steady. The receipts Saturday were 3,473 cases.

The strength that has characterized the butter trade of late was again a feature on Saturday and prices marked up quarter cent per pound. The receipts were 5,119 packages.

The local and export trade in cheese was good and values were steady to a shade stronger. The receipts were 11,542 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Ills., June 18 (Canadian Press).—Auspicious weather conditions for Spring wheat Saturday more than overcame the market effects of undesirable rains in the Winter wheat harvest region southwest. At vigorous rally which the market scored in the last hour failed to last.

Closing quotation on wheat were unsettled, ¾c to 1⅜c net lower. Corn finished unchanged to ¼c up; oats at ⅛ to ⅜c advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 10c.

Supplementing the bearish influence of welcome downpours in Canada and of better moisture conditions over parts of demstic Spring wheat territory, were grain dealers' estimates that the Canadian wheat area this year is 2,000,000 acres larger than last year and that Canadian farmers still have 12,220,000 bushel of wheat to be marketed. It was also estimated that the 1927 Canada wheat yield amount to 444,000,000 bushels, a total 33,000,000 bushels in excess of the official figures.

Meanwhile, Liverpool wheat quotations Saturday were lower than due, and very little was heard of any new export business at the Gulf of Mexico. Moreover, houses here with connections southwest, were on the selling side of the market, under such circumstances, bulls found themselves unable to make any permanent headway, despite news of wet fields in Kansas and elsewhere southwest together with a forecast whic suggested further moisture unwelcome at this time for Winter wheat.

Good demand from shippers and industries for immediate supplies of corn and oats had a strengthening effect on the price of future deliveries besides, a further decrease of the corn visible supply total to-day was looked for.

Provisions derived firmness from the fact that hog receipts appeared likely to show a decrease after next week.

LYRICS OF LIFE

KINDNESS.

Kindness keeps us young,
Anger makes us old,
With a bitter tongue,
Youth is hard to hold.

Youth will fly away,
As the birds depart,
From a sky of gray,
From an angry heart.

Anger furrows deep
Ev'ry frowning brow,
Furrows we shall keep
Long, long after now,
Much we talk of fate,
When old age appears,
But the marks of hate
Mark us more than years.

Would you have the days
Gently deal with you,
You, in all your ways,
Must be gentle, too.
All life's truths among,
This the truest told:
Kindness keeps us young,
Anger makes us old.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSEVED

It must be the work of the spirit. This was the true test of the church. Was it true of St. John's, Campbellford? Were the fruits of the Spirit more clearly defined than they were three years ago? Did people exercise kindness, long-suffering, goodness, faithfulness, self-control? "Are these the words men use to describe us?" asked Dr. Laird. "Can we be depended upon or are we still victims of passion?" As an example, he recounted the occasion when Olive Shriner, the gifted South African writer, had been handed a copy of the Sermon on the Mount, when she was but eight years old. After reading it she asked her mother why people of her time did not live "like that."

The standards of the world to-day were artificial, money, racial colour. One writer had said that if Christ appeared at a port of the United States He would not be allowed to enter for two reasons. He was a Jew and he had no money. "I was a stranger and ye took Me in," quoted Dr. Laird. It was not what Canada or any other nation said about Christianity but what they did about it that counted. This was the test for the nations, the church and the individual.

Evening Service.

For the evening service Dr. Laird selected a text from the book of Isaiah, chapter 32, the second verse. It was he said, the description of the prophet of what a good man might do for his fellow men. He had likened the good man to a rock in a desert which springs up out of the sand affording shade and coolness, which later gives rise to an oasis, which is a shelter for travellers over the hot sand. Such a man would be a shelter from the winds of life. He would not conquer or reach his goal alone, but would lead other men—giving shelter and fertility with which to revive their lagging spirito.

"We Canadians, citizens of a young nation, must put emphasis on the character of our social order. This had already been left too long in the hands of a few pious people. Every man should be an interpreter of God. Each person should do his own work in his own way and according to his own degree. It is the man's moral force that is really worth while and lives after him. Money power, social position and all the glory that the present life have to offer should be man's servant—not his masters."

Mankind was more indebted, he declared, to Robert Louis Stevenson, who set an example of how to live in the face of pain and death, than to his father, the engineer, who had been instrumental in installing the system of lighthouses along the English channel. Time and modern science had brought about many improvements that were dazzling the eyes of the world, but the only improvement worth while was the improvement to man's inner soul. He must not retire keeping his light to himself but must help to show others along the dusty highway of life. Such men were needed here and at the present time. It was their duty not to forget the issues of public morality, educational reform, purity, honesty and social justice. The community had the right to demand the best from the resources of its manhood.

He had, he said, recently been privileged to hear Stanley Baldwin the premier of Great Britain, address the Canadian club in Toronto. Premier Baldwin had said that if the people individually formed the influence of their laws, the principles of their universities, the tone of their press, and the conduct of their sport, then there was hope for the nation. There was no chance for this unless each individual man played the game. The call to Canadians for such manhood was startling.

Thirty years ago, Whittier, the great writer, had received the gift of an eagle's quill from Lake Superior By it he had been inspired to write "the Human sea that would soon reach beyond the lake and into the wilderness. That had been taken as the fanciful idea of a poet's brain. But the Human sea had already reached the two million mark between Lake Superior and the Rockies. On the western side of the mountains there was another half million. The trend of these pioneers had been punctuated by missionaries, said Dr. Laird, the men who bore witness of God's reviving power.

Dr. Laird was not certain that the United church people of Campbellford were fully aware of the responsibility of the church in the west. There were 2500 places which got help from the church. There were other hundred which were self-supporting. And there were still tens of thousands of people who were not being reached. In the two million people on the prairies 54 per cent were Anglo-Saxon and there was a good deal of talk of immigration. It was the duty of the churches in Canada to help those who were already here and to see to the spiritual welfare of the others as they arrived. Serving one million people on the prairies the United Church had five ordained ministers, 10 doctors, 32 nurses and 35 other workers. In Saskatchewan the church was very strong with 432 ordained ministers. The population was 50 per cent British and 50 per cent. non-British; 420 of the ministers were serving the British people, leaving only 12 to tend to the spiritual welfare of the non-British half. The church must do more to point the way to these men. The call had gone out for men with the spirit of God in their hearts to go into the work.

L. McILMOYL.

LAKEFIELD, June 18.—The death occurred in Edmonton, Alberta of L. ('Zack') McIlmoyl, for 15 years assistant deputy minister of agriculture of the Province of Alberta. Mr. McImoyl was born in Lakefield, the younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George McIlmoyl, and spent ihs early life in the village, leaving here in 1898, where he folowed the advice of Horace Greely and "went west." He joined hte R.N.W.M.P. and served some years in that famous corps, and when his time was finished he went into government service in Alberta. His career in the police and in the government was one of faithful service, honest endeavor with a high spirit of loyalty to his country's cause.

His chief, Honorable George Hoodley, Minister of Agriculture, paid tribute to his work, his energy, his whole-hearted devotion to the responsibility of his position. He served notably in three outstanding activities, the issue of relief to settlers in the dried out areas, the successful conduct of the grasshopper campaigns and the administration of the Debt Adjustment Act. In addition to all this he did a great amount of routine work in the department, winning many friends by his kindly manner. He had in a unique way the confidence of both debtors and creditors in the debt adjustment work and his tact and ability were in a large measure responsible for the success of the place in which the

The first was Princess Loewenstein-Wertheim, who took off from Upavon, England, August 8, 1927, with Captain Leslie Hamilton and Frederick F. Minchin in the monoplane St. Raphael, on an attempted nonstop flight of 2,920 miles to Ottawa, Ont. They were never heard from, their plane apparently having gone down in mid-ocean.

The second woman to disappear in attempting the westward crossing was the Hon. Elsie Mackay, who left England for the United States March 13 last, with Captain Walter Hinchliffe. Their plane was never reported after it had passed the Irish coast.

Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and three men companions left Roosevelt Field, New York, December 23 last on the first leg of an attempted eastward flight across the Atlantic. The plane disappeared on its way from New York to Newfoundland.

Ruth Elder and Captain George Haldeman, who attempted a flight from New York to Paris in the airplane American Girl, were rescued by an oil tanker in the Atlantic about 600 miles off the Spanish coast, October 13 last, two days after their plane took off from Roosevelt Field When the mishap forced their plane down in the ocean they have covered 2,623 miles, at that time a distance record for continuous flight over water.

HOLD SERVICES ON JUNE 24TH

Rev. A. J. Langford, of Toronto, Will Be Special Minister in Charge.

AT SPRINGVILLE.

SPRINGVILLE, June 16.—Springville anniversary services will be held on Sunday, June 24th, with the Rev. A. J. Langford, of Toronto, formerly of Trinity church, Peterborough, as special minister for the day. The choir will be assisted in the morning by Miss Daisy Murray and Miss Alma Blanchard, of Peterborough, and in the evening by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnston, of Millbrook.

The garden party on Monday evening, June 25th, also promises a good program, provided by Miss Daisy Murray, Mr. D. G. Carlyle, Miss Alma Blanchard, Miss Payton and members of the Kiwanis Club, Peterborough.

Struck By Car.

Mr. Brute Herron was struck by a car while walking on the highway and sustained a sprained ankle. He was standing on the side of the road to let two cars pass and a car coming in the opposite direction swung toward him to avoid a collision with the oncoming cars. Mr. Herron was thrown to the ground and the sprain given his ankle has made it impossible for him to work for several days.

Ran Into Ditch.

The tenth line of North Monaghan about one-half mile west of Crawford's Grove was again the scene of an accident when an Essex Sedan driven by a gentleman just learning to drive ran into the deep ditch on the north side of the road. Two men were in the car at the time, having motored out to view the spot of the Tranter accident, but were going very slowly, so no damage was done with the exception of a bent fender. Some bushes along the roadside held the car from sliding completely to the bottom of the ditch. A derrick was called out to lift it back to the road.

Personals.

Mrs. (Rev.) A. H. McConnachie is leaving on Saturday for Vancouver, where she will visit her sister, Mrs. Joseph Wilson.

Mrs. Herron leaves on Saturday for Regina, where she will be the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Vance.

Mrs. T. A. Young is spending a few weeks with friends at Bridgenorth.

The township grader is at work on North Monaghan roads and is greatly improving their condition. This week the grader is working on the tenth line from Peterborough to the highway, making a good road to Springville.

Mr. McLeod discovers a new way to save money

HE never hesitates to spend money, to make more money, but, characteristically, he would rather pay 50 cents for something than a Dollar. A thrifty soul —and a good friend of ours.

"So you notice that more people are using the Evening Rate for Long Distance," he said to us the other day.

"Yes, that's true. While many people do not realize how comparatively low the Evening Rate is (after 8.30 p.m.) it is gradually dawning on more of them that it is an easy way to save money. Take your own case. Look at these examples of Evening Rates:—

Station-to-Station.		Evening Rate
Peterborough to	Brantford	.45
"	Hamilton	.40
"	Kitchener	.45
"	London	.60
"	Montreal	.85
"	Ottawa	.50
"	Toronto	.30
"	Windsor	.90

"This list doesn't include some of the towns I call, but it gives me a good idea of what the rate to them would be."

"Quite so. And remember, that the time in effect at the point where the call originates (whether Standard Time or Daylight) applies on Evening Rates."

"Thanks, for the tip."

"not if you don't keep it up too long."

"Just a minute. You see, Mr. Neville, it's this way. The police people and, well, some others are beginning to whisper the name of Croydon Sears in connection with the taking off of my uncle Oh, I know that's putting it rather baldly, but, like my revered aunt, I usually call a spade a spade. Or, at least, some other folks are doing so. Now, Mr. Riggs tells me that you assured him that so far as you know Sears had no dealings with my uncle, save one or two of the merest business transactions, that could by no possibility have had any reason to cause ill-feeling between the two men."

"You are putting the statement a trifle too strong, Mr. Pelton, but I believe Mr. Riggs and I did have a slight conversation on the subject of C. R. S."

"Didn't you give the assurance I spoke of?"

"Not assurance, no. How could I? There may have been all sorts of connections between those two men of which I knew nothing."

"Weren't you Uncle Garry's partner?"

"In some of his business pursuits, yes. In others, no. Mr. Folsom was a man of many lines of activity."

"So I am finding out." Dan Pelton looked gravely serious. "And I'm asking you now, as man to man, if you did know of any—I will be plain—of any secret shared by my uncle Mr. Sears that might at any time in their lives have caused unfriendliness between them."

"It's palpably evident," Roger Neville said slowly, "that you have somehow learned that your late uncle did share secrets with some of his—clients—that might in certain circumstances cause unfriendliness—"

"Or more."

"Or more. Such things are not entirely unknown in lawyers' relationships, but it is often unwise to place too much stress on them. I am quite sure Mr. Sears could have had no secret, shared by Mr. Folsom, that would or possibly could have brought about the tragedy that took place."

"You can't be sure of that, Roger," Carmelita Valdon exclaimed. "No one can say for sure who did or didn't or could or couldn't be implicated in that affair."

"Of course not," said the Duchess vaguely, for she had a sudden feeling that she was being left out of the conversation. "Why, for all these men know, you or I might have killed the man, Carmy."

"Don't talk rot!" Carmelita cried, with a reproving glare at her friend.

"'Tisn't rot," the Duchess returned placidly. "At least it may be for me, for I'm sure I couldn't let go of the rope even with one hand to make that stab. But you could, Carmy, you're so brave in the water."

Carmelita gave the speaker a sudden glance of withering anger, and then as suddenly broke into a smile.

"You're too absurd, Helen!" she said. "I am brave enough for anything, but I couldn't stab a man in the ocean without being seen by those near me—if they were all as lynx-eyed as you, dear. You can swear I didn't do it, can't you?"

"Oh, Lord, honey, I didn't mean you did it, I only meant—"

"You haven't the faintest idea what you meant," and Dan Pelton laughed at the bewildered look on the Duchess' round pink face. "Well, all I'm asking of you, Neville is whether you can suggest a motive for Croydon Sears, or whether you can't?"

"I can't." said Roger Neville shortly, but his harassed eyes seemed to belie the frankness of his assertion.

"I suppose you know it's your duty to tell anything you can."

"Yes, but it's not my duty to surmise or imagine. I do know that Folsom had certain dealings or business with Sears that neither side wanted to make public, and that's all I can say about it."

"You'll say more if the authorities ask you."

"They haven't asked yet," said Roger Neville.

Lacking the initiative that had led Tite Riggs to investigate for himself the possibilities or probabilities of Sears' connection with the Folsom case, Dan Pelton put the matter from his mind and devoted his afternoon to golf.

He was not on the deck when a tall, dark-eyed man appeared there and immediately made himself at home in a certain pleasant corner, which Robin Sears had held against other would-be occupants for this very purpose.

Secluded corners of the deck of the Hotel Majusaca were greatly liked by individuals or small groups who wished to be alone, and when at last Croydon Sears and his guest arrived, Robin Sears was relieved, for he had been the target for envious glances from those who considered him selfishly inclined.

He had met Stone before, though not recently, and he looked with interest at the grave-faced, quietly moving man, whose eyes, however, darted about everywhere and took in everything.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N. J.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichaq.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is intrigued by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears' initials are discovered in a notebook of Folsom's and Pelton thinks his uncle had been doing some blackmailing. ROBIN SEARS, Croydon's son, is worried now that suspicion is resting on his father. Riggs tells him he has learned that Croydon Sears had purchased a third dagger.

The elder Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. Anastasia, questioning MADELINE BARRON, wife of NED BARRON, upsets her and Madeline goes to her room to break down and sob.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI.

"Dearest," and Angel Fair smoothed the short ruffled locks, "don't mind that horrid woman. I don't wonder she gets on your nerves. Forget her; she isn't worth worrying about."

"I know it," Madeline Barron said, raising her head a little. "I know it—b-b-but oh, Angel, I wish she'd go away from here— or else that w-w-we could."

"She won't go—you couldn't expect that. But we can all go. Ned will say yes to that in a minute if you ask him."

"I know it—bless his dear old darling heart. But he loves it here. Oh, Angel, I am so miserable."

"Why, Maddy, dear," and the girl was truly puzzled, "what is it? You can't be so deeply affected by that man's death—a stranger to you—"

"I know. No, it isn't that—oh, never mind, Angel. Don't let's discuss it. Just help me pull myself together and get into shape."

Glad at this opportunity to help, Angel brushed her friend's hair and brought her makeup box and a fresh handkerchief and soon a transformation had been wrought that resulted in a very lovely and serene Mrs. Ned Barron who went downstairs again ready for her luncheon.

Dan Pelton crossed the room and paused at the table where Carmelita and Mrs. Barnaby sat with Roger Neville.

"Go If today?" he inquired, for he had rather decidedly attached himself to the train of the beautiful Carmelita.

"Yes, if you like," she smiled at him, and then invited him to sit with them for luncheon.

"I will, gladly," he said, taking the fourth chair. "My adored aunt has gone off with friends, and I'm a waif and a stray."

Even as he seated himself he saw Madeline Barron enter the dining room and join her own group of friends.

"Yes, she IS lovely," said Carmelita, intercepting his glance, "but you're not to concentrate on her. We're here."

"Very much here," insisted the Duchess, gaily. "It's a strange thing, as soon as a man is in the company of two of the most beautiful women in the place, his attention immediately wanders to some other woman."

"For an instant only," and Pelton laughed as he devoted himself to his companions.

It was not long before the talk drifted to the Folsom case.

"But perhaps the subject bores or pains you, Duchess," Dan said, as he and Neville began to discuss it.

"No," she returned, smiling faintly, "READ THE WANT ADS."

Kingston Ponies Win 12-4 Victory from Seniors

PETES GET 17 COMPLIMENTARIES AND YET ARE BEATEN 12 TO 4 BY KINGSTON PONIES IN WEIRD GAME

Pitchers Let Down and Lack of Punch Shown On Attack.

LOSE MANY CHANCES.

Kingston Wins Despite Record Generosity On Part of Pony Twirlers.

(By F. D. C.)

What a fine mess that Kingston-Peterborough Central Ontario League game at James Stevenson Park Saturday turned out to be!

There is only one thing tougher than looking at that kind of a ball game and that is writing about it.

When the fans who looked at the doings can't understand how it all happened it is a real task to describe the affair so that those who didn't see it can get an idea of what it was like.

Imagine a team's pitching staff allowing fifteen bases on balls and hitting two batters!

No wonder they lost, you say?

Wait a minute, Mac, they didn't lose, they won by a city block.

Yes, sir, the Ponies in spite of as glaring a sample of wild pitching as the oldest fan can remember grabbed off the big end of a 12-4 score.

It doesn't seem possible—and it wouldn't have been possible if the Petes' pitchers hadn't been as shy of heart as the Pony twirlers were of control.

The rout started with a couple of errors in succession by Tommy Holyman which, with a single, filled the bases with one out. The next batter popped up but Hardill laid a lob in for Buck who promptly cleared the bases with a double, and the ball game was shot right there. Hardill slowed to a whisper and while he got by for the next couple of innings he eased up again when Batten slipped up on a roller and the Ponies jumped on him for four hits, chasing three runs over.

Heckman pitched the seventh inning although he was not anxious to go in and acted like it, the visitors bagging three more runs in that frame.

Hap Harrison went to the hill-top in the eighth and blew a fast ball by the Ponies with so much determination that he blanked them without a hit or a run and the fans appreciating the fact that the big first baseman was in there trying and giving all he had gave him a real hand.

Making allowance for stiff arms or what have you, the lack of fight shown by the Petes' regular pitchers was heart-breaking to the crowd who realized that a debacle was being made of a game that might have been a battle until the last man was out. The wildness of the Pony moundsmen offered plenty of chance to pull the game out of the fire if the let-down of Hardill, and Heckman's lack of willingness to go into action had not allowed the visitors to pile up a lead.

The failure explains the Kingston side of the score; the inability of the Petes to get only four runs out of a host of chances to pile up big innings is another story not so easy to understand. Time after time the Petes waited out Buck, and Smith who succeeded him in the fourth, and filled the bases but when they switched to hitting and tried to cash in the complimentaries for runs they could produce nothing that looked like a hit. Only one ball was hit on the nose and that was converted into a fast double play—usually the batter popped up or hit a weak roller. The result was an easy win for Kingston in spite of twirling that was as wild as Bill Kennedy must have been the night the Petes failed to put in an appearance at Kingston.

Altogether the home crowd got twenty-three men to first base and only four of them over the plate. And three of the four were forced in by the Pony heavers themselves. Can you even tie that?

Buck, who started for Kingston, is a left-hander while Smith who pitched from the third until he was taken out in the ninth throws from the other side, otherwise they were twins in inability to locate the plate and between them they piled up a local Central Ontario League record by allowing seventeen complimentaries. Perhaps they went on the theory that you can't hit what you can't reach and certainly the Petes did no hitting.

Outside of this erratic work of his box staff, Joe Daley showed the Peterborough fans a good team, most of them fast fielding youngsters with a pair of slugging outfielders in Cherry and Ada. Britton the Queen's flying wing is a tower of strength both defensively and offensively and the other young players in the infield handle the ball cleverly. Give Mister Daley a pair of real pitchers and it would be a tough job to keep him out of the play-offs; it may be even as it is.

Here Is What Happened.

The Ponies got one in the first. Arniel rolled to Hardill but Buck walked and went to third on Britton's double. A wild pitch scored Buck after which Hardill fanned Cherry and Ada.

Turner led off for the Petes by beating out a roller to Stone, but Rose fanned, Ash forced Turner at second and Harrison struck out.

The second was sad. Elliott opened by singling past Batten. Tetro flied to Turner. McPherson hit to Holyman who fumbled, losing a sure-fire double play. Stone also rolled to the shortstop and another error filled the bases. Arniel popped to Batten. Then Buck got hold of a soft one and doubled clearing the bases. Holyman lost Britton's roller and Buck scored. Batten went to short-stop in place of Holyman, Hall taking third and throwing out Cherry to retire the side.

For the Petes Swanston rolled to Buck. Heckman singled to centre and went to second on a passed ball. Hardill drew a pass. Batten fanned and when Tetro dropped the third one Hardill tried to go to second and was an easy out.

In the third Ada rolled to Hall. Elliott was tossed out by Hardill and Tetro fanned.

The Petes lost a good chance. Hall and Turner walked. Rose popped to McPherson. Ash drew a pass, filling the bases but Harrison fouled to Tetro and Swanston rolled to Buck.

McPherson, first up in the fourth, rolled to Hardill. Stone struck out and Arniel was tossed out by Rose.

The Petes scored three runs without a hit or an error. Heckman walked and Hardill was hit. Batten struck out but Hall waited Buck out and was passed, filling the bases. Turner followed suit, forcing in Heckman while Buck was taken out of the box, going to left field. Hewitt Smith was the relief pitcher. He plugged Rose, sending Hardill home and Hall crossed the plate on Ash's long sacrifice fly to Buck. Harrison walked, again filling the bases, but Swanston tapped to Smith.

The Ponies got those runs back in the fifth. Buck struck out but Britton was safe on Batten's error and went to second on a wild pitch. Cherry singled to left to send the run in and Ada doubled to right, sending Cherry to third. He scored on Elliott's sacrifice fly to Turner. Tetro singled past first and McPherson to right, scoring Ada. Stone fanned.

In the Petes' half Heckman walked and Hardill also drew a pass. Batten hit to Britton, forcing Hardill at second. Hall hit into a double play, Britton to Elliott to Stone.

In the sixth Arniel rolled to Hall. Buck singled to centre and was forced at second on Britton's roller to Hall. Britton stole second and went all the way home on Swanston's low throw. Cherry fanned although Hardill was merely lobbing the ball.

For the Petes Turner tapped to Smith. Rose was safe on Britton's error and stole second. Ash fouled to Stone. Harrison was passed. Swanston fouled to McPherson.

Heckman was on the mound for the Petes when the seventh opened. Ada tripled to right and scored on Elliott's single to centre. Tetro singled to right and when Legon let the roller go through and loafed after it Elliott scored and Tetro went to third. McPherson hit to Batten who threw to the plate where Tetro was called safe. Stone rolled to Hall, Smith struck out and Buck fouled to Hall.

For the Petes Heckman and Wilgar struck out and Batten flied to Cherry.

With Harrison pitching in the eighth Britton rolled to Batten, Cherry struck out and Ada grounded to Ash at first.

The Petes had another chance. Turner was safe on Britton's fumble. Ash drove a hot one into Britton's hand and Turner was doubled off second. Harrison flied to Cherry.

In the ninth Elliott hoisted to Harrison, who made a nice running catch. Tetro walked. McPherson fouled to Ash, a nice play by the first baseman, and Stone fanned.

Swanston led off for the Petes with a single that nearly took Smith's hand off. Heckman was passed. Wilgar popped to Elliott. Batten drew a walk filling the bases, and Hall got another, his fourth of the game, sending Swanston in and Smith out. Jamieson going to the rubber for the visitors. He ended the game in a hurry by causing Turner to fly to Cherry and Rose to roll to Stone.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Royals will play Lockworks tonight at the Exhibition Park. C. G.E. meet Teco in softball fixture at Confederation Square.

Terry Hall, who has been ill for the past three weeks, will be back in the game on Wednesday night, when the Kiwanis and Royals clash in a league fixture at the Riverside Park. The Kiwanis still retain the lead in the Junior group, and with a reorganized squad, Deannard is out to hold the honors.

* * * * * * *

The Kiwanis Juniors will practice to-night at 5.45 in King Edward School grounds, in place of the Exhibition grounds, as was previously announced in Saturday's paper. Deannard has signed Leo Rishea, a last year's Rotary player to his line-up.

Now is the time for all young men to think up excuses for golf. Both for scores, and for why the office is empty. Last week provided ideal weather and quite a number of members from the two local clubs took advantage of the sunshine. The greens are in excellent condition at the Meadowbrook course and more work is being done to make it up-to-date.

The Royals are determined to repeat their performance of the last three seasons in winning their group of the City League, and going into the Ontario play-offs. Hollingsworth, Hope, Jones, Hatton, Gordon and Holmes, have been with McFadden for three seasons, and with Kitchen, Hartley, Newson, Beavis and Sturgeon, they form a crew that will fight hard for the league honors. In two exhibition games with the Raybestos, the Juniors have come out with the big end of the score. The second game was played Saturday afternoon, ending in a 5-3 count. However, they have stronger opposition in the league this season and some lively battles can be expected.

In a twilight meet at the Varsity Stadium, Toronto last week, Walter Connolly of the Canadian General Harriers, was distinguished as the only outsider who was placed in any of the men's events. The local boy performed splendidly, finishing third in the 100 yards handicap, and fourth in the 440 yards handicap. He is the first runner from the local plant to compete in Toronto this seson and the boys from the Canadian General are determined to carry the blue and white to the fore before the season ends. Several of the boys are preparing for the events which will be run in Orillia next Saturday, when the employees of the local electric plant hold their annual picnic.

SPORT CHATTER

(By F. D. C.)

As usual when the home team goes bad Saturday's crowd was the largest of the season while the earlier games marked by exciting baseball drew only a handful.

Deloro beat Oshawa right in the Motor City Saturday 7-5 with Jack Shea having the edge over Duke Dainty. Oshawa's days up in the first division are numbered. They don't belong at the top.

Peterborough boys had a share in the doings at Oshawa, Herb. Wolfe making a pair of home runs for the Motorists while Collins, catching for Deloro, had a useful triple.

The League standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	P.C.
Belleville	4	2	.667
Oshawa	3	3	.600
Kingston	4	3	.571
Deloro	2	3	.400
Peterborough	2	5	.286

Games this week:
Wednesday—Oshawa at Belleville (2 games); Kingston at Deloro.
Saturday—Belleville at Peterborough; Oshawa at Deloro.

In justice to Tommy Holyman it should be stated that he sprained his ankle in Kingston on Friday night and only started Saturday when asked to do so and on condition that he be taken out if he were going bad. And he would have been out sooner if it had not been for the ride he got from some of the fans. Holyman has given the Petes a lot of good baseball and has sacrificed much to help the game along here; in fact in more than one season he gave up his holidays in order that he might be available when needed by the ball club and these things should be remembered as well as the fact that whether going good or bad nobody has ever accused him of not trying.

Bert Hall gave a good account of himself at third base handling six chances without a skip. Incidentally he drew four bases on balls.

Both Harrison and Ash made great plays on wide throws on Saturday. In this pair the Petes have the two best-fielding first basemen in the circuit.

The longest hit Saturday was a foul. Heckman met one on the nose and drove the ball up against the left field fence, foul by a few feet. It was a mighty smash.

The Ponies engineered a fast double play in the fifth, Britton whipping the ball to second for a force out and Elliott beating the batter to first. Stone completed the play by a fine grab of a low throw.

CAMPBELLFORD WINS AT TENNIS

Defeats Bowmanville, Five Matches to Four, in Scheduled Encounter.

PLAYS TWEED NEXT.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 18. — Bowmanville Tennis Club visited the local association on Saturday afternoon in a tournament fixture in the Central Ontario Lawn Tennis Association. The afternoon was ideal for this particular brand of sport, and the play throughout was of a very high standard. Of the seven events of the official tournament match, five of the victories remain with the local club. The visitors carry back to their home club the honors in one of the men's singles and one of the men's doubles. This leaves Campbellford with a standing of ten won and four lost points in the association games for the present season. At the present time, J. H. Bell, president of the Campbellford club, is attempting to make arrangements for this club to play in Tweed next Saturday in a Tummon Cup fixture.

In the play on Saturday afternoon, Clifford Weston won from J. H. Cooke, Bowmanville, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3. Harry Free lost to W. Ross Strike, Bowmanville, 6-2, 3-6, 3-6, men's singles. In the ladies'singles Miss Josephine Longmore, Campbellford, won from Miss H. Osborne, 6-0, 6-1. Miss Dorothy Linton and Miss Eleanor Ferris, Campbellford, won the ladies' doubles from Miss N. Montgomery and Miss F. Werry, 6-0, 6-1. The men's doubles following the example set by the singles, were evenly divided,Hilton Beatty and Wilbert Kingston, Campbellford, winning from M. A. Neal and M. Gould, 7-9, 6-4, 6-3; while J. H. Bell and Walter Henson, Campbellford, lost to S. James and B. Mitchell, 6-3, 3-6, 6-8. The mixed double honors also remained at home when Miss Jessie Weston and Dr. H. B. Longmore defeated Miss D. James and H. Lapp, 6-0, 6-3.

LOCKWORKS WINS FROM CURVE LAKE

Three Big Innings Serve To Carry Visitors To Victory On Reserve Diamond.

PLAY GOOD BALL.

Winners Outhit Home Team 13-6 To Win 9-4 Decision.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

CURVE LAKE, June 18. — The Lockworks team went back to Peterborough on Saturday evening with a nine-four victory over Curve Lake in their bat bag after a seven innings scheduled game of the county section of the East Peterborough Baseball League. The winners outhit the home team 13 to 6, and what was more important, bunched most of their hits in three innings when they scored all their runs.

Gordie Connors was on the mound for the visitors. He turned back only two of the homesters by the strike-out route, but had good control, issuing only one charity, and had the homesters hitting grounders to the infield, no less than fifteen of the twenty-one puts-outs being by this route.

The Indians used three pitchers. Manager Merritt Taylor started out and got by well for three innings, during which he allowed three hits but no runs. He struck a snag in the fourth when the visitors added two hits to three errors and made them total three runs. An error and three singles opened the fifth, and Manager Taylor applied the hook to himself, calling on W. Beaver to take up the load. Mark Swanger greeted the new hurler with a double, but Baird struck out and Hunt was caught stealing after his single had driven Swanger home. Beaver yielded three hits and another run in the sixth, while Coppaway, who worked in the seventh, got by without being in any trouble.

The working of the Lockmakers' infield was particularly sparkling The diamond was far from being of billiard table smoothness, but the humps appeared to be no trouble to the infielders, their errors being mostly on throws after they had fielded the ball.

The home team also had a good day in the field, Henry Taylor and McCue doing a great deal of the work. Crow caught well and made stealing a dangerous pastime.

Crow was also the heavy hitter for his team. He slammed out a single and a double, scoring one run. Johnson showed both teams how a ball should be hit, driving the pill into the yard of the house in deep left for three bases. This hit came in the first and put the home team one up, while a bad throw by Connors let the hitter in for their second counter.

Four of the visitors had more than one hit. Swanger led with a double and a single, while Smith, Miller and Black with a brace of singles each had an important part in the scoring.

The home team put over a fast one in the sixth inning. David Taylor was not in uniform, but he went in to pinch hit for Henry Taylor, grounding out to end the inning. When the homesters took the field Henry went back to his place at second base, while David resumed his seat on the bench. The substitution passed unnoticed until the Indians came to bat again, when Manager Merritt Taylor sent David up to bat for him. Only then did the Lockmakers realise that Henry had resumed his place in the game after having been relieved. Needless to say, David did not bat again.

Jim Tobico was umpire at the plate and received all the Lockworks' complaints and rooters' remarks with good humor. Charlie Nicholls was the Lockworks' appointee on the bags and was the target of the home team's remarks.

PETERBOROUGH CRICKETERS WIN

Defeat Lakefield Team By Two Wickets and 64 Runs.

HIT HEAVILY.

The Peterborough C.C. defeated the Lakefield C.C. by two wickets and 64 runs on Saturday afternoon at the Oval. Peterborough won the toss and decided to bat first on a fast wicket, which was in the batsmen's favor. Stuart and Thorpe opened the innings but only four runs were registered when Stuart was caught close to the wicket on a rising ball. This was a bad start. Dunkerley was next man in and along with Thorpe brought the score to 48 before the latter was well taken at square leg by Dawson, the retiring batsman having scored 21. Jefferson helped the score along at a merry rate, and 81 was on the board before he was caught. In the meantime, Dunkerley was playing fine cricket, although he was lucky, being missed two or three times in the field, which proved expensive for the Lakefield team, as he finally scored 54 before being easily caught by Hamilton. Of the remaining batsmen Gore and Smith made useful scores, the former being not out 14, and the latter not out 9, when the Peterborough captain declared the innings closed with the score at 130, the highest score this season for the Peterborough club.

The batting was more consistent than usual. Mackenzie and Dawson were the most successful bowlers, the former claiming three wickets for 11 runs, and the latter two for 25.

Lakefield's innings started disastrously, as the first five wickets fell for fifteen runs. Dyer, who was bowling splendidly, claimed all the wickets, clean bowling three out of the five batsmen. Hamilton and Mackenzie, however, made a stubborn stand, the former making some beautiful strokes, while Mackenzie was satisfied with keeping his wicket intact. With the score at 33 Dunkerley bowled Hamilton. The next two wickets added only two runs, and it looked as if Lakefield were doomed to a small total. Northey, however, hit away lustily and scored 16 runs in quick style and with Mr. "Extras" assisting, the score was brought to a respectable total, reaching 66 when the last man was out, leaving the Peterborough team winners.

Frank Dyer bowled magnificently, capturing six wickets for 14 runs; Dunkerley claimed three for 21. Refreshments were served in the club room during the interval and an enjoyable afternoon was spent by all.

The Peterborough team does not play its next match until July 2, when they meet the strong Birchcliffe team from Toronto at the Oval. Practices will be held on the regular evenings, and all members are asked to turn out.

The event was fashioned for two-year-olds, and was over a distance of five furlongs. Calm negotiated the distance in 1.00 2-5 and paid off at better than three to one.

The winner broke from the barrier in fourth position and was immediately put into a contending position by Jockey C. Ralls. Rounding the first turn, Calm took the lead and held command throughout the balance of the distance although pressed near the end by Mud. Brown Wizard finished third. Ornate and Dunkirk, coupled as the Salmon entry and made favorites in the wagering were never serious contenders.

Bucky Harris, owned by the Justa Farm stable, and ridden by N. Wyatt, won the Blue Bonnets handicap, the event of next importance. Canadian Scullers Land At Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, June 18 (Canadian Press Cable).—Joe Wright, Jr., and Jack Guest, the two Canadian scullers who will compete in the Diamond Sculls at the Henley Regatta, arrived on the S.S. Laurentic yesterday.

When interviewed regarding his chances in the Diamond Sculls this year, Wright said: "All I can say is that I have just as good a chance of winning as I had last year."

Wright practically had the race won last year, but after leading all the way in the final, his oar became caught in a boom when ten yards from the finish and his opponent, R. T. Lee of Worcester College, passed him to win the amateur scullers' most coveted prize.

After competing at the Henley Regatta, Wright and Guest will travel to Amsterdam where they will represent Canada in the Olympic rowing events.

TWO HOURS OF SOCCER REQUIRED TO DECLARE PHELAN CUP WINNER

C. G. E. Scored in One Minute —Players Give a Great Display of the Soccer Code.

C.G.E. 2, QUAKERS 1.

Foster Equalized Before Full Time—Hutton Got Winning Goal in Extra Period.

Two hours of fast and hard checking soccer was played on Saturday afternoon between the Quaker Oats and Canadian General to decide the holder of the Phalen Trophy for the 1928 season. It was anybody's game until the break went in favour of the Canadian General only two minutes from the end of the extra half-hour when Hutton was the marksman. Both team deserved to be congratulated on the splendid sportsmanship shown also the referee who handled a pernicious job with precision and handed out his decisions fair at all times in many of the peculiar positions that cropped up. C.G.E. won two goals to one.

C.G.E. Scored in One Minute.

Mitchell set the ball a-rolling and made tracks for Curti ' charge to open the scoring in one of their special feature visits that have been the asset to them this season. The Quakers replied with a well-planned attack in which Logan manipulated a dangerous ball in ide the goal area, but Westwood nullified his progress by kicking it to touch. Then Lovat introduced combination successfully to harass the C.G.E. defense with low ground efforts that Wade had no difficulty in handling.

Mitchell Distributed the Play.

In every attack made by the C.G.E., Mitchell never he itated to send the ball over to his wing men who centred with te ling effect o n the Quaker goal Th ee flag-kicks then came to the winne ' aid to cause the Quakers' halves anxious moments until Craig beat three men with the dribbling code. Logan accepting the ball midfield neatly forged his way through, but his shooting didn't have the necessary force to gain success.

Players Injured.

Play ran from end to end at a furious rate, with the players putting in every ounce of ability behind their tacties. On a hard tackle in mid-field Honor was hit with the ball on the face, but continued, then Robb received a hard knock in a close tackle, but after a little attention he resumed playing.

Hutton Brilliant Player.

On individual play Hutton was the artist of the day. Every time he gained possession of the ball there was great expectations from him, because his anticipation in tactics were of the highest order and Clark as his partner were always dangerous. The p ir of them played combination to perfection, while Rankin against them never allowed them any latitude near the goal, although Hutton manoeuvered for position, drew the defence then werved around with the ball at his foot in repeated actions that were thrilling in de ail. Of course, while the C.G.E. forwards were attackin , the Quakers' halves were frustrating their movements o tside the goal-area to feed their forwards with the ball.

No Choice in the Teams.

Exchanges continued very even throughout the first half and there was no choice in which to say that one was superior to the other. Both half-back lines gave a superb display in offensive and defensive tactics, with both centre-halves being the outstanding players. Robb initiated a movement to force the issue just before half time but the Quakers' ful -backs sent him back many a time disappointed. Buchan travelled to the other end along with his forward line to try a few hard drives at the C.G.E. goal-keeper. Canadian Genera l, Quaker Oats 1.

HALF-TIME

Exciting incidents marked the opening of the second half, the Quakers' right wing hovering round the C.G.E. lines for a time without success, in fact, George Logan beat the opposing defence nicely twice in succession, but Westwood recovered quickly to pick the ball away from his foot, then he conceded a flag-kick a few minutes later. The C.G.E. replied with a similar attack at the other end with Mitchell feeding his inside men to perfection so as to further increase the score; however, they found Curtis and Lucas demonstrating the art of defence with a great amount of clever tackling and punting up-field.

Attack versus Attack.

The Quakers, during this half, altered their style to low ground passing that was not to the C.G.E. full backs desire because their clearing was very poor, when hard-pressed, time and again they would bang the ball out of play or touch it out to save their goal against the alert attacking line. Never a minute was wasted in the second half because the ball travelled from end to end at a fast pace with each eleven giving all they had to gain the necessary finish at goal.

Foster Equalised.

Five minutes before full time, the Quakers made a desperate attack on the C.G.E. citadel. Lovat beat two men on the wing, travelled far into the corner, beat two men in close dribbling and made for goal as his objective. From five yards out he sent the ball across the goal in a curving movement that finally hit inside of the post, to be diverted out of danger. Referee stopped the game to decide whether a goal was scored or not, but refused the demand made by the linesmen, although spectators around the goa claim the ball was over the goal-line.

The next visit to C.G.E. goal was successful when Buchan dribbled his way past two opponents to finish with a rocket drive that Wade failed to clear because Foster tapped the rebound into the net amidst great excitement. Play was in mid-field when full time was announced one goal each.

EXTRA TIME

After a short respite the game continued at a gruelling pace, and the body and shoulder playing havoc in unlawful methods, no less than five free kicks being given in four minutes. From one of these free-kicks Blowers landed the ball in the net amidst the applause of an achievement, but the uninformed fan was disappointed when the referee placed the ball for a goal-kick. The ball must be played by an opponent before a goal counts, and cannot score a goal from a free-kick.

Hutton Got a Smart Goal.

It was a great finish to a real cup-tie to witness two well-balanced forwards lines battling to gain the winning goal. Great credit is due to Westwood, C.G.E. full back, who repeatedly spoiled Logan when he was in the act of shooting. The break eventually came to the C.G.E. boys when Clark travelled down the wing into the corner to leave Hutton in possession with the ball, who set himself in position to pick the corner of the upright to get the winning goal, three minutes from the finish. Canadian General 2, Quaker Oats 1.

Quaker Oats: W. Curtis, goal; Lucas and H. Curtis, full-backs; Honor, Craig and Rankin, halves; Lovat, Buchan, Logan, Wilson and Foster, forwards.

Canadian General: J. Wade, goal; F. Wade and Westwood, full-backs; Mann, Robb and Blowers, halves; Clark, Hutton, Mitchell, Laidler and Burgess, forwards.

Referee: Alex. McKinley.

Linesmen: W. Richard and George Low.

GLASGOW RANGERS WIN FROM QUEBEC

Defeat Team Representing Football Association Clubs By 5-1 Score.

MONTREAL, Que., June 18 (CP).—The Glasgow Rangers, Scottish professional soccer champions, winners of the Scottish Cup, and incidentally, one of the outstanding football clubs of the world, defeated a team representative of the Province of Quebec Football Association clubs on Saturday afternoon at the baseball stadium, by the score of five goals to one and in the doing of it, treated the spectators, numbering close on eight thousand to a wonderful and dazzling exhibition, replete with stellar combination play and clever footwork.

Of the six goals scored throughout the game, three were the products of the first half, and four of the latter period of the game. The first came after the game had been in progress five minutes. The Montreal forward line had taken the ball towards Hamilton in an initial incursion, but Craig cleared and set the ball to Muirhead who ran on and centred. Miller tried to intercept the ball but was inches out, and the sphere went to Cunningham. With masterly cunning he got around Husband and ran in close to goal and scored with a fast low shot well out of Noseworthy's reach.

A little more than half an hour elapsed before the visitors got their second tally, and that differed from Cuninngham's first goal, in that it was more spectacular. Archibald, neatly fed by Cunningham, ran in close to the line, swerved back, drew the home goalkeeper out of his net and sent the ball to the roof of the net just under the bar. The ball came down, but Referee Lyons, being well up, immediately awarded a goal, the ball hitting the roof of the net before coming down again to the goal line. This was followed in a couple of minutes by the Rangers third goal, and the second scored by Andy Cunningham, who ran in and met a pass from Craig. This was all the scoring done in the first half, halftime being signalled five minutes afterwards.

Within sixteen minutes of the commencement of the second period, the Rangers had added another to their score. The movement was initiated by Muirhead, who ran in close to the line. He cleverly tricked Moon and made a clever feint, as if to shoot at goal. Instead, however, he smartly tapped the ball to Marshall who was lying unmarked and the visiting centre made no mistake giving Noseworthy no chance to save.

Two minutes' later the Rangers' fifth and last goal came, this time from the foot of McPhail. On this occasion it was Archibald who paved the way for the goal, he putting the ball nicely to Cunningham's toe. Andy's parting shot was charged down by Husband, but bounced off to McPhail, who had it in the net in a jiffy.

With fourteen minutes to go, Montreal notched their lone tally, and it was not a jot less brilliant than the best of the visitors' goals. Westwater, always dangerous when allowed to get away, picked up the ball from a clearance from the Montreal backs and immediately broke away. He had to evade McCandless if he was to do anything, and this he cleverly did, and lobbed the ball over to Duguid, who was for the moment unmarked. The home centre did not hesitate, but essayed to shoot on the run, and his parting effort was a brilliant shot which had the great Hamilton guessing, the ball going to the top corner well out of the goalkeeper's reach.

Johnny Gibson Sets New World's Record For 400-Metre Low Hurdle In Tryouts

NEW YORK, June 17. — Two record smashing performances, a new American mark by Lloyd Hahn, the Boston express, in the 800-metre run, and a world's record by Johnny Gibson, Bloomfield, N. J., star in the 400-metre low hurdles, furnished the principal thrills Saturday in the Eastern Olympic track and field tryouts.

Hahn, running his first outdoor race in big league competition, demonstrated that he has lost none of the edge off his remarkable indoor form of last winter by galloping home in front of a crack field in 1 minute 52 1-5 seconds knocking 1 3-10 seconds off the American record.

Hahn had barely finished this brilliant performance to the cheers of a crowd of 15,000, when Gibson romped to a world's record of 53 3-5 seconds for the 400-metre low hurdles—outclassing most of his rivals and beating Russell (Whitey) Lloyd, Navy football star, by six yards. Gibson clipped one-fifth of a second off the official world's mark on the books to the credit of the tall Swedish star, Petterson, who made it in 1925 at Paris.

PUBLIC ARE CORDIALLY INVITED TO-MORROW AND ON WEDNESDAY

Tremendous changes have taken place in the old H. LeBrun & Co. store within the last few days. Complete liquidation is now in sight and the passing of Peterborough's oldest and most popular store for men is passing. With its going, so passes into history a name that has stood for dependability and quality in men's clothing and furnishings for well over half a century. The United Selling System attorney in charge has striven to make the last few days a period of selling never before equalled. Stocks are placed at the mercy of the buying public for the balance of this week and prices have receded to ridiculous levels. The "sold out" sign now hangs over several shelves which were formerly bulging with goods, and the other shelves are emptying fast. While the validity of this liquidation has been questioned by many, it is now definitely confirmed and no doubt the next four days will witness the greatest rush in many a year. The public is advised to visit this store before it passes—Advt.

vantages signify progress? It depends how they are used. It is just as possible for a man to step backward as forward. Progress is what increases happiness, not a term to be measured in the term of dynamics. Most eternal progress brings us happiness. But do all those changes make us happier or better than years ago? We are conscious that mankind has always sought something higher—has been on a quest which may have been in vain, but somehow always searching for something. We may not know what, but are always searching.

"A law-abiding community, a tabernacle of God signifies progress toward something for the best. It is universal.

Made For Two Worlds.

"We are made for two worlds. In the present material world we are the result of the forces of environment, but at the same time we are conscious of searching for something outside the world. We do belong to another world. Much of the want of faith is in the conflict between the two worlds.

"Unhappiness in life or retrogression, which is the opposite to progress is the effect if we give ourselves entirely to the material world. Increased pain of life results if we are living only in one world. We find ourselves released from pain and stagnation only when we give ourselves also to the spiritual world, the Head of which is God, and through Christ we have contact with Him. Many of us have destroyed our relation with the second world of which God is the heart, as well as the head

"Progress consists of membership the church. The message of the war on our lives is the neglect of religion—the forgetting of God which stagnates and cripples us. We can live like cattle, but we are made in God's image. This is our warfare and our Captain, Christ, has gone before us and He does not ask us to do what He has not done. The highest attainment of life is the recognition of God's place, the secret of individual progress until we live as we did at first. The text shows us the way—'O come let us worship and bow down; let us kneel down before the Lord our Maker'."

The closing hymn was "Fight The Good Fight." Collection was taken up by four officers, Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, 4th Brigade, Canadian Artillery; Major Fred Hills, 3rd Dragoons; Major Bruce Mills, Peterborough Rangers, and Major Hurrle Dodds, Peterborough Machine Gunners.

The anthem sung while collection was taken was "I Will Give Thanks," a composition of F. G. Mann, organist of the church, and was composed for the Centenary a year ago. Miss Ruby Quartermaine took the solo part.

After the service the congregation remained seated until the members of the garrison filed out.

Capt. J. A. Dewart, M.C., of the C.M.G.C. acted as Adjutant of the parade, while Q.M.S.I., T. Thomas, R.C.R., acted as Sergeant-Major.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE ENEMY" THE FAMOUS STAGE HIT, WHICH HAS BEEN FILMED WITH TREMENDOUS SUCCESS, OPENS AT THE CAPITOL TO-NIGHT. LILLIAN GISH PLAYS HER FINEST ROLE IN THIS MOST DRAMATIC OF ALL STORIES OF THE WAR.

One of the greatest successes of the modern stage is the new vehicle for Lillian Gish in "The Enemy", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's sumptuous filmization of Channing Pollock's famous New York drama, and which is now being shown at the Capitol Theatre.

The play, which opened to a sensational triumph at the Times Square Theatre in New York not long ago, with Fay Bainter as the star, is one of the most talked-of pieces of dramatic construction in years. Miss Gish plays the tragic Austrian heroine, Pauli, in the toils of warfare.

The story deals with the psychological havoc of war rather than its physical damage. It shows an Austrian family in a series of hatreds and troubles brought about by propaganda, hysteria and other breeders of hate that follow in the wake of warfare. It is held one of the drama's greatest contributions to the cause of peace.

Fred Niblo directed the stage version, which was given a lavish production at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios. Ralph Forbes, hero of "Beau Geste" and "The Trail of '98" plays the leading male role. Ralph Emerson, George Fawcett, Frank Currier, Karl Dane, Polly Moran, Fritzi Ridgeway, John Peters, Billy Kent Schaefer and others of note are in the cast.

AT THE REGENT.

"TEA FOR THREE" IS HILARIOUSLY AMUSING

If you don't want to laugh till you sides split keep away from the Regent Theatre, where "Tea For Three," a co-starring vehicle for Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle, is being shown.

This excellent new screen team, which established their worth in their first production, "Adam and Evil," has proved to be even more of a success than was predicted by their most ardent admirers.

"Tea for Three" is based on Roi Cooper Megrue's famous stage farce that took the country by storm a few years ago and which was laughed at by millions of theatre-goers.

As a screen play, adapted by F. Hugh Herbert, it is even funnier than it was as a stage vehicle. Cody and Pringle exactly fit into the roles and give convincing performances as the husband and wife whose matrimonial bark almost wrecks upon a triangular reef — with Owen Moore as the reef.

It is a story of three friends, a married couple and a young bachelor who are in the habit of having tea together. Because her husband is tied up in a business conference the wife and friend meet quite accidentally at a downtown luncheon. Because the salad was seasoned with garlic the husband immediately knew when they show up for tea that they have luncheon together.

The result is a suspicion that maybe they are having an affair. The husband is later convinced this is true and demands that his friend cut cards with him to determine which shall commit suicide at the conclusion of twenty-four hours.

Cody wins and Owen Moore, who plays the friend, declares he will steal Cody's wife before the twenty-four hours have elapsed. The remainder of the story is taken up by the husband's efforts to guard his wife and by Moore's return to earth after a fake suicide which leads them all to believe they had better cast suspicion and jealousy aside and resume their daily "teas for three."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

For Tuesday, June 19, 1928.

(Copyright, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

This is an uncertain day, according to the reading of astrology. It is well to tread on safe ground in romance as well as business.

Women are subject to favorable influences, but they may be too independent and positive for the approval of their families.

Wives under this direction of the stars often make extreme financial demands and disturb the domestic serenity.

Women should cultivate unselfishness while this configuration prevails, for the general trend of the planetary influences is to accent their self-appreciation.

This should be a fairly favorable wedding day, although quarrels may be easily precipitated by those who have beheld angels where mere human beings exist.

Theatres should profit at this time when the stars promise better plays and the appearance of new geniuses.

This is read as a menacing rule for certain sorts of big enterprises, especially those connected with government buildings.

It is not a favorable day for surgeons or surgery, for the aspects are read as presaging unexpected complications.

The stars promise increase instead of decrease in divorces and new scandals owing to lax moral standards.

Neptune is in an aspect read as most menacing to the eighteenth amendment.

The seers foretell that the tendency of wage-earners to imitate the morals as well as the dress of the wealthy is to be apparent this year and to lead to new reform movements.

According to ancient lore this should be a favorable rule under which to engage employees.

Persons whose birthdate it is should avoid unnecessary journeys in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be interested in mechanics. They may be especially liable to accidents.

Miss Joan Manning-Saunders, a 14-year-old Cornish artist, who has never had a painting lesson, has had a picture accepted for this year's Royal Academy.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE OPTIMISTIC.

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph. D. Author of The Springs of Human Action.

The story of the two frogs is well known. One was an optimist and the other was a pessimist. Both of them accidently fell into a large can of milk. The pessimist, looking on the dark side of life, gave up immediately and was drowned. The optimist, looking on the bright side of life determined to make an effort. He girded up his loins and began kicking and swimming around, not knowing how he could possibly escape from his strange bath, but hoping against hope that something would turn up in his favor. The next morning when the farmer came and looked into the milk can he found the pessimistic frog at the bottom of the can quite dead, while the optimistic frog was cheerfully floating around on a cake of butter he had formed by his valiant efforts in the struggle to escape.

Optimism is characteristic of life. As we love life we are optimistic. Optimism is the attitude of expecting good to come out of the unpleasant experiences of life. It is the optimistic attitude that impels us to take chances to explore, to investigate to find out things, to desire and achieve success.

Temperament has a lot to do with the optimistic attitude. Those who have a bilious condition do not see the rosy side of things. The state of health and the functioning of the glands of internal secretion also make a difference.

We are optimistic because we are all gamblers in the game of life. Not knowing what is ahead of us we place great stakes on the future and hope for the best. When adversities pile up on us we still hope that the next turn of the wheel of fortune will bring us good luck. This eager anticipation of the best in store constitutes the charm of living and the greatest inducement to success.

UNCLE WIGGILY

To-days Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S MILK BOTTLE

When Lulu Wibblewobble, the little duck girl who had bumps on her head, had made a number of queer things from the cut out pieces of the square which Uncle Wiggily showed her, she leaned back in her chair and quacked:

"Oh, dear!"

"What's the matter now?" asked the king old rabbit gentleman who had come to cheer Lulu in her illness.

"Oh, I just wish I had some nice watercress," sighed Lulu. "There is lovely watercress growing in our pond and——"

"Now, Lulu my dear," quacked Mrs. Wibblewobble, "you couldn't go to school today because of bumping your head when you dived under water to get some snails. And if you couldn't go to school on account of your lumps I can't let you go paddling around the pond after watercress."

"I knowd I can't go, 'cause my bumps hurt," Lulu said. "But I thought maybe——" and then she looked at Uncle Wiggily.

"Why of course! Yes! Certainly!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I have nothing much to do, and it would give me pleasure to hop to the duck pond and gather a little green watercress for Lulu."

"It is very kind of you," quacked Mrs. Wibblewobble.

"Nonsense" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose backward in his modesty. "I would love to do it. I may have an adventure. And, besides poor, little sick duck girls, with bumpy heads, should be amused," and Mr. Longears made another queer figure from the cut out pieces of the square. You will see it near the milk bottle picture and I'll tell you about that and about the knife pretty soon.

So while Lulu sat in the easy chair, trying to make other new, queer things from the cut out puzzle, Uncle Wiggily started to hop to the duck pond to get the watercress.

"You had better take something to carry it in," said Alice, who was Lulu's sister.

"Here's a milk bottle!" quacked Jimmie, the boy duck.

"You had better give me a piece of string, also, and a cork," said Mr. Longears. "I may want to tie up a bunch of watercress besides putting some in the milk bottle."

So he was given a cork and a string, though when Jimmie asked if Uncle Wiggily were going fishing, and wanted to use the cork for a bobber, Uncle Wiggily shook his head and laughed.

Over the fields and through the woods hopped the rabbit gentleman with the milk bottle, the cork and string and soon he was at the duck pond. He was just going to gather some watercress which grew thickly near shore, when, all of a sudden, out of the weeds on the bank of the pond, crawled the Skillery Scallery Alligator with the double jointed tail.

"Good day!" gargled the 'Gator.

"Bad day for me, I guess you mean," thought Uncle Wiggily. And it would have been bad and said, for the 'Gator was hungry and felt like nibbling ears. But just then along came Jackie Bow Wow, with a large thick sun, or burning glass in his paw. Jackie had been shining the sun through the glass and so burning bits of paper. Perhaps the 'Gator felt the puppy dog might burn his tail, so he didn't nibble Uncle W iggily right away.

"Do you know any puzzles?" asked the 'Gator. "If you give me a good, hard puzzle that I can't do, maybe I'll let you go, Uncle Wiggily."

"Well, how's this for a trick?" asked the rabbit. He tied a stone to the piece of string. He fastened the other end of the string to the cork and lowered stone and string inside the milk bottle, corking it tightly. Then putting a knife on the ground near the bottle the bunny said: "The trick, Mr. 'Gator is to separate the string in two pieces so the stone will fall to the bottom of the bottle. But you must not take out the cork. Can you do it?"

The bottle and stone trick

"Good day!" gargled the 'Gator.

Wheat Prices Continue To Move Downward

CHICAGO, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Owing largely to Liverpool quotations lower than looked for and to favorable weather northwest, wheat prices here averaged lower today in the early dealings. Heavy rains over the domestic Winter wheat sections southwest, however, led to rallies. Opening ⅝ to 1⅜ cent down. Chicago wheat continued most of the time to fluctuate below Saturday's finish. Corn and oats were also easy, with corn ⅜ to 1¼ cent off and subsequently holding near to initial range.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 135⅝, September 138½. Corn, July 101⅝, September 98¾. Oats, July 53¼, September 45¾.

Low Priced Mines Lead Trading To-day

TORONTO, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was fairly steady. A revival of interest was shown in the lower priced stocks, more gains being recorded than in the higher issues. The Western stocks, with the exception of Sherritt Gordon, were all down. Pend O'Reille recorded a 30 point loss at 13.80. International Nickey was down 25 at 91.75, and Hudson Bay down 20 at 17.00. The main loser was Sudbury Basin, recording a drop of 30 at 10.20. Heavy trading in Newbeck resulted in a net gain of two points at 46½. Wright Hargreaves was stronger, up six at 4.29.

Light Trading To-day On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 18 (Canadian Press).—Early trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange was the quietest yet seen this year. Of the few issues traded in activity was shown in International Nickel, which was up one at 92¾. Industrial Alcohol eased off ½ at 41½, while Seagrams was firm at 19. Hayes Wheels was up again one at 31. Page Hersey held firm at 94¼, and Massey Harris was down ¼ at 38. Trading was fairly strong in the oils, Home Oil recording a loss of 10 points at 275. Imperial Oil was down ¾ at 65, while International Petroleum was up ⅛ at 39⅞.

Royal Bank was up five at 375 and Bank of Montreal took a slight rise of ½ at 349½.

ed death or internal injuries.

Mrs. Annie Hobson was the only person who gave evidence who saw the accident actually happen. A few seconds before the car moved backwards Mrs. Hobson said she saw Graeme McMillan run and catch hold of the rear bumper. As the car backed up he was knocked down and the wheels on the left side passed over his body. Witness said the lights were on the car and it did not drive away in a hurry.

Mr. McElderry argued that Devall had taken reasonable precaution when he walked around the back of the car and hence there was not enough evidence to send him on to trial.

Mr. Hatton clamed that Devall being a taxi driver should have taken more precaution than the ordinary driver takes, and that it being the 24th of May and knowing that there were children playing around the car, he did not take reasonable precaution.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.

Roman Catholic members of the Local Militia units attended High Mass at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday morning, in connection with the first garrison church parade since before the war. Twenty members of the local units were in attendance, under the command of Lieut. R. A. Sheehy.

They were welcomed by His Lordship, Bishop O'Brien, who said that while it was not intended to develop the military spirit in Canada, still preparedness was the best policy.

His Lordship based his address of the morning principally on a recent Encyclical issued by the Pope, recommending to the atteniton of the faithful the necessity of making reparation to Almighty God for our own sins and the sins of the world.

Sin, said the Bishop, carries with it its own punishment. An act of contrition or resolve to change one's life is not all that is required to appease the just wrath of an offended Deity. Sin, besides being a lapse from virtue, is also an injustice done the Creator, who has redeemed and sanctified His children. Just as when a man commits theft, he must make reparation before the offence is pardoned, so reparation is demanded for an offence against God.

It is often asserted that the death of Christ is sufficient reparation for the sins of men, but it would be absurd to imagine that Christ would come down from heaven and suffer and die for erring humanity, and then allow His creatures to go unscathed and commit any sin they might desire. Sin must not only be repented of, but it must have its just reparation offered to God, either in this world or the next.

Means of making this reparation were recommended in attendance at Sunday and week-day Masses, at the devotions of the first Friday of the month and the Holy Hour, in acts of penance and in prayer. Devotion to the intercessory powers of the Blessed Virgin Mary and of the saints, was also recommended.

His Lordship referred briefly to the recent decision by the Privy Council of England, refusing the pleas of the Separate School supporters of the Province of Ontario, and quoted the words of an Anglican publication which referred to this decision as a "blow to civil and religious liberty." He said that the full text of the judgment had not yet been received and it was impossible to decide on any future course of action until this had been examined. He outlined the wishes of the Fathers of Confederation in the matter of fair treatment of minorities in educational matters and spoke of the justice of Quebec in its provision of Protestant schools in the province.

Yesterday morning at the nine o'clock mass at the Cathedral, sixty small children received their first Holy Communion, in an impressive and lovely service appropriate to the occasion. The little girls wore the customary white frocks and white veils.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.

Blessed are the teachers and preachers, who dare stay with truth, defending it at all costs against false tradition, and vice versa to the man, who by sophistry of works try to delude the people into believing that the gruesome doctrine of "endless torture" can be reconciled with the truth "God is love."

Reverentially we say God is either a monster taking pleasure in torturing his creatures, or else "God is love." Both phases of character cannot be in one and the same being.

It is a monstrous slander on the character of God to say he uses His Almighty power to cause untold, unending suffering to billions of His creatures (for whose being He is responsible) who are helpless and powerless to defend themselves.

The idea of the Almighty using the weapon of "endless torture' upon billions of His creatures is a degrading, gross misconception of the being of God. It is a wonder how such a blasphemous doctrine ever became current in the world.

IN POLICE COURT

John Sinclair of Campbellford appeared in Police Court this morning, charged with operating a still without having the necessary permit from the Inland Revenue officer. Yesterday afternoon, after a day's search, Provincial Constable H. Thompson and Inland Revenue Officer W. Buller took Sinclair into custody. The still was found in a swamp on the first concession of Belmont. The accused, when arraigned, pleaded not guilty and was remanded until Monday, June 25th, at 2.30 p.m.

The trial will be held in the Town Hall in the village of Norwood. Bail was set at $1,000.

Parking All Night Contrary To By-Law

The streets are not garages and must not be used as such, Chief Constable Samuel Newhall told The Examiner this morning. Many citizens have been parking their cars during the night in front of their homes, which is contrary to a clause in the traffic by law, which says that no person can park a car on the street for a greater length of time than is necessary for the purpose of conducting his business. Cars also parked on side streets and on streets that are poorly lighted must have lights on or a parking light that plainly shows the position of the car.

CREW OF "FRIENDSHIP" SEEK MUCH SOUGHT REST AFTER HAZARDOUS FLIGHT

Will Continue on to Southampton as Goal of Journey To-day.

ACCLAIMED BY POPULACE

Miss Boell Abandons Present Plans—Will Attempt East-to-West Hop.

BURRY PORT, Wales, June 19 (A.P.). — The first woman ever to cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airplane, and the two men who aided her in the crossing, last night sought well-earned repose in this little Welsh town.

Yesterday, shortly after noon, Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston, with Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, landed their tri-motored monoplane Friendship in Burry Port estuary, off this port, completing in 20 hours and 49 minutes, the flight from Trepassey Bay, Newfoundland.

To-day they will fly the Friendship to Southampton, which, as an alternative to Valencia Bay, Ireland, they had set as the goal of their trans-oceanic flight. Southampton - they missed by flying about 130 miles too far northwest.

But last night sleep, and sleep only, really mattered, and the fliers, three tired and weary human beings, were taking advantage of Wales' quiet to get just that.

It was shortly after noon that watchers on the Welsh coast saw an airplane approaching from the south-west like a great blackbird. As it drew nearer, the drone of its three powerful engines became audible but it was not until the big ship flew low over Llanelly railway station (four miles from Burry Port), that it dawned on the curious crowds that this was the Friendship, and that aboard it was the first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane.

The Stars and Stripes painted on the fuselage and the printed letters of its name could be seen, and once Burry Port had seen this insignia, it was a town transported with excitement.

After circling gracefully over the town the plane continued at a low altitude along the river to the coast, and there narrowly escaped disaster when it passed but a few yards to the side of the Burry Port Copper Works chimney stack. Observers held their breath but the plane slipped by to make a graceful landing a few minutes later in the estuary. The tide was almost dead.

Hailed by People

LONDON, June 19 (A.P.)—All England yesterday was ringing with praise of the young woman who is the first of her sex to have crossed the Atlantic in an airplane.

That Amelia Earhart landed in Wales instead of Ireland or Southampton has caused surprise, but has not detracted one whit from the glory of her achievement, England feels.

The newspapers in their special editions, cite that three women have already lost their lives in attempting the Atlantic hazard, and another, Ruth Elder, was only able to go part way and had to be rescued before disaster overtook her, too. It is remarked also that the Friendship is the first seaplane to make the crossing.

The papers are making a big display of the dramatic story and their pages are profuse with pictures of the Boston girl in her flying costume clothes which give her much the appearance of Colonel Lindbergh whose picture is cheered to this day when thrown on the screens in cinema news reels.

Abandons Plans

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 19 (A.P.)—Miss Mabel Boll, who had planned a trans-Atlantic flight in the monoplane Columbia, announced late yesterday that she would take off this morning for a return flight to New York. Miss Boll said she would cross to Europe by steamer and attempt the east-to-west trans-Atlantic flight.

MANY FARMERS SHIPPING SOWS

Small Percentage of Hogs Shipped Graded As First Class.

BEEF SHIPMENT NORMAL.

The livestock reports recently received by the local Department of Agriculture show a phenomenal increase in the number of sows being shipped lately. The shipment of hogs is nearly normal, 2,187 hogs were shipped and twenty-five per cent were first class. This, however, is a small percentage below the normal mark for the year, which is around 31 per cent. Two hundred and ninety-two head of cattle were shipped, with 52 per cent first class, which is around the normal mark. The same condition applies to calves, of which 959 were shipped and 48 per cent were of the first class.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS

Whose birthday this is.

3RD DRAGOONS AWAY TO CAMP

Cavalry Will Spend 12 Days Under Canvas at Barriefield Camp.

128 OF ALL RANKS.

With a strength of 128 officers and men, the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons got away this afternoon for Barriefield Camp, where they will enjoy twelve days' training. The regiment travelled by special C.P.R. train, which left Pontypool this morning, picking up men and horses belonging to B Squadron at that point and from Millbrook and Cavanville, arriving here shortly after noon. The local squadron (C squadron) worked all morning loading equipment and horses belonging to the squadron and to regimental headquarters, and when the train pulled into the station four carloads of horses and several truck loads of other baggage were waiting.

Lt.-Col. H. W. Powell of Toronto, formerly of Millbrook, is officer commanding the regiment. Headquarters staff consists of Major W. T. Rogers, Veterinary Officer; Captain Frank G. Stinson, Adjutant; Capt. E. H. Wood, Medical Officer; Capt. J. D. Paterson, Chaplain; Capt. C. H. Cutmore, Paymaster; Lieut. D. A. Loomis, M.C., Quartermaster, and Lieut. R. A. Malane, Assistant Adjutant. B Squadron is commanded by Major M. R. Sloan, with Capt. H. G. Mason and Lieut. J. Dymond, the latter being from Millbrook, and C. squadron is commanded by Major C. H. Stuart, with Capt. E. G. Johnston and Lieut. R. MacNab. The Regimental Sergeant-Major is J. J. Powell of Grafton.

The loading of the horses this morning was an interesting process. Most of the animals moved into the cars quietly enough except when an engine happened to pass puffing along on a nearby track of the C.P.R. freight yard. One man's horse refused to lead, and he had to ride him up the runway, narrowly escaping being brushed off when his head struck one of the overhead rails. The last horse in one car had to be backed into position.

One man brought a colt with him that had never been ridden until last night. He seemed confident of getting along all right, however, as he had broken in a new colt at each of three previous camps.

Body Of Baby Is Taken From River

WINDSOR, Ont., June 19.—(Canadian Press).—The body of a new-born female baby was taken from the river Canard yesterday near La Salle. It was wrapped in paper and a post mortem examination showed that it had probably been in the water for two months.

Alfred Knapp, Eugene Lajeunesse and O. Benteau, all of La Salle, found the infant's remains when they were out rowing on the river early yesterday. The body was removed to Janisse's Undertaking Parlors.

That the baby was thrown into the river Canard by an unmarried mother is the supposition of the authorities.

CITY CLERGY TENDER DINNER

Bid Farewell to Rev. J. W. Gordon, Who Is Leaving For St. Catharines.

ADDRESSES GIVEN.

Before leaving for his new charge at Welland Avenue United Church, St. Catherines, Ontario, the Rev. J. W. Gordon, of St. Andrew's, was told in no uncertain language just what the members of the Ministerial Association in Peterborough thought of him.

A group consisting of Rev. Dr. Blagrave of St. John's, Rev. W. S. Edgar of Gilmour Memorial, Rev. William McDonald of Knox, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray street, Rev. J. D. Paterson, All Saints', Rev. T. M. Wesley of Lakefield, Ensign Green of the Salvation Army, Rev. J. H. Dudgeon of St. James, Rev. D. Wren of Trinity, Rev. A. E. Thornley of Mark street, and Rev. J. E. Todd of George street, with Rev. Mr. Gordon as their guest, sat down to a luncheon in the Paragon Luncheon Rooms yesterday.

After luncheon, Rev. W. S. Edgar, the president of the association, in a few words expressed to Mr. Gordon his regret at his departure, and thanked him for the place he had filled in the Ministerial Association, both as a former president as well as a private member. Then, each member in his turn, spoke in the highest terms, and with deep feeling, of his relations with Mr. Gordon, and his regret that these relations were relations with his brother ministers about to be severed.

In reply, Mr. Gordon stated that while all the fine things said about him could not possibly pertain to one man, certainly not to himself, yet he did appreciate greatly the kindly spirit which had been back of all his Mr. Gordon has in a peculiar way, endeared himself to the ministers of this city, and in a very real way there is the feeling that we are losing from our midst a man, who by his warm friendliness, his literary culture, and charm, along with his interest in every worth-while cause, has made a definite contribution, not only to his own church, but to the city at large.

Welland Avenue United Church, St. Catharines, is one of the largest and most important charges of the Hamilton Conference, and the warmest and kindliest wishes go with Mr. Gordon to his new work, from a host of friends.

BREAD DRIVERS WEAR UNIFORMS

Stock's Staff Appears To-day in Smart Outfits of Grey.

BREDIN'S ON ORDER.

Progress is now appearing in Peterborough in another form in uniformed drivers of the bread companies. The uniforms of the Stock Bread Company have arrived and went into use this morning. These are of an Oxford shade, trimmed with black buttons. The coat is double-breasted, with the regular style of trousers. Riding breeches are supplied for the fall and the rough weather. The caps are of the regulation uniform style with the Stock crest on them, in red background with gold letters. The special delivery driver, G. John, wears a uniform similar except that riding breeches are standard with black leggings, which gives a snappy appearance. The inspector, A. John, wears the standard uniform, with the word "Inspector" in gold on the left breast. There are sixteen or seventeen drivers of this company in uniform. H. Dickin, exclusive local representative for the Hoberlin Co., supplied these, made to order, on a week's notice.

M. Bredin, of the Bredin Bread Company told The Examiner that their men would also be in uniform, which would be similar, with a grey of a darker shade and gold letters on the uniform cap. The uniform will be supplied by the Bicord Co. of Toronto.

These uniforms give a finished touch already to the fine equipment of the local firms, and follow the city's step in uniforming its officials. The men have a very neat and smart appearance.

Fire Scare Draws Large Crowd of Men To Allen Hayes' Farm to Fight Bonfire

(Examiner Correspondence.)

INDIAN RIVER, June 19. — A fire scare that proved to be a false alarm brought a large crowd together on the farm of Allen Hayes, near the Norwood Road, yesterday afternoon. One of the family, looking from the house, saw the smoke of a bonfire behind the barn and shouted that smoke was coming from the barn. Mr. Hayes' nine-year-old daughter, Noreen, rushed to the 'phone and told the operator at Keene about the fire. The operator sent the call for help out on many of the Otonabee lines, and also called Douro Central, which broadcasted the appeal still further.

In an incredibly short time men by the score were gathering at the Hayes farm, some coming from near Lakefield, only to find that their help was not needed.

The efficiency of the rural telephones in summoning help in time of need was shown. Although on this occasion it turned out to be unnecessary, the Keene and Douro operators have often done good work in this connection.

Dodds, will be inspected on the parade ground in front of the armouries at 3 o'clock, when all the evolutions of machine guns in warfare will be demonstrated without, of course, any actual firing. The artillery inspection will be at 7.30, when 18 pounders will be seen in action; and at 8.30 p.m. the inspection of the infantry battalion will follow. Major J. W. Stevenson commands the battery and Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., is officer commanding the Rangers.

He was taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital in an unconscious condition, and when examined by the doctor, was found to be not injured but merely suffering from a fit. Damage to both the radial car and the truck was caused.

SOUTHAMPTON GREETS FLIERS

Trans-Atlantic Plane Reaches Destination at Noon To-day.

RIVAL MAY CHANGE PLANS.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 19 (Canadian Press). — The trans-Atlantic monoplane Friendship arrived at Southampton from Burry Port, Wales, shortly after noon to-day.

The plane, pilted by Wilmer Stultz, who flew it most of the way across the Atlantic from Newfoundland to Burry Port, was escorted by two British planes. One of these planes was from the Southampton aerodrome, while the other flew all the way from Burry Port as a guide.

The whistles and sirens of the liners in port sounded a shrill welcome which was added to the outbursts of cheers from the crowds lining both sides of the estuary. Miss Amelia Earhart, the first woman to fly the Atlantic, was greeted by Southampton's woman mayor, Mrs. L. M. Welsh, and a special detachment of police then cleared a pathway for the automobiles which carried the party to their hotel.

Before leaving Burry Port, Miss Earhart ate a hearty breakfast of bacon and eggs and toast and marmalade.

"I can't help feeling elated," she exclaimed, before she boarded the plane. "I suppose the flight did require pluck and courage, but all credit is due to Bill Stultz and Slim Gordon. They're the most wonderful fliers in the world.

"Without boasting, I think I could say that at no time during the journey did I seem in the slightest degree afraid. I felt cold and uncomfortably and would climb into the cockpit from the fuselage to get a little warmer. Then I would go back into the fuselage and sit on the floor endeavoring to write in my diary."

Would Fly Back

The fliers again were made to relate the story of their flight when they arrived here.

"There were times when our hearts beat a little faster than usual," said Pilot Wilmer Stultz. "Those were when the motors, never more than one at a time, began to misfire when the driving rain would get into them. The rain lasted more than half way."

Stultz is not adverse to flying back to America. "I wouldn't mind flying

HEALTH BOARD ASKS COUNCIL TO APPOINT FULL TIME M. O. H. IN INTEREST OF PUBLIC HEALTH

Value of Laboratory To City Questioned By Mayor Denne.

RESOLUTION PASSED.

Representations Made To Provincial Authorities To Retain Laboratory, Board Declares.

The Board of Health at its regular monthly meeting this morning in a resolution to the city council declared itself in favor of a full time Medical Health officer, and petitioned the city council to consider the question, and as a matter of good health employ a full time officer, thus declaring again the stand that it took at its February meeting.

Alderman Ackerman, the chairman, J. J. Turner, A. J. Reynolds and Dr. T. W. H. Young voted for the resolution, with Mayor Denne not voting.

The question of a full time Medical Health Officer came up for discussion, when Mr. Reynolds said that there was current talk around the city that Peterborough might lose the government laboratory, and he thought that it would be advisable for the Board to pass a resolution to the city council stating its stand on the question of a full time M.O.H., as on that devolved the leaving of the laboratory in the city.

Mayor Denne did not think that the city in losing the laboratory would lose very much and that the Provincial government ought to live up to their contract made with the city some years ago, when the city spent $5000, in fixing up suitable quarters for a provincial laboratory.

Alderman Ackerman was of the opinoin that the Board of Health should be governed by the Medical Association as it was made up of professional men knowing their business and the benefits of the provincial laboratory, and it had declared in a recent resolution that the laboratory was essential from the health standpoint of this city.

Mayor Denne: "We are going to have a new addition to the Nicholls hospital which will do the same work as the laboratory, and they will have a man doing this work. Why duplicate?"

Mr. Turner: "The extension to the hospital may or may not go on. I base my opinion on the Medical Association, who say that the laboratory is necessary."

Assisting Outside Places.

Mayor Denne asked why the City of Peterborough should assist outside municipalities.

Mr. Turner—"The City of Toronto has."

Mayor Denne — "Toronto gets a grant."

Mr. Turner—"I am big enough to want the city to act as a brother to the otuside municipalities just as Toronto has done to its surrounding municipalities, and the addition to the hospital will not interfere with a full-time M.O.H.

Mayor Denne—"I take the stand that the Provincial Government should keep faith. We maintain an office and a stenographer for their officer of health. We should not let the Provincial government run us; we are big enough to run ourselves."

Alderman Ackerman made a plea for co-operation between the Provincial authorities and the city.

Dr. Young —"I might say that I spoke to the deputy minister when I was in the city and he said, 'I dont care what you do. You can do what you like'."

The debate ended with Mr. Turner moving and Mr. Reynolds seconding the following resolution: "That having in mind representations that were made to the Department of Health re establishing a laboratory in the city of Peterborough on the understanding that the city would employ a full time Medical Officer of Health, the local Board of Health respectfully requests the city council to consider the matter and as a matter of good health employ a full time Medical Officer of Health."

A resolution was also passed asking the Department of Health to

Many Suffragettes Honor Late Leader

LONDON, June 19 (Canadian Press Cable).—Old "fighting comrades" of every class and of several nationalities were present at the funeral yesterday of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, almost every one wearing purple, green and white, the colors of the Women's Social and Political Union, of which the great suffragette was the leader.

The body lay in the coffin in state overnight at the church in Westminster, close to the Houses of Parliament, four prominent suffragettes keeping watch throughout the night.

Mrs. Baldwin, wife of the Premier; Lady Astor, Countess Rhonnda, George Lansbury and P. W. Pethick-Lawrence, Labor M.P.'s, as well as a number of well-known former militant suffragettes were in the congregation attending the church service. At its conclusion a procession, formed under Mrs. Flora Drummond, marched to Brompton Cemetery, with the Union Jack and W.S.P.U. colors at the head. Ten women pall-bearers carried the great champion of women's rights to her last rest.

KIWANIS CLUB HOLDS DINNER

Marks All-Kiwanis Night in Outing at Wallace's Point.

DR. CRAIG IN CHARGE

"All Kiwanis" Night was celebrated in unique fashion by the Peterborough club last night, when the members held a very happy picnic at Wallace's Point. The pavilion was well filled by Kiwanians and their ladies, and a wonderful dinner was served by the ladies of Stewart Hall.

All Kiwanis Night is an international affair, when all clubs in United States and Canada unite at precisely the same time in the same program. On other occasions, the hour has been about 8 o'clock, but to synchronize with the international convention being held at Seattle, it was necessary to have the Peterborough affair at 11.15 last night. Past President J. J. Craig, who, as chairman of the Education Committee, had charge of the evening's program, arranged a program and dance to last until the "zero hour," when all clubs commenced the similar program simultaneously with the thousands attending the Seattle convention.

The boosters were President Joseph John and Wilbert Freel, the latter providing a prize for every lady present.

Among those who enjoyed the party, one of the most successful Kiwanis Club has had, were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph John; Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Craig; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Boyle; Mr. and Mrs. H. McCannan; Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Grant; Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Dawson; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Geraghty; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKone; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Freel; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Smith; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kidd; Mr. and Mrs. C. McLean; Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Morphet; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dewart; Mr. and Mrs. C. Saunders; Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Browne; Mr. and Mrs. J. Doran; Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Taylor; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Heron; Mr. and Mrs. T. Mark; Mr. and Mrs. I. T. Lillico; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Meyers; Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Cook; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Reynolds; Mr. and Mrs. M. Tientsin City Is Back To Normal

TIENTSIN, June 19 (Associated Press).—Conditions in Tientsin were outwardly normal yesterday for the first time since long before the Nationalist armies took the city over.

Shops had re-opened, and refugees had in the main returned from the concessions where they had taken shelter when fight threatened. In the concessions the foreign authorities had relaxed the extraordinary precautions at the borders and were allowing automobiles to pass through the lines to the native city at will. The international guards yesterday evacuated the city power station and water works which supplied some of the concessions.

SPECIAL SPEAKER ADDRESSES BELMONT WOMEN'S INSTITUTE AT ANNUAL SUMMER MEETING

Mrs. Yates, of Athens, speaks on "Value of Difficulties."

TELLS OF GROWTH

Miss Minnie Pollock Awarded Honors at Belleville Hospital.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, June 19. — Mrs. Yates, of Athens, Ont., was the special speaker at the annual summer meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute held in the Township Hall on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Yates opened her address, the subject of which was "The Value of Difficulties," by saying a few words on the great growth and expansion which has taken place in the work of the Institute which was first organized thirty-one years ago at Stoney Creek, Ont. The Institute is a school for adults, with such studies as economics, health, education, sanitation, historical research, agriculture, and legislation, and everything that would be embodied in the motto, "For Home and Country."

Dealing with her subject, the speaker illustrated the "Value of Difficulties" in the world of nature. The seed which is put in the ground requires light, heat, rain, wind, and dark to reach full development. Also the small brook has to force its way over stoney places, but it is all the time growing stronger and will develop into a large stream. We must all face difficulties and the speaker numerated four kinds, namely, "Imaginary," Some people, she said, were for ever building bridges which they would never have to cross. Then there are the self-imposed difficulties and the greatest of this class was jealousy. The third was financial difficulties, caused in many cases by people living beyond their means or in other words, trying to keep up with the Jones'. The fourth class was the providential difficulties which, if met bravely, will help to build up a worthy character. By always facing the sun the difficulties will fall behind.

Largely Attended.

The meeting was largely attended, a number of visitors being also present.

After the opening exercises the roll call was announced by a beautiful thought from prose or poetry.

AGED PIONEER PASSES AWAY

James Bell Stevenson, One of Oldest Residents of Hastings.

IN PUBLIC LIFE

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, June 19—There passed away on Monday night, June 11th, the oldest and most highly respected pioneer of this district in the person of Mr. James Bell Stevenson. Death came as a complete shock to his many friends, as he was enjoying good health until Friday morning, when he was stricken with a paralytic stroke, which he failed to overcome.

The late Mr. Stevenson had reached the good old age of ninety-four years and seven months, and saw numerous changes in the ways and customs of the country, which he could relate very accurately, up to the time of his illness.

He was a staunch Liberal in politics, and on many occasions was on the public platform, with his nephew, Honorable George P. Graham. He served for many years in the Percy Township Council as well as holding several official positions in that township for over forty years.

He was a member of the United Church and was an official of the old Methodist Church for over fifty years, which position he held (now the United Church) at the time of his death.

The funeral was held at 2 o'clock on Thursday afternoon at the home of his son, Mr. James Stevenson, Jr., Front street, from thence to the United Church, where service was held. Rev. A. C. Hie, assisted by Rev. M. L. Hinton of Bogcaygeon, one of ithe dearest friends of the late Mr. Stevenson, and Rev. Dr. Thomson of the Presbyterian Church, conducted the service.

Rev. Mr. Hie, in his sermon, compared the deceased with a sheaf of matured corn. "He was now dead, but had borne good fruit." The example set by him, and his acts of Christianity were always of the highest and religious education had benefited beyond value by his life.

The pall-bearers were six of his grandsons: Messrs. Howard, Everett, Earl and Gordon Fairman; Wesley Beavis, and Stanley Stevenson.

Interment took place in the family plot in the Trent Valley Cemetery.

Telegrams of sympathy were received by the bereaved family from his many friends throughout all parts of Canada, and the United States.

The floral tributes were many and bore evidence of esteem in which deceased was held. Among them were

BUCKET BRIGADE SAVES CAVAN HOME

Neighbors and Passers-by Extinguish Fire in Wilfrid Elson's House.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, June 18.—Fire broke out in the farm home of Wilfrid Elson, Seventh Line, Cavan, on Sunday about 3 p.m., a defective chimney being the cause assigned.

Fortunately a large number of the men of the district, with others from passing cars, were soon on the spot, and due to their effective work as a "bucket brigade," with some assistance from a chemical fire extinguisher supplied by Edgar Fallis, the flames were stayed before any great amount of damage was done.

A large hole was burned in the roof of the frame dwelling, and this was accounted the chief amount of harm done. The loss is covered by insurance.

Earlier in the season Mr. Elson had his colony house, with four hundred little chickes, burned as a result, it is thought, of a dropped coal from the brooder stove.

Arrangements were made to have a meeting at Codrington on July 4th, when Miss Mitchell, the travelling secretary of the W.M.S. branch, will give an address.

As the subject of the meeting was Temperance, then heralds gave briefly the law relating to the temperance question in the different provices of Canada, and also Newfoundland.

After singing, Mrs. Lorn Evans read a devotional leaflet, entitled "Temperance issues."

A four-section leaflet on a Christian attitude to temperance, was given by Mrs. O. Clarke, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. McNutt, and Mrs. Diamond.

A season of prayer on the subject that guidance may be given in temperance education and legislation followed. Several new members were secured.

DISTRICT NEWS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, June 19. — The first meeting of the newly organized Women's Institute Society was held at the home of Mrs. R. Tate on Thursday afternoon with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. J. Widdiss, presided. Owing to lack of time since organization, no special program was arranged. Several ladies joined the society and numerous items of business were discussed. Mrs. (Dr.) H. McPhee favored the gathering with a couple of piano selections.

Mrs. Tate and Mrs. McPhee were appointed a program committee for the July meeting, which will be held in the council chamber on Tuesday, July 10th, when each member is expected to bring two friends.

Mrs. R. Cornwall and Mrs. R. Tate served dainty refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

The proceeds amounted to almo $20.

Attend Divine Service.

Arriving shortly before the hour of service and entering the church according to the Masonic custom, they occupied most of the centre aisle of the auditorium.

The Rev. A. C. Hie of Hastings, who upon invitation was present to give the address, deleivered a sermon which will not soon be forgotten by those who were present. Choosing his text from Genesis, 1:1, "In the Beginning, God," and being a member of the order himself, Mr. Hie told some of the principles of the brotherhood. His sermon was especially interesting, not only to the Masonic brethren, but to the entire congregation. The choir rendered two anthems, "Redeemer, Thou Remainest,' 'and "Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me," with solo by Miss Mary Lowes.

CLOSING EXERCISES AT GROVE SCHOOL

Rev. F. H. Cosgrave of Trinity College Gives Address on Education.

LAKEFIELD June 19. — The closing exercises and prize giving of The Grove School were held on Friday afternoon and were attended by a very large number of parents and friends of the school. It was an ideal June day and with its match less background of green trees the sapphire lake, and the glorious Italian sky, the school looked its best and busiest. Parents were here and there summoned to see some special spot conspicuously connected with son's school year and of infinite importance, at least to him. All the rush and stir were silenced at the summons of the chapel bell, which called the school, for the last time this term, to prayers. The boys formed in line and marched into chapel. Rev. A. W. MacKenzie took the service and the sermon was preached by Rev. F. H. Cosgrave, Provost of Trinity College who took his text from part of the 24th verse of the 9th chapter of St. Paul's first epistle to the Corinthians —"They which run in a race." St. Paul was probably something of a sportsman because in so many places in his epistles he refers to games and races. He knew of the great Olympic games held every four years, when young men were gathered from all the tribes of Greece to take part. If war was going on a truce was proclaimed till after the games. The champion of this great contest was acclaimed with great honor and crowned with a laurel wreath.

One particular race, which was fascinating, remains to this day in some of our schools and colleges in a rather modified form. It is the relay race, contested by teams of runners. In old Greece, a lighted torch was carried by the runners, and woe betide the runner who either let the torch fall or go out. The victory was with the team and not the individual runner. There was a proverb then which said: 'Let him who hath the torch pass it on."

As we read history we see the torch passed on from generation to generation and the reason one is interested in a school closing is that we, who are at present bearing the torch are curious about our successors—will they go forward or fall back? The torch is our civilization, and our religion.

School time is an important qual-

ROSES FOR SHOW.

The rose month is here—June! The month of brides, blooms and sunshine. And, despite a comparatively cool spring all three crops should be above the average in 1928! Because June is the month when, ordinarily, roses in the garden are at their best, this is the time for rose shows—and how many of us there are who would like to help the local Horticultural Society by exhibiting at their rose show, but are a little timid, and fear the possibility of ridicule. Let me give a few pointers on selecting and exhibiting roses:

Two or three days before the show, determine what classes you intend to enter and examine your bushes for prospective blooms. If the buds seem opening too quickly cut them, with stems as long as possible—without harming the bush—and place them in water in a cool dim cellar. If the bud is just opening nicely, leave it on the bush to be cut either the evening previous to the show, or on the morning of the show itself. If at all possible, transport the cut blooms from the house to the exhibition table, with the stems in water.

Remember always that the judge looks for an open bloom—he does not, if he can avoid it, consider blooms which are fully blown; nor does he desire to see them so tight in bud that the heart of the flower is hidden. It is quite permissible, and good practice, to tie a piece of wool lightly around the bloom prior to leaving the house for the show, and to leave the wool in position until the blooms are staged; this aids in holding the bloom in perfect shape. Don't forget to snip the wool before the judge comes on the scene! Remember, too, that foliage frequently decides the winner in a class—other factors being equal. Use rose foliage only—except in classes where definite instructions to the contrary are listed—and have that foliage as clean and healthy as possible.

Whether or not you intend exhibiting roses, grow them. The mere fact that an individual society, such as the Rose Society of Ontario, has over one thousand members—residing in every province of the Dominion, save one—gives evidence of the possibilities regarding rose growing in Canada. Do you know that there will be at least fifteen rose shows in the Dominion within the next five weeks; that the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa each have more than fifteen hundred rose bushes under test, with competent officials to answer questions concerning rose growing; that hundreds of thousands of rose bushes were sold in Canada in 1928?

It is possible, and not too difficult a proposition, for the amateur to grow roses well in Canada. Remember that June is the feeding month—apply readily available fertilizers every week or ten days—using liquid manure or tankage or blood. If you have not yet done so, start now and prevent the activities of insects and disease by applying "Massey Dust" regularly every two weeks. This dust consists of nine parts commercial sulphur flour and one part arsenate of lead powder; add one part Nicotine dust to prevent inroads of the aphis. Your seedsman will prepare this for you—or tell you where the material may be obtained already mixed. Use a little patience—a little care—and plenty of common sense, and the road to success in rose growing is wide open to you.

Blackbird Finds Helpful Friend

It was just a tiny lost blackbird and he was a fairly hard-headed business man, but they came together in a curious way. The blackbird was sitting on the tracks of the late Peterborough Street Railway, on George street, in a very confused stated of mind. It had made a too ambitious attempt to see the world and it was suffering in consequence. Motor cars thundered sround and over it and the baby bird was in imminent danger of making another item in the great roll of automobile casualties when the business man came along. Threading his way through the traffic, he rescued the infant with some difficulty and carried it very carefully over to Victoria Park, to a safe and leafy refuge in one of the tall trees.

LEGION HEARS OF WORK DONE

Minister in Charge of Re-establishment Addresses Dominion Convention AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

The second annual convention of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League was held this month at St. John, New Brunswick. There were 300 delegates present at the dinner given, which was attended by comrades from coast to coast, including a large number of important officials of the Legion. Rev. Father Costello was present as the Peterborough delegate. The old time war songs were sung and a minute's silence was observed during the sounding of The Last Post, before a toast to "Our Fallen Comrades" was proposed.

Hon. J. H. King gave a sketch of the work done by the government since the cessation of hostilities toward the betterment of conditions of returned men. It was the object of the government to employ men of the highest repute in the medical profession to assist in hospital and other work for returned soldiers. In addition to hospital work they conducted 15,000 clinics yearly, and carried out special investigations in time of stress in order to give relief.

In 1920 the government passed a Returned Soldiers' Insurance Act, of which some 40,000 men took advantage. The pension problem is a very serious one and was based on as liberal principles as any other country in the world. Dr. King praised the work done by the committee on soldier problems headed by Major Powers, and he was pleased to announce that $10,000 asked for by this committee at the last session of Parliament would be granted. He promised to facilitate the returned soldiers' work as far as possible.

At a following session a resolution was passed recording the Legion's approval of the principle that the burdens of war should be equally distributed so as to bear upon every class of the community and that with conscription of men to serve under arms, there should also be a provision whereby other resources so as to include individual profit, but by such means as not to destroy the financial and the industrial fabric of the nation.

A resoution was passed which recommended that all branches of the League co-operate in aiding Imperial trade.

If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

TRY TO PROMOTE MORE FRIENDSHIP

Chamber of Commerce Officials Will Visit Other Municipalities of District.

Peterborough Chamber of Commerce will attempt to promote friendlier feeling between the municipalities of Central Ontario. This was decided at the last annual meeting of the Chamber.

A series of visits to chambers of commerce will be arranged. James Dutton, pesident of the local chamber, will visit and address such public gatherings as Rotary and other Chambers of Commerce in cities and towns as Oshawa, Toronto and Bowmanville.

Mr. Dutton is in Midland to-day in response to an invitation to address the Kiwanis Club there. While in that district an opportunity will be sought to visit the Severn division of the Trent Valley Canal. Here Mr. Dutton hopes to inspect the marine railway and the partially completed lock as well as the power development at the various points of the district.

The secretary of the local chamber is preparing a speaking itinerary for Mr. Dutton and other members of the executive and chamber. Invitations are being sought to visit with public organizations in other towns and cities and from the number of replies received to date Peterborough will be represented in a public way in a great many nearby cities and towns of Central Ontario.

WEED INSPECTORS TO ENFORCE ACT

Police Will Perform This Duty in Peterborough — Weeds Must Be Cut.

For years past this province has been letting weeds run wild but, at last both the government and agricultural interests are alive to the annual loss resulting from weed growth. Every city, town, village and township must this year have a weed inspector and owners of property who fail to have their weeds cut may be mulcted the cost of cutting if ordered by the inspector.

In this city everyone of the constables is a weed inspector and copies of the Noxious Weeds and Weed Seeds Act had been sent to the Police Authorities with orders to enforce the act. "There is no time like the present to cut the weeds and it is easier now to destroy them than when they become much larger and have gone to seed", Chief Newhall told The Examiner.

In Peterborough there is much room for improvement over conditions in the past. Formerly the vacant lots have been allowed to become covered with rank growth which is a menace to every well kept place in the community. In the townships where the weeds were allowed to ripen and to seed the grain harvest is appreciably reduced. Weeds not only steal the soil fertility but they choke other growth from which valuable crops are derived. They also cause increased labor and operating expense on the farm.

The first year will be the hardest for in time with continued effort the menace will be practically exterminated if the effort is a general one.

ROTARY AND WORLD PEACE.

It is not surprising to find in connection with the convention of Rotary International, which opened at Minneapolis yesterday, that international peace finds a prominent place in the agenda.

The ideals around which Rotary is built and the fact that this service organization is to be found in 44 countries in the world, would naturally bring the promotion of better international feeling into prominence.

In this respect the Rotary movement is unique, inasmuch as its influence now extends round the globe, and is steadily increasing as more countries come into the fold and the number of clubs in countries already represented in the organization grows larger.

The sixth object of Rotary, which aims at a better understanding among the peoples of the world, will at the present convention be more heavily underscored than ever, and while world peace may seem an impossible dream to some people, there is not a doubt that much toward that end can be achieved by such an organization as Rotary International.

THOSE NOISY BOATS.

Complaints about the noise created by the exhausts of outboard motorboats in Little Lake on Sundays and late at night are justified, and it may be necessary for the City Council to regulate the operations of these boats within the city limits.

There is no more need for such craft to be operated without a muffler than there is for an automobile to be so driven, and as mufflers are part of the standard equipment provided, owners will not be suffering any particular hardship if they are called upon to see that these mufflers are used.

Noisy exhausts on Sunday and long after dark create a nuisance that will have to be dealt with; in addition, these water whippets have so much speed that their operation late at night is dangerous to the safety of other craft.

Incidentally, the whole question of proper lights for motorboats both in the river and in the neighboring lakes should receive some attention from the proper authorities.

The regulation in regard to lights has been so generally ignored that it is a source of wonder to those who know the conditions that accidents from this cause have not occurred.

THE FIRST WOMAN OVER.

There will be general satisfaction over the fact that a woman has at last succeeded in flying the Atlantic.

The feat accomplished by Miss Amelia Earhart, of Boston, in making the passage from Newfoundland to Wales may, for the time being at least, put an end to attempts that have already cost the lives of three women.

It should be realized that the Earhart flight was not a "stunt" performance in the nature of a hastily prepared, hurriedly planned dash across the Atlantic.

On the other hand, every detail had been thought out, the monoplane used was triple-engined and of the most serviceable type possible, and so far as human skill and knowledge could make a flight safe every precaution had been taken.

In other words, Miss Earhart and her companions have demonstrated, as other flyers have done, that the passage of the Atlantic can be accomplished with some degree of safety provided proper attention is given to the plane and its equipment.

The world will rejoice at her safe passage, and express the hope that now that the long flight has been conquered by a woman, other women flyers will scrap their plans.

KEEPING THE PEOPLE INFORMED.

The announcement of the intention of Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative Federal leader, to make a speaking tour during the summer has met with approval, not only from party organs who expect the series of addresses to have some political value but from other journals, who see in the movement something that will serve to keep Canadians in touch with political developments.

It would be well if the Premier or prominent members of his Cabinet were to arrange a similar tour.

The simple truth is that the majority of people, even those who pride themselves upon knowing what's what in current events, are lamentably out of touch with political matters, except during election campaigns, when interest in politics breaks out in a sudden rash that clears up as soon as the election is over.

Nine-tenths of the people make no effort to watch closely the proceedings in Parliament; they are content to let important business drift along, and they only wake up about every four years and begin to concern themselves with what should be in their thoughts at all times.

If our politicians generally were to discuss public matters more frequently in the years intervening between general elections, the vote registered would much more closely represent an enlightened public opinion.

MRS. EMMELINE PANKHURST.

It is a little strange to realize that many people of this new generation, reading of the death of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, will only dimly know who or what Emmeline Pankhurst was. They will not know that this remarkable woman, who ended her career as a constitutionalist and as a Conservative candidate for the British Parliament, was the first militant suffragist, a radical crusader resorting to violence and cheerfully serving prison terms to achieve her goal.

Indeed, for even those of us who may know or remember, it is hard now to realize that in the early nineteen hundreds women were stoning Ministers of the Crown, storming Parliament, going to jail and going on hunger strike for a right that was refused them, but which is to-day accepted as one of the commonplaces of life. Emmeline Pankhurst did all of these things, and she did them more violently and bravely than any of her comrades. She was, in truth, the spearhead in the revolution for political rights for her sex, and one fancies that there was no peril that she would not have faced to make that revolution a success. Whatever might be said of her methods, her courage could not be impeached.

As twilight years came, Emmeline Pankhurst changed. She saw the war crash many of her dreams, she became perhaps a little disillusioned about the results of women's votes, began perhaps to believe with Stevenson that it "is better to travel hopefully than to arrive." Age, which calls for rest, makes so much difference!

Youth is the age of visions and of dreams, the days of brave adventure. But as a westering sun goes down upon our hopes, we all, more or less, become conservatives, prefer to think of "Old forgotten far-off things,

And battles long ago."

And perhaps it is better so. Age, maybe, needs the enthusiasm and the pressure of youth, and youth in its turn needs the restraint of age, founded on experience and wisdom. Only a few weeks ago, Sylvia Pankhurst expressed grief that her mother had—

"deserted her old cause of progress.....to which all of us had given long service."

Many of us may live to find a daughter of Sylvia Pankhurst write with similar regret of her desertion of the same cause.—Ottawa Journal.

THE DRAMA AND RELIGION.

We have heard a great deal in this discussion about the controversy over the Prayer Book in Great Britain, and it was to be expected that a question arousing so much deep and even bitter feeling should be the subject of much comment. Another religious event of immense importance has received little attention here. On Whit-Monday (May 28) of this year a play entitled "The coming of Christ," written by John Masefield, was presented in Canterbury Cathedral, where it was witnessed by 3,000 people on a hot Bank Holiday afternoon. The Dean of Canterbury is commended for his courage in allowing the presentation, and one may recognize that objections would be raised to so remarkable a departure. But the Dean seems to have been justified by the event. The London Morning Post, a strongly Conservative journal, says:

"After seeing 'The Coming of Christ,' Mr. Masefield's nativity play, in Canterbury Cathedral tonight, one is left to marvel that the church and the drama have been estranged so long.

"Nearly 3,000 people of every station and degree thronged the great church for the two productions of the mystery, and stayed silent and entranced by the serene unfolding of the most familiar story in the world.

"Not since the days when the streets of Canterbury were noisy with the gathering cries and hand bells of the pilgrims has such a play been seen in the city, and never before so far as the records tell, has there been acting inside the cathedral. Yet, as setting for a religious drama, the church makes a theatre, beside which all other stages must become tawdry."

Some religious people are prejudiced against the drama, and things have been done on the stage that made the prejudice not altogether unreasonable. It must be admitted also that the gospel story needs to be handled with delicacy and reverence, and that it might easily be vulgarized and made to shock religious sensibilities. Mr. Masefield seems to have done his work well. "A false note would have been terrible," says the correspondent of the Manchester Guardian. "Happily all was harmonious, all was remote and austere." There are tremendous possibilities in the use of the drama for religious purposes, and the picturing of the greatest event in history in a historic environment is full of promise. The Manchester Guardian correspondent says that "this mystery was a communal effort of Canterbury and therefore in the true mediaeval tradition. With the exception of some singers from London all who took part—their names are not announced—were local folk."—London Advertiser.

SUPPORT THE CHAMBER.

The significant point about the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce was the number of important business men who attended the meetings. The convention stands out in startling contrast to the annual meeting of the C.M.A., where the really big men were chiefly notable by their absence.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce seems destined to play a steadily larger part in the business life of the Dominion. This is due to the fact that the Chamber takes its duties seriously. There is no haste in passing resolutions which might later turn out to have been inspired by the selfish interests of one small group. To use a hackneyed phrase, it is filling a long felt want in interpreting to the Government the informed opinion of leading men throughout the Dominion.

At the annual meeting of the Chamber there was none of the horse play which usually creeps into and spoils many conventions. The delegates were there inspired with no thought of personal gain, but only with the idea of carrying out work in the best interests of the Dominion as a whole.

Because of this, even should its work be opposed by selfish interests, it is bound to grow and to fulfill the same useful function carried out in the United States by a similar organization.

Not only will the Chamber deal with questions originating in its component member Boards of Trade, but it will also submit to the member boards questions of national importance, thus serving to create an informed opinion among the leading men from coast to coast. Such work is bound also to create a renewed interest amongst the members of the Boards of Trade.

The Chamber of Commerce well merits the support it has already received from sound and intelligent business leaders across the Dominion.—Financial Post.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Some motorboat owners evidently believe in the wide-open Sunday so far as their engines are concerned.

The new parking bylaw means that the police are holding a daily reception for the benefit of those who are ignorant of the regulations. There will be a post-graduate course by the magistrate for motorists who persist in defying the bylaw.

Parents who are looking for an ideal holiday for their boys would do well to consult members of the Rotary Club about Kamp Skookum.

No parking bylaw is needed in the city parks, according to a citizen, who complains that the absence of backs on the benches prevents people from remaining long there.

The Question Box

J.C.M. Q.—What is the complete quotation I heard a few nights ago, about reading and writing making the perfect man?

A.—It is presumed that Bacon's Essay: "Of Studies," is referred to. It is a favorite quotation of certain Peterborough people. "Reading maketh a full man, conference a ready man, and writing an exact man."

C.B. Q.—What size should I make a square box so that it will contain a quart?

A.—Inside dimensions: 4 x 4 x 4 and one-fifth inches.

C. H. Q.—In an argument one man said there never was an English Pope. I said there was, but couldn't name him. Who is right?

A.—Adrian IV. was English, and occupied the pontificate 1154-1159.

D.W. Q.—I notice the police are checking up on cyclists. Is a cyclist really any more dangerous than a person walking?

A.—Suppose you weigh 150 pounds and you are riding your bicycle at the rate of ten feet a second (which is only about seven miles an hour) you have a momentum of 1,500 pounds, leaving out of account the weight of the wheel. Sufficient certainly to do a lot of damage!

GOD'S MINUTE

"Men ought always to pray and not to faint."—Luke 18:1.

Our Heavenly Father, we come to Thee in humble worship this morning. We thank Thee for Thy loving care while we slept, and for the sleep and rest of the night. We thank Thee that, refreshed in body and mind, Thou hast brought us to see the beginning of a new day. Lord abide with us still.

We ever need Thee. Protect us from harm, and guide us in all the duties of this day. Deliver us from evil, and make us strong to do Thy will.

Be pleased to remember with Thy blessing all our loved ones. Some of them are far distant from us, but Thou art everywhere present. Be pleased to bless Thine own work. Let great grace be given to ministers of the Gospel and all Christian workers everywhere, that Thy Name may be glorified through their efforts.

Pardon our sins, and guide our loved ones and ourselves to Thy care. And now, blessed Lord, we commit us by Thy Spirit in the way pleasing to Thyself this day; and all we ask in the Name of Jesus our Saviour. Amen.

A Thought

TOMORROW

Last night I caught a glimpse of the Great Tomorrow.

It was at a concert. A young Russian cellist was playing. I do not know the name of the selection. I am not musical and the foreign words on the program meant nothing to me. But it was something that caught us up, carried up along on its current, freed our dreams. At its close the genial pastor who was presiding told us it was just a variation of the Irish Washerwoman!

Anyway, the music touched the humblest and the highest. Swept us on ....up to the throne itself.

Then I knew what Heaven was.

It is the land where everyone has his chance.

How did I know?

I had been watching the faces.

First, the face of the cellist. Young Mobile. Swept with the passion and fears and pains of all Russia.

Then the audience. At first it was just the usual crowd of sane, dependable, wholesome - living people who give each community its ballast.

Then the dreams came to the surface. The latent capacities showed. The music brought out the architect in the carpenter; the artist in the window-dresser; the business magnate in the corner grocer.

Then the dreams came to the surface. The latent capacities showed. The music brought out the architect n the Great Tomorrow, everyone will have his chance. No child will be forced, by parental authority, to become a pedagogue, when he has the the soul of a poet.

In the Great To-morrow, everyone window-dresser; the business magnate in the corner grocer.

Each individual will do the thing that God meant him to do.

Why wait for tomorrow?

Why not help some child to get his chance, today?

Why not be done with timidity and seize your own chance, today?

There are chances for all if we seize them.

Man was fashioned for freedom and strength.

And the good God of Gardens will lead us,

To the Land of the Great Chance at length.

TORONTO, June 19.—Cattle trade was decidedly of a mixed character yesterday. Good to choice handyweight butcher steers and heifers, steady to firm, and nearly all sold at noon hour. Fat cows and bulls also 25c lower. Calves $1 lower. Spring lambs lower. Hogs 25c higher at $12.50 selects, off cars.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 19 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here yesterday continued of a limited character. The demand from domestic buyers for oats was also quiet and the undertone to the market was easy.

A feature of the Spring wheat flour trade was the strength that developed in the market, and prices were marked up ten cents per barrel. Prices for Winter wheat flour were steady under an inactive demand.

The local and United States demand for all lines of millfeed showed further improvement and a large volume of business was done. Little business was done in standard grades of rolled oats, but prices were unchanged.

The butter trade was moderately active and prices were steady to a shade stronger. The receipts were 560 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese but values were firm. The receipts were 6,121 boxes.

Prices for all grades of eggs were marked up one to two cents per dozen. The demand was dull. The receipts were 2,281 cases.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 19 (Canadian Press).—Persistent selling and a general downward trend of wheat values yesterday went hand-in-hand with widespread favorable weather for aging Winter wheat and causing de-Spring wheat. Unwelcome rains damlay to harvest operations were given relatively little attention.

The close for wheat was weak, 1⅜ to 1¾ cent net lower. Corn finished ⅛ to 1⅜ cent down; oats at ¼ cent decline to ¼ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 22 cents.

Unexpected declines in Liverpool wheat quotations did a good deal to accelerate the downward swing of the wheat market here. Increasing stocks at Liverpool, and lack of demand there, as well as world shipments much larger than last week or a year ago, were all a subject of comment. Later, additional weakness developed as a result of the fact that only a small decrease for the week was shown by the Canadian visible supply.

Transfer of 400,000 bushels of wheat yesterday into store here counted as something of an offset for a liberal increase of the United States wheat visible supply. Heaviness of the Liverpool market was also a bearish factor. Rallies proved to be hard to hold, especially as the day drew to an end. Export business in North American wheat yesterday was just fair, 700,000 bushels.

Corn receded with wheat, and as a result of rains and higher temperature conducive to welfare of the new corn crop. A decrease of 2,913,000 bushels in the corn visible supply had only a transient effect on values. Oats held fairly steady, buyers and sellers being divided about half and half.

Provisions were firmer, responsive to an upturn in the value of hogs.

THE MOSQUITO.

To the Editor of The Examiner:
Sir:

The cunning of the mosquito is not usually appreciated as its sting is. It exceeds that of a disgruntled single person who has decided to poison the world before dying. A profound study has shown us that the way skeeters get in in spite of the screen doors is that they deliberately wait on the outside and when the door is opened they swing gracefully in with the person entering. Can't we get a by-law against that sort of thing? And on Sunday too. What do I suggest? I suggest killing them before the door is opened. Match cunning with death.

INQUIRER.

From Mr. Lynch, Jr.

To The Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir: On June 13th I pleaded guilty to allowing drunkenness in my house on that date and paid my fine of $10 and costs, for which I cannot expect a bouquet. But I did not plead guilty, and was not asked to plead guilty, to making my wife take out the mail, to which she consented of her own free will, in Summer months. This statement she made in the presence of the Postmaster, and sworn to the oath of allegiance before a Justice of the Peace. I have no authority to believe she has given entire satisfaction to the public concerned, up to this present date. It was also stated that I refused to work, of which I can furnish sufficient proof otherwise. To fix it up right one child was taken to the Shelter, where she was well treated during her twenty-four hours' stay, then given back to Daddy. There I received creditable remarks on her clean and healthy appearance. Now as for me being a female driver, not a mail driver, with my instruction good or bad as you desire to choose, at present my wife is driving her own mail. As for my wife not receiving a good night's sleep in months, I wish to say that this statement was not made by her, nor any other statement against me.

Yours truly,
ED. LYNCH, Jr.,

MALE VOICE CHOIR GIVES GOOD CONCERT

Singers Heard By Large Crowd at First of Series of Three Concerts.

The first of three concerts which Peterborough Male Voice Choir is scheduled to give in Victoria Park this year, took place on Friday evening last. The temperature was a little higher for outside performances and comfort, and resulted in a large concourse of listeners.

Under the leadership of Martin B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., and with H. L. Armstrong at the piano, the choir, forty strong, rendered a lengthy and varied program of selections. The numbers consisted of choruses, quartettes, solos, and an octette. Mrs. H. F. Doig was assisting soloist and her two numbers were well received. The mixed quartette, Mrs. W. Byers, Jessie Pattison, George East and John Anderson, in "John Peel," was a pleasing touch, and solo by Mr. Coulson, a patriotic number, was also heartily applauded, the audience joining in the chorus with vim. The ... Members" octette was a fav... ...lity was made in communi... ..., and this was 'put across' ...yle.

...t concert by the choir will ... on July 15, and the Choir and conductor intend to put on another fine program.

The Least Excitement Made Her Heart Palpitate and Flutter

Mrs. Andreas Orser, Elginburg, Ont., writes:—"I suffered for some time with a bad heart which seemed to be controlled by my nerves. The least little excitement would cause it to flutter and palpitate, and at times I would have real bad spells. I suffered in this way for some time when, one day, I saw advertised, so decided to try them. I had only taken a few boxes when I noticed that I felt better, so I continued taking them and in a short time my heart felt entirely different."

3,000 KIWANIANS HELPING CHILDREN

Ontario-Quebec-Maritime District Efforts Recounted at Convention.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 19 (by the Canadian Press).—The Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district has 3000 Kiwanians engaged in giving a greater personal service to under-privileged children, J. Hayden Oliver, of Scranton, Pa., chairman of the committee on Under-Privileged Child, told 6000 members of Kiwanis International in convention sessions here today.

"This personal service is carried on with all the other activities, such as work at orphanages and institutions, with crippled children, health camps, clinics, and general education," Mr. Oliver remarked.

William Y. Mills, of Kingston, Ont., governor of the Ontario-Quebec-Maritime district announced the following clubs as outstanding in under-privileged child activities in Ontario: Barrie, Cobalt, Ingersoll, Midland, Orillia, Peterboro, Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, Brantford and Riverdale; in Que... Montreal and St. Lawrence; and in Sydney, N.S.

For the past number of years work has been going on primarily with boys. Now, however, the organization is to work as much for girls. "The assistance of the wives of Kiwanians is eagerly sought, especially in connection with girls' work," said Mr. Oliver.

1,000 Miles to the Gallon of Oil -a Record to be Proud of

And that's what a modern, high-speed, high-compression motor car did, under official observation, recently. After driving the car continuously for 25,000 miles the following report was made—

"Perfect running of engine suggests little or no carbon deposits—Wakefield Castrol Oil returning unheard of average of nearly 5,000 miles per gallon."

1,000 miles to the gallon is economy, 2,000 miles can be expected ordinarily from CASTROL—so surely 5,000 miles is a record to be proud of!

Weakness Develops On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 19 (Canadian Press).—Further weakness developed on a dull market at this morning's session on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Almost every issue was down. Page Hersey recovered from yesterday's slump, gaining ½ at 24½. Hayes Wheel, yesterday's leader, held firm at 90¼. Among the more active stocks to show losses were Brazilian ¾ at 53¼, Canadian Industrial Alcohol 1¼ at 38⅜, Walkers ⅞ at 55⅛, International Petroleum ⅜ at 38, and British American Oil ¼ at 36½. Imperial Oil was up ¼ at 64½. The great majority of the stock traded in showed losses.

Downward Movement At New York Continues

NEW YORK, N.Y., June 19 (Canadian Press).—The downward readjustment of stock prices was stimulated to-day by the marking up of the call money rate from 5½ to 6 per cent. Prices sagged one to six points in the early trading, rallied around midday when a bullish demonstration was started in the copper shares, and then turned heavy again in the afternoon. Trading was on a substantially larger scale than yesterday, which was the smallest full session since last March.

The increase in call money reflects the return of Federal income tax cheques to the banks for payment and preparations for the mid-year settlements.

Brooklyn Edison, Radio, Case Threshing, and General Motors all recorded extreme losses of 4½ to 6½ points.

The rails yielded with the industrials. New York Central and Delaware and Hudson each sold down about two points and Illinois Central, Northern Pacific, Norfolk and Western, and several others lost a point or so.

Mine Shares Move Down In Light Trading To-day

TORONTO, June 19 (Canadian Press).—The downward movement which extended to nearly all sections of the list characterized the trading at this morning's session of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange. Trading in all issues was light. Noranda with a small turnover dropped 75 points at 35.50. Amulet was down six at 379. The Western issues were soft, Pend. Oreille being down 1.05 at 12.90, and Hudson Bay 15 at 16.80. Three former market favorites, Bidgood, Howey and Barry Hollinger, were all soft. Howey was unchanged, Barry down 3½ at 76½, and Bidgood down below 10.00, losing 23 at 9.80. Wright Hargreaves recorded a ten point drop at 4.25.

Wheat Prices Go Up On Bad Weather Report

CHICAGO, June 19 (Canadian Press). — Wheat developed rallying power to-day after early declines. Continued adverse weather in the south-west and reports of severe damage there attached more notice, offsetting the weakness of the Liverpool market and also counterbalancing favorable crop conditions north-west. Opening ⅛c to 1c down, Chicago wheat afterward scored slight general gains. Corn was weak starting ⅛c to 1⅛c off, and subsequently showing a decided further setback. Oats were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 134⅝, September 136⅜. Corn, July 100½, September 97⅛. Oats, July 53½, September 45⅝.

QUIET SESSION IS INDICATED

Warden Smithson Speaks of Prosperity of County—Tax Rate To Be Struck.

REGULAR MEETING.

The agenda for the June sessions of the County Council which opened at the Court House this afternoon presented no grave problem, and Warden Morley E. Smithson's opening address struck an optimistic note indicating that the municipalities and the farmers of Peterborough County are favored with continuing prosperity. Although the communications offered nothing that seemed contentious, the members themselves may develop an interesting subject or two before the week closes. The June session always produces the County tax rate, which the treasurer, Ed. M. Elliott, has detailed for consideration.

back," he said, "and I shall if I get the right kind of an offer. I'd like to use this same plane. It is now in perfect condition.

"I had no difficulty making my way across despite the fact that visibility was very poor. I knew perfectly well where I was all of the time and when we struck Britain I do not believe I was more than a mile off my estimated course."

Arrives at London

LONDON, June 19 (Canadian Press).—Miss Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier arrived in London from Southampton by automobile late to-day and reached her hotel at 6.20 p.m.

Advance information of her coming brought huge crowds of office workers who were just leaving business. In the absence of special police protection the escorting party had difficulty in getting her into her hotel.

The flier was still in the clothes in which she had crossed the Atlantic and went immediately to her suite for a rest. She planned to visit Mrs. Frederick Guest, sponsor of the flight later, to arrange for new clothes.

Miss Boll in Doubt

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 19 (Canadian Press).—Plans of Miss Mabel Boll for future flying, trans-Atlantic or otherwise, seemed clouded by indecision to-day.

The disappointed loser in the race to be the first of her sex to fly across the ocean was reported to be considering a flight direct to Rome and a return trip in July.

She is said to be contemplating taking her monoplane Columbia to Europe by steamer and then essaying the difficult east to west flight back.

PETERBOROUGH BOY AMONG GRADUATES

William A. Breyfogle One of Seven of Class Elected to Honorary Society.

HANOVER, N.H., June 19 (Special) —Dartmouth College brought its 159th academic year to a close to-day by graduating the members of the 1928 Senior Class, conferring Degrees of Bachelors of Science and Bachelors of Arts.

Graduation exercises started early this morning with the 1928 Class assembling at the Senior fence, the impressing academic procession across the campus formed with the Senior Class followed by President Ernest Martin Hopkins, the trustees, recipients of honorary degrees, members of the faculty and returning alumni.

Upon reaching Webster Hall at 10.15 o'clock the graduates heard the commencement addresses, including the three student offerings: "This Earthly Gallery," by Albert Hadley Cantril, "Man's Conquest of Man," by William Alvin Hunt, and "The Educational Idea," by Christopher Joseph Hackett, after which the degrees were awarded by President Hopkins with all the colorful dignity one associates with such an occasion. The men to whom Dartmouth to-day gave its diploma came from many States and from all parts of the country.

Included among them was a prominent Peterborough youth, William Arthur Breyfogle, who was awarded a degree of B.A., and participated in the impressive commencement ceremonies and class day exercises of yesterday, including the solemn Sachem oration, a custom held over from the days when Dartmouth was an Indian school. The traditional Sachem oration is delivered before the alumni and guests at the Bema and from here the seniors move alone to the old pine at the foot of Bartlett Tower, where each in turn delivers his farewell to the old tree. Clay peach pipes are then distributed and the seniors have their last smoke together, breaking their pipes on the stump of the old pine when the bowls are empty, a solemn ceremony which lingers long in the memory of a Dartmouth man.

The Peterborough graduates enjoy the distinction of joining the Dartmouth alumni roll from one of the largest classes ever graduated. Additional honors came to Breyfogle this morning when he was one of the seven members of the senior class to be elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Honorary Society.

HEALTH BOARD ASKS FULL TIME M.O.H.

inspect pasteurization machinery as Dr. Young showed a clipping from a speech of A. E. Berry, Director of the Sanitary Engineering Division of the Ontario Department of Health, where he told the members of the Health Officers Association which met in Toronto last week, that "there is no food which requires such close supervision as milk and it is doubtful if there is any similar product which is so subject to unsanitary methods.

"Health officials, he claimed, are often in position of having to refuse to recommend the use of milk because it is neither clean nor safe. The necessary safeguards for a product of such importance, particularly for the growing child, require a well equipped organization and it was disappointing to find that many devices which in the past have been regarded have upon more thorough investigation proved very defective. One of these doubtful means was pasteurization which has been far from perfect in the past, but has at least accomplished the greatest protection yet offered."

Dr. Sutton thought Mr. Berry's statements referred to the past, not to present pasteurization machinery.

Dr. Sutton submitted a partial report of his tour of inspection of the milk dealers of this city, which he conducted on May 29 and 30, in company with Sanitary Inspector C. S. Stapleton.

Dr. Sutton divided the milk dealers into two classes, those who bought the milk from the farmer, and those who produced their own milk. In the first class 17 dealers were inspected and the latter 12. The 17 dealers supplied 6433 quarts of milk daily to the city, and the 12 dealers of the second class supplied 417 quarts daily. Three dealers pasteurized their milk, and their dairies were found to be clean, well kept, and complying with the city milk bylaw. Of all the other dealers it was found that not one conformed to the city milk bylaw. They erred usually in the milk house regulations, as many of them believe that sooner or later pasteurization of milk would be necessary in the city, and hence their milk houses would be of little use.

"They are doing the best they can and are getting good results as the reports indicate. They must be exercising great care, but sometimes when farm work is pressing, some one is going to make a slip, and then there will be trouble," said Dr. Sutton. Of all those inspected there were only two that he would advise suspending, but there were others very near the border line. He recommended pasteurized milk for the Isolation hospital.

Action in regard to Dr. Sutton's report was left over until the next meeting when he will submit a full report to the Board of Health.

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton was given orders to inspect the premises of those who were making application to sell cream on the market.

Dr. Young reported that the health of the city was in first class condition, there being one case of mumps and eight of chicken pox.

The Queen Mary Hospital report for the month of May showed that at the beginning of the month there were two patients in the hospital, both with scarlet fever; during the month one was discharged, and none were admitted and on the first of June one patient remained in the hospital.

J. J. Turner was granted leave of absence from the meetings of the Board from June 20 to August 8, as he proposed making a trip to the British Isles.

The expenditures of Queen Mary Hospital for the month of May were $665.43, and for the first five months of the year $3063.34. The receipts amounted to $262.

Final notice will be given many of the householders of this city who have failed to put in sanitary conveniences on previous notices. They will be given seven days to commence work or the Board will take action against them under the Health Act.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL.

Howard Mulvey Faces Charge of Criminal Negligence at Port Hope.

PORT HOPE, June 19.—Howard Mulvey appeared before Police Magistrate Campbell at the Town Hall yesterday upon a charge of criminal negligence in driving a truck on the 26th day of May last, just west of Port Hope, when he collided with a car owned by D. F. Swanson, of Oshawa, upon the highway. Mr. Swanson's car was knocked into the ditch and the occupants injured. Crown Attorney Kerr acted on behalf of the Crown. Considerable evidence was given as to injuries received and the speed of the automobile driven by Howard Mulvey, and he was committed for trial at the next jury sittings at Cobourg.

The Hon. G. N. Gordon of Peterborough appeared for Mr. Mulvey.

Around the City

A trio of alarms reached the fire department since this noon, the last two within one minute of each other. The first was from 502 Bonacord Street at 12.18, where a six-gallon chemical was used to extinguish a chimney fire. At 2.03 another chimney fire gave the firemen a run and chemical was used again. One minute later another call was received from 192 Sherbrooke Street, where bushes and rubbish had caught fire. The firemen extinguished this without the use of chemical. There was no damage caused in any of the cases.

This is the Season for Middy Emblems

THIS is a yachting year. So comes the news from Paris. Whether we have a yacht or not, whether or not we have ever seen one, we wear yachting clothes.

This means that middy blouses, of a modified sort, are much in vogue — white crepe de chine blouses worn with blue serge or twill or crepe skirts, the blouses embroidered with anchors or what not of a nautical nature. And there are lovely white or blue crepe de chine frocks that are embroidered on pocket and sleeve with the same emblems.

The diagram today gives patterns for these designs in actual size suitable to using on sleeves, pockets or collars of sport frocks for this summer.

Trace off the design you are interested in and then cut it out of fairly stiff paper. Pin it in place, and draw the outline on the material to be embroidered. Use tailor's chalk on dark colors. Use a pencil on light material, taking care to make the outline fine and neat.

A fairly light-weight twisted silk or several strands of soft mercerized cotton are used for the embroidering. The emblems should be padded with a soft running stitch of three or four strands of the soft cotton. But they don't want to be heavily padded. The thing is to make them as smooth as possible.

The sketch gives an idea of how to work the different designs. The sun above the chevrons is made with a curved line of outline stitch, the rays just long stitches. The eagle should have each feather worked over and over the short way. The body is worked solid up and down, with irregular stitches, one overlapping the one below and above it. Or the eagle can be very effectively worked in outline stitch.

These emblems are specially suitable to little girl's frocks of linen or galatea, and to boy's and girl's middy blouses.

NEW LIGHT SIX TO APPEAR SOON

Advancement in Design to Set New Standards of Construction.

Detroit, Mich. (Special), June 16—A new type, low priced six cylinder motor car, as sensational in its features as certain of the recent much discussed light fours, is likely to be announced within the next few weeks, according to a well defined rumor current in automotive circles here.

The price reductions and announcements in the light four cylinder field which followed each other in rapid succession early in the year, have so far left the light six field unaffected, but now it seems certain that there will be equally as sensational developments in this latter group of motor cars.

During the past few weeks a new car, obviously equipped with a six cylinder power plant, but bearing no insignia which would establish the identity of the manufacturer, has been seen on the highways of Michigan where speed laws are lifted to the careful drivers.

This car differs in many respects from any six now on the market and, according to drivers who have followed it over the road, reveals a striking performance ability in speed, power and smoothness. It is a low car, with compact yet ample body dimensions and with striking acceleration.

The wheelbase is estimated to be about 110 inches, full balloon tires are used as equipment and such casual inspection as has been possible while the car has been stopped at filling stations or on the street, has shown it to be fully equipped in every way.

While the new six is still an unknown factor so far as its constructional features are concerned, its ability to run for long stretches at high speed indicates that the power plant must be equipped with a highly efficient lubrication system and that it must develop a high power rating.

Interested motor car authorities who have been commenting on the recent predictions regarding the possibility of a new light six agree in the statement that such a car would necessarily have to take low price into careful consideration.

There is at present a gap between the light 4-cylinder cars in the lowest price range and the lowest priced of the light sixes which might logically be filled with a new six cylinder product.

NO CHANGE PLANNED.

President of Crosse and Blackwell, Inc., Denies Cable Rumors.

New York, June 16.—Asked for information about recent cables from England that forecast changes in the manner in which Crosse & Blackwell, Ltd., old English producers of table products, conduct their business in Canada, John T. 'Crosse & Blackwell Canada, Ltd., has been formed to represent the English company's interests in Canada and its operations will be under the direction of a strong Canadian board," Mr. Menzies added.

TIRED LOOKING WOMEN.

The Trouble Almost Always Due to Weak Blood.

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervousness with its accompaniments of worry, headache and sleeplessness. If you would keep that tell-tale look from your face, keep your system toned up to meet the constant strains of daily life. It is not necessary to look old before your time.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to women. They enrich the blood and revitalize tired nerves, thus preserving the beauty that health alone can give. Good, rich blood keeps the color in cheeks and lips, the brightness in the eyes and the youthful elasticity in the step.

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and begin treatment to-day. Do not let thin, watery blood rob you of your heritage of health and happiness. You can get these pills from all dealers in medicine, or they will be sent by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. COMPLETE LIST.

Following is the list of test pieces for the musical competitions at the Made-in-Canada Fair being held by the Kwanis Club:

"Competitors should never regard competitions as ends in themselves, merely as incidents, disciplinary forces, not the objectives of their existence. Apply the lessons of defeat or victory to the pursuit of the highest ideals for their own sake.

"Competitions are also of great educational value to the audience.

"People who have had no training in music may easily and agreeably learn at these competitions to distinguish between artistic an inartistic renderings, to recognize and appreciate good music, and to maintain an intelligently critical point of view towards concert celebrities."

MALARIA

I have never found it necessary to employ quinine in cases of malaria because this disorder yields more readily to the fasting and dieting regime which seems to remove from the blood some element upon which the parasite feeds. I have a number of patients who, after the purifying processes of the fast, and by keeping their bodies clean through the correct diet, went into malarial infected regions and though they were bitten by the mosquito, they did not develop any of the symptoms of malaria.

I believe that a surplus of starches and sugars in the menu, and the lack of certain resistant giving mineral elements so weaken the blood that the parasite can develop, and when this deficiency is corrected, the parasite is automatically destroyed.

In the cure of malaria it is advisable that the patient employ some form of acid fruit for his fast. Only one kind of fruit should be used at a meal. I have found that the grapefruit is of special value. It seems that the organic acid of these fruits has a very cleansing effect upon the blood, and the mineral elements which they also contain are very valuable blood tonics. This fast should be maintained for several weeks until the parasite disappears from the blood. This can be determined by a microscopic examination.

The patient should drink freely of water, and enemas should be given twice daily during the period of fasting. I have prepared an article which tells the correct method for employing this enema, which I will be very glad to mail to you if you will send me a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

It is advisable that the patient be sweated to assist in the removal of the liquid toxins from his system. This sweating should not be too frequent, as a sufficient time must elapse between these treatments for the patient to recuperate his strength. Light sunbaths and exercises will assist in speeding the recovery.

There are many who suffer from a chronic form of malaria. It is quite common to find patients, who in their younger days have lived in the southern part of the United States, present a combination of symptoms which they call biliousness but which in many cases may come from an old malarial infection which was improperly treated with suppressive methods. Many readers, suffering from auto-intoxication, coated tongue, constipation, hot and cold chills, etc., may remember that they have once had malaria. If that is so, it is a good plan to take a short fast and a cleansing diet to try and get rid of the possibly original chronic cause of their present symptoms.

After this cleansing process the patient should be very careful with his food combinations, and employ a correctly balanced diet. Once the disease has been eliminated from his system in this manner he need not be afraid of the ordinary after-effects of malaria.

I shall be very glad to hear from those people in malarial districts who are employing this method.

I would also advise a short fruit fast, as described, for even well people who wish to safeguard themselves against this infection.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mrs. J. H. asks: "Will you please print a diet or whatever you think is best for a rupture, or hernia as some call it. I have had one in the left groin for 12 years, at first small, but now as large as a cup."

Answer: Keep the quantity of food down to the minimum so that your abdomen will remain as flat as possible. Then take the "setting-up" exercises to develop your abdominal muscles. Meanwhile, wear a suitable support which will hold in the rupture until the muscles covering the peritoneum have been sufficiently developed to do their work properly.

Question: Iris asks: "What kind of vegetable is the "Chayote" that you give in your menus?"

Answer: The chayote is a form of summer squash, native to Mexico and Central America. It is cultivated in California and the southern States. The flesh is firm and delicately flavored, comprising a most healthful non-starchy vegetable.

Question: E. R. B. writes: "Please tell me what can be done to relieve the burning of my face and head. Everything I eat seems to go just as far as my chest and no farther."

Answer: You can be sure that what you eat goes much lower than your chest, and it is because of the fact that you eat the wrong things that you have so much intestinal irritation which often causes a reflex burning of the face. Improve your general circulation, and get rid of the irritation and toxemia in your intestines.

"Ya Viene!"

Four thousand feet underground the drill bites into the oil bearing sand. The peon driller, sensing the uprush of petroleum, gives warning: "Ya viene!"—here it comes!

So, below the equator in far Peru, another source of incomparably rich crude oil is established. In a few days the well is capped and the oil is feeding through an underseas pipe line to mammoth Imperial tankers, riding at anchor a mile offshore. Then follows the long voyage to Canada where the unduplicated equipment of Imperial refineries conserves in Marvelube the superior lubricating qualities found in Peruvian crude alone.

Only Peruvian crude is used in making Marvelube; only Imperial Oil Limited has access to Peruvian crude, the better crude from which a better oil is made.

ity in life's games, for there we learn the rules. About 85 years ago a small boy became interested in the literature of private school at Weston, his interest being especially attracted by the announcement that they taught singing and dancing in the evening. He urged his parents to send him to that school and they consented; the boy, who was William Osler, did not learn to sing and dance, for as he afterwards said, he was not cut out for it, but he came under the influence of a great man who loved boys and was interested in them and his influence helped the boy to become one of the great men of the world, and probably the greatest Canadian of his time.

If we break the rules of the game of life the referee will blow the whistle and penalize us. Play the game well keep the rules, playing with skill, not merely for reward, but because much depends on you.

Following the service, the hymn, "Now thank we all our God," sung in sweet boyish voices, echoed away among the beams of the ceiling and floating out through the open windows, sounded like a great thanksgiving for the many benefits received in the school year ,and for blessings and lessons in playing the game in its best form.

Prize Giving.

The next part of the afternoon was given over to the prize giving, and boys and visitors gathered in the quadrangle for this exceedingly important ceremony.

Rev. A. W. Mackenzie, the well-loved headmaster, addressed the company, briefly reviewing the year, and referring to the leveling of the playing field which has been accomplished; it is now serviceable and worthy of the boys—almost.

The prize-giving over, the adult portion of the company adjourned to the tennis court, where tea was served and greetings were exchanged and the customary re-union of old friends and acquaintances took place. The boys, for the most part, foregathered together and enjoyed their last frolics of the cricket team, 1928. The gracious hostess, Mrs. Mackenzie, was not present this year owing to the fact that she was attending her youngest daughter's graduating exercises at Bishop Bethune College; her place was taken by Mrs. Kenneth Mackenzie and Miss Florence Mackenzie, who were untiring in their efforts to see to the comfort of every one, and succeeded admirably; nevertheless the absence of the charming chatelaine of The Grove was regretted.

The closing of the school must come, and was this year, as always, a delightful social function, but with the usual sad note which comes with the realization that some boys are not coming back, but having left the sheltered harbor of "The Grove" School, will go into the wider sea of some other school or college, or into the great ocean of life. The bright spot comes with the knowledge that the boys will come back to visit the school, its well-beloved head, and the friends made during their school-days at "the old school on the hill."

Grass Fire.

The fire brigade was called out to a grass fire at Mr. Hugh Kidd's farm on Sunday which threatened his hay crop. Prompt measures prevented serious damage.

Leaves for Napanee.

Mr. J. S. Montgomery left last week to take the position of manager of the Standard Bank branch at Napanee. Mr Montgomery filled the position of manager of the the local branch for the past three years and was successful both as a business man and as a citizen. In the latter capacity one cannot overlook his work as chairman of the finance committee of the Confederation Jubilee Celebration. "We can't raise the money," growled the pessimist; "we can, and we will," said Mr. Montgomery, and thanks to his endeavor Lakefield's record was outstanding all over the Dominion; $540.00 was raised by voluntary contributions—more than was required to pay for the monster celebration, which will always remain a glorious chapter in the history of the village.

When the bills were paid and there was a surplus it was Mr. Montgomery's idea to invest $100 in a bond the yearly interest to be a prize for the highest marks in Canadian history to be made by a Lakefield pupil in the entrance examination. Thus the jubilee of Confederation will be marked in the minds of the young in this village for all time, a perpetual reminder of the glorious past and an incentive to follow on to keep the flag flying and the record of Canada's maple leaf forever free of blemish.

Mr. Montgomery was secretary of No. 313, Clementi Lodge, A. F. and A.M., and was a popular member of No. 358 I.O.O.F.,and on the occasion of banquets and social gatherings, his clever rendition of Drummond's selections were in demand. He was also a member of the Lakefield curling club and was affectionately known as "Scotty." He had many friends who will wish him success, knowing he will achieve it, and to both Mr. and Mrs Montgomery and their little daughter, Betty, say good bye with deep regret, assuring all three of a hearty welcome to Lakefield always.

Junior Institute Meeting.

The Junior Institute held their regular meeting in the Memorial Hall on Wednesday afternoon, June 13, with an attendance of 13, three being new members. It was arranged that there would be a debate at the next meeting: "Resolved: That it is better for a girl to engage in domestic service than to go to work in a factory or office."

The debaters are Misses Marjorie Frankish and Irene Northey and Misses Genevieve Armstrong and Mildred Sage.

The girls joined the Women's Institute in appreciative attention to Mrs. Yates' splendid address.

Refreshments were served.

As a fitting climax to a jolly outing Mrs. John Northey entertained the ladies of the Women's Institute, who made the journey to the district meeting in Warsaw by truck, on Friday evening and a very pleasant evening was spent. The hostess felt that those who braved the elements in an open truck deserved a reward and she gave it in the form of a highly enjoyable party.

Marmora Women's Institute Taking Interest in Judging Competitions.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, June 19—The energies of Marmora Women's Institute are extending in a new direction. Noting the inducements offered by the Department of Agriculture to the young folk of the rural district to take part in judging competitions in Ontario's larger centres, the Institute has decided to stimulate a local interest in the matter. One of the inter-county competitions is to be held at the School of the Deaf in Belleville, on July 10th. The Institute is making it known that any local boy or girl is eligible to take part in this contest, and as a preparation for the girls who would feel inclined to compete, have arranged for an expert from the Department to visit Marmora to give them some coaching. Girls desiring to avail themselves of this splendid opportunity are requested to notify Mrs. F. R. Wells, the secretary of Marmora Women's Institute, so that full information may be mailed them from the Agricultural representative in Stirling. Names of young men or boys who would like to receive particulars are likewise solicited.

FIRE DESTROYS OSHAWA RINK

Five Houses Nearby Also Burned, Loss Totalling $100,000.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN.

OSHAWA, June 19. Canadian Press. — Bradley's skating rink and five frame houses, below William and Richmond streets, fell a prey to fire of an unknown origin which broke out in the skating rink early this morning.

The aggregate loss is estimated at $100,000. Within half an hour of the outbreak the skating rink and the houses adjoining as well as the old Flintoff warehouse were one huge mass of flames. The occupants of the houses fled in a panic, and snatching up what garments they could hastily. The roaring flames reached across the street and ignited the structures on the other side.

Citizens helped the harassed firemen with buckets of water or any thing that could be utilized in the work of quenching the flames.

Bowmanville, Whitby and other neighboring towns rushed their fire apparatus to the assistance of the Oshawa fire department. At nine o'clock this morning the flames were reported well under control. One man was injured in falling from the roof.

AN ARCHITECTURAL GEM

Mathers & Haldenby, Architects

This home, which is of Georgian design, was awarded first prize in a local architectural exhibition for domestic exteriors under $20,000.

The exterior is very beautiful, showing careful proportions and simple color scheme with a proper setting. A great deal of study was centred on the design of the entrance which shows a distinctive Georgian influence.

One also notices the effective dentilled cornice, stone window heads, round-headed dormer windows and the unique shutters. The shutters are painted a soft shade of green, the same color as the slate roofing, and they appear to a great advantage in contrast with the light cream color of the stucco walls.

But let us not dwell exclusively on the delightful exterior for the interior plan is worthy of attention and study.

Entering the vestibule which is of ample size we find on our left a spacious coat-room, while on our right is the entrance to the commodious and well-lighted stair hall which gives direct access to every room.

The living room is attractively finished with a crown-mold and has two very fine features; the fire-place which is of simple and attractive Georgian design and the French doors leading to the verandah. The three windows and the French doors of course give an abundance of light and ventilation to this large room.

We next visit the owner's bedroom. This has been planned for healthful rest. It is a large airy room having cross ventilation. The clothes closet adjoining has a window overlooking the terrace.

The dining room at the end of the hall has access to the terrace on one side and to the ample sized kitchen on the other. The kitchen is well lighted and equipped with all modern conveniences, a built-in cupboard and large pantry.

The bathroom on the ground floor though virtually private may also be reached from the hall.

Upstairs is another bathroom, a maid's room, two bedrooms and sleeping porch.

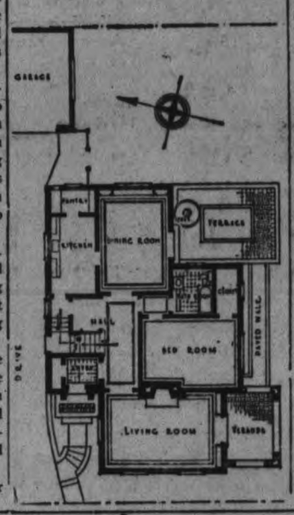
An additional attractive feature of this home is the cement walk connecting the verandah at the front of the house with the tergace at the back.

Readers desiring further information regarding a house of this design should communicate with Home Building Information Service, 345 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont., who will see that it is supplied. When writing please mention design number 129. Copyright, 1928.

ELECTRIC SERVICE TO MEET HOME NEEDS

Give each room an outlet service and install adequate service wires.

A house that is well wired for electric conveniences is usually a winner in the sales market. The plumbing and heating of a house are left to the man's judgment, and the garage may appeal to a son or daughter, but the wife and mother has to do the housework and, to her, electric appliances mean the difference between drudgery and economical ease. The electric service of a house in this day of labor-saving electric appliances is the most effective appeal that can be made.



The argument in favor of ample wiring provision in homes applies to any community served by electric power, but especially so in the cheap current areas of which Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg are centres. For instance, municipalities served by the Hydro-electric System in Ontario have 40,000 electric ranges—one-fifth as many as in the United States. Winnipeg has about 7,000 and Toronto has nearly 6,000 electric ranges. There are about 50 electric appliances commonly used in households, which include water-heaters, grates or mantels, ironers, irons, toasters, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, heaters, fans and cooking grills. New electric labor-saving devices are coming on the market constantly.

In the wiring of houses, therefore, it is wise and indeed necessary to make provision not only for present electric conveniences but for those of the future. The main feed or service wires should be heavy enough to carry the current load of any or all conveniences. There should be wiring for a range, with capacity added for water-heater and grate; plenty of switches and lights; and some "base plugs" or convenience outlets in each room.

Electric conveniences can be divided into two classes: the "power" equipment and the "socket" appliances. If the main feed wires and switch box are heavy enough, changes or additions in the house can be readily made without disturbing the service. Hundreds of cases arise where the main service has to be torn out and replaced because it was insufficient for the requirements of the appliances wired for inside.

Nearly all the 44 countries in which 2,900 Rotary clubs are scattered will be represented by a speaker on the convention program, and in addition to the goodwill messages from abroad there will be talks by prominent Americans on aims and ideas familiar to the citizens of this country.

Most of the thousands of visitors will have arrived by Monday evening, when the formal opening of the convention takes place. Streets, hotels, business houses and homes have been elaborately decorated with flowers, reviving a custom which flourished here years ago and then lapsed, until the completion of the new $3,000,000 auditorium restored Minneapolis to the front rank of American convention cities. The Rotarian gathering is the greatest in size the city has ever welcomed, and strenuous preparations have been under way for a year to welcome the 10,000 or more guests.

Two score special trains have been bringing the Rotarians to this city for two days, while automobiles by the thousands have added to the throngs. The far-famed attractions of the state as a summer paradise have added to the thrill of the annual reunion of Rotarians in producing a record-breaking gathering.

As usual, the Australian Rotary clubs, consistent winners in recent years of the attendance trophy for the greatest mileage of individual delegations, are here in full force. The American representation is larger than ever before, due partly to the fact that last year's assembly was held in Ostend, Belgium, beyond the reach of many of the American membership. This year it is America's turn to act as host and a wonderful program of entertainment has been arranged to fill the spare hours between convention sessions.

The greater part of the day on Monday is given over to registration of the visitors with only one business session on the program. The voting delegates gather to discuss proposed legislation with Arthur H. Sapp of Huntington, Indiana, the international president, as honorary chairman and Crawford C. McCullough of Fort William, Ontario, Canada, in active charge of the discussion. Chairmen of the resolutions committee and the constitution and by-laws committee, will aid in this forum.

After the address of the Hon. James Hamilton Lewis, former United States Senator from Illinois, on "International Relations," Governor Theodore Christianson of Minnesota and Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis, will give the visitors a formal welcome in the auditorium Monday night, with a magnificent pageant to follow, expressing the Rotary message of service in the setting of a floral masterpiece designed as a garden scene on the stage.

Station KSTP, with a wave length of 220 meters, 1,360 kilocycles, will broadcast the entire convention proceedings, permitting the Rotarians back home to enjoy the speeches, music, community singing and other activities of the convention over the air. Evening sessions will start at 8:30 central time, and morning sessions at 9 o'clock.

When in good health a cow will drink anything up to fifteen gallons of water each 24 hours.

ALL AT SEA

CHAPTER XXXVII.

With Croydon Sears and Fleming Stone came also Tite Riggs, who was deeply impressed with Stone's charm, having expected a much more prosaic and business-like personage.

For Fleming Stone was one who, to a marked degree, took color from his surroundings.

And now, at sight of the sea and the intervening boardwalk with its blare of color and sound, as well as the gay bustle of the immediate crowd on the hotel deck, Stone's rather careworn air dropped from him, and he smiled with the delight of a child at the spectacle.

"Never been here before," he explained, taking it all in rapidly, as he seated himself. "I've been to the New England coast resorts and the southern and western ones. But never before chanced on New Jersey's shores. Most attractive, too. Well, I suppose that's the spot where the body was found," and he swept his arm vaguely toward the wide expanse of sea.

"That's about it," agreed Croydon Sears. "But I say, old man if you'd rather take holiday today and not even consider the case until tomorrow, just say so."

"Oh no, I'd rather hear the details right off. Then we can have a sea food dinner, and then we can have a bout at the bright lights or whatever they offer by way of evening entertainment. Then we can come back here and settle down to the real work in hand."

Stone's pleasant smile rested on Robin, and all at once the boy felt confidence and surety that there was no further trouble in store for his father with a man like that at the helm.

So with a light heart, he went off in search of his Angel, and the three men settled down to consideration of their case.

"Don't think I'm mind-wandering if I gaze about," Stone said, smiling. "I love to absorb these sights and sounds, and instead of distracting my attention they help to concentrate it."

"You know, of course, the main details of the Folsom murder?" said Sears.

"Yes. All that was in the papers, and all that I could piece out myself from the newspaper reports. That's all. What else can you tell me?"

"I," Sears said, "will tell you my own personal and individual connection with the matter, and then Riggs will tell you what he knows or thinks about other people."

"You have a personal and individual connection with it, then?" Stone asked.

"Yes, or I shouldn't have called you down here in such haste. I've no desire to be arrested, and it's a thing that may easily come about. Unless we head off the energetic and truth-seeking policemen."

"They are after you?"

"Very much after me. You see, Fleming, I lied."

"Did it pay?"

"It begins to look as if it didn't, but that's for you to pass opinion on. You see, the inquiry naturally hinges largely on the question of the weapon."

"They know about that, don't they?"

"Yes; that is, they assume, and doubtless truly, that the pichaq found in the ocean is the one that killed Folsom. Now, they know also that I bought two daggers that night in the same place that the deadly weapon was, presumably, bought. They know that I have those two daggers here in my possession, and they have no further interest in them. But they have a deep interest in the man who bought what is called a bundle at the same shop later the same evening."

"They don't know who he was?"

"No; and of late they have come to the conclusion that it was I."

"It wasn't?"

"No, it wasn't, I mean the murderer wasn't. But I did return to that shop later that evening, and I did buy a bundle that contained two odd, insignificant daggers. And, when they asked me at the inquest if I had returned to the shop that night, I said no."

"H'm." Fleming Stone looked at his friend with a glance of affection and trust. Not for a moment did he question the good faith of Sears toward himself, whatever he might have done on the witness stand.

"I did it," Sears went on, "because if I had said I went back there, they would have at once assumed that it was one of my daggers that killed Folsom, and it wasn't."

"And to have the matter brought into question would have wrought harm to someone else, Stone said, understandingly.

"Exactly. A harm and a someone else that I couldn't allow."

"No. Well, it got you into a snarl?"

"It has begun to look that way. Here's the truth. You listen in, Riggs. Garrett Folsom had a pleasant little way of making capital out of other people's secrets."

"It has been done, I've heard," remarked Stone.

"Yes. Well, he didn't make a big business of this; he only used a few choice secrets belonging to a few choice friends, or enemies, of his. And I was honored with a place among these. The secret of mine that he knew had to do with my family tree. It is not of a disgraceful nature, but it is unfortunate. It is a blot on the Sears name which, if left alone, will never be brought into the limelight and can harm no one. If exposed and misunderstood, as it would be, it would mean a shadow, not deep, because of its very vagueness, but a hint of blackness that would mar the future of my boy—that would perhaps stand in the way of the happiness of my son, Robin. I am willing to be more explicit, I am willing to tell you the whole story, but not at this moment."

"Nor ever," said Fleming Stone, while Riggs nodded in assent. "Go on, Croy. You felt that if you were questioned at all this thing would come out?"

"Yes, just that. I knew I was innocent of Folsom's death, but those hounds of the law would think, and with reason, that as I had bought more daggers that night, I must of necessity be the one who had made the fatal stab. So I denied having returned and let my case rest on the daggers I had bought while with Meeker, who could vouch for the truth of my story."

"Why didn't they know you when you went back and bought the last lot?"

"I don't know. I chanced to buy them from a man I didn't know, but the other clerks stood about. It's a big shop. But the point is that somebody else did go there about the same time I did and did buy the bundle that held the dagger that killed Garrett Folsom. That's the man we're to find."

"That's the man we're to find," said Fleming Stone.

The program Stone had suggested was carried out, and, as a result, it was late in the evening before the conference took place.

In the meantime the detective had observed the principals of the case, as pointed out to him by Sears at dinner time, and also had gathered sidelights from the remarks and comments of the rest of their immediate party.

The Barrons liked Stone at once for no one could do otherwise.

Fleming Stone was of a type that could command interest if he chose, or if it better suited his purpose, he could make himself so inconspicuous, so insignificant, that he attracted no attention whatever.

On this occasion he was charming, a man of the world, a good talker, a polite guest, and both receptive and responsive to the moods of the others.

Madeline Barron, at first embarrassed at thought of meeting the celebrated detective, soon found herself at ease in his presence and meeting his chaff with a gayety of her own.

Angel, too, was fascinated by the newcomer, and Robin declared she had forgotten his very existence in her attention to this new rival.

Ned Barron, in his big, hearty way, smiled genially on them all. But Barron took little part in the light banter.

CORRESPONDENCE READ.

(Examiner Correspondence)

SPRINGVILLE, June 19.—The regular monthly meeting of the Springville W.M.S. was held on Wednesday June 14th in the base of the church with the president, Mrs. M. Johnston, in the chair. The scripture lesson was read alternately from Isaiah 42, the entire chapter. Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. William Whitfield led in opening prayer. Mrs. A. Hunter (secretary) read the minutes of the last meeting and called the roll to which all members responded by verses of scripture. There was a good attendance, fifeen ladies being present.

The second chapter of the study book was read by Mrs. E. Kelk dealing with the girlhood of Dr. Margaret MacKellar, which proved very interesting.

A letter received by Mrs. Whitfield (strangers' secretary) from the strangers' secretary at Oshawa was read by the president and its contents discussed.

A letter from the corresponding secretary was also read, telling of the sectional rally of the auxiliaries of this district to be held at Cavanville on Wednesday, June 20. Mrs. A. Apsley

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, June 19.—A special meeting of the Municipal Council of Burleigh and Anstruther was held in the Town Hall on Monday, June 11th, with all members present except Norman Lean. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and adopted a motion by Messrs. Hales and Downing was passed that John Northey be paid eigthy-five dollars for sheep killed by dogs. A by-law to borrow $2,000 from the Royal Bank of Canada to carry on current expenses until the taxes are collected, on motion of Downing and Hales, was passed, and the by-law received its several readings, passed, signed, and sealed.

Road machinery by-law 208 received its third reading, was signed and sealed and returned to the Department of Northern Development.

Moved by Messrs. Hales and Downing that Andrew Younge retain $25 of by-law money in case it is necessary to complete work on Thomas Stephen's hill. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Hales and Downing that there be a right rear wheel and axle for grader ordered. Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Windsor and Hales that overseers be paid by-law money when work is completed. Reeve and clerk to sign orders for same.

The following accounts were paid on motion of Messrs. Hales and Downing: A. M. Windsor, treasurer, $12.80: D. Shepherd, M.O.H., salary, $25; George Carr, clerk, salary, $22.50.

Eels Creek is hardly even a creek at the present time, the water never being so low before. The dam built last year at Eels Lake, together with the dry spell apparently being accountable. For two weeks there has not been enough water to operate Knox's Mill on the Burleigh Road.

Jimmy Hendley, the 106-year-old celebrity, is confined to his home through illness.

The Field Day in aid of the Red Cross Hospital on June 20th, given The sports committee have arranged The sports committee have arranged an interesting afternoon's program, some of the features being a ball game (softball) Apsley vs. Visitors; tug of war (ditto); barrel tilting, and other amusing contests and races. The ladies committee are feverishly working to complete the big autograph quilt. In the evening St. Luke's A.Y.P.A. will perform the three act comedy in the parish hall entitled "His Uncle's Niece."

Apsley is looking for Peterborough and Lakefield patronage on this occasion. The trip alone, through the lovely scenery of the Burleigh Road to Apsley is a treat, to say nothing of the meals which will be held on the grounds.

Visitors to and passing through Apsley should not fail to pay a pilgrimage to the Rock of the Holy Cross, so named by Rev. C. A. G. Spence. This is probably an unique natural wonder, a huge boulder set in the woods near Loon Lake, about ten feet high and six wide, of grey granite, with a vein of pinky white quartz a foot wide across its face forming a cross of symmetrical proportions. Photographs do not do justice to this wonder, the dense shade of the trees making it difficult for the cross to stand out as clearly in a picture as it does in actual vision.

Rain is badly needed. A small shower Friday brought a little relief, but unless a thorough soaking comes soon crops will suffer.

PRESIDENT IN CHARGE.

Mr. Dutton Will Look After Chamber of Commerce Office For 12 Days.

In the absence of the secretary, F. O. RUMORS OF OIL STILL PERSIST

Frank Keating Firm In Belief There is Oil On His Farm.

PROSPECTORS AROUND.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 19.—During the last few months, since the arrival and departure of the Seymour Ghost, Campbellford and district has been watching with a varying amount of interest, the developments of what at one time bid fair to become a genuine oil boom. Various representatives of oil companies visited the district in order to look over the Keating farm and many of them expressed the opinion that oil would be found there. Rumours were rife on several occasions that options had been taken out to drill for oil there, but these have been denied by Mr. Keating, owner of the farm.

Asked regarding the situation and developments to date, Mr. Keating said that during the winter months he had been approached by representatives of both Canadian and American interests. He was also led to believe, on good authority, that there had been other oil men in town but he had not been called on by them. The situation remained the same in many respects as it had been last winter when his farm was the centre of much publicity. On the advice of some of the visitors, Keating opened the cellar and allowed the air to circulate freely. Since then he had not been disturbed by a recurrence of the dreaded rappings, soundings and hammerings that had made the east side of his house uninhabitable and had caused him to seriously consider vacating the house entirely.

During the winter, a brown substance had been noticed on the ice in the lower parts of the farm. This had been of an oily nature and color and had "melted" smooth round holes in the ice and snow. It had, in fact, melted its way up through the ice. This substance was still in evidence in the same place and could be seen at any time. Mr. Keating is firm in his belief that there is oil on the land and that it is there in paying, commercial quantities.

No options have been taken out as yet, he said. One of the men who had been to see him earlier in the winter had said he would return on June 15th. Late Saturday afternoon, he had not put in his appearance. He was a representative of a Canadian oil company, Keating said.

Back to its Native Forest

FROM the forest came TEN/TEST. Long fibres of spruce and pine were submitted to over 1,000 tons hydraulic pressure. Back to the forest went a wonder board, superior in strength, endurance and insulating value, to be built into summer camp and bungalow.

Originally designed to give the greatest possible insulation to every type of home, city mansion or rural dwelling, TEN/TEST has developed many other surprising uses.

TEN/TEST is the ideal plaster and stucco base, giving the highest bonding strength. It is successfully employed in a hundred ways by interior decorators. All the while it insulates against heat and cold, and effectively deadens the passage of sound.

TEN/TEST has the sun-stopping power of two feet of solid concrete. It keeps homes cool and comfortable in the hot, summer weather. TEN/TEST insulated camps and bungalows make for healthful, happy vacation days.

Balmy summer evenings and vacation time demand appropriate dance frocks, with just the right degree of informality. Silken lace ones, a George street dealer in ladies' wear tells us, with modest decolletage and very littel decoration, will be popular. A smart little bolero accompanies them, which, with its long sleeves and graceful line, transforms the costume into a good one for formal afternoon wear.

Favorite Recipe

CHICKEN SHORTCAKES.

(This recipe comes to us from Warkworth.)

Make baking powder biscuit, split and butter them and cover with creamed chicken.

Remove the chicken from the bones, cut in small pieces, add to gravy that may be left from a previous fricassee. Half a cup of cream will make it richer, and some people like a tablespoon of sherry wine flavoring. Heat and pour over the biscuit.

WOMEN WEARING KNITTED SOCKS

Back To Needles and Wool For Employment On Vacation.

NEW YORK, June 19.—A dozen years ago knitting needles clicked busily while women all over the land knitted socks. And they are doing it again. But the socks women knit today are not for soldiers—not for any mere man. The socks women knit today are for themselves.

For women are wearing as well as knitting them.

Not socks alone, but socks in addition to stockings. The stockings are usually flesh colored, so the effect is that of socks on bare legs.

These new socks are correctly worn for sports—which includes country hiking. They are pulled on over the stocking, and their gay and decorative cuff shows above the low sport shoe that goes over them.

For the new sport socks are nothing but feet with decorative cuffs about the ankles.

If a woman wants to take any sort of work away with her this summer on her vacation, she chooses knitting needles, fingering wool and directions for these new bob socks. She has the satisfaction then of knowing that she is doing the most up-to-date sort of "fancy" work.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The fashion for fluent lines is exemplified in this evening frock of printed chiffon with a shoulder scarf falling from one shoulder.

A year or so ago we heard much of the animated silhouette—now it's "sweeping" and those who talk of fashions make frequent use of the word "fluent." It is not enough that drapery should merely flutter—it must flow and sweep as well.

Every period of fashion has not only its own silhouette or outline, but its own characteristic motion as well. When you look at the portraits of your grandmothers and great grandmothers in their stiff bustled or hooped skirt you must not think of them as motionless, inanimate as they doubtless appear on the canvas. You must try to picture to yourself the swaying, tilting undulating or bustling motion as they moved about in their clothes that seem so stiff and motionless to us now.

Much of the drapery on the new frocks is placed at the back, or at the side back, and this makes possible the backward sweeping, flowing motion as we walk forward. As far as fashions go we are having our cake and eating it, too, for we are contriving to have the convenience and comfort of skirts that are fairly short and scant at the front—and at the same time all the thrill that comes from going about in floating, trailing drapery.

An important thing to remember in connection with the new skirt drapery is that it usually starts below the hips and the backward sweeping motion does not begin until after the hips have been closely outlined.

At the midseason displays of new models in Paris last month this well-defined hip silhouette was decidedly stressed and another detail that is important to note is that the waistline, so far as these dressmakers were concerned, was not perceptibly raised. These dressmakers, you see, know the value of making haste slowly, and having at last persuaded women to adopt the fuller, rather longer skirt silhouette, they are biding their time with the raised waistline.

TOMATO IS FRUIT; RHUBARB VEGETABLE

Cabinet Ministers Deliver Opinions on Weighty Problem of World.

TORONTO, Ont., June 19 (CP).—Cabinet Ministers of Australia and British Columbia having spoken, the age-old problem as to whether tomatoes and rhubarb are fruits or vegetables may be considered settled—until some greater authority appears. Curiously enough, neither of the Ministers in question was the holder of the portfolio of Agriculture, it being the Commonwealth Minister of Trade and Commerce who decided that the tomato is a fruit, while it was our Mr. Pattullo, Minister of Lands, who pronounced rhubarb, albeit it is used chiefly in pies, to be a vegetable.

MARION'S MAIL

A DIFFICULT HUSBAND

Dear Marion:

I am delighted to see the difference being made in the Women's Page of The Examiner. All other sections have always been splendid, and always improving, but there has not been much of interest on this page.

I am writing particularly to get something off my chest, and not because I think that you, or anyone else, can give me any advice. One feels at times that one must either let off steam, or blow up!

My husband (one of the best of men) persists in cluttering up the house with old guns, swords, daggers and whatnot, until the place looks like an armoury. He brings home a new gun or what have you, and hangs it up on any vacant spot on the wall—then seems to forget it. When I move one of his treasures he doesn't seem to miss it for days at a time—but when he does finally notice that it is not in its accustomed place you would think the heavens had fallen. A gun with a bayonet on the end of it is not my idea of wall decoration, but what can one do? Are any other wives afflicted with husbands who collect junk, and, more important, have any succeeded in curing their husbands of the mania?

Yours sincerely,
(Mrs.) C.B.

Yours is indeed a problem, when you are the kind of wife that likes to see a house spic and span. Perhaps your husband is just as fussy about his it if you, or his stenographers, strewed office or workshop—and wouldn't like hats and wraps all over the desks and chairs. How would it be to gently suggest this to him, if you can bring up the subject in a natural way? Are there any other wives who have similar experiences? Let's hear.

Dear Marion:

I have no success with plants, although my neighbors seem to have no difficulty in growing beautiful flowers of all kinds indoors. Is there any secret which I do not know?

Yours truly,
Sophy.

Without knowing the conditions it is difficult to say but there are one or two general rules which must be observed under all circumstances. Plants will not grow well if subjected to drafts or to dry heat from radiators and hot-air outlets, or if kept in a room where gas is burned. Care in watering will aid, too. The best way to water plants is to set them, pot and all, in a deepe basin of water and leave them for at least half an hour. Plants that seem to be dying can often be revived by setting them in a tub of water for twenty-four hours. Tell me if any of these hints help your plants.

WOMAN CHEMIST EXPLAINS BIOS

Miss Eastcott Tells of Discovery That May Revolutionize Dieting.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 19 (CP).—When the Royal Society was in conclave here a noted achievement in research work, the discovery of "Bios," by Prof. Miller, of the University of Toronto, was made known in a paper read by Miss V. Eastcott, a graduate in chemistry at the University of Toronto in 1919, who has been one of his principal assistants carrying on the work.

For the past five years a succession of workers has been engaged upon this research at the University. In 1922 H. D. Simms, and E. M. S. Sparling helped in important steps. Miss E. Taylor, at this time, was also working with Miss Eastcott.

Discussing the possibilities that may result from the discovery, a well-known chemist of Toronto hinted that the finding that Bios I is Inosite may cause a revision of the whole theory of diet from the vitamin standpoint. While it has been proved by Prof. Miller that Bios is not a vitamin and does not have the remarkable effect of certain vitamins in the curing of scurvy and other results of mal-nutrition, still it is definitely proved that Bios is essential to all plant growth and reproduction.

LOCK MAKERS ARE SWAMPED BY ROYALS 13-1

ROYALS BEAT LOCKWORKS IN JUNIOR GAME

Boys of the All Saints' Athletic Club Defeat Lockmakers 11 to 1.

SUPPORT FAILS

Loosers Are Outplayed in Practically Every Position.

The Royals of the All Saints' Athletic Club outplayed the Lockworks in every position last night in a junior game at Exhibition Park and won the fixture handily 13 runs to one. The Royals are a fighting team all the way and although they are a little weak in swinging the willow they are the team to watch for the Junior League championship. For three seasons these boys have been represented in the city league finals and the Ontario finals.

Last night's game was a runaway from start to finish with two runs in the first for the winners, two in the third, four in the fourth, two in the fifth and three in the sixth.

Both Creighton and Barry, the receivers for the Lockworks, failed to hold the Royals on the bases, where they ran wild. Ashmore, pitching his first game of the season for the Lockworks, was rather wild at times, but on the whole he pitched a good game, striking out six men, some of them the Royals' best batters. Holmes, for the winners, turned in a good exhibition, allowing only five hits and no passes and striking out four men.

Hope, the lead-off man for the Royals, was leading run getter, crossing the plate four times and getting three hits in the four times he was registered at bat. H. Hollingsworth and Jones connected twice.

Of the five hits the Lockworks secured, Jones got two of them, and their only run was handed to them after Jones had singled and Hatton made a wild throw to try and catch him at second base. Hartley to Gordon to Hatton was the only double play of the evening.

The Lockworks throughout the game appeared to be giving their best and as they are a young team playing together for the first season, better things can be expected of them before the schedule closes.

Mount Pleasant

MOUNT PLEASANT, June 19.—The W.A. of St. John's church, Ida, held their monthly meeting in the parish hall on Wednesday afternoon.

The president, Miss A. Sisson, was in the chair and conducted the meeting which opened with the scriptural reading. During the meeting a report of the annual W.A. meeting held in Toronto was read. At the close of the business part of the meeting dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Tippett and Mrs. Braithwaite the committee in charge to whom a vote of thanks were tendered, after which the meeting closed with the singing of the doxology.

Those present included: Miss A. Sisson, Mrs. Robert McCamus, Mrs. R. Howden, Mrs. Tippett, Mrs. T. Braithwaite, Miss Bertha Touchbourne, Miss Thacker, Mrs. G. Sisson, Mrs. T. Sisson, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. E. Sisson, Mrs. J. Sisson and Miss Sisson, a visitor from Bethany.

Catchacoma News

The Kawartha Tourist Co. has received word from Hon. W. Henry and Hon. W. Finlayson, two of W. Ferguson's cabinet, that the Cathacoma or Buckhorn Road is to be put at once in good shape through to the northern boundary of the county. To prove it the inspector and a force of men have begun work.

A party of Americans consisting of father, mother and three sons is at at the Westlake Inn.

The Cathacoma Hotel (Cochrane's) is now open.

The Mississaga Lodge has put up fine new signs in yellow and black to guide the travelling public.

VIEWS ON SPORT

Kiwanis and Royals play tomorrow night in a junior group fixture at Riverside Park. The game will be called at 6 sharp.

Given poor support by their team mates, Scates and Edgar, moundsmen for the Teco, were unable to hold the C.G.E., who romped away with a 23 to 3 victory last night. The field was slippery and the ball hard to control, but the factory crew played a brand of ball that was fairly free from errors, while errors seemed to be the feature play on the part of the Eaton fielders.

* * * * * *

Playing rather ragged ball at times, the East City Beavers lost out for the third time 6-5 in a bantam fixture. The grounds were very slippery, and good ball was almost an impossible feat.

* * * * * *

The Lock Works juniors went down to their second defeat last night when they were swamped by the Royals in a group fixture. The factory crew were outplayed in every position. Jones was their star batter while Creighton and Barry as receivers behind the bat were unable to hold the victory as they ran wild on the bases.

* * * * * *

The Royals are playing good combination ball, and athough a little weak at the bat, they work well on the bases. A tidy battle can be expected by the City League fans to-morrow night when the victors of last night's tussle clash with the Kiwanis Juniors at Riverside Park.

* * * * * *

Cogs face a tough assignment this evening when they play in Bethany without the services of First Baseman Rooke. Ryley & Co. are fighting mad after their failure to make their seventh innings swatting count in their last two games, and are out for a win to-night.

* * * * * *

Raybestos and Crescents come together again to-morrow evening at Exhibition Park. The Rays won handily in the first contest, but will meet an improved team this time. The game means much to the Crescents, who, with "Bun" Frost improving every time out, are looking forward to another championship. They figure Raybestos one of the main obstacles.

* * * * * *

Evidence is at hand that the teams realize their mistake in Friday's fizzle, and the fans may be reasonably assured of seeing no more such contests at Exhibition Park.

* * * * * *

Lock Works with two wins and a loss are showing up well in the county series. They play in Lakefield next Friday evening, and meet Hastings here on the evening of Circus Day.

* * * * * *

Raybestos are leading the parade, with Bethany in second place, and Cogs and Crescents tied for third position.

SCHOOL PICNIC MUCH ENJOYED

Children of Prince of Wales School Have Annual Outing.

RACES A FEATURE.

It is no wonder that pupils like to attend the Prince of Wales School. On Friday afternoon and evening the Home and School Association gave their annual picnic. The Association must have some intimate relations with the weather man, because they always select a very fine day. The pupils engaged in various games, but one of the chief attractions was the races.

The races and prize winners are as follows:

Kindergarten, Girls — 1, Eleanor Craig; 2, Gladys James; 3, Alice Luther.

Kindergarten, Boys — 1, Harold Bucknell; 2, Arthur Hully; 3, Teddy Macauley.

Girls, 6 and 7.—1, Lorraine Voss; 2, Gladys Bridcott; 3, Ruth Irwin.

Boys, 6 and 7.—1, Eddie Irwin; 2, Eddie Patterson; 3, Gordon Moore.

Girls, 8 and 9.—1, Jessie Scholey; 2, Mary Montgomery; 3, Helen Cherney.

Boys, 8 and 9.—1, Clayton Kennedy; 2, Jack Platt; 3, Kenneth Gibson.

Girls, 10 and 11.—1, Marguerite Wood; 2, Jean Smithson; 3, Marion Harvey.

Boys, 10 and 11.—1, Harry Kingdon; 2, Clifford Cruickshanks; 3, Arthur Roberts.

Girls, 12 and 13.—1, Ola Gillespie; 2, Margaret Sproat.

Boys, 12 and 13.—1, Tom Wallace; 2, Stanley Seabrook.

Girls, 14 and over.—1, Jeanne Harvey; 2, Marcella Spencley.

Boys, 14 and over.—1, Harold Frost; 2, Alex. Rumnett.

Girls' Potato Race.—1, Jessie Scholey; 2, Margaret Sproat; 3, Audrey Johnston.

Girls' Needle and Thread Race.—1, Madeline Jay; 2, Marcella Spencley; 3, Gladys Johnston.

Boys' Three-Legged Race.—1, Max Comstock and Robert Armstrong.

Boys' Wheelbarrow Race.—1, Harold Frost and Charles Mandau; 2, Horace Fisher and Arthur Beauclerc.

The smaller boys and girls had much fun in a peanut scramble.

The crowning events of the day were the lady teachers' and mothers' races. Some of the teachers of this school are especially built for speed, and there is no doubt that they could give a good account of themselves against any others of the city. The winners of the former race were: 1, Miss Connelly; 2, Miss Milburn; and of the latter, 1, Mrs. McWilliams; 2, Mrs. Ferguson.

After eating an abundance of ice cream, sandwiches, cakes, and sundry other delectable things the children departed well pleased with the afternoon's fun.

Soccer Notes

On Wednesday evening the Canadian General and the Thistle play in a league game on King Edward Park. Kick-off at 6 o'clock. Referee, Alex. McKinley.

At the request of the De Laval, they will play the Quakers on Friday evening, June 22, so as the players can attend the C.G.E. picnic.

R. Carmichael and George Lovat signed for Quaker Oats. The former player was given sanction to resume playing as usual.

On Thursday evening, June 28, the Quakers meet the Canadian General in a league match.

The Holloway Cup draw resulted as follows: Thistle vs. Canadian General on Saturday, June 30, and De Laval vs. Quakers on Saturday, July 7. The proceeds are on behalf of the Injured Players' Fund.

TECO SWAMPED BY C.G.E. TEAM

Errors on Part of Eaton Fieldmen Disastrous to Storemen.

Rain did not hold up the softball game last night and the C.G.E. socked the Teco to the tune of 23 to 3. The field was slippery and the ball was hard to control but the C.G.E. played a game of softball that was fairly free from errors for a softball fixture. Scates started for the storemen but was replaced by Edgar in the eighth. The errors on the part of the Teco were disastrous as the score indicates the factory men seeming to romp around the paths at will. Board at first and Nesbitt at left field starred for the Teco, also Williams made a nice running catch near the first of the game. Weese on first and F. Jones in left field were outstanding for C.G.E. while the whole team gave their pitcher a world of support. The only home run of the game went to Frost of the C.G.E., while several others travelled the circuit on errors after hitting a short fly, for the factory.

Routley pitching for C.G.E. seemed to have a great deal of control in spite of the slippery ball and struck out five men, which is the most strikeouts of the softball pitchers so far this year.

The C.G.E. got away to a bad start and it seemed like an easy frame for Eaton's but after the bad first frame they were held scoreless with two runs until the eighth inning when they scored one run. The C.G.E. boys scored in every frame.

The teams lined up as follows:

Teco—White, c; Sexsmith, 3b; Edgar, ss; Board, 1b; Scates, p, ss; Sanders, lf; Nesbitt, lf Maher, cf Mc;Kim, rf.

C.G.E.—J. Jones, cf; Weese, 1b; Wilson, ss; Frost, 3b; F. Jones, 3b; Dyer, c; Routley, p; Playford, rf; McDonough, 2b.

Score by innings:

Teco	2	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	—	3
C.G.E.	1	4	2	2	4	1	4	5	x	—23

Struck out—By Routley 5, by Scates 9, by Edgar 0.

Umpires—W. Ranger at the plate; Egerton Maudsley at the bases.

REDS STOPS CARDS 3-2

Win From National League Leaders in Fourteen-Inning Battle.

ROBINS WIN 4-3

NEW YORK, June 19 (Canadian Press). — The Reds stopped the League-leading St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 2, in a fourteen-inning battle at Cincinnati yesterday. Luque celebrated his return after a three weeks' lay-off by allowing only two runs in ten frames. Kolp took up the burden where Luque left off, allowing two innings and driving in the winning run with a single that brought Dressen home.

The Brooklyn Robins halted the four-game winning streak of the Phillies at Philadelphia when Jess Petty turned back the tail-enders, 4 to 3. After a rocky start, Petty settled down and pitched capital ball, not permitting a hit from the first inning until Sand broke through for a single in the ninth. Three of the Phillies' four hits came in the first inning.

A double by Bressler, followed by a single by Bancroft, with two out, scored one run for the Robins in the second. The winning Brooklyn run was tallied after two were out in the ninth, when Hendrick doubled and Herman followed with a single that brought the Brooklyn third sacker home.

Malone held Boston to one hit in the second game of yesterday's double header and Chicago defeated the Braves, 12 to 0. In the first game Virgil Barnes, just obtained from the New York Giants, pitched Boston to a 10 to 2 victory.

The single Boston hit in the second game was Taylor's double in the eighth. Every Chicago player hit safely at least once, Cuyler leading the attack with two home runs, a double and a single.

In the first game Rogers Hornsby, Braves manager, who had been under suspension, celebrated his return to good standing by driving in three runs, two of them on a home run into the centre field stands.

MENIE TEAM IS PLAYING GOOD BALL

Among Leaders in First Round in District Softball League.

BURNBRAE, June 19.—The Menie entry in the softball league is steaming right along and are safely placed among the leaders in the league standing. On the first round Menie won handily from Springbrook and Bethel at the latter place while a tie was secured with the strong Glen Ross outfit in an encounter at Menie. Springbrook almost threw a bomb into the works on Friday evening when they visited Menie and were beaten by the close count of 7 to 6. Securing a four-run lead in one inning, the visitors looked like sure winners but Stan Little, the reliable catcher of the Menie squad, brought his trusty bat to the rescue and drove out a homer which netted the winning runs. With four of the six teams entered exceptionally strong some good games are looked for during the rest of the season.

ST. PETER'S SCHOOL HOLD FIELD DAY

Pupils of High and Low School Compete in Contests.

Watched by a goodly crowd of spectators, the annual field day of St. Peter's School was held last week. Events in shot put, straight running, broad jumping and softball made up an interesting afternoon's program.

Announced by the starter the first event, the shot put contest, began. The three winners were awarded their respective ribbons and the second event was on. Running broad jump had many entries and fine prowess was displayed. The laughable three-legged race was next staged and the entrance class for the first time distinguished itself.

The boys' softball game followed and an excited audience witnessed five lively innings between First Form B and Third Form. The teams played well. Form 1B were the victors, 5-4.

The needle and thread race required experienced fingers. The sack race which followed gave the spectators the heartiest laugh. A level head and highly developed sense of balance was necessary to win the book race. The potato race was a test for nimble feet and deft fingers. This race was very interesting.

One of the contests most looked forward to was now announced. The competitors gathered and the hundred yard dash was on—separate dashes for boys and girls. Those who captured ribbons in the dashes combined speed and energy to make a race worth watching.

The final events were the relay races for the girls and the boys. These were intensely exciting for both contestants and audience.

The last of the sports saw aching feet and stiffening muscles accompanied with broad smiles and joyous spirits.

BIG SIX.

(By the Associated Press.)

With all but two of the Big Six idle yesterday, Rogers Hornsby celebrated the lifting of his suspension by gathering two runs, and three hits, one of them his fourteenth homer of the season, in a doubleheader against the Cubs. All of the fireworks the Boston manager provided came in the first game, which the Braves won. In the second, in which Pat Malone shut out the Bostonians with only one hit, Hornsby failed to connect in three times at bat. Because of this drop, his batting average remained stationary at .413.

Frankie Frisch, the only other member of the Big Six to play, went into a slump for the day, failing to connect in six times at bat during the Cardinals' fourteen inning battle with the Reds and dropping out of the .300 class.

The standing to date:

BEAVERS LOSE THIRD STRAIGHT

Graftons Defeat East City 6-5 in Bantam Fixture.

GROUNDS SLIPPERY

After battling for seven innings in the drizzling rain, and on wet, slippery grounds, the Beavers lost their third straight game to Grafton's by a 6-5 score.

The Beavers showed some improvement in their fielding and collected seven hits off Stanger and outhit the Grafton gang, who only registered four. Dinesen pitched up to his form, allowing four free passes, while Stanger walked three.

The runs scored were registered by the both teams throwing wild at third.

In the third innings Grafton's got a man to third but Dinesen struck out the side in order. The play was rather ragged at times but Mitchell's shoestring catch in the fourth and his long dive over Sanderson at third, were feature plays of the game.

The losers tried hard to score with a man on third in the seventh, but Dinesen's infield fly was pulled in by Clarke.

Summary.

Score by innings:

Famous African Explorer Tells of Jungle Life

Major John J. Hill to Speak at Chautauqua.

Major John J. Hill, the first white man to traverse Africa from Cape Town to Cairo, will be heard here at the coming Dominion Redpath Chautauqua in his vivid, compelling lecture "Savages I Met in Africa."

Major Hill's bizarre and interesting experiences in the dark continent began when he joined the vanguard of the first Cape to Cairo railroad expedition. For two and one-half years he never saw another white man. Frequently a month's travel would net only three or four miles.

Major Hill's lecture is one vivid picture after another of mysterious Africa—of bushmen, cannibals, fakirs, jungles and forests.

That great world figure Cecil Rhodes was Major Hill's patron in Africa, and the Major takes occasion in his lecture to tell interestingly of his association with this astounding empire builder.

Major Hill is a native of Canada. Will appear in the Chautauqua Course of Entertainment which is in Peterborough July 13, 14, 16.

MILL EMERGES FROM BOTTOM

Defeats Legionaires, Rivals For Last Place, in League Softball Game.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 19.—After having a game twice postponed on account of rain, the Legionaires took the field against the Mill team last night with a sky which threatened rain withut further warning. Before the first inning was played, a steady drizzle had set in and continued throughout the remainder of the game. For several days, it has been close competition between these two teams as to who will stay at the bottom of the league, and last night the argument was settled to the tune of 28-10, with the Troops holding firm to last place. They have yet to win their first game. Now that the Mill has broken the ice, they have a fair chance of climbing to higher places in the league. To-night the two leading teams, St. Andrew's and the Clerks, are scheduled to play. This will probably be one of the fastest games of the season.

In the game last night, there were four home runs, Booth and W. Reynolds for the Mill, and W. Owens and N. Reynolds for the Legionaires.

FOUR KILLED WHEN ENGINE CRASHES CAR

Electric Radial Freight Hits Automobile Near Toronto.

TERRIFIC IMPACT.

Motor Car is Lifted Clear of Tracks and Reduced to Pile of Scrap Metal.

TORONTO, June 19.— A father, two of his sons and his young daughter were instantly killed at 7.55 last evening by a C.N.R. Guelph electric radial freight train at the Lambton Mills level crossing about three miles west of the city limits on Dundas street.

There were no others in the car. In the little home on Concession 'A,' Etobicoke Township, about a mile and a half north of Dundas street, there survives of a family of six, only the mother and one son, Stanley, aged 15.

It was by no more than a chance of fate that Stanley Littley and Albert Armitage ,aged 16, a lad who helps Stanley till the 28 acres of land on which the family lives, were not included in death's toll. After supper, Leslie, who owned the car and who was driving at the time of the accident, borrowed ten dollars from Mrs. Littley to buy two tires. The rest of the family and Albert Armitage ,all except the mother—were going to go with him to the tire shop in Lambton Mills where the tires were to be bought.

But as the party drove down the concession line to Dundas street, Stanley and Albert decided not to go. They could give no reason for their sudden change of mind, but they got out and walked back home, cheating death.

The crossing at which the tragedy occurred is that at which the radial line crosses the road just a few yards east of the C.P.R. steam railway crossing. It is believed that the tires had been purchased for the car is said to have been travelling west. The radial, which was a way freight comprising an electric driving car and six freight cars, was coming to Toronto from Guelph.

Radial Gave Warning.

At this point, inbound radials cross the road in a northerly direction. The Littley car, an old Maxwell touring, had just passed that of Mr. and Mrs. George Hutchison, of Cheltenham ,and thence on to the tracks. According to C.N.R. officials, Engineer Brooks had been sounding the usual warning in approaching the road, and when he saw the touring car driving toward the tracks applied his brakes. But it was too late. With a resounding crash, the massive radial smashed into the touring car ,lifted it clear of both road and tracks and three its occupants out on the shoulders of the roadside ditch.

The automobile was rolled into an almost unrecognizable ball of wreckage at the side of the tracks, just a few feet off the highway. A few yards further west the little girl and the little boy lay huddled together on the left shoulder of the ditch, and almost opposite, on the right side of the ditch, were stretched the bodies of their father and brother. Apparently the two children had been in the back seat of the car while the father rode beside Leslie.

CROP REPORT

Below will be found a brief synopsis of telegraphic reports received at the Head Office of the Bank of Montreal from its Branches. The Branch Managers have complete and intimate knowledge of each local situation and are in close touch with crop conditions in all sections of the districts mentioned.

With seeding practically completed, and with all grains making rapid growth owing to recent rains, crop conditions generally in the Prairie Provinces are satisfactory. In the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario conditions are fairly satisfactory, but warmer weather is needed everywhere. Seeding has been delayed in Eastern Ontario and Quebec to a large extent by rainy weather. In the Maritime Provinces conditions are about average, seeding being well advanced. In British Columbia crops, with ample moisture, are making good growth, and the outlook generally is very promising. Details follow.

Prairie Provinces.

Alberta Western and North-eastern Area—Conditions are very favourable. The sugar beet crop is doing well.

Alberta South-eastern Area—Conditions are promising, following ample rainfall.

Saskatchewan Northern Area—Crop conditions generally are satisfactory and promising. Recent rains have been very beneficial, especially to late sown grain. Seeding is practically completed.

Saskatchewan Southern Area — Wheat on summer fallow is well advanced but some late sown crops have suffered from the dry weather in the latter part of May and growth is uneven and patchy. Recent rains were fairly general and have provided sufficient moisture for the present, except in a few districts, chiefly in south-central and south-west, where further rains are needed. Seeding is completed.

Manitoba—Seeding is completed, with wheat acreage about ten per cent larger than last year, and a small increase in all coarse grains, except oats. Growth is satisfactory under favourable weather and moisture conditions.

Province of Quebec.

Excessive rainfall has delayed operations and seeding is not yet completed. Grass pastures and hay meadows are mainly in good condition, although winter killed and flooded areas are larger than usual. Fruit trees have blossomed well, but berries and small fruits show evidence of winter damage. A period of dry weather is urgently needed.

Province of Ontario.

Fall wheat has improved during the past two weeks, and despite some winter kill present prospects are for an average crop. Spring crops look healthy, and promise well, but in Eastern Ontario, owing to wet weather, 40 per cent of the seeding is unfinished, and at this late date the ground will be sown to buckwheat. Tobacco, corn and root planting is general. Meadow grass is short and indications point to a hay crop below the average. Prospects for a good fruit crop are bright. Pastures are good.

Maritime Provinces.

Favourable growing weather has prevailed and ample moisture is in the ground. Grass pasturage is in good condition and hay promises well. The Gravenstein apple bloom was heavy while other varieties were below average, blossoms have not as yet set and no estimate of crop prospects can be made. The planting of potatoes on an acreage larger than the average is well under way.

Province of British Columbia.

A good yield of hay is expected, and although seeding was somewhat delayed grain and root crops are now doing well. Tree fruits promise good yields and, while a little early to estimate, from present indications they should be as follows—Apples and apricots 110 per cent of average, cherries, 75 per cent, plums and prunes 90 per cent, small fruits average. Hops are making good growth and pasturage is abundant.

REVIEWS GOOD YEAR.

W. S. Fallis of Montreal, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, who in his address at the annual convention on board the S.S. St. Lawrence at Montreal reviewed a year of industrial expansion. He urged an increase in goods manufactured here for export. Extreme economic and social theories are losing their hold, said Mr. Fallis, who is president of the Sherwin-Williams Company of Canada.

Bowling

On account of the rain last evening no schedule games were played but regular games will be played this evening, weather permitting. All are eagerly anticipating the mixed tournament on Wednesday afternoon, and a big afternoon's sport is looked for. Rinks will be drawn for, so be on the green at 1.30 sharp for the draw.

PRESENT FROM KAISER.

Hans von Hindenburg, grandnephew of the president of the German republic, was presented on his third birthday with one of the woolly dogs which the ex-kaiser is said to make during his long days in exile at Doorn.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

LILLIAN GISH IN "THE ENEMY."

In the first place, the title of this picture is somewhat misleading. "The Enemy" is not a tangible thing or person. It is an abstract condition, the condition of hate that leads to war, and the entire picture is devoted to a demonstration of the ravages of this unseen foe. In the second place, it is an indictment of war that somehow loses much of its undeniable force by the fact that Lillian Gish is the heroine. She occupies so much of the picture that the heavy theme which gives its birth is subordinated to her undeniable beauty and charm. But she makes a very fine heroine, nevertheless, an Austrian girl this time, Pauli Arndt, grand-daughter of old Professor Arndt. Ralph Forbes is the hero, Karl Behrend ,and the supporting cast is excellent. It is a picture quite out of the ordinary ,and is a war picture in only one sense of the term.

One of the first scenes is the birthday party of Karl, arranged at Pauli's home, with Bruce, an English student at the Vienna University, as a guest. A message tells them of the declaration of war by the English and in the hot blood which rises immediately, Karl wounds Bruce, his friend. Then comes the wedding of Palli and Karl, with the military drum beat, for marching soldiers interfering with the quiet music of the wedding march. Karl is summoned at five o'clock the next morning for active service ,and Pauli is left alone. The old professor loses his post at the University because he teaches that all war is cruel and unecessary and the little family are close to starvation at various times.

There is very little of the actual warfare shown, except a bit from the trenches ,and an episode on Christmas Day, when Austrian and Russian soldiers fraternize and exchange cigarettes and beer, to spring to action and enmity a few minutes later, at the sound of the bugle.

There is something rather peculiar about the reaction of movie spectators to subtly worded suggestions of the screen. This was exemplified last night. In turn, marching men of many countries were flashed on the screen; Austrians marching for "God and Emperor," French poilus marching for "God and the Republic," German Heinies marching to war for "God and the Kaiser," Russians starting out to battle for "God and the Czar," and English Tommies in war-like array for "God and the King." Applause broke forth from the watching crowd for the last lot.

The gentle and appealing figure of Pauli comes and goes in the war-ridden streets of Vienna. Her baby is born and dies because she has no money to buy proper food for it. Her father-in-law, the well-fed profiteer, turns against them because of Professor Arndt's "traitorous" utterances, and later earns a medal for "distinguished service" at home. Mitzi, the neighbor of the quiet court, walks the street as a means of livelihood. Whether or not Pauli follows her example is left to the imagination of the onlooker. It isn't clearly defined. Then comes the end of the struggle and the news that Karl has been killed, with a later anti-climax in his return to Pauli and home.

The picture opens with beer sloshing in fat steins, held aloft in student hands, and finishes with a laden table and a pair of fat cigars in the mouths of the old men of the piece.

—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

Aileen Pringle has been won over to short skirts!

This may not impress you as a startling announcement, but consider ing the fact that she holds the reputation of being the best dressed woman of the screen and has held out for ankle lengths for many seasons against the abbreviated styles, putting a definite "No" to all inducements that she wear her skirts more than eight inches from the floor, the announcement is startling.

Miss Pringle's personal wardrobe remains the same as it always has been and it is only for screen reasons that she has given in to having her skirts "bobbed."

In "Tea for Three," her new co-starring vehicle with Lew Cody, now being shown at the Regent Theatre, "Miss Pringle's skirts are worn "fashionably short." At first she demurred to the suggestion, but was finally convinced that the character which she is playing could be best portrayed in a wardrobe containing skirts far shorter than she believes in wearing.

"I still maintain that I do not like short skirts," says Aileen. "When they are worn only a few inches above the ankles they are more graceful, more feminine and more sophisticated than when they are shortened almost to the knees. The flapper can get away with short skirts but the woman who strives for the real chic effects finds the longer ones are more attractive."

"Tea for Three" is F. Hugh Herbert's screen adaptation of Roi Cooper Megrue's famous stage farce of the same name. It was directed by Robert Z. Leonard, and the cast includes Owen Moore, Dorothy Sebastian, Phillips Smalley, Edward Thomas and others.

IN PETERBOROUGH CHURCHES

ST. PAUL'S PRESBYTERIAN

On Sunday morning the Lord's Supper was observed in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, with a large congregation present. Wishart Campbell was solist, and this event was worthy of note, since he leaves soon on a broadcasting tour of Canada. A unique event was the dedication ceremony of the Communion tablecloth. This handsome piece of linen was specially manufactured by a leading firm in Belfast, Ireland. Measuring 3¼ yards long by 2 yards wide, in the centre of each end is the emblem of the Presbyterian Church, the Burning Bush, with the inscription, "Nic Tamen Consumebatur" (burning but not consumed), and lengthwise, near each edge, the words "This do in remembrance of me," in in damask patterns.

The cloth is a masterpiece and a work of art. The donor of the gift was Mrs. Robert Stuart, Gilmour street, as a memorial to the late Robert Stuart, her husband, for many years an esteemed elder in St. Paul's church.

Prior to dispensing the emblems of the Sacrament, Rev. William Allan dedicated the cloth to the service of the Sanctuary and the Lord's Supper and invoked a blessing on the donor for her generosity and thoughtfulness.

UNCLE WIGGILY

To-days Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE HOLE BIRD.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Well, this ought to be easy," gargled the 'Gator as he looked at the puzzle Uncle Wiggily had given him to do. The puzzle was that of a stone dangling from a string inside a corked milk bottle and the trick was to cut the string in some way so the stone would fall to the bottom.

"It isn't as easy as it looks," said the rabbit gentleman, whose ears the 'Gator had promised not to nibble if the bunny gave the Bad Chap a hard puzzle to do.

The 'Gator picked up the knife Uncle

Wiggily had put on the ground near the milk bottle, and the 'Gator looked at the funny figure Mr. Longears had made from pieces of black paper.

"Does he have anything to do with the trick?" asked the 'Gator, looking at the funny figure.

"No," answered the rabbit. "I just put him in for fun. But what are you going to do with the knife, Mr. Alligator?"

"I'm going to cut the string and let the stone fall," said the Bad Chap. "That's the only way to do the trick."

"Ha! Ha! laughed Jackie Bow Wow, who with his sun, or burning glass, had b en scorching holes in paper. "You can't cut through a glass milk bottle with a knife."

"The 'Gator tried and found that he couldn't get at the cork string, on the end of which dangled a stone inside the bottle.

"And you mustn't take out the cork!" warned Mr. Longears.

"Bah! Then the puzzle can't be done!" bellowed the long-tailed chap. "You gave me a hard one all right. I can't do it so I can't nibble your ears!" And away he waddled very cross indeed.

"Show me the trick, Uncle Wiggily," begged Jackie.

The rabbit gentleman took the round, thick lens, or sun glass, that Jackie had been using to burn papers. Letting a ray of sunshine pass through the glass so it made a hot spot on the string inside the bottle, Uncle Wiggily held it steady for a moment. An instant later the hot sun rays set fire to the string and burned it through. With a tinkle the stone fell to the bottom of the bottle which was still corked.

"Oh, look what my burning glass did!" barked Jackie. "That was a good trick. I'm glad the 'Gator couldn't do it."

"So am I," chuckled Mr. Longears. "For I didn't want my ears nibbled. And now if you like, Jackie, you may come adventuring with me."

Jackie liked very much to do this, so he and the old gentleman bunny ran along together over the fields and through the woods. Pretty soon they heard a knocking on one side of a large tree.

"Somebody is trying to get in a tree house, but I guess nobody is home," barked Jackie.

"It sounds so," agreed Uncle Wiggily.

Just then a bird, with some red feathers on top of his head, flew around the tree and, as Uncle Wiggily and Jackie watched him, the bird, with his strong, sharp bill, began making holes.

"Oh, look at the hole bird!" barked Jackie.

"That isn't my name; though I do make holes," chattered the bird. "I am really a woodpecker, and I peck, or drill, holes in trees so I can get at the bugs and worms under the bark."

"That's funny," laughed Jackie. "Bugs and worms grow on trees! Ha! Ha!"

"Other things besides bugs and worms grow on trees," said Uncle Wiggily. "And that makes me think of a little puzzle I can give you to do, Jackie. Look here."

Uncle Wiggily drew four little pictures with a red stone on the side of a smooth rock near by.

"Those pictures are the names of four things that grow on trees," said the rabbit gentleman. "Can you guess them?"

"Let me help Jackie guess," begged the woodpecker. So the bird and the dog looked at the pictures you see here. Can you solve the puzzle?

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 20, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate)

This is read by astrologers as a rarely favorable day in planetary government. It should be especially lucky for those who seek pleasure or recreation.

The sway is not an auspicious one for new business ventures and seems to encourage vacations rather than increased financial responsibilities.

Women are well directed under this sway of the stars, which encourages all their domestic interests.

This should be a wedding day most auspicious for both bride and bridegroom. Harmony and understanding are presaged.

This is read as an auspicious rule for journeys and romance may be expected while this configuration prevails.

Great prosperity for hotels and for proprietors of summer resorts of every kind is prognosticated.

New places in southern mountains are to gain popularity and the west is to have a great influx of pleasure-seekers, it is predicted.

This should be a lucky day for concerts and for those who take part in them. Music is to have a tremendous popularity all through the summer.

All places of amusement should benefit under this direction of the stars which seems to presage a novel fad in entertainment.

Thought is to be encouraged and serious views of life are to be harbored in the coming months when jazz and noise will subside, astrologers predict.

The younger generation so much criticised is to prove its real quality and to gain recognition by splendid attainments, the seers prophesy.

In a new era when the air is navigated and the radio performs miracles in human methods of communication a super race is developing, philosophers explain.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of happy journeys that assure profit in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will wander far from home and will succeed on alien soil.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE HIGH HILLS

When you come back from those high hills
One gift I'd have you bring:
The song of evening whip-poor-wills
That sing the song of spring.
For once I climbed those same high hills,
A fortune there to find,
But he who but his pocket fills
Leaves better things behind.

Another climbed the same high hills,
A wiser man than me,
And now a song remembered thrills
His heart with melody.
And so it is on life's high hills,
Man tries so hard to climb:
If with their song his heart he fills,
He hears it all the time.

PLEASING PROGRAM BY YOUNG PIANISTS

Pupils of Mrs. S. J. Richardson Play Well in Recital.

On Monday evening, in the Girls' Gymnasium of the Salvation Army Hall, piano pupils of Mrs. S. J. Richardson gave a very pleasing recital, assisted by pupils of Mrs. F. G. McNeely, elocutionist.

The pupils acquitted themselves admirably, reflecting great credit on careful tuition and their own attention to instruction. All solos were memorized. The selections and the readings by the assisting young ladies were very much enjoyed by the audience of about one hundred and fifty people, who manifested their appreciation by much applause.

During the evening, a lovely bouquet of pink roses from the pupils was presented to Mrs. Richardson by Peggy Green.

The program was as follows:

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ARE PESSIMISTIC

(By Mehran K. Thompson, Ph.D.)
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

"The pessimist is the man who has to live with an optomist." He is the second bucket in the old well who is discouraged because no matter how many times he comes up full he always goes down empty while the first bucket, who is an optomist, gets a lot of fun in the thought that no matter how many times they send him down empty he always comes up full.

Pessimism is the attitudeof looking on the dark side of life and expecting the worst. It is an unusual state of mind caused by a bad temperament and a sour disposition, which are in turn caused by undue failures, the improper functioning of the glands of internal secretion, and ill-health.

Schopenhaeur, the famous German philosopher, is the outstanding pessimist. He worked out his pessimism into a philosophical system. It is interesting to note that even for Schopenhauer the events and disappointments of life were a deciding factor, although he himself denies it. He had four major disappointments. The first came when his father refused to allow him to go to school and get the kind of education he wanted. Thus his ambitions were thwarted and deferred for a professorship in a university he was unsuccessful in his efforts to secure a position. The third great blow came when his writings were not recognized as possessing any merit. The fourth disappointment was poor health. Fame did come to him in his declining years but, too late to do him any good or to change the attitude of a disappointed life.

We are not pessimistic by nature unless we are so unfortunate as to be born with a bad disposition or a defective digestive system. Pessimism is an acquired attitude of looking on the dark and hopeless side of life as the result of unfortunate experiences or illness, physical, mental and temperamental.

RESCUE-WORKERS TURN TO DOG TEAMS

Think Relief of Noble Party Cannot Be Accomplished By Planes.

KING'S BAY, Spitzbergen, June 19 (Canadian Press).—After two futile attempts of fliers to find General Umberto Nobile and his party of survivors on the ice north of North-East Land, it was felt here to-day that rescue by air was likely to prove a difficult task. Hope for immediate relief turned to dog teams.

A fast patrol of Italian Alpine troops was making its way over the ice to-day toward Nobile's position. Another patrol was getting ready to start out in search of the three men who have been missing since they left the Nobile party on May 30.

Twice, on Sunday and Monday, Nobile's hopes have been raised to a high point on seeing seaplanes approach him. Twice they have been dashed as they disappeared again without sighting him.

Italian Flier Returns.

ROME, June 19 (Canadian Press). —Major Maddalenia, Italian flier, made an unsuccessful reconnaissance in search of the Nobile party this morning and returned to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, in his Savoia Marchetti 55, planning another flight shortly.

WEDDING BELLS

PATERSON—JULIAN.
The wedding was solemnized at Knox manse on the 15th instant, by the Rev. William McDonald, of Isabella Paterson, daughter of Mrs. Paterson, Cambridge street, and of the late John Paterson, Traquair, Peebleshire, Scotland, and Ernest Bright Julian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julian, of Rutherford street.

LOCKIE—TODD.
A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Paul's Church Manse by the Rev. William Allan, at two o'clock on Saturday afternoon, when Jemima Esther Irene, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Todd ,of Omemee, became the bride of Robert Andrew Lockie, second son of Mrs. R. Lockie, Chamberlain street.

The bride looked charming in a gown of coral georgette with large matching picture hat, black satin slippers and coral hose. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and bridal wreath.

The bridesmaid, Miss Lena Billingsley, was in orchid crepe romain, with orchid picture hat, blonde slippers and hose, and bouquet of pink roses and carnations.

Mr. William Lockie, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother. Mr. and Mrs. Lockie left on the 3.30 afternoon train for Toronto, where they will reside. The bride travelled in a coat of rose beige with rose hat.

The young people received many useful and beautiful gifts, among them a Kenwood blanket and salad bowl from the bride's fellow-employees of the Porcelain Department of the Canadian General Electric Company.

HUDSON—SLADE.
A lovely military wedding was solemnized at St. Clement's Church, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon, when Winifred Maude, daughter of Mr. F. Slade, and the late Mrs. F. Slade, became the bride of Sergt. J. A. Hudson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hudson, of Peterborough, Ont., Rev. Mr. Bushill officiating. The bride, who was given in marriage by Mrs. W. T. Searle, wore a lovely French frock embroidered with rhinestones and pearls and a long net veil held in place with a bandeau of orange blossoms and pearls, and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and lily of the valley. Mrs. C. F. Rose, acting as the matron of honor, wore a pretty frock of orchid georgette, with large mohair hat to match, while Miss Laurie Sturrock, the bridesmaid, wore a dainty French blue marquisette and hat to match, both attendants carrying large shower bouquets of variegated sweet peas.

The groom was attended by Sergt. C. Shilling, and the ushers were Sergt. Spence and C.S.M. Tingey.

During the signing of the register, Mr. A. Luckhurst sang "O Promise Me." The bridal party left the church under an archway formed by the staffs of the groom's brother N.C.O.'s acting as a guard of honor. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Searle, Alton Avenue, Mrs. Searle wearing a gown of rose dawn lace and large black hair and lace hat. Mrs. Hudson, mother of the groom, received with Mrs. Searle in a gown of blue and rose crepe and sand and rose hat, both carrying corsage bouquets of Premier roses.

The happy couple left later for their honeymoon trip, the bride travelling in a beige ensemble with large mohair hat and shoes to match. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hudson, parents of the groom, and Mrs. R. S. Scott and daughter, sister and niece of the groom, from Peterborough.

Daring Robbers Make Clean Escape From Toronto

COUNTY'S ROAD INSURANCE RATE IS INCREASED $132 THIS YEAR

Traffic Hazards Greater and Are Reflected in New Premium.

$20,000 IN ONE CASE.

Cooney and Jopling Accident Cost Company Large Sum.

Increasing traffic hazards account for the higher premium on the Globe Indemnity Company's insurance to the County Council against claims arising out of accidents on Peterborough County roads and bridges. Last year the fee was $403, and the premium for this year is $535. The Finance Committee of he Council will consider the renewal.

Frank Plaxton, of Toronto, representing the Globe Indemnity Company, told the Council his company had paid $366 last year in settling claims in Peterborough County. One of these was to a man named Windover, who was injured near Warsaw. Settlement was for $100. The Cooney & Jopling bus upset near Norwood was settled for $150. Mr. Plaxton said both of these accidents might have involved the county in heavy claims. He understood that the Cooney & Jopling bus accident cost the London Guarantee and Accident Comapny, protecting the bus company about 20,000 in the complete settlement.

"We covered more than 600 municipalities last year," Mr. Plaxton said, "and we settled more than 3,000 claims. We paid over $6,000 in Northumberland and Durham. One claim was settled for $3,000. In that accident a man named Crane was killed on a detour north of Welcome. It transpired that the province assumes no liability for accidents on highway detours.

"Your rate of $535 will cover you up to $11,000. The chief factor in the increasing traffic hazard is the transient motor traffic. Toronto has had 100,000 more cars since the first of the year than for the same period last year. The Liquor Control Act does not help to reduce the hazard, and the speed rate is still 35 miles an hour. We are protecting 34 out of 37 counties, 386 out of 418 townships, and more than 150 cities, towns and villages."

Reeve Middleton moved, seconded by Reeve Tanner, that this matter be referred to the Finance Committee.

One-third of the insurance cost would be allotted to the Suburban Area Commission and the remainder to the County Council. It applies to accidents on county roads and bridges and to various county construction work.

Claims Period Lapsed.

Mr. Plaxton said that a recent claim had been received from Ray Scott, of Havelock, who met with a minor accident on April 11 in Norwood. The claim was for $40.00, but it was invalicated by a delay in filing notice with the company.

"An applicant for damages is required to give us thirty dayss' notice," Mr. Plaxton exlained, but Mr. Scott did not notify us until May 13."

All Members Present

The personnel of this year's Council is as follows: Reeve M. E. Smithson (Warden), Otonabee; John Scott, Asphodel; F. Frank Breckenridge, Belmont and Methuen; Vernal Windsor, Burleigh and Anstruther; A. Caldwell, Chandos; James Hawthorne, Dummer; John Leahy, Douro; T. Major Maddalena Drops Supplies to Six of Italia's Crew.

IN NORTH-EAST LAND.

KING'S BAY, June 20.— (Canadian Press.)—General Umberto Nobile and his five stranded companions from the dirigible Italia have been located off Northeastland by Major Maddalena, Italian aviator.

The flier, who took off from King's Bay, at six o'clock this morning, on a second reconnaissance of Northeast Land, dropped provisions from his hydro airplane for the marooned group.

Major Maddalena returned to King's Bay at 1.50 this afternoon and reported that all appeared well with the men who have been held in the grim grip of the Polar sea ever since May 25.

Is Determined To Make Westward Hop

ST. JOHN'S, N.F., June 20. — (Canadian Press).—Mabel Boll declared last night she was determined to attempt the westward flight cross the Atlantic, but whether she would fly the airplane across from here or ship it by steamer would be undecided until she conversed by cable with her backer, Charles Levine, at New York.

Miss Boll's monoplne, the Columbia, in which Charles Levine made the flight from New York to Germany, is still at Harbor Grace, where it was flown a week ago to prepare for a flight to Europe, Miss Boll having hoped to be the first woman to fly the Atlantic. The triumph of Miss Amelia Earhart and her companions in the monoplane Friendship caused a change of plans for Miss Boll, and she will now try for the honor of being the first woman to make the flight from Europe to America, which has been made only once by anybody in a heavier than air machine, that time by the German monoplane Bremen, which landed on the Labrador coast, from Ireland last April.

FOSTER FATHER GRANTED LOAN

Children's Aid Board Agrees To Let Him Use Child's Money, Held in Trust.

REGULAR MEETING.

The concluding meeting until September of the Board of Management of the Children's Aid Society, saw a very small attendance. The president, Rev. Dr Blagrave, the secretary, John Edgar, F. H. Dobbin, and four ladies of the Board, Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. S. Newhall, Mrs. R. Knox and Mrs. J. J. Lynch, were the representatives present. The meeting was held as usual in the City Council Chamber.

A matter of business which came up at last month's meeting of the board saw its completion yesterday. A little girl, ward of the society, was legally adopted some years ago, by a resident of the city, who last month made application for the loan of money held for her by the society in trust, accruing from pension funds of her father, a deceased soldier. The amount totals now about $1390, and the man who adopted her wished to borrow the amount at 7 per cent interest. The matter was referred to the society's solicitor, J. Wearing, who acquiesced in the arrangement, and drew up a mortgage on the man's house in the city, as guarantee for the return of the money at any time before its expiry, in four years' time.

The matter was put to a vote and Mesdames Newhall, Fanning and Knox voted for loan being made on these terms. Mrs Lynch was not in favor of the arrangement, and Mr. Dobbin did not vote.

Trustees to act for the society with regard to the girl were appointed in Messrs. J. Edgar and J. Abraham.

Sundry Business.

Mr. Edgar reported on a recent trip made by him through the Chandos district, and on the poor living conditions encountered there.

The society voted the sum of $10 to the matron at the Shelter, Mrs. Elliott, to be used by her in providing treats for the children from time to time, and also expressed its hearty appreciation of the extra work done by her in getting the house into its present comfortable and clean condition.

Mrs. S. Newhall was appointed convenor of arrangements for the annual tag day in September, with a committee composed of Mrs. J. J. Lynch, Mrs. J. Fanning, Mrs. H. W. Darcy and Alderman W. Stocker.

The report of the superintendent, J. Edgar, showed 5 applications for children during the past month, 3 children brought to the Shelter (not wards), 1 child made a ward, 11 complaints received, and 15 investigations made and received, 44; mail sent out 72; police court attendance, 2; wards sent out, 2; wards visited, 7, with 7 children in the Shelter at the end of the month.

Purchases Made.

The report of the purchasing committee, given by Mrs. J. Fanning, was as follows: Bell Telephone Co., $3.05 and 20c; T. A. Rehill, $1.40; S. E. Mahood, $5.41 and $4.78; Hall's Store $6.63; A. McDonald Lumber Company, $10.86; F. Dawson, $6.70; John Edgar, $1.51; Canadian Departmental Stores, $27.62; Campbell and Best, $5.10; Grant and Thorpe, $1.60 and $1.60; C. W. WARRENITE CO. GETS CONTRACT

Will Lay Asphalt and Concrete On Reid, Water and Park Streets.

GRANT FOR REGATTA.

The City Council met in special session last night to pass the necessary by-laws awarding the contract for paving Reid Street, north of McDonnel, to a point where it meets the Provincial Highway, and the street car right-of-way on Park and Water Streets to the Warrenite Construction Company. The contract price was $2.95 per square yard for Warrenite Bitulithic pavement on Park Street and on Reid Street, as far north as London, and $2.20 per square yard for concrete on Water Street and part of Reid Street.

Previous to the Council meeting the Board of Works met to open the tenders for the paving. Four companies submitted tenders: the F. R. Wilford Company, which is doing the work on the Chemong Road, quoted a price for concrete of $1.70 a square yard, which did not include lifting the street railway rails, and $2.45 for cold phalt, a kind of asphalt, curbing .45 a lineal foot, gutter 35c and sidewalk 20c. John Carroll's tender only included the concrete at $2.30 per square yard, curbing 50c, and sidewalk 25c. James Bogue's prices were the same as Carroll's for concrete and curbing, and 20c for sidewalks. The Warrenite prices were 50c for curbing, 25c for gutter and 21c for sidewalk.

Advocates Buying Plant.

Alderman Stocker, the chairman, after opening the tenders, asked City Engineer Parsons why he had not submitted some tenders, but Mr. Parsons replied that he had not been instructed to. Alderman Stocker strongly advised the city buying its own plant, and he quoted figures from the cities of London and St. Catharines, both of which have purchased their plants and have paid for them in five years. In London in 1927 the asphalt paving had cost $2.60 per square yard and an additional 25c had been charged for depreciation. Members of the Board, although favoring the purchase of a plant for the city of Peterborough, could not see where the money would be coming from, and as the machinery would have to be paid for in five years, it would mean very heavy paving programs. Anyway, the season was too late to consider buying machinery for this year's work, they decided.

In making the contract with the Warrenite Company, a clause was added, whereby the company will remove the rails at its own cost, leaving them where the City Engineer desires, and that the work is to start immediately.

Although the F. R. Wilford Company was the lowest tenderer for concrete, the members felt that the summer might pass and the work would never be done, as the company has a big contract on the Chemong Road.

Residents on the Monaghan Road, between Chamberlain Street and St. Peter's Cemetery and on Lansdowne Street will have their streets oiled this summer.

Will Raise Bridge.

The bridge on the Peterborough creek on Dalhousie, near the B. F. Ackerman and Son and Company will be raised so that the floods of this spring will not occur again at that point.

Eating house licenses were granted to V. Crebar of East City and V. Micooli. The Mayor was authorized to send a delegate to the annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Chamber of Commerce being held in Ottawa next week.

The Council to-day went to Toronto to discuss the purchase of the gas plant with the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

A grant of $50 was made to the Water Sports Committee for the Dominion Day celebration.

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton was asked to erect a sign on the vacant property at the corner of Barnardo Avenue and Wolsley Street, forbidding the dumping of rubbish there.

Alderman Cotton asked what steps the Council intended taking to stop outboard motors making such a noise on Little Lake. He claimed that according to a by-law of the Trent Valley Canal no boat is allowed to operate on the canal waters which makes an unnecessary noise. Mayor Denne assured him that the owner of the offending motor boat had put a muffler on his engine.

Criticizes Government's Attitude On Disarmament In House Of Lords

LONDON, June 20. (Canadian Press Cable.) — Disarmament was brought up in the House of Lords yesterday afternoon by Lord Robert Cecil, who declared that no progress had been made in the matter since the Spring of last year. He criticized what he called the government's negative attitude in this connection. Following a lengthy discussion the Lord's adopted a motion stating it was desirable the Preparatory Disarmament Commission meet early again at Geneva, if possible before the next assembly of the League of Nations.

Lord Haldane charged the government with lack of enterprise in striking out into appropriate methods regarding disarmament. He emphasized the difficulties of complete arbitration, and as an example, cited the case of Canada in endorsing the Anglo-Japanese treaty giving equal rights to Japanese citizens.

Lord Cushendun pointed out that difficult problems had constantly arisen when the disarmament question was being considered and defended the Government's attitude towards the proposals which had been made. He repudiated the suggestion of Lord Parmoor that Great Britain had acted in an obstructive manner.

RESIDENT OF MARMORA IS STILL ACTIVE AT 94 YEARS

Valentine Tennyson Recalls Pioneer Days in Madoc Township.

BORN NEAR MONTREAL

Claims He is Son of First Cousin of the Poet Tennyson.

MARMORA, June 20.—That he is the son of a first cousin of the poet Tennyson was the somewhat surprising information given by Valentine Tennyson, when interviewed recently. This remarkable old gentleman who if living on July 30th next, will have attained to his ninety-fourth birthday, lives for the major portion of his time with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Billings on their farm, situated in the second concession of Marmora Township.

When 22 years of age, Valentine's father, with his parents and two other brothers came out from Hampshire, England, finally settling in St. Andrew's Quebec, thirty miles to the east of Montreal. Here Valentine was born, his mother being of Dutch descent.. George Tennyson, for such was Valentine's father's name, lived to be 98. Valentine remarked that he had only twice accompanied his father to Montreal though the harvested grain was drawn from their farm to that city every winter on sleighs with one horse hitched up ahead of the other.

When he was almost thirteen, the Tennyson household moved to Madoc Township. They took boat for Belleville and "wood, not coal," said Mr. Tennyson was used in stoking the vessel." A relative met the family at Belleville with a span of horses and wagon and over a road of the roughest description they travelled until their destination was reached.

Speaking of his parents, Mr. Tennyson remarked that his father was highly educated—more so than many teachers of his day—and that he was a fluent speaker of French.

His mother's proficiency in making linen thread out of flax is an indel-

Lord Halifax Speaks On Liberty Of Church

LEEDS, Eng., June 20.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The nonagenarian Lord Halifax in opening the Northern Anglo-Catholic Congress here yesterday afternoon dwelt at length on the liberty of the church and spoke strongly against going "cap in hand" to Parliament to ask for its rights.

"I want to state clearly and distinctly," he declared, "we are not likely to secure liberty by asking it from parliament. None of the rights which have been gained in recent years would have been secured if we had asked for them. We got them because we have taken them. The authority of the church is from above; it does not come from below.

"There could hardly have been a greater mistake than that of the church congress in going cap in hand to parliament and asking it to do what they could have done themselves. Parliament, which embraces Jews, non-Christians and non-conformists of of every description, is not entitled to control the worship and discipline of the Church of England."

Young Man Drives Into Deep Water

Choosing the wrong place to water his team, George Ferguson drove into a deep part of the Otonabee river just north of the city yesterday and had a narrow escape from drowning. The young man was driving for Ollie Kelly, who is taking gravel out of the pit for the Warrenite company. There is a place up there where the men are accustomed to drive into the shallow water to allow their horses to drink, but Ferguson went in at the wrong place. The team swam out in the river and the boy sat in the wagon until the box floated off the wheels and upset. He was helped out by a lady living in a nearby house, who reached out with a long pole. The team turned and reached shore safely with the wheels, but the wagon box and bar and some articles which were in it were not recovered. The team and wagon are Mr. Kelly's property.

SERIOUS FIRE AT UNIVERSITY

Damage to Montreal Polytechnical School Amounts to $100,000.

CAUSE UNCERTAIN.

MONTREAL, June 20 (Canadian Press).—Fire this morning practically destroyed the Polytechnical School section of the University of Montreal on St. Denis Street. Early estimates placed the loss at $100,000.

The fire started at 6 a.m., and swept through the building with such rapidity that four hours' fighting by the fire department was necessary before it was finally put out at 10 a.m.

The building houses the Province of Quebec assaying laboratory and the industrial chemistry laboratory. It was stated that the fire may have been started by a smouldering coke stove left by plumbers, who had been working on the roof. It was also possible that an explosion may have occurred in one of the testing rooms.

The library of the school, which has more than 15,000 volumes of technical publications and industrial papers on its shelves, was saved from damage.

POLICE CHECKING UNLICENSED DOGS

Will Not Allow Owners Any More Time to Obtain Tags.

Several people who have dogs at large without a license already have appeared in Police Court on this charge. There are still a few in the city who have not yet obtained their licenses, and as these are known to the police, they are advised to secure them from police headquarters at once. Failing this immediate action will be taken.

THE WEATHER

While the weather continues to stay moderately warm, it lacks the genuine mid-summer temperature we are accustomed to associate with this season of the year. Highest point yesterday 78 degrees; lowest last night, 54 degrees.—W.P.

SOD TO COVER CONCRETE BASE

Parts of Memorial Expected In the City Within a Few Days.

WILL COST $32,500.

The appearance of the concrete base for Peterborough's war memorial in Confederation Square has been criticized by a number of citizens.

It should be understood, however, that this concrete foundation will not be visible when the work is completed.

It is merely there to carry the weight of the memorial proper, and will be completely covered by a terrace of sod.

The local committee expect that the various parts of the memorial will be shipped to Peterborough before long, and that the work of erecting the community's tribute to the memory of the war heroes of the city and county will be speedily carried out.

The feeling is general that the Peterboro city and county war memorial will be one of the most beautiful in Ontario. It has been designed and executed by Walter Allward, Canada's foremost sculptor, who for years has been in England and France in connection with the Canadian Government's war memorial.

The total cost of the Peterborough memorial is estimated at $32,500, of which some $26,000 has already been raised.

MISS EARHART BORROWS DRESS

Forced To Depend On Friends For Clothing at Present.

STUDIES SOCIAL WORK.

LONDON, June 20. — (Canadian Press.)— Miss Amelia Earhart, first woman ever to fly the Atlantic, faced the world to-day, just as Lindbergh once did, in borrowed clothes.

The Boston girl, who arrived in London yesterday with Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, her companions in the trans-Atlantic flight of the monoplane Friendship, was wearing a loose-fitting flowered dress when she held a little reception in the sitting room of her hotel suite which was rapidly becoming a bower of flowers sent by friends and admirers.

"Everything I've got to wear at present is borrowed, but then I'm not vain," she said, and her hearers agreed that she wasn't.

Miss Earhart was greatly refreshed after her night's rest. Her program to-day includes a luncheon with Mrs. Frederick Guest, sponsor of the flight ,and a shopping tour in the afternoon.

Will Study Social Work.

On vacation, as she expresses it, Miss Earhart intends to improve herself in her profession. She hopes to see how England carries on its social work, which she says is her profession, she told newspapermen last night.

Receivinfg the acclaim of London, she expressed a desire to visit various settlements and especially Toynbee Hall, educational and social centre in London's East End.

Stultz Given Credit.

Talking to London's assembled newspapermen to-day, Miss Earhart declared firmly and emphatically that during her brief stay in England she did not want to be subjected to "hero worship."

"I have done nothing to merit it," she said.

A friend then interposed the remark that Miss Earhart was distressed that she was occupying the limelight at the expense of Pilot Stultz. "That's just the point," Miss Earhart interrupted. "It is because I am a woman that I have been forced into the spotlight. Credit for the success of the flight is due Stultz. He controlled the plane practically throughout and was just splendid."

TWO MORE FIRMS BUYING UNIFORMS

Niblet and Long and J. Grady Drivers Being Equipped.

The Peterborough Bread De Luxe (Niblett and Long) is buying uniforms of dark grey and gold letters on the uniform cap. The uniform will be supplied by the Bicord Co., of Toronto, and will arrive in the course of a few days.

John Grady is also putting his drivers in uniform. Mr. Grady told The Examiner that these were to be a present to his men from him. The uniforms were ordered from the same firm, and will be of dark grey in color. The men have an option of the regular straight trouser or riding breeches. They expect to be uniformed within the next ten days.

Former Financier Held For Conspiracy

WINNIPEG, Man., June 20. — (Canadian Press).—W. T. Alexander, former president and general manager of the Great West Permanent Loan Company, was taken into custody yesterday by city police on a charge of fraudulent conspiracy.

The action by the Crown follows an extended investigation and is the aftermath of the placing of the so-called "Alexander group" of companies in the hands of receivers. The three companies were the Great West Permanent Loan Company, Canadian National Fire Insurance Co., and the Imperial Canadian Trust Company. Action against these companies resulted in a bitter legal battle which dragged on for more than a year.

WARDEN'S ROBE A SHOE DUSTER

Old Garment Has Gone But Regal Regalia Is Not Yet .

MERE SUGGESTION.

A somewhat facetious suggestion by Reeve H. B. Rye Tuesday afternoon that Warden Smithson should appear at the opening of the County Council in appropriately symbolic robes significant of the high honor and responsibility of the office of the Wardenship, failed to arouse a responsive echo. It floated around for a few moments in the chilly atmosphere, and was wafted out into the sunshine on a friendly breeze which elsewhere must have played upon ceremonial pomp and tradition.

(The County Council's solitary concession to formal dignity is in the induction of a new Warden).

And there's a hollow ring even to that bit of display, for the robe the chairman of the Council dons for his first entry to the chamber is a lawyer's court gown lifted from the otherwise empty wardrobe in what is designated in every court house as the barristers' room.

The present drab finery would probably pass muster at the Bar, nor offend a judge who might not be too fastidious about such decorous details. It seems to be of fairly recent vintage, whereas the old gown which was annually dug out of the lockers and dusted off to deck the new Warden was faded to a bottle green, worn and raveled about its shoulder tucks, but had somehow evaded the ragman. An unintentionally disrespectful reporter one day dusted off his boots with it, unaware of its sometimes honored associations and service.

Peterborough County Council is shy of red-tapery. It adheres to its little January gesture of formalism, a custom that could readily be enhanced by rich regalia, and then turns to the session's business. The councils of some counties have developed a dignity complex, and have adopted certain conventions that are intended to be impressive. Peterborough follows an unpretentious course, and if they should appear to neglect that ceremonious touch which so strongly appeals to some persons, they never have to apologise for any lack of honor and equitable dealing among themselves, nor for any remissness in the trust they receive from their constitutents.

For the present the County Council will not require a Master of the Warden's robes, but if the proposal, mooted recently in some counties, contemplating gayer plumage for the Warden, should be generally effected, Peterborough County Council will not be wanting in men who will wear the purple and ermine with grace and ease.

Apply for Grant

Adjutant Wallace Bunton of Toronto and Ensign Green of Peterborough, representing the Salvation Army, appealed for the usual grant to assist the Army's hospital work. "Any time you wish for our balance sheet we'd be glad to send copies to you."

J. B. Nelson, local representative of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, asked for a grant of $100 for prizes to be awarded at the county championship school fair, which will be held at the Norwood Fair this year. The Norwood Fair Board has contributed $150, but $100 more is needed.

"If we would develop it we would have a championship school fair on a par with the best in the country," Mr. Nelson said.

The Finance Committee will consider these two requests.

Police Think They Went To Western Ontario After Crime Early To-day.

NUMBERS "DOCTORED."

Careful Planning Shown in the Way Robbers Carried Out Their Operations.

TORONTO, Ont., June 20 (Canadian Press). — Although the police and detectives are scouring the city and surrounding districts with systematic vigilance, no trace has yet been discovered of the six armed bandits who shortly after midnight perpetrated one of the biggest, hold-ups ever staged in the history of Toronto.

Inspector of Detectives Guthrie announced this afternoon that the loss had been set at approximately $125,000.

The bandits held up the clerks of a Canadian National mail car at the Union Station and seized three bags containing registered mail routed for Detroit and Chicago.

As soon as the alarm was given police emergency cars sped to the scene of the robbery, but the robbers had made a clean get-away before the officers arrived.

Chief of Police Draper immediately took charge of the hunt, and the entire detective force was called out and sent to patrol the outlets from the city. All points near Toronto were notified to be on the watch for a large sedan used by the bandits which was equipped with license plates issued in 1924, but were "doctored" to appear like 1928 markers.

Headed West

As the bandits were last seen heading in a westerly direction, the police immediately informed all border points and towns throughout Western Ontario.

That the bandits carefully planned the robbery is shown by the manner in which they conducted affairs. They backed their car directly up to the mail car door and two levelled their revolvers at the clerks while two others entered the car and selected the bags they wanted. They tossed the bags to the cement runway, where their confederates seized them and threw them into the car. They then sped away.

The mail car was in charge of J. M. Farrow, of London, Ont. It is reported the bandits overlooked a large sum of money in another bag.

TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

BRANTFORD, Ont., June 20 (Canadian Press). — Members of the mail crew held up at Toronto Union Station early this morning were thoroughly taken by surprise, they confessed, when interviewed here as their train went through Brantford. They were Jack Farrow, F. N. Allen, and Gordon Robertson. Farrow stated he withheld six bags of registered mail from the bandits, despite a sawed off shotgun held into his ribs.

The mail car men did not get a description of the men. They did, however, notice that the robbers were young men.

There were no weapons of defence in the mail car, the mail crew said, and even if there had been, the surprise attack would have prevented any action by the clerks.

Numbers Checked

HAMILTON, Ont., June 20 (Canadian Press).—Police this morning checked the license numbers telegraphed them in connection with the Union Station mail robbery in Toronto and found that in each case the cars in question were privately owned here and had been in their garages all night.

The Hamilton authorities advance the theory to-day that the bandits who committed this morning's robbery were the same men who robbed The Detroit News offices about a week ago. It was pointed out that the description of the men was almost the same and their methods were very similar.

All Insured

TORONTO, June 20 (Canadian Press).—Inquiries made to-day reveal that practically all the losses sustained in last nights' mail robbery will be covered by insurance companies. All registered letters are insured up to the value of $25 by the payment of the registration free and the banks themselves insure all the money which they send out through the mails. The Canadian Bankers Association disclaims responsibility in the matter. "It is purely a matter for the banks and the insurance companies," said officials.

At least $10,000 of a total shipment of more than one quarter of a million dollars belonging to the Canadian Bank of Commerce was known to have been in the bags taken by the robbers, according to A. W. Campbell head accountant of the bank.

Employees Unarmed

OTTAWA, June 20 (Canadian Press).—Post office officials here said this morning that about 200 pieces of mail were taken by the thieves.

Asked why mail clerks did not have weapons to repulse the bandits, the officials stated that it was not customary to provide these employees with firearms.

MILLBROOK COUPLE RECEIVE PRESENTATION ON ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Smith Honored by Friends at Social Gathering.

DISTRICT NEWS

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, June 20. — A surprise party in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding-day had been planned by the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Smith, the event having been intended to take the form of a social gathering at the home of his sister, Mrs. John Armstrong, Eighth Line, Cavan, on the evening of Friday, June 15.

Owing to the bereavement in the family caused by the sudden death of Mr. Smith's father, the funeral taking place at Bewdley in the afternoon of the date in question, the party had necessarily to be postponed.

On Saturday evening, however, the surprise feature was carried out when a beautiful cabinet of silver was sent to Mr. and Mrs. Smith's home, accompanied by the following address:

To Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Smith,
Millbrook.

Dear Friends,—An anniversary occasion is an important event in the life of any one of us, and reaching the twenty-fifth milestone in your journey of life together carries with it such significance your many friends felt they could not let the experience pass unnoticed.

The recent bereavement within your family circle made necessary a change of plans, and the largely-attended social gathering which would have marked the evening of Friday, June 15, as a surprise feature for you both in nonor of your silver wedding anniversary, had necessarily to be given up.

As citizens of this community during all of your married life, and for some years previous to your union, you have won for yourselves a recognized place in local progress and happenings; you, Mr. Smith, are steadily climbing the ladder of success in your business career, and Mrs. Smith has given ready and constant assistance in the activities of the church to which you belong, and to which you both give financial support.

Your home has, on more than one occasion, been opened in a social manner for gatherings in aid of worthy, charitable causes, and your activities along this, and other lines equally commendable, have been fully appreciated.

As a token of the regard and esteem in which you are held, we ask you to accept this gift of silver, hoping, as it finds a place of daily use in your home, it may bring to mind that it is but an expression, in tangible form of the friendship gained through the years spent here.

Signed on behalf of your wide circle of friends,

Mrs. J. Perrin,
Mrs. C. C. Garside,
Mrs. J. McKnight.

Millbrook, June 15, 1028.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Milne.

We, your friends and neighbours, have gathered here to-night to express to you our regrets at your departure from our midst and our appreciation of you. Some credit for these traits must be given to the example and early training of your worthy parents in each case. We thank God for the influence of such lives in our midst. It is Seymour's loss but

LEGION MARKS ANNIVERSARY

Returned Men of Campbellford Attend Birthday Party of Local Branch.

MANY SPEECHES.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 20.—Still in its infancy, the local branch (103) Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., celebrated its first birthday by a banquet in the Parish Hall, Rear Street, last night. More than eighty members and ex-service men sat the tables, and after the dinner a most enjoyable program was presented by local entertainers. Major James Belford, Codrington, was the principal speaker of the evening. He was received warmly by the returned men, with whom he is a favorite. Unfortunately, Warden Davidson and Reeve Grills, of Seymour, were not able to attend owing to the pressure of business at the Counties Council. Major J. M. Bygott, president of the branch, motored back specially for the occasion.

The male quartette, Messrs. Bygott, Hazell, Henson, and Richardson, with E. C. Dolman at the piano, were popular as entertainers, both their numbers being encored. George Lucy, tenor, received a generous share of the applause after each of his numbers. Jack Storie's popular song hits were well received. Community singing went off with the same old pep that it did ten years ago when a few of the boys gathered in some secluded spot for a brief interval during the routine of general warfare.

The branch was fortunate in having Comrade Moore, Toronto, present. Mr. Moore was a delegate to the Dominion convention in St. John, N.B., and is returning to his home city. His remarks were interesting news coming, as they did, first hand from the convention hall.

Herb. Leonard, baritone, received applause that must have been gratifying to any singer. The diners would not be put off with one number, and when it appeared that this was to be the case, shouted for Mr. Leonard to be brought back. His encore was as well received as had been his solo number.

Major Belford.

As Major Belford, B.D., Codrington, rose to speak, he was greeted with a warm round of applause. As a speaker as well as a comrade of the Legion, the Major is always certain of a warm welcome by local ex-service men. The local branch had accomplished much by sticking together, he said, and there was still much to be done for the returned men. Until the coming of the Legion the red tape had been a barrier to many of the requests made by the returned men. All soldiers had a fair idea of what Army red tape was, but civil red tape was a thousand times worse, said the Major. It had the Army red tape "skinned four ways from the jack." This was something which the Legion was helping to overcome. It was to their interests to get behind the Government that gave the returned men the best deal.

"Do you recall how the bands played and the pipes skirled and how the hot air was whispered in our ears as we went overseas?" he asked. The returned men were promised many things then, now it was up to the country to make good its promise. If the country was worth saving, let it pay the price. People were talking

CAVAN INSTITUTE ORGANIZED IN 1913

Society Has Done Much Good Work in Community.

(Examiner Correspondence).

CAVAN, June 20.—Cavan Women's Institute was organized in 1913. Mrs. M. Milligan was the first president and Mrs. D. J. Hunter the first secretary.

Since that time Mesdames D. J. Hunter, R. Matchett, Miss Bertha McNeil, Mrs. F. M. Staples, and Mrs. R. M. Howden have served terms of varying length as president. Mrs. D. J. Hunter filled this position twice.

Mrs. R. M. Howden is our president and Miss Eileen Hunter secretary-treasurer at the present time.

The society has been a real live institution, and is still in that condition.

During the war it did much patriotic work, and since then has been active in community welfare, although frequently responding to calls for assistance from other places.

It seems to fill a place that is needed, as ladies belonging to all churches are joined together for the good of the community and to promote sociability. It has chaperoned many social gatherings for the young people; has arranged for short courses and last year financed a choral class, which was both a pleasure and a benefit to those who available themselves of the privilege of joining it. Altogether it is a real force for good in the community life.

Cycles to Toronto

A Coe Hill boy scarcely in his teens recently cycled from that northern village to Toronto to visit an aunt there. Two out of five dollars taken for expenses had been spent out on repairs to the machine when arriving at Bowmanville on the return trip, he collided with a truck with serious results to his bicycle, though escaping injury himself. Hailing a passing car the lad was given a ride as far as Trenton. From this town he was able to travel to Marmora on a fruit truck. At Marmora he was able to secure a car ride to Madoc where prospects of the journey being completed in comfort looked good.

W.M.I. Dance

A dance was held in the Town Hall on Monday evening under the auspices of the Women's Memorial League with Delmara orchestra in attendance. The attendance was smaller than usual, but those present had a good time.

Mr. Charles Jones has purchased a new car.

Mr. Desmond McGrath was home from Oshawa for a few days last week.

Oiling of the streets was commenced on Monday and appreciative comment was heard on the gravelling done afterwards.

COUNTIES COUNCIL DECIDES TO PAY HIGH SCHOOL GRANTS

Heated Argument Precedes Decision to Pay $12,000 Due For 1926.

'GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT.'

Deputation From Various High School Boards of Two Counties Attend Session.

(By Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, June 20. — Fireworks aplenty featured yesterday morning's session of the Northumberland and Durham Counties' Council when the Cobourg High School Board deputation as well as representatives of other school boards, on the same mission, waited on the council relative to the collection of school grants from the county for 1926, which had been delayed by a change in the High School Act, of which the various boards, as well as the council had not been immediately aware.

Whether or not any so-called "gentlemen's agreement" had ever been effected, and who of the various boards had been subscribers to it, was responsible for a heated debate, owing to the fact that many of the councillors considered this agreement sufficient reason for the non-collection of the grant while the Cobourg representatives as well as others present disclaimed any share in the agreement and contended that the grant was due by law, and therefore should be paid even though an agreement had been reached.

The agreement was said to have been reached by a number of representatives of school boards, following an interview with the counties' council, and while some contended that Dr. Ferris of the Cobourg board had been a party to it, the doctor denied any such action on his part. Heated remarks from both sides of the argument were declared general rather than personal ere the discussion closed with the council, as a committee of the whole passed the motion of H. Nelson of Percy and Reeve Thompson of Cobourg that the grant be paid not only to Cobourg but to all the school boards entitled thereto and that the writ issued by Cobourg against the council be discontinued.

By the passing of this motion the council agreed to pay in grants a total of approximately twelve thousand dollars to the various boards being grants of 1926 based on 1925 expenditures.

The gentlemen's agreement so often referred to was therefore unavailing though many of the councillors including Warden Davidson, maintained that it had existed.

Claims No Agreement.

R. G. Cochrane, assistant Crown Attorney of Cobourg, as spokesman for the Cobourg deputation, stated that his School Board had already stated its position. He frankly stated that there was no gentleman's agreement regarding the 1926 grant, so far as he knew, that even if there had been, it would not be binding until it had been approved by all of the Boards. The Cobourg Board had long ago made known its intention to seek the grant which the Act stipulate the counties should pay. "We intend to insist on getting the money. I leave the matter wih you for fair consideration," he concluded.

F. S. Gray, of Manvers, said he understood that the 1926 grant had been paid along with the 1927 grant.

Based on 1925 Payments.

Dr. Ferris said the grant of 1928 spoken of was based on the 1925 expenditures. He explained that a change had taken place in the School Act in 1925 of which he had not been aware until 1926. The Bowmanville Board had noted the change and had asked the Cobourg Board to come

NEIGHBORLY NOTES

A very successful garden party was held yesterday under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association on the lawn of the residence of Mrs. R. Neill, Hunter street. The spacious and well-kept grounds lent themselves admirably as a beautiful setting for the occasion, and the patronage was excellent, while all supplies at the various amusement and refreshement centers were exhausted by the large number of people in attendance. High tea was served under marquees on the side lawn, with unseen, delightful music supplied through the kindness of Mrs. J. A. McKone, who moved her piano to the verandah of her nearby residence, as a convenience for the supper music and dancing program, and also loaned her Orthophonic later in the evening. The tables were attractive with flowers in bowls and silver vases—Iris, bridal wreath, lemon and white lilies, and peonies being used, with smilax. The flowers of the garden, the colored lights and Japanese lanterns in the trees and the smooth greensward provided a lovely background for the gaily-attired dancers in a program of folk and aesthetic numbers. Older girls were in soft blue and sand-colored chiffons, Dutch costumes of Delft blue and white, and the gay red and yellow the Russian Trepak dance, while the little tots were cunning as Flower Babies and Naughty Cats. On the front lawn were the shawl-draped tents of the fortune-tellers with a witch's kettle of iron and a hurdy-gurdy to draw the crowd. Soothsayers in red and yellow skirts, white blouses and bright red head bands, with many bangles, told fortunes with tea-leaves and palm-reading. There was an ice-cream table, a fish pond and a sale of candy in dainty little flower baskets of green and yellow paper. Ladies in charge of the various sections were as follows: Mrs. E. E. Harvey, advertising committee; Mrs. L. J. LeClair and Mrs. J. Harkness, convenors of the garden party; Mrs. Alice Warne, Miss M. Jory and Miss D. Moir, tea committee; Mrs. H. Beal, convenor of tables; Mrs. J. J. Doris and Mrs. H. W. Darcy, in charge of afternoon tea; assistants for high tea: Mrs. R. Hicks, Mrs. T. McWilliams, Mrs. H. W. Morphet, Mrs. F. Hooper, Mrs. A. THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

FROM one who signs herself "Keeper of the Stars" comes this interesting verse:

Take time to love me, dear; life is so long
When listening hearts hear not love's old sweet song.
One grows engrossed—alas!—in work or play,
And puts off loving for another day.
Another day may see our ship in port!
Take time to love me now. Life is so short!

It seems so strange to consider black as a possibility for sports wear, doesn't it? A very smart-looking sleveless frock of black crepe de chine for sports wear is shown in one George street store. A little round collar is also scallopped and piped with the white, while a smart black tie and a white diamond monogram add a little finishing touch.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The fashion for all-white is shown in this afternoon costume, consisting of simple white crepe de chine frock, white felt hat, white gloves, and white shoes, worn with sheer white stockings.

Every woman looks well in an all-white ensemble—even the woman to whom white is not especially becoming. It may sound foolish to suggest ever wearing a color that is not especially becoming. But in the case of white there are some women of a dark complexion who might look better in a cream white than in pure white—from the point of view of mere becomingness. And yet the pure white ensemble is so refreshing on its own account that even these women may well afford to take advantage o it occasionally.

One of the leading French dressmakers—I think it was M. Worth—says that women do not wear all white nearly so much as they should, and waxes quite eloquent over the charms of the all-white costume.

Smart as black and white are at present, all white is usually an even better choice for summer. But in choosing the all-white ensemble one must take the same care that is necessary in choosing the all black ensemble. Even in pure white, as in black, there are many shades, and sometimes the difference in tone is due simply to the texture of the material. The most successful white frocks are those made with self-trimmings and the smartest effects are obtained when not a single touch of color is added.

White coats have come into great favor, but will, of course, be spared the fate of over-popularity by reason of their very whiteness. Most of these new white coats are made in simple tailored fashion and the materials usually chosen are white flannel or fine cheviot.

The all-white coat of dull-surfaced woolen material—such as flannel—with one of the new plain white felt hats makes a sports ensemble of decided smartness. It is a very good choice for wear at seashore or lakeside this summer. With these summer white ensembles all-white shoes are usually chosen and at present the choice seems to be in favor of sheer white stockings instead of the sunburned tones that were worn with the white ensembles at the winter resorts earlier in the year.

Is Foreign Divorce Valid In Canada?

Toronto, Ont., June 15 (CP).—The public press in its query columns often gives valuable information much in request. On the question of whether or not a foreign divorce is valid in Canadian courts the authority says—It is valid if the foreign court had jurisdiction over the husband arising from a bona fide "domicile" and "residence" by the husband within the jurisdiction of the foreign court. A residence merely for the purpose of obtaining a divorce is not sufficient. A decree of divorce obtained where there is not a bona fide "domicile" may be good in the state or jurisdiction where it is pronounced, but may be disregarded by the Canadian courts. Where the laws of a country make the wife's domicile that of her husband, a divorce obtained by her from a court in that country where her husband does not reside is prima facie invalid, unless the husband admitted or submitted to the jurisdiction of the court by entering an appearance and defending the action. In case of subsequent marriage, a valid decree of divorce is a sufficient defence to a prosecution for bigamy.

LITTLE GRAY CAR

By CHARLES TILTON

Olive swung the bag careless'y as she walked; it was a beautiful thing, of oriental brocade in peacock shades. Larry Deane had given it to her on her birthday, shortly after their engagement, and she cherished it above all her treasures save the beautiful luster of diamonds on her finger. Because she was quarreling with Larry, she had willfully included the bag in her wrath and twisted it mercilessly on the end of its golden cords.

"The cord will break and you will lose the bag," cautioned Larry.

Olive pondered provokingly. "There are some really precious things in it—my vanity case, my gold purse, the philopena gift Joe Watterson gave me, one of his letters, and—"

"Isn't that enough?" glared Larry, for they had been disagreeing about Joe's attentions to Olive.

"Enough letters from Joe? Well, he is interesting, Larry—so good tempered. One enjoys him, you know."

"I know one who doesn't enjoy him—although he's a cheerful sort of an idiot."

"The cheerful ones are the nicest, just the same," tossed Olive over her shoulder as his little gray roadster turned into the driveway of her father's house.

"Hmmmm!" remarked Larry disagreeably.

As he helped her out and she released her hand, he discovered that she had left the cluster-of-diamond ring in his palm. He grew white and stared at her.

"You mean that, Olive?"

"Of course."

"Why?"

"You do not trust me—you are jealous."

"I am sorry you believe that—I said nothing until you criticized my dancing with Ella—well, what does it matter? If you really cared, you could not play with happiness in this way. Goodby," he said, and jumping into the little gray car, which had been their companion on so many joyful occasions, and which had been the scene of their betrothal, Larry drove madly down the drive.

On the veranda, Olive watched him with unbelieving eyes; as he went the gray car became a blur because she was crying. When her mother inquired why she wept, Olive confessed that she had lost her beautiful brocade bag.

"How careless," chided Mrs. Dare. "Perhaps it is in the car dear. Shall I telephone to Larry?"

"No—no—please do not! I have given Larry back his ring—and I've lost his bag—and I—I—ne-ver want any of them back again," announced Miss Dare in a wavering tone.

"You have lost something very precious," remarked her mother sadly.

"The bag didn't have much in it—just a bread-and-butter note from Joe Watterson and a few other things."

"I did not mean the bag—I meant Larry," was Mrs. Dare's quiet reply.

"Some bird!" ejaculated Larry, as the little gray car poked along through a pleasant byway off the road home. His gaze was fixed on a bit of brilliant blue-green perched in a shade bush beside the road. The sun caught the sheen of gold and tossed back the brilliance of a peacock's plumage.

"Olive's bag!" he ejaculated; recognizing it with a pang, and the little gray car stopped abruptly. Larry took the bag from its perch and studied the gorgeous peacocks woven into the fabric. The golden cord that served as a handle was broken and he realized that, in the heat of their argument, Olive had unwittingly swung the bag once too often and lost it. Perhaps she had done it intentionally, something whispered in his ear, but he dashed suspicion aside.

Jealousy came to take its place. She had said Joe Watterson's letter was there—ruthlessly he pulled the bag open and looked; the golden purse, the docile pencil Joe had given her—it looked like a stick of peppermint candy—some letters which he recognized as his own—and one pe ciled scrawl which might be Joe's. Suddenly, he did not care about Joe. His own letters made the bag precious to her—naughty little thing. He must bear with her! He had not touched the contents of the bag, and now he dropped the engagement ring inside and drew the cord tightly just then he heard footsteps; hurrying.

Larry hung the bag on the shade bush and the little car scampered to a bend in the road and waited breathlessly. Larry peered through the underbrush.

It was Olive.

She was hatless and quite pink with running. There were traces of tears on her soft cheeks and her lips were very pathetic.

When she saw the brocade bag she uttered a soft cry of pleasure, and snatching it from the bush, hugged it to her lips.

"You dear, dear thing!" she sobbed, "you are all that I have left—"

That is what she really said; for Larry had stolen upon her and heard her just in time to hold her very tightly in his strong arms.

"Is it too late for happiness, dear?" he asked the repentant girl.

"Not—if you can forgive my folly," she whispered.

"Then—let us say it will never happen again—and the ring is in the bag—"

At last when they were seated in the car and Larry had started it, Olive turned swiftly.

"What was that sound?"

Larry said he didn't know, but I think he suspected it was a quiet chuckle from the sympathetic little gray car.

What's a Muffet? M-m-m!... Listen!

It's light as a patty shell. Its crinkly top is butternut-browned. It nestles in your cereal dish as if made to order!

It's pure whole wheat. Firm, meaty grains, cooked, drawn out to a ribbon so filmy thin, so fine-spun, there's three whole yards, wound round and round, to every Muffet! Toasted crunchier than toast itself! Crumbles in the mouth like oven-crisped crackers.

All whole wheat's health qualities—vitamins, calories, bran. Easy digestibility. And, best of all, corking good to eat!

Serve Muffets at breakfast tomorrow, with cream and sugar. Or add fruit. Enjoy one yourself, and get an extra treat out of watching the rest of the family enjoy them! The Quaker Oats Co.

A REAL OUTING FOR THE BOY.

The action of the Peterborough Rotary Club in offering a holiday in camp at cost to local youngsters solves the problem that possibly has been worrying many parents: that is the problem of how their sons can obtain at low cost a safe and enjoyable outing.

Camp Skookum is to be operated this year with a program in keeping with the most expensive boys' camps in the country.

It offers an abundance of healthful sport under the direction of an experienced manager—rowing, paddling, canoe trips, baseball, quoits, gymnastics.

Swimming instruction by experts will be provided.

While there is no unnecessary discipline, the absence of evil environment is guaranteed while it is scarcely necessary to add that there will be no class or religious distinctions made.

It is worthy of note that in four years' operation of this camp there have been no accidents.

The Examiner in calling attention of parents to this splendid opportunity of a real vacation for their sons would advise consulting members of the Rotary Club in regard to Camp Skookum.

THE NEW REGULATIONS.

Complaints are already being heard that the new parking by-law is going to interfere with business and that the elimination of left hand turns at George and Charlotte streets will have the effect of driving tourist trade from George street.

It is too early to pass judgment on either of these regulations in so far as their effect upon business is concerned.

It is not, however, too early to recognize that from the viewpoint of safety and convenience to the greater number, both innovations are justified.

The elimination of left turns has obviously improved conditions at the city's main intersection, both for motorists and for pedestrians, removing a very likely cause of accidents at this corner.

In so far as the parking by-law is concerned the absence of congestion in the business section is a matter of observation; the streets are freer of motor cars than they have been for a long time and conditions are both safer and better.

It may be that the regulations may prove an inconvenience to some people and even that they may interfere with tourist trade but it it to be hoped that these drawbacks, if they do materialize, will be more than offset by the avoidance of congestion and the elimination of accident hazards.

DON'T OVERCHARGE THE TOURIST.

With tourist traffic beginning to make its appearance the warning, "Don't overcharge the tourists", issued by the Federal Department of the Interior, is both timely and important.

It may be recalled that The Examiner referred to this question at the close of last year's tourist season, calling attention to the fact that the Department of the Interior had received many complains of extortion at the expense of summer visitors.

Probably the number of these cases has led the officials of that Department to send out the present warning.

In any case it should be noted and acted upon by everybody who has business connections with our American visitors.

Good spender as he is, the average tourist is also a good business man who knows when he is being overcharged and resents it sufficiently to cause him to fight shy of a district in which he is regarded as a "good thing."

This tourist industry is not a one-season affair; it will continue indefinitely and increase steadily so long as it is not killed by extortionate prices.

To overcharge is a short-sighted policy that will speedily prove disastrous and the Department of the Interior is doing the whole country a real service by stressing the folly of such treatment of our friend from over the border.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

The Highway Safety Committee is to be congratulated upon the nature of the advertising it is using in an effort to make the people of Ontario traffic conscious and thus create safer driving conditions on Ontario's streets and highways.

If this improvement can be brought about by propaganda—and The Examiner is confident a great deal can be done in that way—the series of newspaper advertisements the committee has been publishing can surely be counted upon to do the work.

In their illustrations, as well as in their wording, these warnings are graphic and arresting; the recent advertisement in regard to the necessity of keeping in line on curves is an outstanding example of an effective, easily understood, easily remembered warning against a practice that has contributed largely to the accident record and the death toll on Ontario's highways.

Among people who think these advertisements should be decidedly effective; for those who rarely or never think something more drastic may be necessary—perhaps a withdrawal of the privilege of driving an automobile would be the simplest and most successful method of all.

The "cut-in" fiend, the driver who persistently passes others on hills or curves, the motorist who ignores the speed limit under circumstances where fast driving is dangerous to himself and others, may in the general interest have to be pronounced unfit to be entrusted with the control of an automobile.

MIGRATION STILL HALTED.

And yet, after maturely examining the whole question through a parliamentary committee, before which all voices were supposed to be heard, though some complain that some condemning information was suppressed, the indications are that there is to be little change in the methods that have so failed to fill the country. Is this to be wondered at? The existing procedure is the resultant of all the forces being brought to bear on government, and those forces are pretty much what they were. The conditions are like those in a crushing crowd. Those behind cry forward, and those in front cry back. Labor insists that there must be none but agricultural immigration. There is practically no natural source of agricultural migration except from continental Europe. The West cries out passionately against "these foreigners," and the East demands equal favors for its own folk. It looks a little like as though, while every one wants more people, nobody wants the people we can get. In statesmanship decisions are usually reached on political grounds, which, being translated, means, on the way the people want, or more precisely, the way those who influence the people's votes want. We may therefore assume that the policy followed is that indicated by the greater number of votes, and therefore, as far as the suffrage is an indication, what the people want. The only kind of immigration against which there is no outcry is that of boys trained to the farm. And yet people cannot get busy in that line without being denounced before the country or suspected of other than public motives. Of course, after some cosseting there are some saucy boys. Men of local influence might well follow the example of G .A. Gillespie, of Peterborough, a former member of the Ontario Legislature for that city, who has constituted himself the go-between of the Peterborough farmer sorely needing help, and the young worker of the Old Land growing up with little prospect of finding his niche in society. Mr. Gillespie gets no "rake off"; his work is done as an act of public service in the scanty leisure afforded him by a strenuous business career; but his success in placing hundreds of young men and boys on the farms of Peterborough County is an indication of what might be done were the department of utilize the voluntary efforts of men of like public spirit all over the Dominion. But the greatest and practically only effective immigration agent is the prosperous settler. Could we not stop making him the burden-bearer for the privileged manufacturer? There is still the advice of the ancient prophet, "That ye break every yoke."—Montreal Witness.

DR. ELIOT'S ADVICE.

(An Editorial for Young People)

The late Charles W. Eliot, one of Harvard university's greatest presidents, once wrote a treatise on "What Possessions or Acquisitions in College Lead to Success in After Life." Extracts from this article will be printed in the Harvard's Crimson's booklet for incoming freshmen, and since they are thought well enough of to be taken as a guide to these young college men, they are surely worth consideration by the youth of Canada. President Eliot places first on the list what he calls "an available body", by which is meant a strong and healthy body. He is careful to point out that he is not thinking of the athlete, with his muscle development but the average young person, with good digestion, a healthy circulation, steady nerves and a quiet mind. It may be said that it is not possible for every one to get these desirable qualities by merely wishing for them. Health is often a matter of inheritance, and physical defects cannot always be overcome. Yet it is certain that very much can be done by taking due care of our bodies, going in for the right kind of exercise and forming regular habits. A steady life usually brings steady nerves; good digestion and healthy sleep come with right living and right thinking. One's first duty is to see that we treat our bodies right; for without a sound body it is not possible to accomplish much.

The second thing which President Eliot lays down as essential is the "power of sustained mental labor." For the college student this is absolutely necessary if he is to do well. This power is only to be obtained by self-discipline. The more one applies oneself to mental labor, the easier it becomes. It is like the use of the muscles of the body. If a person is lazy, rarely taking exercise, the least exertion tells on him; but if he is active and accustoms his muscles to steady work of any kind, they respond without causing fatigue. It is the same way with the mind; by making a regular practice of studying, it is found that what at first was a severe tax soon becomes a pleasure. The next essential the president discusses is the formation of habits of independent thinking "on books, prevailing customs, current events." This is important. It is so easy to take our opinions ready-made, which are really not our opinions at all, but some one else's. Indepedent thinking is harder, but it is worth making the effort, for until independence of though is established, true developments cannot come. Other qualities which it is desirable to cultivate, in the opinion of Dr. Eliot, are the habit of quiet, unobtrusive, self-regulated conduct; reticence and reserve. Not making too many acquaintances, but forming a few intimate friendships. Finally, he urges the young collegians to cultivate character—the student should "carry in his face the character so plainly to be seen there by the most casual observer, that nobody ever makes to him a dishonorable proposal." This is a high ideal; but one which every young person who would amount to anything should strive heart and soul to attain.—Hamilton Spectator.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT

Conditions over the week-end showed a welcome decrease in the number of traffic accidents. Let us hope the improvement continues.

The advance guard of the summer army of tourists is arriving bringing reports of a greater invasion of Ontario than ever before. That means prosperity for merchants and better times for everybody.

Nothing has been heard of the suggestion that Miss Agnes MacPhail who wanted to fill in the Trent Waterway should be given a trip over the route in order to appreciate the magnitude of the task she suggested.

Canada is to send 87 representatives to the Olympic games. There may not be many sure point winners in the contingent but their presence at Amsterdam will be valuable from a publicity viewpoint.

If Mabel Boll decides to give up her attempt at an Atlantic flight she will deserve a special medal for her exhibition of common sense.

Three by-elections are to be fought out in Ontario during the last week in June, and no doubt the Government organizers will make every effort to show Premier Ferguson that they can win elections when he is out of the country.

John D. Rockefeller has a new great-granddaughter. Now some wretch of a paragrapher probably will tell us that there goes another dime.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The Question Box

G.S. Q.—Someone having started the argument in the city that the earth is flat, it is pertinent to ask you whether the Gulf Stream flows uphill?

A.—Such is, indeed the contention of Cap. Maury, who says that after emerging from the Gulf of Mexico the current broadens out toward the north and becomes more and more shallow. Its depth off the Island of Bemini is 200 fathoms, while off Cape Hatteras it is about 100 fathoms. Maury calculates the ascent at ten inches to the mile.

P.A. Q.—Tell me, please, the way of telling a person's age. Isn't this a good stunt for a party?

A.—Let the person whose age is to be discovered do the figuring. Let her put down the number of the month in which she was born, and proceed as follows:

Number of month	8
Multiply by 2	16
Add 5	21
Multiply by 50	1050
Add her age, 18	1068
Subtract 365	703
Add 115	818

She then tells you the result, without showing you any of the work, and you announce that her age is 18 and she was born in August, the eighth month. The two figures to the right give the age, and that on the left the month the birthday comes in.

GOD'S MINUTE

The Lord loveth the righteous.—Ps. 146:8.

O Lord, our God! We present ourselves to Thee in the Name of Jesus Christ Thy Son, our Saviour. Give us a joyous sense of our acceptance with Thee in Him. May the Spirit of Thy Son in us now cry "Abba: Father."

We would know Thee more and more. Reveal Thyself to us increasingly in Thy Word, and in the Spirit of Jesus, our Lord. We would love Thee; and we will serve Thee in all we think and say and do. Accept and seal us in all this, our Heavenly Father. Loving and serving Thee, we will love and serve all Thy creatures and especially our fellow men as members of the great family of God on earth. We will regard none of our powers or possessions as our own. We will seek every one of the other's good, and "thus fulfil the law of Christ.' Every day fulfil Thy Will and accomplish Thy purpose in and through us, and thus prepare us to meet Thee, and be with Thee, and be filled with Thee, and made Thy instruments in ever higher, righer, and more blessed service, through eternity.

We ask this not for ourselves alone, but for all Thy people, and finally for all mankind, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

LIFE'S VALUES

There is no doubt that the only thing which makes life worth living is working daily for God and for others. This is not inconsistent with thoroughly enjoying all the minor joys of life—such as a good game of golf or tennis or pleasant companionship—but the only thing which gives solid satisfaction is feeling each day that something is accomplished, something done to make the world a better place. I pity the idle man far more than the overworked man. "Better wear out than rust out", an old lady used to say to me, and I quite agree. It really is a variant of our Lord's saying, "He that loseth his life, shall save it.—The Bishop of London.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 20 (Canadian Press). — With the exception of a few sales of wheat to the United Kingdom the export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday continued of a limited character. The domestic trade in oats was fair and prices were about steady.

The local and foreign demand for spring and winter wheat grades of flour was again dull, but values for all grades were firmly maintained.

The undertone to the market for millfeed was firm under a good demand for all lines from local and United States buyers. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices were unchanged.

The egg market was moderately active with a firm undertone. The receipts were 3,914 cases.

Prices for all grades of potatoes were firmly maintained under a good demand from all sources.

The inquiry for imported beans was steady and prices ruled firm. Car lots of choice white hand-picked sold at $3.90 per bushel, ex-track, to arrive and broken lots at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

Butter prices scored a further advance of ¼c per pound, and indications are that they will go higher in the near future. The receipts were 646 packages.

A feature of the cheese trade was the further strength that developed in the market and prices were marked up another fraction. The receipts were 11,491 boxes.

HAVELOCK MASONIC LODGE ATTENDS DIVINE SERVICE

Rev. J. E. Gibson, of Toronto, Addresses Lodgemen at Anglican Church.

TALKS ON ORDER

(Examiner Correspondence,)

HAVELOCK, June 20. — On Sunday evening the annual Masonic service of Havelock Lodge, No. 435, was held in St. John's Anglican church, with Rev. J. E. Gibson of Toronto, in charge of the service.

Mr. Gibson selected his text from Matthew 5, verse 9: "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God," and his discourse very clearly defined what it means to be a peacemaker.

He said there was a vital necessity for bodies of men to go about adjusting wrongs that exist whether preventable or unpreventable, and the Masonic Order by constitution and by objective, was simply aiming to make peace in the right understanding of that term, and he commended their work in adjusting distracted situations, where sickness and trouble has come into the home, and in this way they were bringing peace.

The most striking thing about the beatitudes was that there was no action called for, no mention of church attendance, creed, etc. It is all in what a man is going to be, is what will bring a blessing. The one chosen for the text requires a man to take a positive stand. There was just one duty—not to preach, teach or wage war, but to make peace. The task of every organization should be to place the religion of Jesus Christ high above everything else, and the matter of restoring peaceful conditions to unhappy lives was the highest duty left on any man or society.

In closing Mr. Gibson quoted the words of our Saviour: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."

WEDDING BELLS

GARBUTT—TUCKER.

WESTWOOD, June 20.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday evening, June 14, at six o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Tucker, of Indian River, when their younger daughter, Gladys Victoria, became the bride of Ernest Lorne Garbutt, only son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Garbutt of Lakefield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. H. Moyer of Norwood, assisted by Rev. H. B. Herrington of Warsaw.

The bride, leaning on the arm of her father took her place on the lawn, under an arch of evergreens and mauve and white flowers.

She looked very charming in dainty gown of white crepe romaine over satin, with trimmings of lace and narrow satin ribbon, and wearing white silk hose and silver slippers. Her veil was arranged in cap fashion, caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and lily of the valley.

Her only attendant was the groom's youngest sister, acting as flower girl. She was dressed in a pretty little gown of maize creep de chine, and he carried a basket of sweet peas. The bride's only sister, Mrs. Stanley Judge, played the wedding march.

After the signing of the register the guests, numbering about forty-five, sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner. The dining-room was decorated with gold and white streamers and small bells, while bouquets of tulips and lily of the valley filled dainty vases on the tables.

A pleasant feature was the fact that the bride's parents were also celebrating the twenty-ninth anniversary of their wedding. The groom's gift to the bride was a green gold wrist watch; to the flower girl a signet ring, and to the pianist a console set.

Later in the evening the happy couple left, amid showers of confetti and the good wishes of their friends, for a brief honeymoon trip by motor, through parts of Western Ontario.

The bride travelled in an ensemble suit, a navy tricotine coat with trimmings of grey squirrel and small blue hat to match. Her dress was navy georgette over satin, trimmed with silver, with matching shoes, hose, gloves and purse.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Garbutt will reside on the groom's farm near Lakefield. Guests were present from Peterborough, Hamilton, Toronto, Essex, Lakefield and other points.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM WALTER KIDD

A particularly sad death occurred in Dummer township when William Kidd, while ploughing in the field, was stricken with heart failure and passed away before medical aid arrived. Mr. Kidd was one of Dummer's best known and respected residents. He was essentially a man of home and his untiring industry developed for him his present most comfortable home, "Maple Glen Farm." Mr. Kidd was a man of kind heart. His word was as good as his bond and his integrity of character won for him the esteem of many friends. He was a member of the Warsaw Baptist Church of which he held the office of secretary and treasurer for ten years. Mr. Kidd was in his 66th year, belonging to the third generation of one of the oldest pioneer families of Peterborough county. His father, the late Robert Kidd, was born in Perth and moved with his father, the late Alexander Kidd, who came to Dummer about 100 years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Etteline McMaster; one son, Howard; one daughter, Mrs. Russell W. Jenkins of Dummer. He was the youngest son of the late Robert Kidd and the last surviving member of a family of seven, namely: Mrs. James McGee, Mrs. Donald McNaughton and Miss Christina Kidd, Robert, Alex and Edward.

Mr. Kidd's grandfather came from Scotland and settled in Perth county and finding the country too damp moved to Dummer in the thirties and settled on the farm now owned by William Kidd's son, Howard. William Kidd's father, Robert Kidd, was the youngest son of Alex Kidd and Howard Kidd is the only son of William. Howard is the fourth generation to hold the farm, which was an unbroken forest when Alex Kidd moved on to it with eleven children, five boys and six girls.

BERT STUART RENNIE.

An exemplary Christian gentleman ,a most devoted husband and father and universally beloved friend has passed away in the person of Mr. Bert Stuart Rennie, who was laid to rest in the Presbyterian cemetery last Wednesday afternoon in the presence of the sorrowing family and a large number of friends whom he has won to himself through kindness extended during his life spent almost entirely in Woodstock, which closed after a very brief illness, at sunset on Monday.

He was a son of George and Jane Patullo Rennie and was born at Sweaburg, June 25, 1873, and passed away June 11, 1928. He was a nephew of the late Andrew and George Patullo, both prominent and highly respected citizens of Woodstock. Of his own family ,two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Gamble, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Clara Montgomery, of Peterborough, with two brothers, George of San Francisco, and Thomas, of Detroit, survive.

He was married July 25, 1893, in Brantford, to Miss Margaret Garvin, who with the only daughter, Mrs. Charles Davison, of Hamilton, are left to mourn his passing. When a lad of only 13 he entered the employ of the Bain Wagon Company and with the exception of two years spent in Hamilton remained constantly in their employ and was inspector of the present plant, now owned by Massey-Harris Company, at the time of his demise. Always a kindly, courteous, companionable man, who fixed his place by his sincere and unaffected ways, his cordiality, helpful disposition, and above all, his loving heart he stood habitually on a high plane and his habits of righteous living formed a character whose force will be long felt.

In Knox Presbyterian Church, he was an honored and devout member, adhering strictly to the faith of his Highland Scotch parents, and in the absence of his pastor, Rev. E. Gillfillan Thompson, Rev. P. Thornton Meek officiated at the funeral service on Wednesday, when the I.O.O.F. Lodge and Foresters attended in a body, honoring him with their burial service, both at the church and the cemetery. Exquisite floral tributes testified to the general esteem in which Mr. Rennie was held. The pall-bearers were W. McLaughlin, J. Mercer, James Saunders, Herbert Watson, Lorne McGinnis, I. J. McBurney, Herbert Baker, W. Stricker.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

GEORGE WASHINGTON REID

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, June 20.—The funeral took place last week of George Washington Reid, one of the oldest residents of Warsaw. The late Mr. Reid, who was 96 years of age, died at the home of his son Herbert in Gananoque, where he had lived of late, since his health began to fail.

Mr. Reid was born in Vermont but came to Warsaw when he was twelve years of age. He was educated in Vermont and in Warsaw and for many years kept a store in Warsaw. He was a staunch member of the Presbyterian Church, of which he was treasurer for 50 years and an elder for 30. He was for a time treasurer of the Agricultural Society. Mr. Reid married Margaret Anderson, who died forty years ago. There were four children, Mrs. Thompson of Port Elgin, who died five years ago, Archie, who died twenty-five years ago, John of Saskatchewan, and Herbert of Gananoque.

The service at Warsaw Presbyterian Church was conducted by the Rev. Hugh Brown of Havelock, formerly minister at Warsaw, and interment was made in Warsaw cemetery, where he was laid beside his wife. The pall-bearers were George Brown, Uriah Payne, Thomas Rose, Wallace Andreson, James Hawthorne, and Albert Reid.

In his sermon Mr. Brown compared lives of men to lives of leaves. God and nature both tell that life must pass, and they tell the same story in the same way, for God is the author of nature. Some last long, some fade slowly, some pass quickly, and all because their work is done. In speaking of Mr. Reid he said he had many close friends, and none closer than he. In business he was absolutely honest, and he walked fearlessly before God.

Neither of his sons was well enough to attend the funeral. Mrs. Herbert Reid and two children came from Gananoque. Many nephews and nieces and their families were present.

MARMORA RESIDENT IS ACTIVE AT 94

ible memory with him. He has farmed all his life and spent seventy-one eight years ago, he was carried in eight years ago, he wa smarried in Madoc by the Methodist minister then officiating in that village, to Rachel Baker of Madoc Township. His wife died on May 17, 1909. Of nine children blessing the marriage, seven are living. They are Samuel of Timmins, Wallace of Waitville, (named after his wife), Jonas of the Cobalt district; Mrs. John Burns of Marmora, Mrs. Wellington Billings of Marmora Township, Mrs. Abe Derry of Gilmour, and Mrs. Angus Bronson of Tacoma, Wash. Two sons, Robert and George, passed away several years ago; of his grandchildren, Mr. Tennyson says: "I haven't been able to keep track of them all." One brother Philip, now in his seventy-eighth year, is resident in Toronto. Mr. Tennyson expressed his regret that some interesting books belonging to his father had been destroyed in a fire at his brother's home in Lucknow, Ont., at harvest time some years ago. Asked when he milked his last cow, he replied, "Three years ago." This year, however, he planted his daughter's garden with almost all the vegetable seed nameable. Some years ago he took to spectacles for a short while, but, said this nonagenarian suddenly and with great earnestness, "I'll tell you what I can do, and I am ready to prove it. I can thread a needle without glasses." Hearing is his only impaired faculty, yet he can hear the average human voice without much difficulty. He still rises at five in the morning and maintains his other old habit of early retirement for the night.

He is quite fond of his pipe, his first smoke being taken when thirteen. He recalled that the late William Bonter asked him to accompany him to Belleville for the Confederation Celebration in 1867, but he was too busy to get away.

Only one circus ever visited Marmora and that was about thirty-five years ago. "It was a tail end of a circus," said Mr. Tennyson, in describing it. "It only had one good thing to it, and that was the diving of a man from the height of a hundred feet."

Recalls Early Days

Mr. Tennyson remembers the late James Jarvis of Madoc Township as being the best local plougher of half a century ago. In this interview tinged with humor, he further remarked that folk in those early days didn't think much about watches. They were too busy and had too many watching them.

Disapproval of modern feminine costumes and of the use of cosmetics was one of his unsolicited topics. He jokingly predicted that the final pattern of such attire would be like the paper band around a cigar. He was first photographed many years ago in Peterborough on tintype. With others he posed as they came back to the city from a lumber camp near Fenelon Falls, which was operated by one "Lumber" Boyd of Peterborough. He admires a car and has little liking for the movies, though he claims the former is hard on the road. He has never joined a society. He recalls the usage of log school houses as places of worship and the sleighs which would make the periodical round to pick up one and then another until there was a full load on the way to worship. And as one gazed at this veteran son of the soil, there was the unspoken thought as to whether words of the illustrious poet might find echo in this relative's heart:

"Sunset and evening star
And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

COUNTIES COUNCIL WILL PAY GRANTS

with them to the 1927 January session.

This deputation called the attention of the Council to the change, explaining that it would mean an increase later.

The yearly expenditures were noted. There was no gentlemen's agreement even to the knowledge of the County Clerk. "On going back to the School Boards, we explained the situation. It was decided to make the request for the 1927 grant retroactive upon the 1926 grant, and when the County Council decided to pay the 1927 grant (which it did), but to withhold the 1926 grant, the writ was issued," said he.

A letter from a Bowmanville Board representative, read by the clerk, stated that all schools of the United Counties had been notified of the change in the Act as well as defining Bowmanville's position.

Mr. Sullivan, of Campbellford, who was at the meeting in January, 1927, said his Board was willing to abide by their agreement, but if the Cobourg and other Boards pressed for the 1926 grant, the Campbellford Board would also press its claim.

Recalls Agreement

The secretary-treasurer of the Newcastle board stated that his board had the same attitude as that of the Campbellford board. He recalled the "gentlemen's agreement" which had been made for the sake of maintaining harmony. The clerk was not present at the time.

A Colborne representative did not recall a notification coming to Colborne. Why was this not done? He had asked the Warden of that time about the agreement, but the Warden had disclaimed knowledge of it.

"We should work in harmony, and it would be wise to forego the matter," he declared.

H. S. Keyes of Colborne, who was chairman at the time said:

"The matter had been left with the Campbellford Reeve. The Bowmanville board did not notify us of the day on which the deputation would meet the Council as it had promised. Our board has instructed us to press for this grant. There was no notice of a 'gentleman's agreement'."

Colborne Asked for $50.

W. T. Wood said that Colborne had asked a $50 grant, which was really in lieu of the grant.

He recalled a meeting in 1927 and said that there was some understanding at the time.

H. S. Keyes of Colborne: "The $50 grant was a back Cadet debt which should have been supplemented by another $50. We're still looking for the $50."

Henry Fullerton of the Cobourg board felt that the grants were determined by Provincial legislation and therefore no agreement should be allowed to go unless vindicated by the courts of law.

Willing to Withdraw

F. J. Rosevear of Port Hope: "I feel that if an agreement has been made, it should be respected. We have our bill in, but will withdraw our bill if Cobourg does."

Mr. Fullerton: "Our claim is a legitimate one and we have no intention of withdrawing it."

F. D. Boggs, K.C., of Cobourg, County solicitor: "The act is there and there doesn't seem much to be said. The wording is that the Counties' Council 'shall pay...' I don't think the individual members had any right to forego that."

W. F. Elliott of Murray: "The Cobourg stand seems to be that no gentleman's agreement can over-ride a statute even though their representative should be a party to it. They are asking the grant because it is law. It is a question of whether they will or will not honor their representative of that time."

Would Pay It Himself

Dr. Ferris: "I feel that my word is as good as anyone's here. I'd pay that grant myself rather than be stigmatized by failure to keep a gentleman's agreement if I entered into one.

"We came in courtesy to the Bowmanville representatives. There were two representatives of the Cobourg School Board with me.

"We merely called the Council's attention to the change. We went into the lobby and looked up the figures. The other two went down town and I remained to secure the figures.

"I made no individual agreement with anyone. If I had I would have informed my board accordingly. I do not intend to be made a goat at the expense of my honor as a gentleman."

W. H. Nelson, of Percy— "Let us educate future generations to respect a gentleman's agreement such as there was in this matter. I do not dispute the doctor's word, but he did not object to it. If we've got to pay it, every school should be paid. "The school boards should have known what we owed them and sent in their claims on time."

Claim in Early.

A. R. Wilmott, of Cobourg, denied that the Cobourg board had not been on the job early.

Dr. Ferris stated that the council and not the schol boards should know what the accounts are between them.

Herb. Nelson, of Percy, moved that the council go into a committee of the whole with the chairman of the school board in the chair in order to settle the matter.

Knew It Collectable.

J. M. Byogtt, of Campbellford — "We knew that this debt was collectable all along, but had not paid it because we thought the gentlemen's agreement was being lived up to. True we knew that the claim was being pressed at the January session but had not expected it to be pressed so strenuously."

Mr. Nelson's motion was seconded and the council went into a committee of the whole with Mr. Bygott in the chair. Mr. Cochrane, in answer to Mr. Nelson's question, declared that Cobourg intended to press the claim. Mr. Nelson accordingly moved that the debt be paid and that all High schools and Collegiates and Continuation schools in the counties be treated likewise.

In seconding the motion George Thompson, of Cobourg desired that the stigma of cost at Cobourg should be recalled.

Warden Davidson— "There was a gentleman's agreement and no man had the right to demand an apology from any man who says so!"

W. S. Elliott—"I would take the council's word as soon as Dr. Ferris', though I have confidence in Dr. Ferris."

Mr. J. Holman of Clarke ,recalled the gentleman's agreement.

Dr. Ferris said he felt certain of his own position. "When the committee met the council in 1927 I came only as secretary of our board with two other members .I could not assume to bind that delegation and that is why I made no agreement."

Mr. Sullivan—"I recall Dr. Ferris saying at the meeting in the lobby that it might not be good business to press their claims. The impression was that we would not press the claims."

Warden Davidson—"I hope no one will feel that anything has been said in a perosnal way."

LEGION MARKS ANNIVERSARY

about having their noses close to the grindstone, but it was not so many years ago that the soldiers' noses were pretty close to these grindstones. He would like to speak on many things he said, but realized that there was not time, and that the men probably had not the patience.

At the end of the war, the men had had enough fighting ,and wanted to be discharged immediately. This had caused some men to sign off their pensions. Later their old complaints returned and the cases were made difficult on account of the impulsive but understandable action of signing off pension claims immediately after the war was over. Although understandable and impulsive, the action was also foolish, said the major.

The position of the Legion to-day was much the same as that of the two Irishmen who were the greatest of friends, but one a Presbyterian and the other a Roman Catholic. They were unable to understand each other's views and agreed to accompany each other to his church. The Catholic went first to the Presbyterian Church and the following Sunday the Presbyterian accompanied the Catholic. The service greatly impressed the visitor and part way through it he leaned over and nudged his friend, saying, "Don't it beat hell." The reply was "Sh-h! That's the idea." So it was to-day, the Legion had its own hell to face. The men had sacrificed homes, careers, businesses and everything in order that they might bear arms for Canada. They were led through the four years of the war and found themselves stranded. Those who remained behind were the ones who got the professions, jobs and money. It was certain that all the men could not go overseas, and such a thing was not expected. But those who did go over would like to have the difference made up to them.

The private life of the returned men had been criticized. They were again being referred to as "drunken soldiers." Such talk was "all rot." Cetrain it was that most returned men would take a drink on occasion. They had done so during the war. At that time, they were heroes and their actions were not to be criticized. Many of them had learned to drink while doing their duty for Canada. In his opinion, one of the chief reasons why the returned men had been so talked of, was that the people thought they had no friends and that the tongue of gossip must wag on somebody. The returned men were as good as any. They did not have to reprove themselves since they had already done so on the battlefields of the world war. It only remained to impress on the people that they were as good men in peace as they were in war.

Legion Could Be Stronger.

The Campbellford Legion was the strongest in the county, said the Major, but it could be stronger yet. He was pleased with the success that it had enjoyed in the past and hoped that all its members would co-operate for the future success of the common cause.

Major Bygott briefly thanked Major Belford, saying that the success of the first year of the branch had been due to the co-operation of all the members and not just to the efforts of one or two. The pension committee was doing considerable work in obtaining recognition for deservant cases. Financially, the affairs of the Legion were in good shape, all debts paid and a substantial bank balance.

Comrade Moore.

In response to the toast to the Dominion Command, Comrade Moore, Toronto, returning from the conference in St. John, N.B., expressed his pleasure at being present, and for having received the invitation by the good fortune of meeting a local member in Cobourg who was a member of his old regiment. He wished to congratulate the Post on its apparent success and on the success of the evening. He was also "real tickled" to meet several members of the regiment with which he went overseas.

Referring to the convention, Comrade Moore said that he had never attended a convention at which there was more solid work done. He felt safe in saying that there were not three men of all that were present who stayed away from any of the meetings. Compliments had been paid to the Legion for the methods of business followed in their offices at Ottawa and for the reasonableness of the requests made to the government. The Legion did not ask the impossible.

General Currie Chosen.

Although ill and not able to be present, General Sir Arthur Currie had been unanimously appointed president of the Dominion Command. Advised by wire of his nomination, Sir Arthur replied by the same method of communication: "If the boys are unanimous and want me, I will lead them." His election was unanimous, and a second telegram was sent to Sir Arthur advising him of the news. While passing through Montreal Mr. Moore had called on General Currie and found him very enthusiastic over his new office. Sir Arthur was not, from general appearances, as ill as the press had led the public to believe, Mr. Moore thought. But the General was far from enjoying his good health.

Comrade Moore mentioned that he had laid the foundations for three new posts while on his way back, one in the city of Montreal, one in Cobourg, and one in Alderville. The latter would be a small one but he thought the Indians should be given the same privileges as their comrades in the ranks. As the founder of Poppy day Mr. Moore advocated it as a support of the Legion branches. It was a means of getting the whole community behind the returned men, he said.

N. Alex. McColl.

In proposing the toast to the Legion, N. Alex MacColl, compared the Legion and the returned men to the fagots in the old story of the man who used the fagots as an object lesson to his boys. One returned man alone might be easily frustrated, but banded together in a legion, much greater force was required before they could be turned from their purpose. As a barrister, he had been in touch with the legal affairs of the local branch and had noticed how much greater results had been achieved by the branch working through official channel than could ever have been achieved by single returned men acting in their own behalf. The Legion was a body which spoke to the government and to whom the government replied. Previously, the questions of the returned men had frequently been shelved. The membership of the local branch had increased from the original twenty to almost one hundred members in the last 12 months, and much had been done by way of pensions.

Rev. Ernest Harston.

In response to the toast, the Rev. Ernest Harston said he believed that a kind of state of war existed and that the Legion would fight on to victory. He knew of no other men who were more greatly misunderstood. They were fallen idols, since they would in all probability not be worshipped again as they had been during the war. But the returned men were sure of victory since they were trained and experienced in warfare, fighting for the common cause, and they had tasted the fruits of victory. The same tactics and spirit must be used in their present struggle for what were their rights There must be a renewal of the real comradeship and loyalty of war days. Their war time qualities would win their peace time battles.

There were several army phrases which might be applied to the present situation. The men were "fed up" with the situation and when they were fed up, there was bound to be something doing. They must "stick it" as they did the mud and privations of the battle front when days hard and nights were harder. Although men often got the "wind up" when "Jerry" came over unexpectedly with a "soup" barrage, they invariably saved the situation. They must have the spirit of optimism and once again say "Cheerio." In closing Mr. Harston said, "Long live the Legion who will see fair play in the interests of the men who helped win the war and are now in need of assistance."

G. A. Ironsides.

G. A. Ironsides proposed the toast to the guests. He had enjoyed the several speeches and wished to express his appreciation. The Legion did not stand alone in its work but was assisted occasionally by the mayor and council of the town. The success of the branch was not the results of the efforts of one or two members but of the work of all members. During the year, the finances of the local legion had grown to appreciable proportions and the membership had also increased greatly. As a birthday present to the branch, five new membership applications had been handed in and these were presented to the president, Major Bygott. Comrade Ironside regretted the absence of the Rev. N. Clarke Wallace and the Rev. Father Phelan. Both gentlemen had been invited but had found it impossible to attend. They were staunch supporters of the work of the Legion, he said.

Mayor Kingston.

Mayor Kingston, in replying to the toast, wished to congratulate Major Bygott on being president of such a complete and active organization. The citizens of the town should be proud of it. Its founder, the late Earl Haig, was generally known as one of the greatest soldiers of his time and could have held high offices in civil life had he chosen so. But he was big enough to turn them aside and interest himself in the welfare of the returned men.

Mayor Kingston said he had known Major Bygott perhaps longer than anyone present, having known his parents, his father an Englishman and his mother a native of the Emerald Isle. The major had inherited the good qualities of both parents. The only regret was that there was not a trace of Scotch in his ancestry. Mayor Kingston had been greatly interested in the former speeches and more so since he had not been there. He was something like the little boy who told his father that he did not want to grow up to be an editor since he had read of an editor who dropped fifteen stories into a waste paper basket.

The co-operation which the Legion had used to such advantage was necessary in every business or social organization in order to achieve success. He was aware of the way in which cases had dragged on for months on end without any settlement being arrived at when handled by individuals. As to the men themselves Mayor Kingston knew of no other body of men with whom he would rather be associated. He hoped the Legion to those wh ohad assisted efforts to the fullest degree.

In closing, Major Bygott expressed the appreciation and gratitude of the Legion to those wh ohad assisted in making the evening a success and invited all returned men to become members or at least associate themselves with the Legion. He thought that every man should attend every meeting so as to the branch might function in the best interests of all concerend.

The last number on the program was the toast to the fallen comrades. This was proposed by J. S. Dickson and the response took the form of a two minute silence and the Last Post sounded by Comrade Walter Lowe.

THE MARKETS

corn growth led to general selling, and thinned out the buying.

Corn closed nervous, 2¼ cents to 3⅜ cents net lower, wheat at ¼ cent to ½ cent advance, oats ⅜ cent to 1⅛ cent down, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 20 cents.

Right from the outset, corn values were decidedly on the downgrade, and for the first time in weeks the July delivery sold at below $1.00 a bushel. With rains widespread throughout corn producing territory, and with more moisture and warmer temperatures forecast, speculative holders of future deliveries were eager to let go, and demand was confined largely to previous sellers who were in position to collect a profit. Much of the selling was on standing orders to stop losses at various fixed limits.

Under such circumstances, the corn futures market finished at nearly the day's bottom figures, although corn available for immediate use was relatively unchanged to ½ cent up. Meanwhile, fairly liberal buying of corn for shipment out of Chicago was in evidence, the total of these purchases aggregating 251,000 bushels: on the other hand, country sales of corn to Chicago amounted to only 21,000 bushels, and yesterday's arrivals here were but 55 cars. Available supplies of corn in North America decreased 3,721,00 0bushels for the week and are 22,077,000 bushels, a total of 12,680,000 bushels less than last year. Oats followed corn.

Wheat displayed firmness, although influenced at times by the bearish action of corn. Excessive rain in the harvest region south-west and official reports confirming serious crop damage in Kansas, were conducive to wheat buying. Cutting of wheat was announced as having begun both in Kansas and Missouri.

Provisions had an upward slant, owing largely to an advance in the value of hogs.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

GARRETT FOLSOM is sta bed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N.J.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancie of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichaq.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is puzzled by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folsom had been blackmailing him and he had lied at the inquest but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE, and begins quietly to work.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Ned Barron was a simple-minded, single-hearted man, whose only interest, outside his business life, was his devotion to his wife and child. Several years older than Madeline, he worshipped her as one might adore an idol, and if she sometimes sacrificed her wishes or preferences to his, it was not with his knowledge or consent. In the present instance, though she would have gladly gone away from the scene of this tragedy that had so disturbed her peace of mind, she knew of his liking for the place and took care not to let him know she would rather be elsewhere.

Fleming Stone, his dark eyes light with enjoyment of the whole scene, missed no point or detail of the conversation, and realized that, though the matter of Garrett Folsom's death was not entirely taboo, yet it was not openly discussed.

This might have been merely because it was no fit subject for table talk, but to Stone that did not seem the truth. He sensed a deeper reason, a subtler cause for the avoidance of the matter, or for a quick, decided change of subject if it chanced to be touched upon.

This impressed him, and he set to work to find out who were the ones most disinclined to refer to the business which had brought him down there.

And a few moments' consideration proved it to be Madeline Barron and her friend, Miss Fair.

This surprised Stone, until he realized that they were the only women present and naturally the feminine nature revolts from thoughts of gruesomeness or crime.

Yet it was impossible to keep away from the subject entirely.

On the entrance of Miss Anastasia and her nephew, they were, of course, pointed out to Stone as the relatives of Garrett Folsom.

When Roger Neville and two women appeared, they, too, were remarked as being of the party to which Folsom had belonged.

"What do you mean, a party?" Stone asked. "The ladies are not here with Neville?"

"No," Barron told him. "They are by themselves, the older one as a sort of duenna for the beautiful Carmelita. But Folsom and Neville were here together and they rather attached themselves, so that the quartet was a congenial one. Then after the tragedy Neville still remained attached, at least to the extent of sharing their table in the dining room, and acting as general cavalier."

"He was Folsom's partner?" Stone asked, watching Madeline from the corner of his eye and noting her restlessness.

"In some things. But Garrett Folsom had lots of interests and I doubt if Neville had anything to do with most of them."

Titus Riggs always sat alone at his table in the dining room. Often, however, his dinner over, he would saunter to the table of some friends and have his coffee with them.

He came now to the Barrons' table and was welcomed there.

"I bring a message," he said, as he accepted a cup of coffee, "from Miss Folsom. She has learned who our visitor is, and she demands an interview at the earliest possible moment."

"Demands?" and Stone raised his eyebrows a trifle.

"Yes, but Miss Folsom always demands. It's one of her little ways. Wha shall I tell her?"

"Tell her," Fleming Stone said, "that I will grant her demand, but in my own good time. Tell her tha I propose to have a ride in those chair things and that when I return I will keep any appointment she may make. We must see her, Sears, and her nephew, too, as soon as may be."

Stone's manner changed suddenly from gay banter to a serious tone, and then he invited the whole party to go on a chair ride, stipulating that he was to have Mrs. Barron as his companion.

He caught a faint flash of unwillingness in her eyes, but she accepted his invitation gracefully and they started off.

The night was pleasantly cool, and the gay boardwalk, with its color and lights, seemed to be the edge of the world against the black abyss of sea beyond.

After a few casual remarks Stone said, quietly:

"You know why I am here, Mrs. Barron. You know I must ask questions of any one from whom I think I can gain information."

"But you can't get any from me!" Madeline spoke almost hysterically. "Oh, Mr. Stone, don't talk to me about it!"

"That's why I brought you out here, so I could talk to you alone. For I'm sure it will be easier for you to tell me anything you have to tell without other listeners."

"But I haven't anything to tell."

"Then why are you so troubled about it all? Why are you so nervously sensitive to a tragedy that is dreadful, to be sure, but is of no personal grief to you? Or is it?"

"Oh, no, no! I had no personal interest in Mr. Folsom; I didn't know him, you see. But now I have come to know his sister and his nephew—"

"That isn't it. Pardon me, Mrs. Barron, but truly it will be better for you to tell me just why you are so deeply concerned in the affair."

Madeline Barron turned slightly until she faced her companion. Her eyes looked big and dark, for her face was white and her cheeks paled beneath her light touch of rouge.

For a moment she hesitated, then said:

"I will tell you. I am worried, because I fear there is suspicion being cast on Mr. Sears. His son, you know, is engaged to Miss Fair, who is my dearest friend. Should any trouble come to Croydon Sears, it will, of course, reflect on Robin."

"You mean," Stone said, gravely, "that you fear Croydon Sears is the murderer of Garrett Folsom?"

"Oh, don't put it like that!" and Madeline gasped. "But I—yes, I am afraid he will be suspected of that."

"I see," Stone said, speaking slowly. "And I understand. Now, Mrs. Barron, he is already suspected. Is there anything, anything at all, that you can tell me that has any bearing on the question of his guilt or innocence?"

"He is suspected?" Madeline spoke in a whisper, but her lips quivered and she showed a face of utter distress.

"Perhaps suspected is too strong a word at present, but the police are narrowing things down, and they have what they consider pretty direct evidence against"

"And the"

"It has come to their ears somehow that Mr. Folsom had a hold of some sort over Croydon Sears, and that he was about to use it."

"What nonsense! As if a man like Croydon Sears could be afraid of anybody!"

"A man may be fearless on his own account, and yet be disturbed on the account of others who are dear to him."

"Yes, that is true. You mean Robin, of course. Well, Mr. Stone, I wish I could help you. If I knew anything I would most certainly tell you. But I can only assert my faith in Croydon Sears and his innocence, by reason of my respect and admiration for the man and my knowledge of his general fineness of character and integrity."

"And your knowledge of Garrett Folso"

"As only what I have heard of him since his death. And that runs the entire gamut, from the exalted opinions of his sister to the far less eulogistic expressions of his nephew."

"Young Pelton had small love for his uncle?"

"It would seem so. Though I know little of these things save as I have heard them discussed by others. Why do you select me for your questioning, Mr. Stone?"

A sudden touch of resentment gave a sharp tone to Madeline's voice, and she looked steadily at Stone as if demanding an answer.

Cavan

CAVAN, June 20.—This is the season when people, particularly those, whose work is in-doors, are longing for the fresh air and freedom of the quiet country places.

A favourite outing with many town folk, is to pack the family in the car, with a tent and other articles for comfort, and motor to some favourite nook and spend the weekend inhaling the pure air and having an entire rest and change.

A party of these campers was noticed on Sunday on this Eighth Line, Cavan, encamped quite close to the Trout Creek and enjoying a quiet family outing. They pitched their tent on Saturday.

Mrs. N. Lamb has returned from Daventry, where she spent a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. White.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Staples, and family, motored to Oakwood and spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. C. Perrin and Mr. Perrin.

Miss Ruth Staples is in Lindsay writing on examinations this week.

Robert and Mrs. Hunter, Cordalee, Idaho, who has been visiting his brother, Mr. Alex Hunter and other friends in Cavan, remained over Sunday, by request, and preached in Grace Presbyterian Church, Millbrook on Sunday evening and in Centreville Presbyterian church in the morning to large congregations. There were many relatives and old friends present. They started on their homeward journey on Monday.

ANTIMONY POISONS TEXTILE WORKERS

Twenty-one Employees of Montreal Firm Become Violently Ill.

MONTREAL, June 19. Canadian Press. — Antimony accidentally introduced into their luncheon soup in mistake for table salt, was responsible for the poisoning of 21 employees of the Dominion Textile Company of the Dominion Textile Company, Dame street east.

When the noon hour arrived the workers were served with vegetable soup. Violent vomiting followed immediately and a hurry call was sent to the General and Notre Dame hospitals.

The treatment given the victims was based on antidotes to antimony, with the result that many were able to return to their homes within a few hours. Others, detained, were reported to be progressing favorably.

INTIMIDATION GIVEN AS MOTIVE

Detroit Police Believe Bomb Was Placed in Wrong Court.

DETROIT, June 19. — Canadian Press. — Intimidation of the courts and robbery were among the possible motives suggested to-day for the bombing of the county court building yesterday, which caused injury to fourteen persons and damage to the building and corridors.

Inspector John Boyle, of the police homicide squad, believed bomb was intended for the municipal court building, several blocks away, where nine men are awaiting trial charged with extortion in connection with the cleaners' and dyers' war.

"Some stranger was hired to plant a bomb and probably mistook the county building for the city courts building," the Inspector said.

"The bomb was a powerful one. If it had exploded in the confined space of the rest room instead of the courtway I believe that it would have wrecked the building and killed people." Of the injured none was seriously wounded.

Rain Stops Leafs-Bears Tilt At End Of Third

TORONTO ENTRY ONE RUN DOWN

Shower Breaks in Third Frame as Leafs Went to Bat.

BEARS SCORE IN 2ND

NEWARK, N.J., June 20.— Rain chased the Leafs and Bears from the field at the end of the third inning yesterday afternoon. It was the third fixture in the Newark series and Walter Johnson's Bruins had found Rip Collins for the only tally of the game in the second inning.

Harold Goldsmith, the new pitcher purchased by the Bears from the Boston Braves, made his initial start here and held the Leafs scoreless, and allowed a single hit when Webb doubled to left in the first frame. Jacobson also got a pass in the first.

Carrol hit by a pitched ball in the second inning scored for Newark when Lutzke sent a long fly to Rabbitt in right field.

When the Leafs trotted out to the plate in the fourth inning, rain began to fall and time was called. Then Umpire Fyfe called the game.

BOSTON SPLITS WITH SENATORS

Each Team Gets Win in Double Header at Washington.

TIGERS RAINED OUT.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The Boston Red Sox and the Senators yesterday divided a double-header at Washington. The Red Sox took the first game 5 to 1, but the Senators came back in the second for a 16 to 7 victory.

Russell was hit for ten safeties in the first game, but Washington got very little benefit from the blows. Boston cinched the game by four runs in the first three innings. The second game was a wild, free-hitting affair. Washington took an early lead and was never headed.

The Detroit at St. Louis game was called after the fourth inning because of rain. The Tigers were leading, 3 to 1. A double-header will be played to-day.

CARDS HAMMER THREE HURLERS

Defeat Reds at Cincinnati 9-4 —Phillies Beat Brooklyn.

LEACH HOMERS TWICE.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The league-leading Cardinals recovered yesterday from Monday's fourteen-inning disaster to swamp the Reds at Cincinnati, 9 to 4. Donohue, starting his first game on the home lot, was plastered for thirteen hits and seven runs in six and one-third innings, and the Cardinals then took a pair off Jablonowski and one from Edwards.

Bottomley started the action in the fourth with a home run, and five bunched hits netted five runs in the sixth. Two singles, with a sacrifice, for a run in the opening of the sixth, wrecked Donohue.

Grover Cleveland Alexander was relieved by Sherdel in the seventh when the Reds scored three runs. All of the Cardinals, except Holm and Sherdel, had at least a pair of hits.

Walter Lerian's triple down the third-base line with two on and one out, in the ninth, won the first game of yesterday's double-header for the Phillies over Brooklyn, 11 to 10; but the second contest was rained out at the start of the fourth, with Philadelphia the home team, ahead, 4 to 1. Jim Elliott, who put the Robins ahead with a home run in the last round of the opener, was the losing pitcher, having put two runners on base before "Dazzy" Vance entered the box to pitch to Lerian.

Leach, the Philadelphia outfielder, made home runs on successive trips to the plate in the first and the second, and Whitney cut in with another in the seventh with one on base, tying the score. These blows accounted for six runs.

Finish Training For Title Contest

CHICAGO, Ill., June 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, and the wild, determined challenger, Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, finished training yesterday for their title contest at Comiskey Park Thursday next.

Barring a slight cut over Walker's left eye, which is almost entirely healed, both of the boxers came through their conditioning campaign without a mishap. Both plan to rest to-day. Hudkins intends to limber up a bit at a downtown gymnasium with Walker confining his exercise to a long walk.

The champion, according to his handlers, is in the best physical condition of his career. He has experienced no difficulty in making the required weight of 160 pounds and will probably enter the ring slightly under that figure.

Hudkins came through his ten days of boxing without suffering so much as a scratch. He is exceptionally strong at his present weight of 155 pounds.

HONORS DIVIDED AT BLUE BONNETS

Favorites and Second Choices First in Various Meets.

MONTREAL, Que., June 20 (Canadian Press). — Favorites and second choices divided yesterday's card at the Montreal Jockey Club's Blue Bonnets course yesterday afternoon. Red hot favorites scored victories in four of the seven races.

The St. Lawrence Handicap, the feature event of the program, was won by Frank Batstone's Leonard B. The winner was an odds-on choice and paid off at 3.85 for each two dollar winning ticket.

Five horses started in the race over the mile distance and Leonard B. assumed the leadership right after the break. He raced Clearance into submission and then withstood a challenge from Seth's Hope which finished second. Alan's Bay took the third portion of the purse.

In the event of next importance, The Savoy Cup, Sun Roman, owned by W. S. Kilmern, broken on top and maintained his advantage to the end of the mile journey. The winner was the public choice and paid off at less than even money.

A spill marred the running of the sixth race, which was won by the favorite Gay Farie. Leda, with Jockey L. Sauer up, fell at the three furlong pole and Marvelie, with Jockey J. D. Smith in the saddle, stumbled over her. Smith escaped uninjured, but Sauer was badly shaken up and sent to hospital for the night.

Catchacoma News

Some fishermen saw excellent specimens of mountain trout which are now in season but the fish saw them also and could not be caught.

Already plans are being rumored for next season. The government surveyors have laid out the only remaining lots in this vicinity and those lands without private access to the beach are at a discount. It is said that the present free camping grounds will be the scene of a tourist hotel next season.

Some Americans have approved of the project.

BELLEVILLE TO PLAY THE PETES HERE SATURDAY

Local Gang Sore Over Their Showing. Are Ready to Fight.

PROMISE A CHANGE

But They Will Find the Gerowmen Formidable Opposition.

The sorry showing made by the Petes Saturday and the things that have been said about it by the fans have nettled the whole squad and they declare that when Belleville lands here Saturday they will find themselves stacked up against different opposition. The Railroaders are heading the loop at present and up to to-day had lost but two games, one to the Petes.

The Petes need a win in the worst way and they realize that they can't beat Belleville with the kind of ball they dished out last Saturday. They promise a new deal and a repetition of the win over the Railroaders three weeks ago when Fred Ash saved the day by a spectacular catch in the ninth.

Walter Gerow has his team going along smoothly and they will be tough to knock off but the local crew can do the trick if they go in there and fight.

And they say they will.

UNCLE WIGGILY

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE THREE STORIES.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Jackie Bow Wow, the little puppy dog boy, ran out of his kennel house one morning and started across the field with his tail held straight up in the air like a short fishing pole.

"Where are you going, Jackie?" barked his brother Peetie.

"I am going over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow to go adventuring with him," barked Jackie.

"Pooh! How do you know he will take you?" asked Peetie as he finished

"Well, boys, how are you?" asked Mr. Longears.

gnawing one of his breakfast bones and wiped his lips with his little red napkin which he afterward put in his mouth.

"What's that? You didn't know puppy dogs carried red napkins in their mouths? Why, of course. So do pussy cats. Their red tongues are their napkins, and when they finish wiping their lips the puppies and pussies put their red napkins back in their mouths. Watch them and see if they don't.

"Of course Uncle Wiggily will take me adventuring with him," said Jackie. "He thinks I'm very smart."

"How do you know you are smart?" Peetie wanted to know.

"'Cause I guessed the puzzle yesterday," answered the other puppy dog boy. "Uncle Wiggily made pictures of four things that grow on trees and I guessed them before the woodpecker bird did."

"What were the things?" asked Peetie.

"Acorns, apples, bark and leaves," answered Jackie, as if he were reciting his lesson to the Lady Mouse Teacher in the Hollow Stump School.

"Well, I guess you are pret y smart," agreed Peetie. "I wonder if I could go adventuring with you and Uncle Wiggily?"

"Sure! Come on!" invited Jackie. "If he gives us any more puzzles to do I'll help you be smart and guess them."

"Thank you," barked Jackie, and soon the two little puppy chaps were trotting together over the fields toward the hollow stump bungalow of the old rabbit gentleman.

"Well, boys, how are you?" asked Mr. Longears as he came out on the front steps to twinkle his nose in the sun. "Are you all ready for school?"

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! There isn't any s hool on Saturday!" cried Jackie.

"Isn't there? Well, it seems to me there ought to be!" said the rabbit gentleman. But he smiled as he said it so Jackie and Peetie knew he was only joking. "However, even if it is Saturday, and there is no school, perhaps you boys can learn something if you come with me," said Mr. Longears.

So he led Jackie and Peetie through the woods, telling them the names of different flowers, plants and weeds, and when some mosquitoes buzzed about the puppies and wanted to bite them, Uncle Wiggily found some pennyroyal weeds.

"Roll in that and get the sweet smell of pennyroyal on your fur and the mosquitoes won't bite you," said the bunny uncle. And, surely enough, the mosquitoes didn't seem to like the smell of pennyroyal so they kept away from the doggie boys.

"This is lots of fun!" barked Jackie as he chased Peetie through the tall grass.

"But it's getting hot," whined Peetie "Could we sit down in the shade and have you tell us some stories, Uncle Wiggily?"

"Yes," said Mr. Longears. "I guess so. I will tell you three stories if you guess the names of them from these pictures." Quickly he drew in the sand the pictures you see here.

Jackie and Peetie clapped their paws, for they knew the names of those whose pictures they saw in the sand. And then the bunny uncle told the three stories. Perhaps you, too, can name the characters.

Name 3 story characters.

Wheat Opens Strong And Continues Firm

CHICAGO, June 20. — Canadian Press. — Fears of black rust in the Northwest, together with a sharp advance in the Liverpool quotations, had a decided bullish effect early to-day on wheat here. Unfavorable crop developments in the southwest continued also to attract notice. Opening 1 1-8 to 1 3-8c up, Chicago wheat held near to the initial range. Corn and oats were likewise firmer, with corn starting at 3-8 to 1 1-8c gain, but subsequently reacting somewhat. Provisions showed but little change.

PRESENTATION MADE.

Miss Marjorie Evans is Leaving Peterborough For Toronto.

On Sunday afternoon at the Sunday School services in St. John's Parish Hall, the superintendent of the school, Mr. E. Sorby, called upon Dr. Blagrave to make a presentation to Miss Marjorie Evans, who is leaving the city about the first of the month, to reside in Toronto.

He expressed the regret they felt at losing Miss Evans, who had been a faithful and efficient teacher in the Sunday School for a period of about six years, and wished her the best of success and happiness in her new home.

On behalf of the teachers and officers of the Sunday School, he presented her with a beautiful prayerbook and hymn-book and an overnight bag of grey suede.

Miss Evans, although taken completely by surprise, made a suitable reply, expressing her regret at the severance of her pleasant association with St. John's and her friends in the city.

IN POLICE COURT

A number of cases appeared in Police Court this morning before Magistrate Langley. J. Wallace, [illegible], and C[illegible] Macdonald pleaded guilty to having dogs at large without a license, and were fined $1.00 and $3.25 costs.

William Reid and son pleaded guilty to a charge of breach of the Highway Traffic Act. They were driving two cars with one set of dealer's licenses. They used only one license plate on each car at the same time. The fine was $10.00 and $3.25 costs, to be paid within two days.

Stanley Taylor pleaded guilty to riding a bicycle on the sidewalk and was fined $2.00 without costs. There were no costs because of his good record. This is to be paid in two days.

Ross Smith pleaded guilty to operating a car not his own without a chauffer's license. He was fined $10.00 and $2.75 costs, to be paid in three days.

Stafford Hickey, who gave his address as 43 Park Street, could not be located at that address, and a summons could not be served. An extension of time was granted for one month by His Worship. He is known to the police, and the number of his automobile license is also known, and if he fails to appear it will be necessary to pick him up on the street.

Reid and Steele were found guilty of passing a stop sign on Mc-Donnel Street and were fined $5.00 and $3.00 costs.

The case of Patrick Carroll, recently in an accident with no permit, was adjourned for one week to June 24th. The defendant claimed he had a permit at home, but later admitted he had just sent away for it. As he was unable to appear the case was adjourned.

Toronto Trading Shows Upward Trend Today

TORONTO, June 20 (Canadian Press).—The general tone of this morning's trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange was firmer than yesterday, although the volume of trading was much smaller. International Nickel, Brazilian and Massey Harris were the star performers. Nickel with fairly heavy trading was up ¾ at 90½ and Massey Harris was firm at 37, as was Brazilian at 52¾. The oils were up, Imperial at 64½, Superpete one at 35, and International Petroleum ¼ at 38¼. Fairly large sales were recorded in distillers stocks, resulting in a gain of one for Walker at 56, and Seagrams also took a rise of one at 19.

Small Gains Shown In Standard Exchange

TORONTO, June 20 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange showed a re-action to yesterday's slump, although there was little that could be called spectacular in any issue. Most stocks held firm or advanced. The main attention of the morning centred around Noranda, which opened strong, recording a gain of 30 at 35.40. International Nickel was up 1.50 at 91.00, and Sudbury Basin was also up, gaining 15 at 9.90. Considerable activity in Sherritt Gordon resulted in a gain of 10 points at 6.00. Bidgood continued weak, losing 1½ at 72½. Pend Oreille recorded a loss of 85 at 12.10. The Western issues were in the main steady. Hudson Bay was firm at 16.80. Malartic got a lot of attention this morning, advancing at the opening but recording a loss of one at 1.34.

Higher Money Rates Check New York Rally

NEW YORK, June 20. Canadian Press. — Stiffening money rates checked a promising rally in to-day's stock market. The prices of standard industrials and rails advanced one to five points in the early trading but these gains were cut out or converted into losses on the renewal of selling pressure. Trading showed a tendency to turn dull on the rallies and pick up on the declines.

Call money advanced from 6 to 6½ per cent., as the banks called about $10,000,000 in loans. Time money was on a flat 5¾ per cent. basis, instead of 5 5-8 to 5¾; and an advance of 1-8 of one per cent. was made in the rates on bankers' acceptances. The New York stock exchange reported that brokers' loans on June 1 were 9.46 per cent. of the market value of securities listed, the highest percentage since March, 1926, and contrasting with 8.95 per cent. May 1 and 8.13 per cent. on June 1, 1927.

A drive against the equipment issues was based on reports of unusually small orders from the leading railroads. American Locomotive dropped four points to 94, the lowest point since 1926; and American Car and Foundry and Lima Locomotive each fell more than two points to new low levels for the year.

COGNAWAGAS WIN GAME IN BETHANY

Vannest returned to form to keep the hits scattered. Billingsley worked at first base, and Grose in left field.

Bethany put over a threatening rally in the sixth to score three runs, but failed to got going in the final frame. Daw twirled five innings, after which he gave way to Russell, who was not scored on.

Umpire Kay surprised both clubs by sending Carl Sisson behind the plate, where he did good work.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE LOVE MART" STARRING BILLIE DOVE AND NOAH BEERY WHICH OPENS AT THE CAPITOL TO-MORROW, IS A THRILLING STORY OF SLAVERY DAYS, WHEN BEAUTIFUL GIRLS WERE AUCTIONED ON THE SLAVE MARKET.

The striking "The Love Mart" scenes, representing the ancient slave market in New Orleans, more than a hundred years ago, will prove one of the genuine thrills of a film that is highly emotional, romantic and exciting.

"The Love Mart" which is to be the attraction Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Capitol Theatre presents lovely Billie Dove, Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery in the featured roles. Miss Dove is seen as Antoinette Probelle, daughter of the aristocracy, who is accused by Capt. Remy (played by Noah Beery) of having mixed blood; and, since she cannot prove otherwise, is sold in the public mart as a slave!

Later, she finds evidence to show conclusively that she is not only pure white but a descendant of the nobility of France. Meanwhile, however she has been purchased by the man she loves, but whom she affects to despise, and who loves her—Victor Jallot (played by Gilbert Roland) a gentleman fallen on rather desperate times and inadvertently becomes a barber. He pawns his last jewel—a memento of his mother—to buy Antoinette and set her free But she returns and in the end they are united.

Colorful Scenes.

The slave market scene was given particular attention by the artistic and painstaking director, George Fitzmaurice, since it is really the crux of the story. The setting was built with extreme care that it might perfectly represent the original, which has long since been torn down in the march of progress.

Boris Karloff, as the auctioneer, give a fine performance. The scene is very much like an auction place of chattels other than human, with seats for the audience, a platform for the display of the slaves to be sold and an auctioneer's table. Into this scene come the French Creole dandies who but lately have coveted the hand of Antoinette. Now they come to bid for her—but are outbidden by Jallot, the adventurer.

To get the full measure of dramatic fervor in this situation, the spectator must consider the terrible plight of this young patrician girl, standing before those who were yesterday less than her equals but who now regard themselves as infinitely her superiors. Her pitiful subjection to a vicious condition, her abasement, yet the remaining spark of pride that still holds her from positive collapse—all this must be realized.

AT THE REGENT.

EPIC PRODUCTION GIVEN MAYNARD'S "DEVIL'S SADDLE"

Crowning all the super-Westerns starring Ken Maynard, the Charles R. Rogers productions accomplished the ultimate in adventure pictures with "The Devil's Saddle," just released by First National, which comes to the Regent Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The immense popularity attained by the new western star by his notable work in his preceding pictures encouraged production officials to go the limit in making "The Devil's Saddle" and as a result it is hailed as the most noteworthy offering of the cowboy hero to date.

Production officials scored a "scoop" on contemporaries when they obtained government permission to make scenes within the heretofore forbidden confines of the Hopi reservation. More important was the fact that access here enabled Director Al Rogell to film some rare "shots" of the genuine tribal dances, and the natural occupations of the Hopis.

Besides a handful of "extra" girls, Kathleen Collins, Maynard's leading lady, was the only member to make the location trip. Other important members of the cast include Francis Ford, Paul Hurst, Earl Metcalfe and Will Walling.

GEORGE PATTEN RESIGNS SEAT

By-Election Necessitated For North Monaghan Council.

LEAVING FOR TEXAS.

The North Monaghan Council held a special meeting on Monday evening, June 18, with all the members present. The treasurer was authorized to sign a cheque covering freight on side feed conveyor for the stone crusher from the Sawyer Massey Company.

George Patten, one of the members of the Council, resigned from the Council, necessitating an election to fill the vacancy. It was moved by Mr. Waterman and Mr. Kent that the Council of the Township of North Monaghan hereby accept the resignation of George Patten as a member of the said Council.

In accepting Mr. Patten's resignation, the Council feels very keenly the loss to the Council and to the community of a good citizen, of sterling character and high ideals, and extend to him and Mrs. Patten their good wishes for long life and prosperity in their new home in the South.

Mr. and Mrs. Patten intend leaving shortly for the Rio Grand Valley, Southern Texas.

A nomination for the office of a councillor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Patten, will be held at May's School House, School Section No. 2, North Monaghan, on Saturday afternoon, June 30, 1928, at the hour of one o'clock.

The next regular meeting will be held on Monday, July 9, at two p.m., at the Courthouse.

FLY-TOX NECESSARY.

Wars Are Less Fatal Than Common Insects.

"Flies have caused more deaths than all wars," says Major Ransom of the Medical Department of the United States Army. "Since the fly came into the world it has been synonymous with epidemics of pestilence and disease." But with Fly-Tox it is a very simple easy matter to rid the house of flies—to keep it fresh and clean, free of insect taint. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Rex Fellowship. Simple instructions for killing ALL household insects on blue labeled bottles. Insist on Fly-Tox.—Adv.

LYRICS OF LIFE

ONLY THIS.

The day declined to give me gold,
The day refused to give me fame,
But here's my little house of old,
And here's my garden just the same.
Upon my hearth I'll build a fire,
My little table I shall spread,
All day shall follow some desire,
And find it here at night instead.

Gold might have bought me many things,
Fame might have brought a trumpet's call,
But now the quiet evening brings
The thing I want the most of all.
Fame's but a name, and wealth a toy,
However much they both increase,
And only here I find life's joy,
For only this can give me peace.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE VALUE CHARACTER

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

It was rumored a few years ag that a promin n banker n New York once loaned a man a million dollars with no se urity other than the greatest of all securities—character. He knew his man and trusted him. His confidence proved to be well founded.

A recent wr ter sa's, "A mere youth is not as good risk as an older man for the reason that his character is still unformed. A surety company would rather guarantee the honesty of a man who has an unblemished record covering at least ten years. The man who plods along on a safe and sane basis for ten years without any sign of s'ditishness is a pretty safe bet."

Character is the greatest asset a person can have in business and life. We value character because it is the stab'e thing about a man, the predictable upon wh'ch we base our estimate of his actions. Knowing his character we can anticipate his conduct. We know how he stands.

One very curious thing about char acte is that we judge a stranger's character by what he does, wh'le we judge the acts of a person we know in the light of h's character. For example, you see a stranger driving an automobile at h'gh speed and yo infer that he is a reckless driver or a speed maniac, but you see some person you know going at the same pace who ordinarily drives at a moderate speed, and you immediately conclude that he must have a very good reson for speeding on this occasion, perhaps he is ushing some one to the hospita.

We value character as the most precious factor in socia' life. It makes confi ence and security possible. Character makes for progress and social solidarity. Without it the credit system would collapse, and with it the whole business and social structure of modern life.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

For Thursday, June 21, 1928.

Benefic aspects dominate in today's horoscope, according to astrology, which reads much that is favorable to human aspirations.

The early morning should be especially fortunate for workers of every class and they should make the most of it.

Farmers are to have many benefits by harvest time and they are to exercise unusual power in the national political campaign, it is prognosticated.

Banks and bankers are again to enjoy the aid of the stars even though their interests may clash with those of certain workers, it is forecast.

Newspapers certainly are to gain the utmost consideration and respect from the people in the next few months, if there is anything in astrology.

Great feats of reportorial sagacity are foreshadowed and many editors will gain honors.

The evening of this day is read as rather unfavorable to meetings with persons of opposite sex.

The summer is to be a time of much interest in sentimental friendships on the part of persons of advancing age, it is prognosticated.

Many marriages of men and women in the autumn time of life are presaged, and there will be many foolish ventures into love entanglements, astrologers warn.

Time is turning backward in fashions, it is pointed out, and women will partake of the feminine modes to an extent that intrigues them into coquetry, it is prophesied.

Neptune is supposed to increase vice in every form while the present aspect continues. Gambling will become as fashionable as it was in the past, the seers foretell.

Italy and the Balkans may be expected to form new alliances, it is presaged.

Persons whose birthdate it is may gain favor with friends and enjoy unexpected advantages in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly honest and dependable. They are often strong individualists.

Soldiers' Families Settle In Canada

LONDON, June 20 (Canadian Press Cable).—The families of 30 soldiers will be settled in Canada next spring under the new scheme of land settlement for military and naval families, it was announced yesterday. The age of the head of the family will not exceed 40 years except in particular circumstances, where the family is regarded as very desirable, in which case the age limit will be raised to 45 years.

Each family will have a six months' course in agricultural training before emigrating, and in Canada will take up farms in settled districts. Where necessary, the Imperial Government will advance each family an amount up to $1,500 for the purchase of stock and equipment, this being repayable in instalments over a period of 25 years.

KIWANIS FORCE OF GREAT GOOD

Speaker Tells Convention of Activities of Club in Canada.

HERE ELEVEN YEARS

SEATTLE, Wash., June 20 (by the Canadian Press).—Every Canadian is impressed with Kiwanis in Canada because of its civic and social accomplishments, Fred Page Higgens, of Toronto, vice-president of Kiwanis International, told the 6,000 delegates and visitors yesterday who are attending the 12th annual convention of the organization.

"Since the organization of the first club in Hamilton, Ont., in February, 1917, Kiwanis has been an irresistible force for better citizenship, and in giving assistance to under-privileged children and the poor," Mr. Higgens remarked.

Immigration, forest conservation, exercise of the franchise, commercial-aviation, general education, and citizenship were a few of the activities of the past year in which all clubs took some part, Mr. Higgens stated.

"Since Kiwanis is an international organization, one of the finest tasks is the building of a greater mutual trust, respect and love into the international consciousness of Canada and the United States," he said. "The world may well look to the United States and Canada as an enduring example in friendship and peace. Not once in over 100 years has there been a violation of trust, even though we have the longest unfortified boundary in the world."

TRINITY CHOIR ENJOYS PICNIC

Singers and Friends Travel By Motor Car To South Beach.

RACES RUN OFF.

On Wednesday, June 13, the choir members of Trinity Church and their friends held their annual picnic at South Beach, reached by automobiles kindly loaned by church members for the occasion. Baseball was indulged in by many during the afternoon, some of the players showing professional skill, but the majority non-professional, which was the source of much merriment. A heavy shower of rain drove the players to the shelter of the hotel verandah, but failed to dampen their enjoyment, the shower being short, sharp, and sweet. Fifty-seven sat down to a splendid dinner at the hotel, the management of which is deserving of praise for the way everything was carried out and the service rendered.

R. F. Downey, choir president, presided and called on Rev. D. Wren, Messrs. Campbell, Kidd, and Skitch for speeches, each in turn commending the choir on the good work they were accomplishing. A feature of the proceedings was the initiation of D. W. Campbell as an honorary member of the choir George Nichols having the honor of investing him with the juvenile bib of membership. Mr. Campbell appreciated the honor, and said so, his remarks being in a jovial strain. R. F. Downey thanked all those who had helped to make the picnic the success it was, by placing their automobiles at the disposal of the choir.

In the sports that were held after the banquet, the following were the successful contestants:

Ladies' straight race—1, Edna Forster; 2, Gertrude Hohner.

Men's straight race — 1, George Nichols; 2, William Northrop.

Ladies' sack race—1, Alma Blanchard; 2, Edna Forster.

Men's sack races — 1, George Nichols; 2, Harold Rehill.

Ladies' obstacle race—1, Edna Forster; 2, Gertrude Hohner.

Ladies' hopping race—1, Edna Forster; 2, Gertrude Hohner.

Men's hopping race — 1, William Northrop; 2, Maurice Park.

Ladies 'nail driving contest—Isabelle Black.

Men's nail driving contest — Mr. Widdess.

Ladies' three-legged race — Alma Blanchard and Jean Padget.

Men's three-legged race — William Saunders and William Northrop.

Men's coat race—1, William Northrop; 2, Harold Rehill.

When darkness came on, many of the young folk enjoyed themselves around a bonfire on the shore, toasting marshmallows and having a singsong.

COUNCILLORS FAVOR START ON PAVEMENT

United Counties Men Think Permanent Roads Would Pay.

SHORT TERM BONDS.

Deputation From Many Municipalities Waits On Council at June Session.

COBOURG, June 20.—That the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, through their counties' council, are awaking to a sense of the necessity for a stated policy of permanent road building, was amply indicated here on Monday night when the council assembled, together with many representatives from Bowmanville, Cobourg, Campbellford, Hastings and other municipalities, and for fully two hours discussed the matter, pro and con. In that discussion, the matter of issuing short term debentures played a large part and save for a few cautioning voices, all seemed favorably inclined toward a five-year policy whereby the present waste of money in maintenance from year to year through poor roads may be turned toward the building of permanent roads in both rural and urban municipalities.

The idea of such a policy may or may not have emanated from Bowmanville, but certainly the large representation from that town showed an earnest desire toward such action on the part of the council.

W. H. Thickson

Reeve W. H. Thickson of Bowmanville, in introducing the deputation from Bowmanville and other towns, explained that for many years in the past, the counties had been spending their entire allowance, and more, in maintaining roads which annually "went to pieces." Said Mr. Thickson: "Our idea is to form a policy in accordance with the Counties' Council—to work in unison in permanent road building. We thought it would be better for all to do a certain amount each year so that the traffic should not get so far ahead and beyond our schedule of road building.

J. M. Bygott

Reeve J. M. Bygott of Campbellford expressed himself as being heartily in sympathy with the movement for some stated plan of road-work in the counties during the years to come. He believed that the new policy should embrace county roads in rural and urban municipalities, alike.

Walter M. Fowlds

Ex-Warden Walter M. Fowlds of Hastings spoke sympathetically of the permanent road building policy, referring to its value in promoting the tourist trade as well as to the economic advantages. "We must build to keep up with the times, the other counties, and the traffic," he declared, in closing.

Ex-Warden Elliott

Ex-Warden Elliott of Bowmanville, after expressing his pleasure at returning to a session of the Counties' Council, corroborated the words of preceding speakers regarding the advisability of adopting a policy of permanent road building. He felt that in so doing, however, he felt that the rural municipalities should be given consideration for the reason that good roads in an urban community are of little value where the roads leading in are in poor condition.

Mr. Fellows, of the Highways Department, gave out some sage advice regarding a permanent road policy. He stated that his department favored a five-year policy and that it would willingly pay dollar for dollar with any counties adopting such a policy. He suggested short-term debentures with a view to financing permanent road work in the various municipalities which, on accepting such financial assistance, would willingly forego their annual grants for sometime afterward. He thought the present time a good one so far as the cost of paving is concerned and suggested that Campbellford, Millbrook and Hastings be given assistance this year, while the municipalities along the front would be treated similarly in a year or so.

Other Speakers.

Numerous other speakers were heard in brief expressions of their opinions on the matter. All, particularly those from the urban municipalities, were anxious for a broad policy rather than anything indicative of selfishness on the part of any one of them, those speaking including ex-Warden John McCubbin of Percy Township, Mayor Holgate of Bowmanville, Reeve W. T. Wood of Millbrook, A. R. Wilmott, Deputy Reeve of Cobourg; ex-Mayor Irwin of Campbellford, W. C. Caverly of Bowmanville, ex-Deputy Reeve Stone of Campbellford, John Wilson, clerk of Hastings County; ex-Deputy Reeve Wilkinson of Campbellford, Reeve W. F. Rickard of Newcastle, Reeve Wight of Darlington, Reeve C. M. Finkle of Colborne, Reeve W. E. Wilson of Campbellford, Deputy-Reeve W. H. Carruthers of Bowmanville; Reeve George Thompson of Bowmanville, F. J. Rosevear, Deputy-Reeve of Port Hope, Reeve M. Wilson of Port Hope, Reeve Gordon Parker of Alnwick (who urged caution against too hasty expenditures), Reeve L. C. Murphy of Cramahe, and Reeve W. T. Wood of Millbrook.

As a means of bringing about a definite result of the discussion, W. H. Thickson suggested that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee. An amendment to his motion passed, providing that the matter be referred to the Roads and Bridges Committee, which will report back as soon as possible.

Mayor T. C. Holgate of Bowmanville expressed appreciation for the kindly attitude of the Council toward his deputation's proposal.

Previous to adjournment, Warden Davidson voiced his approval of the Council's inclination toward short term debentures to assist in the work.

A lengthy presentation of communications, statements and other routine business failed to create anything approaching the discussion provoked by the presence of a deputation from the Cobourg school board at the opening session on Monday afternoon.

County Clerk MacNachtan submitted for attention a particularly large grist of communications during the afternoon meeting while interspersed among them were numerous requests for grants, current accounts and statements which were, in turn, referred to appropriate standing committees to be dealt with later.

Repairs to East Northumberland registry office at Colborne came in for brief discussion, there having been considerable expenditure beyond what had been expected. However, it was soon made apparent that those responsible for the expenditure had not attempted to over-ride the county property committee.

Another item which came up as expected was the comparatively recent decision of the government to place patients from asylums in county institutions. Relative to this, communications from the Carlton County clerk were read, including a resolution which enumerated reasons why this plan should not be carried out. This resolution will be passed on to the department.

Miscellaneous

Many other subjects of discussion in committee were suggested by the communications received, including a grant toward improving the war memorial at Alderville; a notice of agreement relative to the Campbellford paving operations; a resolution from Victoria County pertaining to Pogue's bridge; a scholarship proposal from the Ontario Agriculture College at Guelph; the Oshawa School Board's notice of its intention to charge for attendance of county pupils in Oshawa schools; a communication dealing with reforestation work in Durham county, and numerous others.

Council adjourned to meet again at eight o'clock in the evening. Incidentally, the decision to go by standard time rather than daylight saving time, was reached, despite the fact that Cobourg governs itself according to the latter.

A full attendance is requested at practice at 6 p.m, to-day at the exhibition frounds for to-morrow's game with the Kiwanis Juveniles.

IN MEMORIAM.

DEYELL. — In loving memory of my dear husband, A. Elwood Deyell, who departed this life, June 20, 1927:

Sleep on, dear husband, thy work is o'er,
Thy willing hands will toll no more;
It was God's will, I will not complain,
But hope some day to meet again.
One year has passed since that sad day,
God called the one I loved away,
Forget him, no, I never will,
As years roll on I love him still.

VOL. LXI., No. 145 — PETERBOROUGH, THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1928 — PRICE THREE CENTS

COUNTY WON'T HELP PAY FOR WAR MEMORIAL

Most Municipalities Have Built Their Own and Would Pay Twice, Council Says.

CITY TOO LATE.

Deputation Asks For Some Contribution—Monaghan and Smith in Favor.

"Too late," is Peterborough County Council's reason for refusing to contribute any sum to the City of Peterborough's war memorial fund. Wednesday afternoon they declined to reconsider their negative decision of last February. The representatives of only North Monaghan and Smith Townships indicated a desire to accede to the appeal of the deputation, composed of Judge Huycke, G. H. Thompson and George A. Macdonald who made a final request for a grant from the county.

"We settled this question in February—why bring it up again?" remarked Reeve Curtis of Havelock after the city visitors had gone.

"There's no occasion for changing our decision," said Reeve Tanner, of Lakefield. "Any municipalities that haven't their own war memorials can make a donation to Peterborough if they like."

A Hopeless Case.

Rye and Middleton probably knew the exact vote without polling it. Both of them made a last stand, but most of the other members had previously declared their position, and as Curtis said "Why bring that up?" Those objecting municipalities bought lots and erected their own memorials. To pay part of Peterborough's memorial would mean that rural and village ratepayers would be taxed twice. The city's oversight or neglect was in failing to solicit a grant from the county seven or eight years ago, when it was decided to prepare for a city monument.

One member said: "The city people may have been prompt enough in their action preliminary to ordering a suitable memorial, but they didn't consult us then, so we went ahead with our own."

The vote of the council was called on Reeve Curtis' amendment, seconded by Reeve Hawthorne of Dummer, that the "February motion stand as it is." The motion by Messrs Rye and Middleton proposed that the February resolution be rescinded, and that the matter of a grant to the city's war memorial fund be referred to the Finance Committee.

City's Request.

All three members of the deputation spoke briefly. Judge Huycke reminded the council that a deed of trust would be given to the Warden and the Mayor of the city as joint trustees of the memorial for all time to be preserved for the boys of the city and county who gave their lives for both the city and county.

Judge Huycke explained that there had not been any delay by the committee. "Since 1920 the Memorial Committee has been actively engaged in seeing this work through. We are not asking for a large amount."

"We do hope that the county will contribute something," said Mr. Macdonald, with a smile that seemed irresistible. "We are getting to the point where we can see the memorial erected It will only be a matter of sixty days."

He mentioned the need of funds, but a few minutes later the Reeve of Havelock was asking: "Why open that up again?"

WILL INVESTIGATE WEATHER REPORTS

Miss Boll Says Two Expeditions Got Different Versions.

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 21 (Canadian Press)—The monoplane Columbia, carrying Miss Mabel Boll, hopped off at 5.07 o'clock Atlantic daylight saving time to-day, on its return flight to New York.

Before Miss Boll took off from here for New Yor kto-day, she announced that she intended to investigate the alleged difference in the weather advices received by her and those furnished Miss Amelia Earhart at Trepassey last Saturday, just prior to the latter's successful flight.

She failed to elaborate on the statement, which was the first intimation heard here that any partiality had been shown by the United States weather authorities or others in the forecasts given the fliers.

Got Carbon Copies

NEW YORK, June 21 (Canadian Press).—The Earhart and Boll transatlantic air expeditions were furnished with carbon copies of the Atlantic weather forecasts made by him, Mr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist of the local weather bureau, said here to-day.

His statement was made in answer to an announcement that Miss Mabel Boll intended to investigate alleged differences in the weather reports received by her and those furnished Miss Amelia Earhart at Trepassey.

Conditions Favorable In Western Provinces

WINNIPEG, Man. June 21 (Canadian Press).—Further rains throughout the Prairie Provinces is reported in the sixth crop report issued by the Canadian Bank of Commerce here yesterday. The report follows:

Manitoba.—Weather continued showery and cool during the past week. Some districts report a little too much rain, but damage is expected to be negligible. Crop conditions generally are most favorable although, due to weeds, the yields may be reduced from early estimates at certain points.

Saskatchewan.—Weather conditions are cool and showery. During the week good rains were received at nearly all points, and it is claimed that the southeast part of the province has now enough rain to last until mid-July. The growth of the crop is excellent and general conditions could hardly be improved upon.

Alberta.—Cool, cloudy weather during the past week prevailed in this province. Frequent showers in most districts have added considerably to the store of moisture. All crops are doing well and the situation is considered quite satisfactory, with the possible exception of a section in the southeast, where rains were less general than in other parts.

FEARS RISING FOR AMUNDSEN

HAVE WIRELESS SET.

LONDON, June 21 (Canadian Press)). — Fears are increasing for the safety of Captain Raold Amundsen, Lieut. Lief Dietrichsen, and the crew of the plane in which they flew from Bergen on Monday toward the Arctic wastes in search of General Nobile and his men. No news has been received of the plane since it started on the last lap of its northward voyage.

The plane was equipped with a wireless installation for receiving and sending, and it is believed to have had supplies of petrol sufficient for a flight of 2,500 miles, but the prolonged period since its departure and failure to hear from her, even by wireless, has created the greatest anxiety for Amundsen and his companions.

FIRE WARNING IN OPERATION

Motorists On Aylmer Street Near Fire Hall Must Draw To Curb.

MANY NARROW ESCAPES.

The warning signal installed outside the Fire Hall has been completed and motorists are warned to observe it. It is suspended directly over the middle of the street in front of the Fire Hall. When an alarm is turned in this signal flashes red and a warning bell sounds. All motorists at this signal must pull over to the west curb and bring their cars to a dead stop out of the way of the fire engines. Motorists failing to heed this warning will be summoned to police court where under the by-law covering interference with the Fire Department the fine will be $50.00 and costs.

There have been many narrow escapes at this point and Fire Chief Gimblett has decided this law must be enforced. The police are working in co-operation with this new safety device and a strict enforcement of the rule will be the policy Motorists must obey the signal when the light goes on and the bell rings, and draw to the curb and stop.

MANY ADDRESSES HEARD AT THE SUMMER MEETINGS OF THRESHERS' ASSOCIATION

Price-Cutting and Insurance Thoroughly Discussed by Members.

NEED CO-OPERATION

Mr. Cushman, of London, Stresses Need for Organization.

The Eastern Ontario Brotherhood of Threshermen held their summer meeting in Duffus' rooms on Wednesday afternoon. There was a fair attendance and the meeting took the form of a general discussion, various members present being called upon to address the meeting. The chief speakers for the day were J. Cushman of London, and representative of the American Threshers, the Threshers' Magazine, also E. Downs, president of the Western Brotherhood of Ontario at London. President J. McIntyre occupied the chair.

The meeting was called to order by the president with a few remarks on the attendance, and hoped that there would be a larger attendance in the evening. The secretary, H. E. Dunn, read the minutes which were adopted. Mr. Downs was then called upon who expressed his views of the organization by saying that it would be a good thing if enough could get together. In the West the great trouble is with other threshers cutting prices, also the idea that the farmers get that every meeting of the Threshers means an increase in prices. Now, however, they have become more or less educated to the Threshers' organization and do not fear this as greatly as before. Threshers do not want to get more money than they are worth, but they want to get what they are worth. The Threshers' Insurance Company is struggling along but always has been able to pay its losses. The more members there are in the insurance company the cheaper will be the insurance. The company could handle 3,000 as well as 500.

Protects Members.

J. A. White of Sarnia stated that the organization had a hard time in his district at first. There were 65 at the first meeting but it grew each year, until last year at the last convention there were 300 members. The organization here is going through the same experience, being still in its infancy. Everyone who has insurance of the organization should be an active member. The protection offered by this insurance covers a machine if it be on the road, in the field, or in the barn, from losses. A large number do not carry insurance and get away with it, but when a loss occurs it is heavy. The more who take out insurance the cheaper it will be for all.

Mr. Brooks of Picton next spoke. He threshed for 21 years in all kinds of weather, and always wanted an organization. Stanley Tripp started the first one in Prince Edward County 20 years ago. Threshers were then superstitious of all such gatherings. The organization was not very strong and at the time of the war prices soared so high that threshers could not make a living. Three of them got together and sent letters to all threshers around, and twenty-three entered into a mutual agreement for the price so as a living could be made. Those left out wanted to join and raise the price again but they were not wanted. He wished the local organization every success and hoped that it would spread through Prince Edward County.

J. A. McIntyre, representative of the White Co., said this should be a meeting of threshers. What each fellow does with himself and his neighbors is what counts. A fine thing to try and get together and not to cut prices. Man labor cannot compete with machine labor. "I would like to see you get $3.50 an hour," he said.

American Threshers.

J. Cushman was next representing the American Threshers. He conveyed greetings from B. V. Clark, editor of the paper, and wishes for success. "The paper is open to you for anything you wish to publish, or any questions you wish to ask free of charge. Thirty years ago it started when there were several other papers of the same nature, but all have failed. It was an uphill road, but Mr. Clark stuck to the job until now he has 150,000 subscribers in the United States. He has done wonderful work for the threshers, and spared no pains in doing so. Working often under great handicaps and while ill and sacrificed a great deal for the thresherman. The following proposition he offered as a sign of appreciation and as a means by which the threshers could express their appreciation to Mr. Clark a three years' subscription for $1.00.

Discussion took place on various subjects, many being asked to express their views. J. Lanney threshed by the measure and found it very satisfactory. Mr. Downs said no one kicked about lost time when they threshed by the bushel. Mr. Livingston of Waterloo commended the idea of co-operation instead of price-cutting by the threshers. T. C. Ingram of the insurance company stated there were 78 policies with 93 machines. Accidents last year were light, but one never knows when

Dr. Haden Guest To Join Conservatives

LONDON, June 21 (Canadian Press Cable).—Dr. Haden Guest, who resigned from the Labor party and his seat as Labor representative of North Southwark in the House of Commons last year, has written to Premier Stanley Baldwin announcing his intention of joining the Conservative party in consequence of a tour he made of Canada, Australia and South Africa, which, he declares, reinforced his belief in the future of the Empire as a political unit and as a co-operating economic organization. He also states he is confirmed in his view that the Labor party is leading its members to a sidetrack which is surrounded by political, social and economic difficulties.

Premier Baldwin, in replying to the former Labor members, states that he agrees Dr. Guest has touched three essential features of Conservative policy; namely, the maintenance of the political stability of Great Britain, increasing co-operation with the Dominions in political, economical and social spheres, and the need for progressive reform in social and economic conditions.

WAR MEMORIAL TO BE SYMBOLIC

Will Typify Canada's Youth Barring the Path of the Demon War.

NAMES CARVED ON BASE.

Peterborough's war memorial is to be of a unique and striking nature, a symbolism that will carry much in thought to the people of the city.

The foundation that is now completed will be sodded, and flowers planted at the base. On top of this base will come the granite work on which will be inscribed the names and the memorial inscriptions. The ranks will not be put on the monument, but the awards will.

The figures at the top will represent Canada's youth and the demon war. The demon war is rushing up at the figure of the knight, who symbolizes everything that is worthy in young Canada. The knight is standing with one hand upraised and with sword at his side forbidding the rush of the demon of war.

The figure depicting war is nonplussed at the knight's appearance, and is crouching with fury, anger and disappointment written in his face at being foiled in his rush of destruction. He is seen carrying a sword in one hand with a torch in the other to aid him in his deadly mission of death and destruction.

When finished the monument will be one of the most beautiful and symbolic in Ontario.

FIRE KILLS 12 IN DAMASCUS

STRONG WINDS BLOWING.

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 21 (Canadian Press). — Twelve persons lost their lives and many have been injured in a fire which destroyed a section of the city with heavy loss. The fire has been raging since nine o'clock last night, and was not yet under control to-day because of the strong winds blowing from the Syrian desert.

STOWAWAYS CAUSE TROUBLE ON LINER

Australian Vessel Sends Wireless Call To Colombo For Help.

COLOMBO, Ceylon, June 21.—(Canadian Press.)— The Australian Commonwealth Liner, Jervis Bay, reported by wireless to Colombo this morning that there was a mutiny aboard. Threats had been made to set the vessel afire, the message said.

An hour after the message was received a party of marines was sent to Trimcomalo to embark on the auxiliary steamer Slavol, which was ordered to go to Jervis Bay and bring the liner to Colombo.

Another vessel received a message yesterday from the Jervis Bay stating that the vessel was having trouble with "eight desperate stowaways."

WARDEN SAYS HIGHWAY TAX IS TOO HEAVY

Should Be More Co-operation Between Department and Council.

ANNUAL ADDRESS.

Prospertiy of Rural Districts is Remarked On By Warden Smithson.

The feature of Warden Smithson's address to the County Council Wednesday was his assertion that the tax on the county for provincial highways is disproportionately heavy. His comment applies to the cost of the new highway through North Monaghan township.

The address, which was referred to Reeves Breckenridge, Middleton and Clark for committee consideration, follows:

"It has been the custom in this County for the Warden to address the Council at the June Session. It is, indeed, a pleasant duty for me to have the privilege of doing so.

"Allow me again to thank you for electing me, and more especially, for electing me by acclamation .

"It would appear at the time that the condition of the growing crops give indication of a good year, and as prosperity seems to be surely gaining in rural districts, it is indeed a condition to be thankful for.

"I shall not undertake to go at all extensively into the business coming before the Council this year, because I have no doubt that the chairmen of the various committees have most efficiently carried out their duties. I am sure every member of the Council will join with me in expressing regret at the fact that an old and honored official of this county, Mr. Henderson Nesbitt, has, through advancing years, been compelled to relinquish his position. Mr. Nesbitt has served this county faithfully and well for a period of almost sixty years, and now I sincerely hope he will enjoy his years of leisure. While regretting the departure of Mr. Nesbitt, I at the same time welcome as his successor in office, Lieut.-Col. T. D. Johnston, a gentleman who I know will also serve the county well and faithfully.

Highway Expenditure.

"This year is an unusually difficult year in that the council is obliged to raise an extraordinary amount of money because of Provincial Highway expenditure. The method to be adopted in raising that money is a matter for your most earnest consideration. It seems to me that there could be, with advantage to all concerned, a closer co-operation between the Highways Department and the County Councils in respect of Provincial Highway work I would also like to point out to the members of the Council, that in my opinion, the amount contributed to Provincial Highways by city and county should be on a more equitable basis, the county under present conditions being much the more heavily taxed.

"In conclusion, I desire to express my appreciation of the splendid assistance given me in the carrying out of my duties as Warden."

PARIS, June 21 (Canadian Press). —Premier Poincare informed a number of Deputies to-day that the stabilization of the franc had been officially decided upon for Saturday next. Although he freely referred to a ratio of five to one, as compared with the value of the franc before the war, he refrained from announcing the exact rate which it was proposed to establish with reference to the dollar and the pound sterling.

Pilot Of Plane Friendship Is Worrying Whether Liner Safe Enough To Cross Ocean

LONDON, June 21, Canadian Press — Bill Stultz, who flew the Friendship 'blimp' nearly 2000 miles from Trepassey to this side of the Atlantic—a feat generally admitted to involve some risk—is worrying a little as to whether the ship which is to take him home on the bosom of the ocean, will be safe for travel

With all seriousness Bill yesterday expressed preference for starting home next week because he said he would feel safer and more at ease. Almost in the same breath, with which he had discussed plans for accompanying Commander Byrd on his expedition over the Antarctic wastes, Stultz inquired as to how the Earhart party was going home and expressed a definite opinion about travelling on some liners. It is understood that every effort will be made so that the famed air pilot will not run any risks.

Stultz and Gordon are having a fine time in London, while Miss Earhart, their ocean companion, is being pursued, photographed, interviewed and entertained every minute of the day; the two airmen, like old war buddies, have been drifting about the town, seeing what they wanted to see, and doing what they wanted to do, without molestation. They were supposed to be at the guest home last night, but Bill begged off. He said he'd go if it was his duty, but he had found some friends here in London—and he wanted to be excused, if possible.

So Stultz and his trusty Gordon left the spotlight of a fashionalble dinner party attended by titled folk to Miss Earhart while they went off to talk about planes and engines with new and old friends.

COUNTY COUNCIL CONSIDERS NEW CHEMONG LAKE BRIDGE

Will Ask Federal and Provincial Governments For Grant.

FOR PERMANENT BRIDGE.

Reeve of Ennismore Says Value of Land Lessened By Poor Communications.

Reeve H. B. Parker of Harvey Township presided at the meeting of the Roads and Bridges Committee of the County Council Wednesday afternoon, during which the question of a new Chemong Lake bridge was discussed at considerable length.

Mr. Breckenridge reported that he had provided timber for repairs to the Burnt Mill bridge in Belmont, but the work had not yet been started.

Ennismore Council expects a grant from the county toward the cost of maintaining the Chemong floating bridge, Reeve Tom Cavanagh intimated.

"We couldn't get out for two months last spring," he said. "The bridge was put out of commission by the movement of ice in Chemong Lake, but has been restored to use, and is in fairly good condition. It needs re-planking in some sections, especially at the south end."

The Ennismore bridge has cost the county about $3,000 a year for some time, and $10,000 during the last four years, it was stated.

Reeve Cavanagh said that property values in the township had been seriously depreciated by the inconvenience the residents had suffered as a result of the bridge's unpermanent condition. A good farm had sold at $9 an acre, $900 for 100 acres, last year.

"You couldn't get anyone to buy land in the township under the present state of affairs," said the Reeve.

"I think the county is wrong in considering that bridge at all," Reeve Rye commented. "The new highway will touch close to the township and it has been proposed that a county road be built through the township to the highway. That would eliminate the need of the bridge."

"You wouldn't think so if you lived in the east end of the township," Mr. Cavanagh replied.

Discussion simmered down to the prospect of interesting the Dominion and Ontario Governments and receiving substantial grants from them. Warden Smithson suggested that the township's necessity should be put up to the two Governments.

Reeve Tanner of Lakefield moved that the Council go on record as expressing its willingness to spend $20,000 on the construction of a new, permanent bridge across Chemong Lake to Ennismore, provided the Federal and Provincial Governments pay the rest of the cost.

Warden Smithson seconded the motion, which carried.

County Clerk Elliott said there was a depth of 15 feet of water and 15 feet of mud.

Mr. Cavanagh suggested that a deputation should go to Ottawa to urge the construction of a new bridge.

"Why couldn't we have a preliminary conference here," Warden Smithson recommended. "We could meet the local members, and, following that, we could go to Ottawa if we thought it wise. My experience is that deputations do not accomplish much good, and the cost of such a deputation would be rather heavy."

The Warden moved, seconded by Mr. Cavanagh, that Messrs. E. A. Peck, J. J. Duffus, W. H. Bradburn, and W. A. Anderson be requested to meet the Council on Friday at 5 p.m. Carried.

The proposed deputation of the whole Council to Ottawa was authorized in a motion by Reeve Clark, seconded by Reeve Middleton, the motion including the phrase, "at the pleasure of the Warden." Carried (unanimously).

Hogan's bridge in Douro will be re-

Asparagus Stalks Take Strange Form

Asparagus as well as life takes funny turns. The Examiner was shown two specimens of asparagus that instead of following the straight stalk as all good asparagus should take on graceful curves. The one specimen was found growing like a question mark (?), perfect in shape except for the period at the bottom. The other specimen is wide and flat, curling in a circle somewhat like a doughnut. Instead of being round and narrow like the ordinary variety, both are flat and ribbon-like in appearance.

ROBBERS' CAR IS RECOVERED; $2,000 REWARD

Mail Bags Found in Abandoned Car On Hudson Drive, North Toronto.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

Police Believe Some One Knowing Railway Mail System Helped Plan Robbery.

TORONTO, June 21. Canadian Press. — The automobile used by the six bandits in their sensational hold up of a government mail car at the union station yesterday morning, was found on Hudson drive,North Toronto this afternoon. The mail bags were in the auto and had been ripped open.

After many conferences the police and postal authorities have come to the conclusion that someone formerly connected with the postal department took part in the planning and execution of the hold up. The finding of the bandit car this afternoon gave an impetus to further search and investigations.

It is anticipated that the Toronto police department will offer a large reward for the arrest of the robbers. It is recalled that on the occasion of the robbery of the bank messengers here in 1923, a joint reward of $10,000 was offered.

Reports from Ottawa indicate that the Federal post office authorities believe $124,000 to be approximately the correct estimate of the amount taken. A reward of $2000 has been offered by the Postmaster-General for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the men.

SWEDEN SENDS FOUR PLANES; ANXIETY GROWS

Relief Expedition Will Try To Rescue Nobile's Party From Ice.

AMUNDSEN MISSING.

French Warships Despatched To Seek For Explorer Who Sought Nobile.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 21 (Canadian Press).—A Swedish relief expedition consisting of four planes, one of which is equipped with landing wheels, will fly in squadron today for the camp of General Umberto Nobile on the ice north of Spitzbergen. It is is possible the machine equipped with wheels will land on the ice.

Will Attempt Rescue

LONDON, June 21 (Canadian Press).—An Exchange despatch from Copenhagen says Major Maddalena, who dropped provisions to General Nobile and his party yesterday, intends to make an attempt to rescue them from the Polar ice with his plane to-day.

The despatch says that anxiety over Raold Amundsen and his five companions who set out by seaplane to aid in the rescue work, and disappeared, was growing.

It is possible that relief expeditions will be sent out to search for them.

Cruiser Sent North.

PARIS, June 21 (Canadian Press) —The French Minister of Marine has ordered the cruiser Strassbourg and the despatch boat Quentin Roosevelt to go to Spitzbergen immediately to help in the search for Raoul Amundsen, now missing in a French relief plane piloted by Captain Rene Guilbaud.

Nobile Sends Directions

KING'S BAY, June 21 (Canadian Press).—Cheered by the 650 pounds of provisions dropped yesterday upon his camp off North Eastland by Major Maddalena, General Umberto Nobile to-day sent further radio directions for the rescue of his stranded party.

Nobile, in a wireless communication with the base ship Citta Di Milano, gave instructions about what further procedure is to be followed in rescuing his party and gave details as to what were the conditions on the ice where he is stranded.

THE WEATHER

Highest temperature yesterday 78 degrees; lowest last night 53. Rainfall during the night .35 of an inch. This rain will do immense good. No matter how generously the city water is used it lacks that peculiar something (nitrogen) that is present in the falling rain. This is also the longest day of the year, and from now onward the days will become a little shorter. As the notes are read by the good and the not so good, it may be of interest to some to recall that this is also the anniversary of another 'wet' day, namely, the official opening of the store with the 'dark brown front,' on George street.—W. SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS HOLD CONFERENCE

Representatives of Rawdon and Stirling Meet in Anglican Church.

INTERESTING PROGRAM

Speaker Urges Schools to Become More Efficient in Work.

STIRLING, June 21.— A conference of the Sunday school workers of Rawdon and Stirling was held in St. John's Anglican church here on Tuesday night, July 19th. There was an attendance of 50, all the schools being represented and nearly all the officers of the association were present. Mr. Fred Hulin, of St. Paul's United church, presided and called upon Rev. B. F. Byers to open the meeting, which was done by singing Hymn 409, Anglican hymnal, and prayer by the rector, Mr. Byers.

Mr. Hulin explained the reason for these conferences which are to be held frequently for the purpose of helping schools to overcome their weak points. Mr. Hulin in his remarks before calling upon the secretary, Mr. J. F. Baker, stated that Mr. Baker was recognized as one of the most efficient Sunday school workers in Ontario, at the head office in Toronto.

Mr. Baker was then called upon and explained the chart, displaying the standing of the different schools of the district and urged upon the different schools to strengthen their weak points and become more efficient in the work they were doing.

Discussions took place regarding teacher training classes, also regarding the placing of pupils in classes according to the age of the pupil or the amount of knowledge he possessed, and Mr. Baker seemed to have the best of the argument in nearly every case.

The reverend gentlemen present were Messrs. Leavason, of Bonarlaw, and 8th Line Rawdon Anglican churches, A. N. Reid, St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Stirling, B. F. Byers, St. John's Anglican church, Stirling, and F. J. Joblin, of Rawdon circuit United church, all of whom took part in the discussions, which brought out many good points in Sunday school work.

Mr. Baker said that all schools were lax in their home department work, also in organizing boys and girls' classes.

Women's Institute.

At a special meeting of the Stirling Women's Institute, held on Tuesday afternoon, the members present decided to furnish the ladies' rest room in the new community hall. A committee was appointed to do the purchasing, who at once proceeded to give an order for the necessary furniture.

Sixty-five ladies of St. Paul's United church motored to the home of Mrs. Will Drewry, 4th concession of Rawdon, where a most enjoyable afternoon was spent in sewing and social intercourse. An excellent lunch was provided for the occasion.

Mr. Fred Hulin will represent Stirling Lodge No. 239, I.O.O.F. at the Grand Lodge meeting which opens in Toronto on Thursday.

AVIATORS WILL VISIT CONTINENT

Miss Earhart and Companions to Fly to Amsterdam and Paris.

RETURN HOME SOON

LONDON, June 21.—(A.P.)— The seaplane Friendship having carried through to success the mission implied by its name, Miss Amelia Earhart, Wilmer Stultz and Mechanician Gordon yesterday turned their thoughts toward home. Their trans-Atlantic flight has stirred their thoughts to new efforts. The trio plan to fly to the Continent for the week-end, visiting Amsterdam and Paris. They will come back to England probably on Tuesday, and take passage by steamer for America on Wednesday or Thursday.

The Dutch air line has put a plane at the Americans' service and the three flyers wish to accept the offer it it is possible to arrange their schedule. The big orange-colored plane Friendship remains at Southampton, where it will be crated and shipped back to the United States.

The three aviators continued to be buried under an avalanche of letters and invitations and are besieged by callers. The strain of unaccustomed fame seemed to be showing just a little on Miss Earhart last night. She appeared somewhat nervous and wanted to get away from the London crowds, to fly a moth plane to Croydon. She also expressed the wish to ride horseback in famous "Rotten Row" of Hyde Park, but for the moment engagements prevented her from doing either.

Miss Earhart cannot leave her hotel without being nearly rushed off her feet by admiring crowds, mostly women and girls, although there are usually numerous men in the throng.

Heavy Mail.

The crowd blocked the sidewalk yesterday morning when the girl in a borrowed dress, instead of a flying kit, emerged to make calls and go shopping. A post brought a big bundle of mail for the girl flyer nearly every hour yesterday. Most of the letters were of a congratulatory nature and contained invitations of various kinds, but there was a sprinkling of queer requests, some from what are designated cranks and persons of curious temperament.

One was a proposal of marriage. The number of "crank" letters to the girl has begun to alarm her friends, and to-day a special agent from Scotland Yard, will, unknown to her, watch the persons who come to see her.

Stultz and Gordon have managed to escape much of the fierce light that beats on trans-Atlantic flyers because attention has been mainly centred on the slender girl who flew with them. Miss Earhart rebelled yesterday and declared she did not want hero worship, and that Stultz should bear the full burden of his fame, instead of unloading it on a girl who had done nothing to deserve it.

The girl has asked her patroness, Mrs. Guest, to make it plain to the British people that she is distressed at the attention she has attracted. What she would like to do is quietly explore London, particularly the East End.

SAYS—NOW STIFF JOINTS MUST GO!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes: it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "You'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease: They call this wonder-working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

Bond's Drug Store, McDermid & Jury have a big supply of it and druggists everywhere report a big demand.

RHEUMATIC PAINS DUE TO THIN BLOOD

Relief Comes Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The most a rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the swollen, aching joints is a little relief, and all the while the trouble is becoming more firmly rooted. It is now known that rheumatism is rooted in the blood, and that as the trouble goes on the blood becomes still further thin and watery. To get rid of rheumatism, therefore, you must go to the root of the trouble in the blood. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved so beneficial when taken for this trouble. They make new, rich blood which expels the poisonous acid and the rheumatism disappears.

There are thousands of former rheumatic sufferers in Canada, now well and strong, who thank Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that they are now free from the aches and pains of this dreaded trouble. One of these Mrs. W. F. Tait, McKellar, Ont., who says:—"I am one of the willing ones to tell you of the great benefits I received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After lying in bed for seven weeks suffering untold agony with inflammatory rheumatism, relief finally came through the use of this medicine. I could not move in bed only as they lifted me, and I could only sleep when opiates were given me. The medical treatment I was taking seemed of no avail. Then I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon I began to get relief. After taking six or eight boxes the rheumatism was banished and I had never felt better in my life. It is several years since this happened and I have had no return of the trouble since. I may add that I recommended the pills to two of my friends who were suffering with rheumatism and the pills were equally effective in both cases."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, indigestion or nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DOURO, June 21.—On Thursday night, June 14, a reception and shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. Bolton by friends and neighbors in Douro, in honor of Miss Coral Crapp, whose marriage to Charles Bolton takes place the latter part of June.

There were over one hundred and twenty-five guests.

The evening was spent in cards and dancing, when two chairs joined to a prettily decorated arch of white lilacs and pink honeysuckle, tied with large white bows, was presented to the young couple to sit on. Then a suitable address was read by Mr. Charles McNeely, and a wagon load of gifts was drawn by pretty little Miss Ball and Master Claude Sherven.

Mr. W. Garbutt unwrapped and presented each gift to the bride-elect and in his witty remarks, made it a delightful and interesting episode.

There were a great number of beautiful gifts, which showed the popularity in which the young couple are held.

Although completely surprised and overcome the bride and groom elect, in a few well-chosen words, thanked the friends and neighbors for their kindness, and expressed the desire to entertain them in their new home in the near future.

PRODUCTION RECORD SET BY G.M.C. STAFF

Oshawa and Walkerville Plants Turn Out 17,772 Cars in May.

OSHAWA, Ont., June 21.—An all-time production record was established by General Motors of Canada in the month of May, during which 17,772 cars and trucks were shipped from the plants in Oshawa and Walkerville. In resopnse to an unprecedented demand for Canadian-made automobiles, workers in the recently-enlarged General Motors factories ran up new records, and beat them, in succeeding days' efforts, finally attaining the high mark of 1,180 cars shipped on May 31st.

Although this number marked peak shipments for one day, the average daily production on each full working day throughout the entire month was approximately 741 cars, comparable only to some of the large-volume producers in the United States and far exceeding the May figures for any other Canadian Manufacturer.

It is noteworthy that the cars so produced were not simply assembled in Canada. W. A. Coad, production manager of General Motors of Canada, pointed out to an interviewer that in order to qualify for certain Government duty rebates the Company's output had of necessity to be more than fifty per cent. Canadian manufacture. In the large production lines, notably Chevrolet, Pontiac and McLaughlin-Buick, Mr. Coad emphasized that the proportion of Canadian content was much in excess of this figure.

Only the highest type of craftsmanship and precision manufacture made possible the huge May output, Mr. Coad explained. Parts that fitted more accurately than it would have been deemed possible a few years ago, machines that reduced the human element of error to the lowest possible degree, inspectors totalling one in five of the entire factory force all combined to produce, cars lower in price and higher in quality than ever before.

CANADIANS HAVE MANY TELEPHONES

One Instrument Installed For Each 13 Inhabitants of Dominion.

Use of the telephone in Canada, according to W. C. Beamer, local manager for the Bell Company, compares favorably with any other telephone company in the world.

The most recent statistics show that on December 31, 1927, British Columbia led the provinces of Canada with a telephone installation of 18.71 instruments per hundred of population.

Ontario came next with 17.48 telephones for every hundred population. Then in order were the Prairie Provinces, Saswatchewan with 12.56, Alberta with 11.83, and Manitoba with 11.37. Quebec with a development of 9.99 stood sixth, with Nova Scotia at 7.65 seventh and New Brunswick at 7.59 eighth. The Yukon territory showed a development of 5.76 instruments per hundred population in ninth place and Prince Edward Island standing a close tenth with a development of 5.70.

The Dominion as a whole with 1,256,869 telephones serving a population of 9,597,000 is on the enviable basis of 13.19 instruments per hundred population, comparing most favorably with any other in the world and with her own position of December 1926. At that date the figures stood at 12.73 per hundred persons.

From 1911 to the end of 1927 Canada has added to the figure for the earlier year, which was 354,008 telephones, over two and a half times that number to reach the 1927 figure of 1,265,869. The telephone increase in that seventeen years period was over 257 per cent, a most remarkable development. It indicates the extent of the great advance in commerce and other phases of national development which have been accompanied by this striking advance in the field of rapid communication facilities.

Short of Breath Dizzy, Sinking Spells COULDN'T WALK FAR

Mrs. I. A. Oliver, Granville Ferry, N.S., writes:—"A few years ago I had dizzy, sinking spells so bad I could hardly stand up without taking hold of something to support me, and I could not walk any distance on account of being so short of breath.

"I had taken a lot of doctor's medicine, but it did me no good, only for the time being, so reading in the B.B.B. almanac about MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS I decided to try them and found them to be just what they are recommended to be, and I feel that I owe my life to them."

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE DANDELION

I guess I'm like a dandelion;
I keep on bloomin', keep on tryin,'
But some won't look and some won't heed,
And some just say I'm just a weed.
And yet some field is golden yellow
Because some ordinary fellow
Don't weep because he's not a rose,
But just blooms on, the best he knows.

And there are people just like me,
That other people just can't see,
Who think we ought to ask their pardon
For bein' born outside a garden.
But if it's in a meadowlot
A flower is born, or man, or what;
No yellow rose he needs to bow to,
But do the best that he knows how to.

God made the eagle—it don't follow
He didn't mean to make the swallow.
He didn't always make a rose,
But had some reason, I suppose.
So let's be like a dandelion,
Just keep on bloomin,' keep on tryin,'
And make some place more glad to see,
Whatever place the place may be.

THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1928.

DOMINION DAY.

The City Council has set the seal of its approval upon the Dominion Day regatta by making a grant toward meeting the cost of the program.

Aquatic sports, chosen by the committee as the most suitable for this occasion, should provide an interesting and exciting afternoon for Peterborough's citizens.

Contests of various kinds are being arranged, and enough entries are certain to ensure keen competition in the majority of the events and a splendid spectacle for the crowd.

While the nature of the program decided upon will appeal to most people, The Examiner hopes that it is not too late to arrange for a fitting recognition of the historical significance of the anniversary.

This might take the form of a patriotic band concert in Victoria Park with an address upon Dominion Day and what it means to the people of Canada.

Too long have we allowed the Dominion's natal day to go "unhonored and unsung," and with the success of the Diamond Jubilee still verdant in memory, from now on it is a common duty to see that the occasion is marked.

THOSE PARK BENCHES.

If the City Parks Committee wishes to earn the gratitude of a large number of citizens it will arrange for a supply of more comfortable seats than the majority of those at present provided in Victoria Park and Confederation Square.

Those reclaimed street car seats, according to citizens who have tried them, are far from the last word in comfort.

Most of them are backless, and while they may serve for the citizen who merely takes the load off his feet while waiting for a bus, they are not of the type that induces a man to linger long to admire the beautiful lawn and attractive display of flowers.

Briefly, they fall short of what a citizen with an hour or two on his hands feels that he has a right to expect of a park bench.

If he is lucky, of course, he may find one perched under a tree and can use the latter to lean against, but one cannot always be lucky.

It may be a small matter, but the tired citizen who vainly seeks to find comfort from one of those benches that used to seat passengers on the old street railway of revered memory gets up with a lame back and not too high an opinion of the city's Parks Committee.

PETERBOROUGH'S WAR MEMORIAL.

The rapidly approaching completion of Peterborough's war memorial is, The Examiner is sure, a source of satisfaction to the people of this city and county, who are gratified to know that a visible token of the community's intense gratitude to the men who gave up their lives in the Great War is soon to be erected.

True, the memory of those heroes is unshrined in our hearts; not one of them but is constantly thought of in the circle of his nearest and dearest friends.

Many of them were well-known citizens whose names are household ones still, and all of them had their group of acquaintances by whom their memory is affectionately recalled.

It is natural that this should be the case.

It is as true to-day as it was when Pericles paid his tribute to the Athenian soldier dead over 2,300 years ago, that:

> "Each one man by man has won imperishable praise; each has gained a glorious grave—not that sepulchre of earth wherein they lie, but the living tomb of everlasting remembrance, wherein their glory is enshrined, remembrance that will live on the lips, that will blossom in the deeds of their countrymen the world over. . . . On far-off shores there is an abiding memorial that no pen or chisel has traced; it is graven not on stone or brass, but on the living heart of humanity."

But while in our hearts they still live on, those gallant spirits who left us so blithely in the dark years from 1914 to 1918, duty demands that to the stranger within our gates and the new generations of our citizens we show a tangible recognition of our loving memory of the men who gave their lives for our freedom.

THE NEED OF THRIFT.

"To have or not to have an automobile?" That is one of the big questions of this age. The auto is certainly a most desirable thing. It brings much pleasure to the owner and his family or friends, and is a great convenience and a decided adjunct to business. Every person who can afford a car should own one. But there are some who have them that are not entitled to them, such, for instance, as persons without jobs, those who have small salaries, those who are sailing close to the wind financially. The auto, while it may be regarded as a necessity in business, is still a luxury so far as pleasure is concerned.

Two cases recently before the Toronto traffic court showed that there were some people with cars who really had no business to have them. In one of these cases a youth of 17, who was charged with reckless driving, told the court that he had wanted a car just to drive around in" He saved $20 and an 18-year-old chum saved $30. Together they bought a decrepit car for $50. The one who was arraigned in court admitted that he was without a job and put all his money into the car. The magistrate remanded the case for a fortnight so that the youthful offender could sell the car and pay the fine. This may be regarded as a drastic punishment, but it was the best thing that could happen to the youth.

The other case was that of a man who admitted that he earned only $18 a week. When the magistrate heard of his meagre payroll he let him off with a remand for sentence. No man earning only $18 a week has any business driving a car.

The trouble in both these cases was lack of thrift. The thrifty will not invest their all in luxury, nor will those with small salaries do this. They will wait until they are in a position to afford it. Thrift seems to be a lost art in these days. The auto will not necessarily be blamed for this. If the thriftless do not spend it on something else, perhaps far less desirable.

A desire to possess a car will not make the thrifty thriftless. Nothing will make them this. Those who have learned the value of thrift will purchase nothing that is not absolutely essential unless they can absolucustomers of the auto dealers, and of every other person who has anything to sell. They purchase the best and pay for it. Just as the common people are the salt of the earth, so the thrifty are the life of trade.

More attention should be paid to inculcating the principles of saving and the virtues of thrift into minds of the young. By precept and by example they should be taught the desirability of these things. The saving—not the hoarding—of money should be encouraged. And there is no more effective way of doing this than by parents setting a pattern to their children. Just as they are thrifty or thriftless, so will their offspring.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

WILL SMITH OPPOSE HOOVER?

With the Republican convention over, and Herbert Hoover in the field as the standard-bearer of the G. O. P., world interest now centres upon Houston, Texas, where the Democratic party will select its candidate. The Democratic gathering takes on particular interest because of the probable nomination of Governor Al Smith, of New York. Although the most considerable figure in the Democratic party, Smith, a Wet and a Catholic, faces formidable opposition. When, some weeks ago, he carried the primaries in the East and in California hands down, it was thought that the antagonism toward him had collapsed. Since then, however, North Carolina, a citadel of Democracy, has pronounced against him, and his enemies, rallying their forces, have begun an offensive threatening a repetition of the bitter scenes in Madison Square Garden four years ago. Thus the Atlanta Constitution, one of the most powerful newspapers in the South, in an almost hysterical utterance, summons the Confederacy to battle, and calls upon Virginia not to desert the South "in its battle for the faiths which Virginians taught us." All of which means that the South, Democratic to a man, doesn't want a Democratic leader who is not Nordic and Protestant.

"Al" Smith has become something of an American legend. His enemies see him more and more as a subtle knave of Rum and Romanism wearing the stripes of Tammany. His friends, on the other hand, are prone to exalt him as a Galahad of the masses, dight in spotless and stripeless armor. Actually, he is a 54-year-old Irish-American whose Americanism is unimpeachable, and whose administration as Governor of New York has won him the plaudits of friends and foes alike. While critics challenge his political origin, his religion, and his views on prohibition, no one has ever successfully impeached either his integrity or ability.

Smith, it is true, was cradled in Tammany. Tammany gave him his first good job; and it was Tammany that sent him to the New York Assembly, made him New York's sheriff and finally New York's Governor. In his early career as Governor, too, Smith conferred regularly and flexibly with the Tammany Boss, Charles Francis Murphy. But in 1922 came a break. In that year Murphy, it appears, told him that he was to lead a ticket upon which William Randolph Hearst would run for U. S. Senator. Smith, however, had learned to despise Hearst. In 1919, after Smith had striven to better New York's milk supply and been balked by a Republican legislature, Hearst's press had viciously accused Smith of being in league with the milk trust, of starving New York's babies. Smith had answered, defied, publicly tongue-lashed Hearst, with Irish violence. Now, Hearst had forgotten, but Smith remembered. To Tammany's coalition proposal Smith said: "The answer is NO!"

Boss Murphy and his henchmen were aghast. Without Hearst many a job might be lost. Perhaps Smith would have to go overboard. They tried to reason with him. Smith stayed in his hotel room chewing his cigars, spitting, scowling, swearing. "No, no, NO!" he roared.

In the end it was Hearst who backed down. From then on Smith knew he was bigger than Tammany. In 1924 Boss Murphy died and his successor, Judge Olvany, has never pretended to be Smith's peer.

After this episode Smith could and did begin to think of himself as a free agent. In 1920 he was put forward as a perfunctory Favorite Son for the presidential nomination to block McAdoo. In 1924 he was a real Favorite Son, a serious contender, but was blocked by McAdoo. Now McAdoo is extinguished; but others have taken his place.

Above everything, the unique asset of "Al" Smith as a public figure is his famed "human touch"—the wide smile, throaty laugh, instant humor, lowly origin; the qualities that make a Lloyd George. Under his ease with the mob, responsibility has developed an innate dignity which is perfectly at command as occasion requires. A recent rebuke administered to a supporter who sought to take liberties with him has been widely quoted in the American press.

Two barriers, as already said, stand ahead of him: He is a Roman Catholic and a Wet. The South, fortress of Democracy, is Protestant, Nordic, dry. It is the home of that strange organization, the Ku Klux Klan. And although Smith has defended his Catholicism and Americanism in a memorable document, and is by no means a champion of the return of the saloon, many will refuse to have faith in him.

Lastly, there is Tammany. Traditions live long and are easily magnified in a land of few traditions. And the political fathers who sired Smith may now come as ghosts to cause his ruin, all of which would be a great irony upon him and them. For, whether as winner or loser, Al Smith as a candidate for the Presidency of the United States would be a striking thing.—Ottawa Journal.

The Question Box

F.L. Q.—Is any wheat harvested anywhere this month?

A.—Yes. California, Oregon, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, Kentucky, Kansas, Arkansas, Utah, Colorado, Missouri, Turkey, Greece, Italy, Spain, Portugal, South of France.

N.T. Q.—I went into a hardware store to buy 5 pounds of 2-inch nails, and asked how many nails there would be in that lot. The salesman couldn't tell me—thought I was crazy, by the way he looked at me. Can you tell?

A.—Approximately 400. Ordinary "6-penny" 2-inch nails run about 80 to the pound.

D.V. Q.—Where are divorces easiest to obtain?

A.—Probably in Cochin China, where the parties break a pair of chopsticks in the presence of witnesses, and are thereby divorced; or in the Arctic, where a man who wants a divorce leaves home in anger and stays away several days, his wife taking the hint to depart.

A Thought

"THE VALUE OF TRUTH"
Velma Runnels, Campbellford, Ontario.

Truth is the mirror of our lives. Our companions can see the evil or good reflecting on the great mirror of truth. What is mightier than a man's true word of honour? Our lives may be long and prosperous or short and full of sorrow. Did you ever stop to think that in an instant, and it is extinct? Such is our end—a handful of clay moistened with a few tears. But lingering after you is the pillar of truth. There it will stand forever, making for you an honoured name when the brother of sleep veils your brow.

When a man's word dies, then human misery will crowd in around him. Friends will draw away from his side and become distant acquaintances. Who wants to make a riend of one who is interwoven in the web of falsehoods? Don't make a practice of it, friends. You will abuse your own moral powers and dim them beyond repair.

We bear within us a discord when the lamps of truth dies out of our lives. What is sweeter than the beautiful strains of music? But when discord crosses the strings, how ugly and miserable everything is.

God made us pure and placed truth in our hands. Isn't it offending God to mar that great gift? A person might state a falsehood to-day. Everything might go off all right. It is forgotten. But years roll on and that same lie might come to the light and make you a doomed man.

The value of truth is great, men. We all can stand more of its power. We all need forgiveness and pardon. To seek the truth does not dishonour us. The greatest men have ever been the humblest.

To find truth and die holding the banner is one of the noblest acts for man.

GOD'S MINUTE

Our Heavenly Father we lift up our hearts to Thee in adoring praise for Thy love and grace made known unto us in Jesus Christ, our Saviour, Who died for our sins.

We thank Thee for Thy blessed Book, which is able to make us wise unto salvation. Help us to read, and inwardly digest it. We thank Thee for the Holy Spirit, Who takes of the things of Christ and shows them unto us, and Who is promised to guide us into all truth, and to comfort us all the days of our life. Help us to follow Him and to realize His presence with us.

We need Thee for the little things of life as well as the big things. Help us to control our tongues, so that we may not speak unadvisedly with our lips. Help us to live daily in expectation of our Lord's coming, and be ready when He comes. Bless all the families of the earth, and graciously give success to all ministers, missionaries, and Christian workers who are humbly seeking to glorify Jesus, and to win the nations to Him.

We ask it all in His Name. Amen

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

"NO LEFT TURN."

The Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—There is about as much need for a "no left turn" sign at the corner of Charlotte and George Streets as there is for a sign, "Girls must not wink at the man in the moon." Every week-end tourist cars come in Charlotte Street, making for the north country, and nine out of ten of these cars desire to stop on George Street for shopping.

The other night at the Landing, three motorists, including the writer, were discussing the fact that for the first time in many years we had gone through ePterborough without doing our usual shopping. The inconvenience of going on to the next street and then coming around back to George Street is increased by the fact that when you get back to Charlotte Street you cannot turn around without going back one way or the other. If the merchants of George Street feel that the summer tourist trade is worth having, they will petition the Police Department to remove this "No left turn" sign.

There is a tendency for towns and smaller cities to copy the larger centres, and what is a reasonable regulation at the corner of Yonge and Queen Streets, Toronto, is a nuisance in the smaller town.

The writer of this letter apologizes for interfering in the affairs of your town, but he has driven a motor car for two hundred thousand miles, and feels warranted in saying there is no congestion of traffic at this particular corner requiring this regulation.

Yours, etc.,
TOURIST.

Mine Trading Active With Stocks Weaker

TORONTO, June 21 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was more active to-day. The list was fairly broad, ninety-four issues making their appearance. The general trend was downward, with occasional gains amongst the higher-priced stocks. Noranda, with a moderate turnover, opened fairly strong and showed a gain of 55 to 36.25 at the close. Teck Hughes was the weakest issue amongst the higher-priced stocks, recording a loss of 25 at 10.75. Hollinger was down 10 at 14.00, with small sales. Barry Hollinger was down again to-day, softening a point to 74, while Bidgood firmed up ⅛ at 72½. Malartic lost four to 1.31. Peterson Cobalt was up ¾ to 27½. The Western issues were soft.

Trend In New York Shifts Frequently

NEW YORK, June 21. — (Canadian Press.) — Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment characterized to-day's stock market with the general price tendency lower. Stocks rallied one to four points at the opening, lost their gains ,and in many cases recorded substantial recessions in a mid-day reaction, and then started upward again in the early afternoon. Plenty of stock was for sale on the rallies.

Stiff money rates provided the chief resistance to the resumption of the upward movement of prices. Call money renewed at 6¼ per cent. and a firmer undertone was apparent for other accommodations as banks called loans and strengthened their reserves in preparation for bank calls and mid year settlements.

Trading in to-day's market was on an extremely small scale compared with recent sessions, the total sales in the first three hours falling below 1,000,000 shares. Renewed selling of railroad equipment shares based on poor current businesss and unfavorable dividend rumors, sent American Locomotive, American Car and Foundry and Lima Locomotive to their lowest prices in years, the losses running as high as seven points. A brisk recovery took place on the publication of a statement by President Woodin of the American Locomotive Company, that no reduction in dividend was contemplated.

Black Rust In Dakota Causes Rise In Wheat

Chicago, June 21. Canadian Press. —The finding of black rust in the wheat fields near Mitchell, South Dakota, led to a moderate early upturn in wheat values to-day. Ideal harvest weather though and the absence of further crop damage reports in the south west, tended to check buying. Opening unchanged to 1c higher, wheat prices scored a general advance but after reacted. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting ½c off to ½c up and subsequently showing a sag all around.

Opening prices were: Wheat, July 137⅞; Sept., 139¾. Corn, July 99 3-8; September 96⅞; bats, July 53; September 45 5-8.

Toronto Market Quiet With Trend Downward

TORONTO, June 21. — Prices on the Toronto stock exchange in the morning session were soft in a generally quiet and easy market. The volume of trading was lighter than yesterday, not being heavy enough to establish a definite trend. Home Oil was the only issue to run beyond one thousand shares, losing 40 points at 2.40. International Nickel, with light trading was off 1 1-8 to 91. Trading in Brazilian was also very slow, with a decline of ¾ to 53. Oils and liquors tende to be soft.Walkers recorded a loss of ½ at 55¼ and Seagram's was also off 1-8 to 18 7-8. Canada Dry was firm at 76. International Petroleum and Imperial Oil were exceptions to the general decline in oils, the latter gaining ¼ to 64½ and former ¼ to 38¾. Trading in industrials reached the lowest ebb yet seen this year. The number of sales recorded was almost negligible in such market favorites as Canners and Hayes wheel.

Exensive Improvements To South Beach Hotel

Complete Electric Lighting System, Running Hot and Cold Water in Rooms—Magnificent New Lounge Room.

South Beach Hotel, always a popular summer resort, will be more popular than ever this year, because of the improvements which Mine Host William Brooks has made during the spring season, and the building will likely be called upon to shelter a capacity number of guests during the entire season.

Chief among the improvements is a complete electric lighting installation, which will give better and more convenient illumination in the building and on the grounds. Also adding to the comfort of the guests is the hot and cold water system put in, thus giving the patrons, and also those working in the hotel, an abundant supply of water at all times.

For the pleasure of the guests when they do not feel like swimming at the splendid beach, or exploring Clear Lake's finest fishing grounds, Mr. Brooks has had a fine new lounge room added, opening into the rotunda. This is supplied with new and comfortable furniture, and will provide a cool and pleasant rest room. The whole hotel has been redecorated in a fine color scheme.

The cooking and service at the hotel have not been improved, as they were already at perfection, and their excellence is well known, not only to the people of this district, who have formed the habit of running out there for dinner of a Sunday, or to spend the evening, but to the tourists who come from as far as the Southern States to spend their holiday in South Beach's pleasant surroundings. The hotel will accommodate from eighty to one hundred guests, while there will always be room for those wishing to enjoy a meal there.

COUNCIL PASSES MONEY FOR ROADS

Last Night's Rain Puts County Body in Acquiescent Mood.

Members of the County Council were unable to calculate this morning the value of last night's timely rain. It had washed away all the present worries about the crops, which are said to be full of promise for an abundant harvest. So grateful was the pervading mood around the Council board that had the city's war memorial committee's appeal for a grant been reconsidered, it might have met with a more favorable reception. The councillors were happy enough to give away the Court House.

Applications for financial aid to many of the townships in repairing roads and bridges were approved without one exception. Freshets during the Spring apparently caused unusually heavy damage, and the ensuant expenditures have not yet been balanced.

Reeve Middleton of Smith Township was appointed to the Warden's chair this morning in the temporary absence of Warden Smithson. The Council immediately went into committee on roads and bridges, with Mr. Parker of Harvey Township presiding.

John Clark of Galway was granted $200 for repairs to McMahon's bridge. The provincial government and the township will bear the rest of the cost.

Reeve Windsor of Burleigh got $100 for repairing the road leading to the Perry bridge, which was washed out.

Reeve Leahy of Douro asked for a grant to improve the river road from Lakefield to Nassau on the east side of the Otonabee.

"This is one of the nicest driveways in the province," Mr. Leahy said, "and there is a lot of traffic over it. We have graded part of the road, but we think we should have some help."

Reeve Rye — "Peterborough and Lakefield should make a grant for that road."

Mr. Middleton moved that $100 be paid by the county. Mr. Rye seconded the motion, which was carried.

Mr. Waterman pressed for a decision in regard to Dunlop Bridge, and he and Reeve Rye were authorized to co-operate with Durham and Northumberland Council in making whatever repairs are needed.

Reeve Scott of Asphodel was instructed to supervise repairs to Birdsall's bridge.

Reeve Breckenridge of Belmont Township reported that the government was improving the Methuen road which included several iron culverts costing $200 or $300. The colonization roads department pays only 25 per cent. of the cost of these culverts which have to be hauled from Havelock or Coe Hill. Mr. Breckenridge asked for a grant of $100, which was passed on Reeve Curtis' motion, seconded by Reeve Windsor.

Reeve Hawthorne was alloted $100 for a Dummer road, and the committee approved the proposal of Deputy-Reeve McIntyre of Otonabee for the assumption of the "flat road" in that township as part of the county system.

Insurance Renewed

The Council, before the noon recess, decided to renew its county road insurance with the Globe Indemnity Company at the increased premium.

John Edgar, representing the Children's Aid Society, asked for the usual grant from the county. "We hope you will make your grant as large as possible. Last year, we did not receive your cheque until near the end of the year. We would appreciate it if you could let us have this year's grant now, as it would help carry us on until tag day, which we have arranged for," he said. The finance committee will consider this request.

MISSION CIRCLE MEETS.

Interesting Program at Regular Meeting of Mark Street Ladies.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mark Street Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. White, Mark Street, on Tuesday, June 19th. The meeting opened with Mrs. Boorman, the president, in the chair. A very enjoyable program was given, which was in charge of Mrs. Eason, president of Group B. Solos were rendered by Miss G. Curry and Mrs. Andrews. A reading was given by Mrs. Agnew, and the topic by Miss Wilson on the life of John Huss, taken from the study book, "Heroes of Our Own Land." Mrs. Hunter was appointed delegate to attend the sectional rally to be held in Knox Church. An invitation was read, inviting the Circle to a picnic to be given by the W.M.S. in August. It was decided to keep the meetings on in the summer, the July meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Binks. The meeting closed by repeating the Mizpah benediction. Lunch was served and an enjoyable half-hour spent.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

Mrs. Porteous Becomes President Due To Removal of Mrs. Gordon.

The June meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S., which was well attended, was held Tuesday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. J. W. Gordon, opened the meeting with prayer, led by Mrs. J. F. Allen. The regular business session followed, in which Mrs. Porteous, first vice-president of the society, was promoted to the office of president for the remainder of the year, owing to the vacancy made by the removal of the president, Mrs. J. W. Gordon, from the city. Mrs. B. L. Barns made reference to the esteem in which Mrs. Gordon was held by the members, and expressed their regret at losing her. Mrs. W. F. Nelson read a paper on Temperance, while Mrs. J. John and Mrs. G. Munro responded for the Watch Tower.

The meeting was favored with a vocal solo, "Beside the Still Waters," by Mrs. Ford Turner. Mrs. C. H. Edwards read a very fine paper, entitled 'Missions and Racial Attitudes,' taken from the fourth chapter of the study book. This was very interesting.

At the close of the meeting it was moved that the July and August meetings be suspended.

IN POLICE COURT

Richard Nolan pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and was given one month in the common jail. It was Nolan's second offence under the Liquor Control Act. He was given an option of $200 and costs or, in default, two months in jail; or a straight jail term of one month. He took the month in jail.

A local young man pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and, it being his first offence under the L.C.A., he was fined $20 and $3.50 costs.

A resident from Quebec pleaded guilty to being intoxicated at a lumber camp on Nogie's Creek on Sunday and was fined $10.00 and $5.00 costs.

Stephen Posarich, a ward of the Hamilton Children's Shelter, pleaded guilty to stealing a watch and a sum of money, and was given 12 days in the common jail. After serving his sentence he will be turned over to the Children's Shelter authorities, Toronto, where he will be sent to an Industrial School.

Harry Johnston was sentenced to two months in the common jail yesterday, when His Worship Magistrate Langley found him guilty of selling beer to Sanfield McManus on May 24th. Mr. Johnston was tried some two weeks ago but judgment was reserved until yesterday morning. J. A. O'Brien appeared for the accused and O. W. Hatton, K.C., prosecuted.

Robert Knox pleaded guilty this afternoon to driving a car while intoxicated, and was sentenced to 15 days in the common jail. Knox, along with two other men who appeared before Magistrate Langley this morning, caused a disturbance at the corner of McDonnel and George Streets last night, and before the constable arrived they had left for Chemong.

Sergeant Deannard, who had been sent to arrest Knox, commandeered J. A. O'Brien's car and followed Knox out to Chemong. Constable Puffer was out at Chemong and he saw the men causing trouble and arrested them.

The Crest of the New NASH "400"

Today

NASH presents a New and Finer Motor Car

New Twin Ignition Motor

New Salon Bodies

"The three new Nash Series, which are being introduced everywhere today, achieve the ambition of my manufacturing career.

"They represent an entirely new type of motor car, priced moderately, but offering you all the beauty and quality and performance heretofore exclusive to very expensive automobiles.

"To create such a car we had to develop an entirely new type of design and invest over $2,500,000 in dies and machinery alone.

"Both the Salon bodies and the high compression motors which power these new models exemplify the most radically modern advancement in body craftsmanship and engineering.

"Naturally space precludes the full listing of all features but I do want to draw your attention to a number of the outstanding attractions such as:—

"—Twinignition, high compression, Bohnalite aluminum alloy pistons with Invar-struts, 7-bearing crankshaft with hollowed crankpins, Bijur centralized chassis lubrication, Houdaille and Lovejoy shock absorbers, Biflex-Nash bumpers and bumperettes, chrome plating over nickel for all exterior metal ware, double-drop frame, one-piece Salon fenders and longer wheelbase lengths.

"This new-type engineering of the '400' motors makes them by far the best performing cars I have ever built.

"I don't think anyone will ever want to use all the speed and power they deliver.

"Equipment is absolutely complete at the factory list price and you need buy no extras except a spare tire.

"If my judgment is worth anything you will find it well worth while today to examine this new automobile development with the greatest care."

CODE OF ETHICS IS SUGGESTED

Woollen Manufacturers Elect C. M. Heddle, of Peterborough to Executive.

COBOURG MAN PRESIDENT.

TORONTO, June 21.—David C. Dick of Cobourg was re-elected president and C. M. Heddle of Peterborough was elected to the Executive of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association.

The suggestion of a trade commissioner or Federal Bureau with power to enforce a standard of business ethics was raised before the annual meeting held on Tuesday in the King Edward Hotel. The need of co-operation in the industry was conceded by all the association members who attended, and it was the guest speaker, John Matter, general manager of the Dry Goods Institute of the United States, and Louis Singer, K.C., counsel for the women's wear industry, who threw out the proposal that there should be some authority or tribunal to whom the woollen men could appeal to enforce ethical standards of competition and of quality.

The problem of price cutting was alluded to by Mr. Singer, who declared that public opinion was approaching the stage at which it would recognize the necessity of fairness. It was impossible to do anything now, he realized, since the statutes prohibiting any restraint of trade were so drastic that action could hardly be taken without incurring liability under them. At the same time, Mr. Singer commented, the Government itself was the chief offender against the spirit of these statutes, since it was the chief promoter of the tobacco pool and had encouraged the wheat pool, both of which agencies were calculated to influence prices.

Co-operation Desirable.

Discussing the possibilities of co-operation in an industry, Mr. Singer cited the experience of the women's wear trade, which had reduced a record of an average of two failures per week to one of only three failures altogether since co-operation had been agreed upon. The mortality in the industry had been reduced by no less than 85 per cent.

Mr. Matters, former chief of the Retail Bureau of the United States Chamber of Commerce and present general manager of the Wholesale Dry Goods Institute spoke on the necessity for co-operation mentioning as the greatest problem which had to be faced the frequent unethical competition with which legitimate manufacturers were faced. The United States had solved this situation, he declared, by the creation of an authority to whom the trade could appeal on the score of ethics of any merchandising practice regarded as unfair.

In his address as president, David C. Dick pointed out that the condition in the woollen cloth mills was particularly regarded as serious. In that branch of the industry there was a loss of employment and wage distribution which adversely affected many small towns.

President Dick emphasized the claims of the industry to tariff protection. "Diversified employment", he said, "is the necessity without which we cannot support population. The safeguarding of industry and employment is the national requisite for immigration and population. The principle that a worker employed not only earns wages, but spends wages and employs other workers is sound. In this connection the public should consider that in the fiscal year 1928 the total importations of dutiable manufactures of wool amounted to $32,707,830. If a reasonable proportion of these goods had been produced in Canada they would have given all the year round employment directly to over 15,000 Canadians, who would receive and spend in our country wages of approximately $12,000,000 annually. Besides this there would be the additional employment given for the transportation over Canadian railroads of wool, coal, materials and supplies for the mills and the employment necessary in supplying the housing and maintenance requirements of the workers."

Urging that Canadian manufacturers co-operate to obtain accurate business figures on possible markets, plant capacities, production, average costs, stocks on hand and distribution so as to balance sales efficiency and requirements of manufacturing, he said: "Manufacturers in Canada are continually, by research, better methods and better machinery, bringing down the margin of cost between the cost of the raw material and the cost of the manufactured article. But the difference between the price at which a manufacturer sells an article and the price which the consumer pays for it is very great. In Canada it has been the fashion to put the onus of the whole cost of an article sold at retail on the manufacturer, ignoring distribution costs, over which the manufacturer has little if any control. This is unjust and unfair and is the cause of many of the attacks on tariff protection in our country."

Officers Elected.

The importance of research to the industry was recognized and a resolution was passed authorizing the extension of this work and leaving the details in the hands of the executive committee.

The following officers were elected: President, David C. Dick (re-elected) Cobourg; Vice-President G. C. de Tonnancour, Montreal; additions to executive committee, W. Lundy, Paris; C. M. Heddle, Peterborough; Sectional Chairmen, Fine Hosiery, M. B. Holton, Hamilton; Knitted Outer Wear, Bertram Davis, Toronto; Men's Underwear, D. M. Macdonald, Moncton, N.B.; Yarn, H. CAVAN, June 21. — The warm weather is causing rapid growth. Fall wheat is heading out.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Staples were visitors to Peterborough on Tuesday.

Mr. F. M. Staples, Mr. and Mrs. I. White, and Mr. and Mrs. Bell were among those from Cavan who attended the ball game between The Cogs and Bethany in Bethany on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. W. Perrin was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

On Tuesday afternoon two ladies, representatives of the Cavan United Church Ladies' Aid called at the parsonage and presented Mrs. Totton with a beautiful leather week-end bag as a remembrance from that organization. They expressed the regret of the ladies at the severing of the pleasant social relationship which has existed between Mrs. Totton and the Ladies' Aid, where she was always ready to assist particularly with her music, which had been much appreciated.

A pleasant feature of the removal to another circuit is the fact that Bridgenorth is so near that all hope to frequently welcome Mrs. Totton as a guest in their homes.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 21. — At the graduating exercises at Niagara Falls General Hospital, two Lakefield young ladies received their diplomas: Misses Verna M. Elliott and Helen V. Watson. The ceremony, which was held in the Oddfellows' Hall, and concluded a three years' term of training for the nurses, was a fitting one and included the taking of the Florence Nightingale pledge by them, the presentation of graduation diplomas, and pins and special prizes.

A special prize, donated by Mrs. Harry Oakes was presented by Dr. E. C. Crawford to Miss Verna Elliott for receiving the highest marks also her efficiency shown in a practical way in the wards.

Miss Elliott's success is the more remarkable in that she entered the hospital nearly six months after the regular class, but from the beginning she has shown a special aptitude for a nurse's career.

There were ten young ladies in the class and the fact that two of them are Lakefield girls is highly interesting to local readers.

Music Recial

A recital of the pupils of Miss Nelson was given at her home on Friday evening last with a good attendance of pupils and parents and friends. The smaller children appeared to be perfectly at eace and played very well, one little tot had just had four lessons, but did her part very well. The performance of the more-advanced pupils showed in many cases remarkable talent in touch and in brilliant performance. On Monday a well-loaded motor car with trailer attached bearing a license plate of the State of Virginia passed through the village en ruote to the north woods. The tourist season is beginning and each week brings a material increase in the traffic which has proved an asset to this community in many ways.

The annual excursion of the Lakefield business men was held on Thursday last per steamer to Buckhorn, where dinner was served. The attendance was not as large as it has been recently as between forty and fifty men attended, but those who fared forth on this purely masculine outing proclaim it a great success. Games were played on the journey and at Buckhorn the annual ball game, which is a law unto itself, attracted considerable notice.

Madoc

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, June 21. — Mrs. Arthur Reid is the proud possessor of a magnificent specimen of Brugmansia (Angel's Trumpet), which, though unusually early in flowering, may now be seen any evening with ten or twelve large, beautifully developed white flowers and many buds. The plant is about six years old, and is blooming this year for the second time.

The principal streets of Madoc were well brushed and then oiled to-day, so many residents will be relieved of the awful clouds of dust that have been filling the air for the last few days.

A Total Eclipse of Heat
(In Summer)

TEN/TEST will eclipse the summer heat! There is no reason why your home should be hot this summer when TEN/TEST will make it cool and comfortable. A cool house in summer is a healthy home.

You can have a cool home by merely lining the ceiling or attic with TEN/TEST Insulating Board. Just nail the strong solid sheets to the studding and rafters. The amount of heat that will penetrate TEN/TEST is negligible. The result will be a cool and even temperature throughout your home.

One of many advantages is that plaster or paint can be applied direct to TEN/TEST, thus offering many attractive decorative possibilities.

TEN/TEST eclipses all other materials because it is an investment which pays for itself many times over and permanently enhances the value of the building in which it is used.

Kicking a Tire is no way to test it!

ONLY a pressure gauge can give you a true indication of inflation.

There is a correct pressure for your tires. It depends on the size of the tire and the wheel load. At that pressure your tires will give you maximum mileage. If your tire inflation goes three pounds below that correct pressure you cut mileage from the life of your tires.

Use a gauge.

Better still, drop in at a Dominion Tire Depot once a week and have every tire inspected, and the pressure checked. Let an expert search for cuts and bruises. Often a slight repair will prevent a blow-out.

PUBLICITY MATTER IN CITIES OF U.S.A.

Trent Waterways Has Pictures and Literature Distributed —Report On Show.

Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes publicity matter is on display for the first time in the cities of Cleveland, New York, and Pittsburg. Attractive, hand-colored, illuminated transparencies are on display in these cities, and suitable literature available, according to F. G. Stinson.

Mr. Stinson, for the past two days, has been in Bobcaygeon and Toronto, advancing plans for the reception of the Pittsburg party of about 150 business men who propose to tour this area, arriving in a special some time during the forepart of July.

As a result of contact with Edwin B. Smith, General Passenger Agent, Pittsburg and Lake Erie Railroad, also C. W. Cooke, of the same place, both of whom accompanied Mr. Stinson to Bobcaygeon and Toronto, arrangements have been completed for the summer display, downtown, in the main office windows of the P. and L. E. Railroad, of the hand-colored map, 55 ins. by 37½ ins., of the Kawartha Lakes—Trent Waterway district. A suitable supply of literature will also be available in Pittsburgh.

Following is the report of the Trent Waterway Development Association exhibit at the Ohio Sportsmen's show, Cleveland, May 17 to 23, 1928:

'Our exhibit was financed by the united efforts of the Trent Waterway Development Association, the Chamber of Commerce, and the city of Peterborough.

'Owing to unforeseen business and private engagements arising at the last moment, Mr. Frank G. Stinson, our secretary, who was to take charge of the exhibit, was prevented from going, and the writer took his place, and was assisted part time by Mr. Wagg of Midland, manager of the Georgian Bay Navigation Co., Ltd.

'From the genuine interest that was manifested in our exhibit we should say that it was a decided success, and we believe it will be the means of directing a great many people from Cleveland and the State of Ohio, as well as from many of the other States of the Union, to Ontario, and especially to Central Ontario and the Kawartha Lakes (the region of Bright Waters and Happy Lands).

'The Ohio Sportsmen's show was held in the Public Auditorium Building, a building most suitable for the purpose. After years of public agitation, years of planning and building, Cleveland has been given the finest, the most beautiful public auditorium in the country. As is fittingly inscribed upon its walls it is a 'monument conceived as a tribute to the ideals of Cleveland, builded by her citizens and dedicated to social progress, industrial achievements and civic interest.' It is designed in the Italian Renaissance style, the building is of modern fireproof construction. The exterior is faced with variated Indiana limestone from the quarries at Bedford, Indiana, and supplied and set by the Ohio Cut Stone Company of Cleveland. The pink granite base course is from the quarries of the Maine New Hampshire Granite Co., Redstone, N.H. This wonderful building was erected at a cost of $6,500,000, and has a seating capacity of 12,000 people. Such was the home of our exhibit in Cleveland. Our position was second to none, as we were situated about the middle of the main aisle of the building, and directly adjoining our good friends, the Peterborough Canoe Co., Ltd., with whom we co-operate in a most friendly manner. The light arrangements were perfect. The entire management were most courteous in extending every assistance and co-operation possible to make us comfortable and our exhibit attractive.

'Our exhibit consisted of twenty illuminated pictures of some of the beauty spots in the Trent district between Trenton and Midland. This was augmented by a large colored and illuminated map, size 55 by 37 inches, of the whole Trent Waterway district, stretching from the Bay of Quinte on Lake Ontario to Georgian Bay on Lake Huron. Needless to say, an exhibit like that attracted a great deal of attention, and a very keen interest was manifested by the passing public. Many remarked that we had the most unique, most striking and most attractive exhibit in the building. We were many times congratulated, and we feel satisfied we have been the means of directing many tourists to the Kawartha Lakes district this summer.

'Our special booklets prepared by the Trent Waterway Development Association were distributed in quantities to those interested, and the people seemed to appreciate the opportunity to get first-hand information about our district, and from the interest shown we feel sure that many of our American friends who have not previously visited Canada will spent part, if not all, of their holidays here this summer. We answered many questions regarding our district, how to get here, where to stay, roads, costs, rents, fees, hotel accommodation, etc. In almost every instance the first question asked would be Is the fishing good?'—not so much Is there good bass or musky fishing?' but Is the fishing good?'

'We should all get behind our fishing clubs and angling associations and co-operate with them to the fullest possible extent in preserving and protecting our fish, and at the same time keeping our waters restocked with fish and that means pickerel as well as bass. Good fishing is our greatest asset and greatest attraction to the American tourist. They one and all want to fish.

'When the tourists come, welcome them, and make them all feel we are glad they came our way. Give them a good square deal.

'Before leaving Cleveland we arranged to place the illuminated pictures in the States for the remainder of the summer, where they could act as silent salesmen for us. We sent four down to the Canadian National Railway office at New York on Fifth avenue and four to the Canadian Pacific Railway city office in the Union Trust Building, Cleveland, and the remaining pictures and the large illuminated map we left with the Cleveland Canada Navigation Co., running between Cleveland and Port Dover, Ontario.

"The Peterborough Canoe Company's exhibit, with Mr. Richardson in charge, directly adjoining us, made a splendid combination with ours. Their boats, with their practical features, attractive appearance, appealed at once to those who realize that good boating equipment is necessary to bring the full enjoyment of our many beautiful waters.

"Other parts of Ontario were represented in the exhibits of the Mattawa district, in charge of Mr. Phil Lamonthe, Bon Echo Inn (Kaladar), the Opinicon Inn (Chaffey's Locks), Temagami Inn, Temagami. The interest taken in all the Canadian exhibits reflects the interest that the people of the United States are taking in Ontario, the Great Playground of North America."

ALL AT SEA

By CAROLYN WELLS

1927—By NEA Service Inc.

GARRETT FOLSOM is stabbed to death while swimming at Ocean Town, N.J.

Folsom's bathing companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CARMELITA VALDON.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a pichaq, an Oriental knife, and it had been bought on the boardwalk.

It is learned that one CROYDON SEARS is a fancier of curious weapons. He admits buying two knives but not the pichaq.

Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives and is puzzled by some curious French dolls in Folsom's room.

Croydon Sears sends for FLEMING STONE, famous detective. He tells him Folsom had been blackmailing him and he had lied at the inquest, but was innocent.

Stone meets others of the circle, including NED BARRON and his wife, MADELINE. He notes the latter's nervousness and questions her.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

"I mean to question everybody concerned, Mrs. Barron," Stone told her. "I talk to you alone only because I think it less distasteful to you than to be asked questions before others."

"You say everybody concerned. I am not concerned—in any definite way."

"No, but you stood next the man at the time of the—"

"Not next to him. My husband was between us."

"Oh, yes. And you both had been talking to him?"

"Not I. He addressed Mr. Barron, who, of course, had to reply."

"I see. And you, then, never spoke to Garrett Folsom?"

"Never."

"You never saw him until that morning?"

"I saw him the night before in the lounge of the hotel. But I did not meet him."

"Now just one more thing. You know Mrs. Valdon?"

"Slightly."

"You are not friends?"

"Merely acquaintances. She is very beautiful, but she is not the type of woman I make friends with. I like her companion, Mrs. Barnaby, better."

"You know nothing of Mrs. Valdon to her disadvantage? I'm sorry to be so plain spoken, but I know that we both have at heart only the cause of Croydon Sears, and any possible sidelight I can get on this matter may help us."

"Then I will answer frankly. I know nothing of Mrs. Valdon, to her definite detriment, except that she tries to bribe the servants to let her go into the rooms that were occupied by Mr. Folsom."

"Yes. My nurse knows her chambermaid, and I insisted on her telling me."

"That is helpful and you have done right in letting me know. Rest assured such information will only be used in furthering the cause of justice, and it is through some such chance knowledge that we often reach the facts."

The whole party arrived back at the hotel about the same time, and, though the gay scene in the lounge and dancing rooms was attractive, Stone declared his readiness to meet Miss Folsom and her nephew and have a conference on the business that had brought him down.

The Barrons were excused from attendance and Robin Sears and Angel Fair were sent away to dance.

Then Croydon Sears and the detective accepted an invitation, brought them by Tite Riggs, to hold the session in the rooms that had been Folsom's and were now occupied by Dan Pelton.

This suited Stone and they went there at once.

"I am glad you are here, Mr. Stone" Anastasia said, in her straightforward way. "I wish I might have engaged you. I have one detective already," she said, glancing at Riggs, "and I find no fault with him. But he has not your experience, whatever talent he may possess. Now, I hope you two will work together, for there is much to be done. I know, as well as you do, that Mr. Sears is coming into notice, and if ever there was a ridiculous suspect, he is it!"

"Why?" and Stone looked at her gravely. "I came down here, Miss Folsom, to save my friend, Croydon Sears, from a possible false accusation, and if you so lightly toss aside the danger of such, I shall think I came unnecessarily."

"Maybe unnecessarily for that effort, but there is still the question of who killed my brother. That has to be answered, Mr. Stone, and if you will take it upon yourself to solve the mystery, I will gladly pay any bill you may present."

"To my mind, Miss Folsom," Stone said, "the best and surest way to save Mr. Sears' name from unmerited accusation is to find the real murderer. In this I am quite sure you agree with me."

"Yes, indeed," was the emphatic response. "And the way it looks to me, we are just starting out on a new investigation, or rather on a new phase of the investigation, but better equipped for an intelligent inquiry."

Fleming Stone looked at the speaker with evident admiration.

"A wise judge could not put the matter more accurately," he said. "and I am glad to work with and for you and your colleagues."

"And for heaven's sake get somewhere," said Pelton, who, while saying little, had been listening to Stone and his aunt. "I'm no detective myself, but I think if I were I'd work harder and faster than most."

"He's hitting me," Tite Riggs said, with no display of annoyance. "But we know, don't we, Mr. Stone, that the great intellects of the true detectives work slowly? That the snap judgments and hasty conclusions of the amateurs are of little worth compared to the astounding results of our deliberation and meditation."

The classing of himself with the famous Stone was forgivable because of Riggs' whimsical tone and good-humored smile.

"We'll try to compass both," Stone said: "we'll hope to get the speedy results Mr. Pelton so much desires, together with the astounding results promised by Mr. Riggs. And now to business. Mr. Pelton, your part will be to show me all the papers of your late uncle's that have any bearing on the matter of his death. Or better still, all the papers of his you have down here, for it's easy to be mistaken as to the bearing of a document."

"All right, Mr. Stone," was the reply, but the observant eye of the detective noted a disinclination to comply with the request.

"Perhaps that will be our first step," Stone went on, determined to push the matter, since Pelton was so obviously averse to it.

Yet it was not a lengthy procedure. After the neat bundles of letters and papers were brought from the desk and looked over, Miss Folsom directed her nephew to produce the suitcase that he had brought from New York, with additional data in it.

To this Pelton showed unmistakable unwillingness. He said he had mislaid the key to the suitcase, but his aunt brought him up with a round turn.

"Nonsense!" she exclaimed. "You haven't done anything of the sort, and if you have, it doesn't matter. We can break it open. You bring out that suitcase, Dan."

Pelton went to the coset to get it, and before he returned he could be heard opening the catch.

"Bring it just as it is, please," said Fleming Stone calmly, wondering if Dan Pelton was, after all, concerned in the affair.

"Don't you dare meddle with it," cried Miss Anastasia, jumping up and going to her nephew. "Whatever ails you, Dan? What monkey tricks are you up to now?"

"Nothing of the sort," he returned. "I had put some of my own letters in here, too—that's all."

As he talked he had set the small case on a table and, flinging it open, was looking amazedly at its contents. Apparently something surprised him, but in a moment he gave a sigh of relief, and said:

"There you are, Mr. Stone. I didn't put mine in there after all. I thought I did."

"Forgetful youth," Stone said, lightly. "Well, here goes for these, then."

But no more evidential documents were found in this lot than in the other, and Stone's suspicions of Dan Pelton took a new lease of life. The young man acted nervous and anxious until the suitcase was opened, then he was calm and at ease. What had he expected that he didn't find?

Stone began to see this affair had ramifications that he hadn't heretofore suspected. And if Dan Pelton was a factor in the case, it behooved an investigator to walk delicately, for Pelton had the whip hand in his possession of all documents and letters.

The more Stone thought about it the more sure he was that something had been abstracted from the suitcase during Pelton's absence from the room, and that whatever it was had given Pelton satisfaction rather than otherwise. Therefore it was something that Pelton did not want him to see. Therefore it was something that incriminated Pelton or somebody Pelton desired to shield.

This was one of those swift flashes of intuition and sudden enlightenment that come at times, and Stone was quick to act upon it. He determined to find out if any one friendly to Pelton had accomplished this act, whatever it was, that had changed him from a spirit of apprehension and fear to a satisfied, contented mood.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

ment in the demand from foreign buyers for supplies overnight, and a large volume of business was accomplished in wheat.

A feature of the local cash grain market was the demand from New York exporters for No. 2 feed oats on spot and sales of several loads were reported at 4c and 4½c per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal. A firm feeling prevailed in the spot market for car lots.

There were no new developments in the spring wheat flour situation yesterday, the tone of the market being firm in sympathy with the recovery in cash wheat prices at Winnipeg, but the volume of business showed no marked improvement owing to the continued somewhat limited demand from the United Kingdom, and the fact that local and country buyers have not commenced to provide for their future wants to any extent as yet. The trade in winter wheat flour was also slow and prices were unchanged.

A fair amount of business was done in millfeed with the United States, but the demand from local and country buyers was rather quiet. The tone of the market was steady and prices were unchanged. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet at $3.85 per bag of 90 pounds, delivered to the trade.

A feature of the local egg trade was the good demand from dealers for fresh extras, and as the offerings from shippers were not very liberal, a very firm feeling prevailed in the market and sales of Ontario extras were made at 35½c per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, and British Columbia extras at 32c per dozen, f.o.b. Vancouver. There was no change in local jobbing prices, and a fair volume of business was done. The receipts were 3,432 cases.

A stronger feeling prevailed in the potato market, and prices were advanced 10c to 15c per bag. This was attributed to the increased demand for supplies and the fact that stocks on track here have been reduced to a very low level. Sales of car lots of New Brunswick Green Mountains were made at 90c to 95c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, and Quebec varieties at 85c to 90c per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

There was no important change in the condition of the market for butter, the undertone being firm, but the volume of business was small. The receipts were 258 packages.

The trade in cheese over the cable was rather quiet but there was a good demand from spot buyers for supplies and considerable business was done. The tone of the market was firm. The receipts were 5,137 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 21 (Canadian Press).—Export sales of wheat from North America yesterday jumped to a big total, 4,000,000 bushels, and the prices made a corresponding quick advance. Despite heavy profit-taking on the bulge, most of the upturns were held at the finish. Persistent rains in the south-west and fears of black rust in the north-west did much to stimulate demand.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 1⅝c to 2¼c net higher, with corn ⅞c to 1⅛c up; oats showing ½c to 1c gain, and provisions varying from 5c decline to 5c advance.

Unexpected upturns of 3d to 3⅝d in the Liverpool wheat market helped to accelerate the rise of wheat values here; meanwhile estimates of new export business kept increasing, and despatches poured in telling of unfavorable crop developments in Kansas and elsewhere south-west, including demand from excessive moisture and from severe hailstorms as well. Moreover, a leading crop authority telegraphing from Redfield, S.D., said that if temperatures become hot before surface soil is dried out, a prospect of black rust was threatening, as the period for the appearance of rust is at hand.

Most of the North American wheat taken yesterday for export was Canadian grown, but considerable Durum wheat from the United States was included. Foreigners were also conspicuous in the purchase of Chicago future deliveries, and there was also active buying of futures for previous speculative sellers and for commission houses in general. Nothing, however, was heard as to any dealings in new crop domestic hard winter wheat for shipment from Gulf ports.

Corn rose with wheat and as a result of good cash demand. Shipping sales here totalled more than 300,000 bushels, and lake vessel charters were made for 275,000 bushels. Country offerings and Chicago arrivals were small. Oats reflected the advance of wheat and corn.

Upturns in the value of hogs gave steadiness to provisions.

STERLING EXCHANGE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 21 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as: Demand—$4.88⅝ to $4.88⅞. Cables—$4.89 3-16 to $4.89¼.

MANY ADDRESSES GIVEN THRESHERS

there is to be an accident, and when one happens the loss is heavy.

P. McIntyre said: "Threshers were of a very good class and a man had to have something in order to purchase an outfit now. Threshing is in a very good state in Peterborough district, and the threshers are trying to do what is fair andt o give the farmer their money's worth."

Inspectors Appointed.

It was A. Bowman's, of Plainville, first attendance, and he believed after his 34 years of experience that the time had come to do something. He believed threshers paid by the hour in his section did not get enough. Weeds were troublesome and often spread by careless cleaning of the machines. Weed inspectors were now appointed and it was their job and the business of every thresher to fight the weed which is a menace to all. Mr. Bell believed a raise by the hour would be the best but even that would be difficult to start. The country has been canvassed by high powered sales men who have persuaded the farmer that it is cheaper to own a machine of his own and in a small way to thresh his own grain. The installation of small individual machines is something the thresher needs to be careful of, and be cautious in raising the price. He said he has threshed twenty years for nothing, so might as well continue.

After some discussion as to the various means of payment by the bushel, pound or hour the meeting was adjourned. It ws not a meeting to raise prices but a meeting to get together and make any suggestion of interest to the threshers in general.

Evening Meeting.

The Threshers at the evening meeting had a poor turn-out. J. J. Duffus and Mayor Denne were to have adressed the meeting, but both were unable to be present as they were out of the city.

?The president took the chair and opened an informal meeting, and called on Mr. Downs to take the floor before he left for Toronto.

He advised the thresher to get out and explain the organization to his fellow threshers, that it was to better their conditions, and to get better acquainted with one another. I've learned more and got different ideas how to handle customers through contact than ever before. All business men have their conferences to talk over their business. I think $3.00 a year is a small investment for the good received. I hope to see you all in London and wish you all success. A vote of thanks was expressed by hearty applause.

Organization.

Mr. Cushman, in addressing the meeting stressed the need for organization. All business is now organized, and it is a necessity. I was interested in the discussion taking place this afternoon and realize that you are not getting an adequate price for your work, but service is necessary. The man who gives the best service gets the highest price; that has been my experience. The man who keeps his machine in the best condition is able to give the best service. To get an adequate price, you must take your customer into your confidence show him the cost, and the depreciation, and I do not think the farmers will object to pay you a living wage. This organization started 14 years ago, and the same conditions existed then as exist here —distrust and jealousy, that does not get you anywhere. The manufacturers who supply you with machines have their organizations and meet and talk over their problems, and do away with jealousy. They all have the one price. There is one serious problem: Machines cost much more to-day because the manufacturers have come together and raised the price, but the question is to show your customers this, and I do not believe there are a dozen farmers who will not see your point. There is too much jealousy among threshers; get rid of this. You have an organization started here passing through this same difficulty as others. Talk to your neighbor threshers; ask them why they were not here. It is not a meeting to set the price, as that is against the law, but to find out the conditions in various parts of the country, as they are varied, and different problems arise from them. The threshers of these district should get together and set a fair price for every body. It is very important to keep the organization within yourselves; I mean by that to elect your officers from bona fide threshermen. In the United States violation of this practice has proved disastrous; this has been proven by an organization in the city of Lansing. Ohio has a very strong organization and has defeated every obnoxious law proposed to threshers in the state. The good roads are another problem. Tractors are allowed on the road only if equip ped with special tires. Mr Henry sa this. People along these roads ha to thresh, and get them behind yo if you have any trouble but no tro ble is likely to arise if you equip yo engine with special cleats. A commi tee from Newmarket appealed to M Henry, who said they could use t roads if they paid for the damage them by the tractors, but if special equipped this is not likely to happ unless the road break when drivi off it, but a plank will often st this. Approach your local represent tives; they want your votes as well the other fellows, and they will he you.

Discuss other Matters.

Discussion as to the next place meeting and as to a larger rem tance on the fees took the last pe of the meeting It was moved James Lamey and seconded by F. ... entyre that the method be reve ed and ... letter written by the se retary to the ... office requesti this to be put in e... that inste of returning 50c to ref... $2.50 the $3.00. THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

IS IT not of Sir Christopher Wren, the famous architect, that the inscription in St. Paul's Cathedral, his masterpiece, says: "If you wish to know aught of his work, look about you"? A fleeting, but very beautiful, monument to the memory of Joseph Grierson, the gardener whose untimely death took him away at a time when he was coming into his own as a landscape gardener of parts, remains for a short while in Victoria Park, where the beds of flowers which he planted with such care are blooming. The tulips that are drooping their silken petals to the grass represent one of his latest tasks on earth, and in their serried ranks of mauve and rose and yellow brilliance they constitute a fragrant memorial to the careful hands which placed them there.

No, Myrtle, all-cold dishes are not good, even in summer. They do not promote good nutrition. The ideal type of meal for the summer diet should have at least one hot dish or beverage, not necessarily high in fat content, but having enough to maintain correct body temperature.

Passing through town on Monday, en route to one of the lake resorts, was a young lady wearing one of the most sensible pretty ensembles seen this season. The skirt was in white kasha, simple and unpleated, wrap-around in type. The blouse was of coral jersey, square-necked and embellished in a quiet geometric pattern of white kasha, encrusted on the jersey. The white pearl buttons on the blouse had a coral centre, and the belt of red leather had a pearl buckle. The hip-length jacket also was of red jersey, with a pattern of white on the sleeves, and the shoulders were gathered to a semi-circular yoke.

Wonderful work is being done by the Women's Institutes of this district. In the territory where The Examiner circulates there are more than a score of branches, all active. Practicality is the watchword, and while inspirational addresses are heard from time to time, the Institutes are busy the year around doing good for the community and for members' homes.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The new turban fashion is here displayed in two shades of brown straw and beige satin.

And now, my dear young lady—now that you have let your hair grow long enough to turn it into a bit of a knot at the back of your neck, what are you going to do with it? At home and in the evening you may try any of the new chignons and curls, but what are you going to do about a hat? For you know the milliners make hats apparently for the majority and the majority of women still have short hair. Never were hats designed that provided less room for hair.

Some of the college girls who had let their hair grow solved the problem by going bare-headed on most occasions. I know a popular young actress—long-haired, of course—who does the same even for the months she passes in the city. She has hats, but she has a way of taking them off on the slightest provocation.

But, of course, for most women this isn't really an answer to the question. The important thing is to find some type of hat that may be made in size large enough to accommodate the knot or puffs of hair without throwing the lines of the hat out of proportion.

With the close-fitting skull cap this is out of the question, even for the woman whose head is naturally very small. I have received word from Paris that milliners there consider the new draped turban as the best possible choice of hat for the woman who has longer hair because beneath the drapery of the turban it is possible to stow away the coils of hair in a most satisfactory manner.

Susan Talbot, the well-known French milliner, has offered another suggestion to the longer haired sisterhood that has caused considerable comment. This consists of close-fitting bonnets shaped very much like baby's caps, shaped down over the cheeks at the sides and tied under the chin with demure bows.

MENTAL DEFECTIVES REQUIRE MORE CARE

Ontario Council of Women Vigorously Discusses Government Policy.

Toronto, Ont., June 21 (CP).—Ontario's tardiness in providing sufficient accommodation and training for those in the province who are mentally defective was again the subject of a vigorous discussion when the Ontario Provincial Council of Women met in annual session. It was stated by one member during the discussion that for well over a quarter of a century the women of the province have been asking the Government to provide such care for these unfortunates who constitute such a vital problem in the welfare of the country.

"The educational system of Ontario is taking extremely good care of the feeble-minded up to the age of 16 years," said Mrs. R. G. Smythe, the provincial president, "then the chain is broken and the poor unfortunate defective is thrust out into the world to sink or swim. The records of our courts, hospitals and reformatories tell us how far they sink."

She quoted from Judge Mott's official report covering a period of five years showing the proportion of unmarried mothers in institutions and of people in reformatories who were feeble-minded.

"And so, after floundering along and spreading evil and disease we finally gather them in and take care of them at the state's expense," commented Mrs. Smythe. "Surely, as an economic question alone, it would be cheaper to care for them from the beginning rather than let them spread disease, commit delinquency and crime and add greatly to the feeble-minded population."

Recommendations made by the committee on the feeble-minded included the advocating of a woman physician at Orillia, a request that more money be set apart for intensive research, to find if possible causes and cure for mental deficiency and, at last, but not least, an appeal for untiring zeal in an effort to bring the matter before the Government and the legislators.

Satisfaction in the way Dr. Margaret Patterson carried on her women's court was recorded by Mrs. W. R. Lang, convenor on laws, in her thoughtful report. She expressed also the council's satisfaction at the use Dr. Patterson made of the psychiatric clinic and of the Deferred Sentence Act, which had enabled her in many instances to readjust and reinstate persons without prison sentence. She also urged that the council appeal to the Government for an institution for girls along the lines of the Bowmanville farm for boys.

C. W. A. WILL TEACH HOW TO COOK MEAL

Ecohomical Family Meals and Weekly Budgets Are on Program.

Montreal, Que., June 21.—Teaching housewives how to provide their families with good meals at small expense is the object of a movement recently added to its program by the Child Welfare Association. In truction groups have already been formed by the C.W.A. nutritionist, Miss Mildred Goodeve, and the women attending them have manifested keen interest in learning why certain foods are important, how to substitute less expensive articles for costly ones, and how to draw up their weekly budgets alon approved dietetic lines.

A budget prepared by a professional woman at the request of the C.W.A., shows a daily expenditure per person in a household of two, of 36 cents on food. In a family with an annual income of approximately $5,000 the cost of food per person was shown o be 60 c nts daily.

HOSE HAVE NEW WRINKLES

Hose, those very necessary and ornamental adjuncts of feminine attire, have taken a new wrinkle. Not a wrinkle in appearance, but in mode. They are developing ornamental heels. Of course, this in itself is not a new idea We have had the "Black Bottom", and its variations for some time back.

But they are new in treatment. The thinnest of chiffon stockings have a habit of wearing badly at the spot where the slipper or shoe ends at the back and the rubbing process starts. How to obviate this and at the same time retain an attractive appearance is a desideratum that has been attained in these new examples that have self-colored fleur-de-lis in double weight at the heel or else come up in two-point effect, with a slender long point stretching up at either side above the shoe's edge.

MARION'S MAIL.

Dear Marion:

Mrs. C. B.'s letter made me smile, because I thought I had the only husband of his kind in the city, and it never occurred to me to think that there might be some way of curing him of his collecting mania. My husband doesn't run to rifles and swords. He collects books. It doesn't seem to matter what the books are about—psychology, trigonometry, religion, biography, law, and just ordinary books, all are apparently equally attractive to him. They fill the bookcases and shelves, cover his desk, and overflow on the floor. And I think they are worse dusting than rifles!

I have tried moving some of the surplus into the attic, but as sure as I've done that he has frantically searched for one that I moved. There's no rhyme or reason to his reading, and one can't tell what kind of book he will choose for the evening.

If there's any cure for it, I'd like to know.

Yours, faithfully,
Genevieve.

Well, your case would seem to be a little easier than Mrs. C. B.'s, Genevieve. Why not give your husband a room for his own use—nearly every man likes a den—and let him muss it up with books any way he wishes to? When the books get in too great a muddle he will have to tidy them up if he wishes to find one that he wants. And a feather mop, like mother used to use for the stair rails, will make dusting books easy.

Dear Marion:

What should a boy who is 17 years old and 5 feet 10 inches tall, weigh?
Dalhousie.

For his age and height he should weigh 148 pounds.

Dear Marion:

My family likes coffee served in restaurants up town, and I can't seem to make it to please. What is the best way to make it?
Mother.

There are so many different ways of making coffee. The strength depends upon the individual taste, and, really, the coffee one gets uptown is not so VERY wonderful! I use a rounding tablespoon of coffee to each cup of cold water. I generally tell by the color when the coffee is cooked enough, but ten minutes after it starts to "perk" is a good average. If your family likes its coffee stronger, add a tabelspoon of coffee for the "pot."

MRS. AITKEN LAUDED AS BUSINESS WOMAN

Responsible for Big Women's Building Features at Canadian National.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 21 (CP).—Elizabeth Bailey Price writes of "The Business Woman in Canada" in the May number of 'The Western Home Monthly.' Mrs. H. M. Aitken, of Beeton, Ont., is the subject of the sketch.

"She is the well-known woman in the simple white uniform, who, with the boyish figure, the twinkling eyes and the dimples that play in and about her mouth, is responsible for the tantalizing odors that emanate from 'Canada's Kitchen' at the Canadian National Exhibition. She is the women who demonstrates daily 'the biscuits that mother used to make,' and the good old Christmas cakes, or the special dishes from each province. Thousands of people have heard her, for men as well as women are attracted at once by demonstrations.

She is the woman who plans many of the fair time features of the programme in the Women's Building, of which she is superintendent. She thinks out the delightful luncheons, served there daily to prominent women visitors. She is always ready for any emergency—twenty 'extra' guests at the last minute, or Alberta's prize beef not arriving in time for Alberta Day. Promptly at 1.30 p.m. all sit down the meal is served quickly, than at the right moment, with the right speech full of whimsical humor, the dimples playing in and out as official hostess, she welcomes all and gets the brief programme started.

"She is the inventor of a very original and interesting budgeting system. She is the individual who conceived the idea of pageants as a programme feature.

"The story of how this clever young woman got her start eight years ago is full of interest. Family reverses put up to her the problem of what she could do to help. Someone had given her a half dozen hens.

"Now she is the owner and manager of one of the largest and best known poultry plants in Canada. During the past year it was stocked with one thousand laying hens and fifteen thousand chickens. Two hens hold the exceptionally high egg-laying records of 310 and 323 eggs, these under Dominion government supervision or the Record of Performance Association.

"But her farm is not devoted entirely to poultry. Last year she sold 2,000 baskets of corn and peas, 1,000 bags of potatoes, while her small fruits, especially her raspberries, won her the highest grades. She also has a herd of Jerseys, with a calf valued at $300.

"She has established a home canning business in the basement of her farm home, one that has become so successful that she cannot supply the demand. Last year the output from this included 10,000 cans of chicken and many of pickles and small fruits."

Raybestos Tighten Hold on First Place in E.P.L.

CRESCENTS ARE SHUTOUT 5 TO 0 BY RAYBESTOS

Frost Holds Rays to Four Hits, But is Given Poor Support.

MAUDSLEY GOOD

Victors Score in Second and Third to Win Game.

Because they failed to hit "Scotty" Maudsley, and played poorly behind "Bun" Frost's good pitching, Crescents were shutout by 5 to 0 at Exhibition Park last evening, Raybestos getting a firmer hold on first place.

Maudsley was good all the way to register his second shutout in as many games. Bob Ross with a single to right, and Freddy Jones with a pair of doubles in the same direction, and a scratch hit down short, did all the swatting for Crescents. Frost held Raybestos to five hits, but his infielders behaved so badly that the Rays sent a pair of runners across in the second, and three more in the sixth.

Scully with a great catch of Cameron's drive in the first. Freddy Jones with fine running catches, and a neat putout by Corrin in the seventh to snuff out an attempted Crescents' rally were smart plays, all of which drew a nice hand from the big crowd.

Opening up against Crescents, Maudsley had a hard time with Cameron. With three and two against him, Cameron went out on a drive to Scully, who brought a cheer from the fans when he went up high to spear the ball. Kane was safe when Barry lost his liner down first. J. Jones and Ross fanned.

Hilliard was thrown out by Cameron, H. Nicholls struckout, Scully went to second when J. Jones dropped his fly, and Corrin popped to Cameron.

In the second, LeBarr lined to Barry, Frost walked, F. Jones doubled to right, the runners being stranded when Ranger rolled to the pitcher and Williams struckout.

Cameron booted Rogers' grounder, Moore hit cleanly across second and all hands were safe when O. Nicholls lined to LeBarr away from the bag. Ross helped some by grabbing Barry's fly, but when Kane failed to handle Maudsley's grounder, Rogers went in. Another error by Cameron on Hilliard's grounder allowed Moore to score. H. Nicholls flew out to F. Jones who doubled the runner off first.

The third brought Crescents no luck. With two disposed of, Scully missed J. Jones' grounder. Ross singled into right sending Jones to third. Maudsley threw out LeBarr.

Raybestos went out in a row, Scully sent out a long fly to F. Jones and Williams threw out Corrin and Rogers.

Freddy Jones inserted another two-base clout in the fourth but it was wasted when nobody came along to help him on his way.

For Raybestos, Moore walked and was forced at second by Nicholls, Kane handling the play on which a double killing was missed by inches. Barry flew out to J. Jones and Maudsley fanned.

In the sixth, Cameron's fly was taken by Moore, and Kane was safe on Hilliard's fumble. He went out after stealing second, straying off the bag. H. Nicholls threw out J. Jones.

Raybestos made it 5 to 0 in their half with one gone. Rogers was safe on Cameron's fumble, Moore grounded to Frost who threw to second where the shortstop missed the ball. Nicholls fanned. Then along came Barry with a double into right to score Rogers and Moore. Maudsley popped behind the pitcher, the ball dropping when Williams and Cameron tried to make the catch. Barry slipped in with another soft run, after which Kane threw out Hilliard.

Mein, batting for Williams opened the final innings for Crescents by drawing a walk. Cameron flew out and Kane did likewise. After the throw-in, Barry pulled the ancient hidden ball stunt on Mein and the game was over.

PIRATES WIN ON HOME LOT

Open Stand With Victory Over Reds—Phillies Still Winning.

CARDS BEAT CUBS.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The Pittsburg Pirates returned home yesterday and defeated Cincinnati by 2 to 1 in a duel between Pitchers Ray Kremer and Eppa Rixey. Both teams played tight ball behind their hurlers. Pie Traynor, Pirate third baseman, scored the winning run when he reached the plate from first base on Scott's single.

All of the runs in the game were scored in the fourth inning. The Reds made their one tally on doubles by Walker and Purdy. Ford, Cincinnati shortstop, was not in the game, having gone to Boston on account of the death there of a relative.

Fine pitching of Hub Pruett, backed by good hitting and fast fielding, enabled the Phillies to make it two straight over Brooklyn at Philadelphia, 6 to 2. This was the seventh Philly victory in the last nine games.

Don Hurst, Philadelphia first baseman, hit his eighth home run in the first inning with Big Jim Elliott in the box. Elliott was knocked out in the fourth, and Doug. McWeeny took his place. Pruett kept the Robins' hits scattered except in one inning.

Jess Haines held the Cubs to seven scattered hits, and the pace-setting St. Louis Cardinals won the first of the five-game series at Chicago, 6 to 2.

Percy Jones started on the mound for the Cubs, and was constantly in trouble, but the break did not come until the fifth inning, when Douthit and Holm singled, and scored on Frisch's triple. The Cardinal second-sacker came in on Hafey's sacrifice fly.

Haines held the Cubs hitless from the fifth to the ninth inning, when Grimm hit a home run.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

Harrison's North-enders and K. of C. are slated for a city Softball League fixture to-night at Confederation Park.

Raybestos invade Bethany to-morrow evening when the pitching selections will likely be Masterson for the visitors and Russell for the home club,.

Lakefield did something big last evening when Joe Hill's ball tossers went into Keene and grabbed off a 7 to 6 victory.

The umpires handled the Crescents-Raybestos fame in fine style, and the players never stopped trying. The two shortstops were far below their usual form but their teammates, Scully and F. Jones, made it look much better with their fine catches.

No East Peterborough League game is billed for Friday evening, but a City League junior game will be played at the Exhibition Park.

Jack LeBarr, injured in Friday's game, saw last night's contest from a motor car, and Al. Rooke, another casualty of the game, was in the grandstand. Both players are improving rapidly, which is a matter of satisfaction and relief to the numerous friends of the two young athletes.

Previous to the war, for a number of years, Deloro boasted a very fine Association football team. For several weeks now promoters of this sport have been arranging practice games with a view of discovering whether or not a team could be got together to do duty once more for this village of varied pastimes. Deciding it can be done the boys have ordered jerseys, knickers and boots, and hope to try conclusions in turn with Belleville, Stirling and Peterborough.

Father and son worked together as umpires in the Junior City League game last night for the first time, as far as is known, in Peterborough. Alex Kay, well-known veteran arbiter, covered the plate, and his son Gilmour, looked after the bases. The two co-operated well, and gave satisfaction to both teams.

The Royals again took the count from the Kiwanis Juniors for a 10-2 decision at the Riverside Park last night. The winners played smart ball to break the tie for the junior group leadership.

Hitting behind their opponents' errors and aided by a wild streak on the part of Crary in the sixth which netted them seven runs helped a lot in victory over Deannard's crew.

The Kiwanis have played far below their style in the last two games, the fielders last night being very ragged, the players letting many chances slip past through poor playing and bad throwing

DELORO WINS AFTER BEING FOUR BEHIND

Smelters Hit Heavily, Driving Young From the Box in Sixth Inning.

DELORO, 7, KINGSTON, 5.

Winners Make Six Errors, But Hit Well—Kingston Batting Weak.

(Examiner Correspondence).

DELORO, June 21. — Kingston found runs hard to get in their game with Deloro on the Smelters' enclosure on Wednesday, though their opposition had six errors to their account, the Ponies trotting home with the surprising defeat of 7-5, surprising because at the end of the fifth, they seemed to be well maintaining their four-run lead. Then Deloro batters found the weak spots of Young, and by virtue of heavy hitting, obtained a one-run lead.

Leal took the mound for Deloro at the start, with Collins receiving. Two innings went scoreless for each team, Scott in the second hitting into a double play. In the fourth Tetro singled to right. Jamieson hit to Jack, and Quinn, failing to get the throw, Tetro reached third. Jamieson stole second. Smith's single scored Tetro and Jamieson, there being no further scoring in this inning.

No score marked the fifth. Jack replaced Leal in the sixth. Cherry singled and stole second. Tetro walked. Jamieson bunted to Jack. Smith hit to Scott, Cherry scoring. Smith was out attempting to steal second. Stone fanned.

Then Deloro treated its fans. Burgess singled, Regan singled, and Jack hit a hot grounder to Jamieson, all the runners being safe. Collins doubled, scoring Burgess and Regan. Quinn tripled, scoring Jack and Collins. Hughes fanned, Scott bunted out to the pitcher, and Brown singled, scoring Quinn. Boudreau hit through short, Brown taking second. Buck replaced Young. Burgess hit safely to second, but Brown was out at the plate.

Nothing materialized in the seventh. In the eighth Cherry walked. Jack, with a quick pitch, tried to fool Tetro, Hughes making a nice stop of the hit that resulted, but throwing high over second. Jamieson hit to Jack, all the runners being safe. Smith walked, forcing in Cherry. Stone fanned. Young flied to left, and Tetro was nicely caught at the plate by Collins.

Deloro soon broke the tie. Quinn singled and stole second, then third, and scored on Tetro's overthrow of third. Scott singled. Brown was out trying to stretch hit into a double, Scott reaching third. Boudreau's single scored Scott. Burgess fanned.

Kingston's ninth was short lived, two strike-outs and a fly telling the tale.

A fair sized crowd took advantage of the nice weather to view the game. The teams:

BELLEVILLE WINS TWO FROM OSHAWA

Defeats Motors Twice By 5-4 Score—Two Fast Games.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., June 21.—The General Motors baseball team of Oshawa, and the Nationals, of this city, met yesterday afternoon in a scheduled double-header. A large crowd of fans watched the local team capture both games, thus giving them a decided lead in the Central Ontario League. By a coincidence the scores in both games were identical, namely, 5 to 4. In both games snappy ball was played, and they were not decided until the last man had batted. Teams:

CHICAGO, June 21 (Canadian Press).—Archie Compston, British golfer, yesterday set a new mark for the elongated No. 4 course at Olympia Fields Country Club by scoring 33, 36—69, two strokes under par for the 6,726 yard links, and one stroke better than any previous round, in practice for the national open championship. Bobby Jones, playing with the Briton, had an approximate 72, although he picked up after a couple of bad shots. Jones and Jimmie Johnston of Minneapolis defeated Compston and Leo Diegel, 2 and 1; Johnston and Diegel scoring 75 each.

CLERKS WIN AGAIN IN LEAGUE MATCH

Defeat St. Andrew's and Retain First Place in League.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21.—With three straight wins to their credit, the Clerks scored their fourth on Tuesday night and are now safely established for another week at the top of the league. The remaining two games for this week will effect the place of the other five teams. St. Andrew's were not in their best form and found it hard to settle down to business. They did not score at all till the third innings, then it was a single run. The same thing occurred in the sixth. Things looked a little livelier in the eighth, but it was too late to recover their losses. "Darkie" Runions was the only player to break into the home run column when he hit out for a round trip with one man on second. The nearest approach to his lone honors was one three bagger. In the fourth, Nesbitt replaced Dunk at second base for St. Andrew's.

On Monday night, the Blute brothers sprang into the limelight with their snappy brand of ball. Bernard Blute, pitcher, fanned nine men and Ted Blute in centre field, made two of the most spectacular catches that have been seen here this season.

YANKEES SPLIT DOUBLE-HEADER

Break Even With Athletics at New York—Red Sox Shut Out.

NEW YORK, June 21.—The Yankees broke even with the Athletics before a large midweek crowd here yesterday, losing the first game 10 to 5, and winning the second, 9 to 3. The Athletics batted Herb Pennock from the mound in the first game, with 13 hits in five and one-third innings. Wiley Moore stopped the Mackmen until the ninth, when he was rapped for four runs.

The Yanks bunched five hits on Jack Quinn for five runs in the third, but otherwise failed in the pinches Quinn's own single drove in the runs which ultimately won for Philadelphia.

The second game started as an interesting pitching duel between Ossie Orwoll and George Pipgras, but this was broken up in the seventh, when Grabowski hit into the left field seats with two on base. Pipgras's twelfth victory of the season was the first of his career over the Athletics.

This was boys' day at the stadium, some 10,000 members of the American Legion Junior Baseball League attending the game. Babe Ruth presented a silver cup to the world champion boys' team from Cook Post, Yonkers, N.Y.

Braxton, Washington southpaw, held the Boston Red Sox to four hits, and the Senators won by an 8 to 0 score at Washington. The Senators garnered twelve hits off the deliveries of three Red Sox twirlers, one being a home run by West.

Cleveland and Chicago divided a double-header at Cleveland, the White Sox winning the opener, 6 to 4, and the Tribe copping the nightcap, 4 to 3.

The Cleveland victory was the fifth straight for George Grant.

LAKEFIELD YOUTH HIGH IN SPORT

Clayton Redpath Does Well in Parkdale Canoe Club Regatta.

LAKEFIELD, June 21. — The following item taken from Monday's Mail and Empire refers to a Lakefield athlete who has done a great deal to keep Lakefield on the map in sport, Clayton Ridpath, elder son of Mr. J. W. Ridpath:

"Clayton Ridpath, a nephew of the late Bruce Ridpath, one of the best canoeists in the history of the sport, showed that he is following in the footsteps of his famed uncle, at the Parkdale Canoe Club regatta on Saturday, where he won the Novice Singles, partnered with McKenzie in the winning doubles, and was prominent in the fours. The regatta was a big success; the water and weather being ideal."

This will be of interest to many who have known Clayton Ridpath and his brother Jack as all-round athletes. Hockey, Baseball, running, jumping, softball, water sports, all found the Ridpaths ready, aye ready, and they have a fine collection of trophies. The Ridpath has been synonymous with sport for the past forty years of Lakefield's history as all the Ridpath brothers were keen athletes.

Sports Notice Board

One of our most public spirited citizens has on several occasions recently stressed the convenience which a sports notice board would be in the village, one which would be only used for sports and never for entertainments or general notices. This would serve the baseball, softball, hockey and curling interests, to say nothing of broomaloo. One of the property owners of the main street has intimated that he would be willing to allow the board to be put up on his property which is in a central location. As the board needs no speciti decoration beyond the notices placed on it, the cost of putting up a good, respectable board need not be excessive. The Dickson Store has placed a board at their store which is used constantly and is a great asset to the village for people have learned to look there for important notices, but one for the exclusive use of sports notices would be a help also. Surely voluntary labors would be forthcoming to erect the board.

ONE OF THE SEASON'S BEST

Coming Monday—"WHY SAILORS GO WRONG"

PENALTY GAVE C. G. E. BRACE LEAGUE POINTS

Goal Posts Prevented the Players From Scoring—Pace Was Very Fast.

"JAGS HAD TEN MEN."

Two Minutes From the Finish Bromley Handled Inside the Dreaded Area.

A penalty kick gave the Canadian General a brace of points in the local soccer league last evening at King Edward Park from the Thistle in a hard fought battle. Just before the interval, the "Jags" were left with only ten men against the winners full team. Hutton at inside was the "general" in anticipation and offensive methods during the final moments. A drawn game would have been a creditable result instead of the "place-kick" that decided a well-contested game.

Both Goals Bombarded.

The Thistle kicked against the sun with nine men and C.G.E. at full strength. Both goals went under a seige by the forwards of each team until the two players awanting made their presence known. The first thing of interest was the break-away by Hutton, who finished with a fast drive that hit the far upright to go into play again. Quick as a flash, Ferguson beat along the wing with the ball at his toe, he drew out the defence to make the C.G.E. full-backs look lost. Beggs accepted the opening to make tracks for goal.

Cross-bar Saved the Goal.

He headed the ball forward. Westwood returned with the cranium to Fergusson's foot, who was unfortunate in his lightning drive that hit the cross-bar that Wade never saw. Then the C.G.E. came into the picture through two offside goals that were not allowed.

Fast Pace From End to End.

Break-aways were fast on mid-field play, and allowed the forwards to test the qualities of the goalkeepers with all kinds of shots that found them unbeatable. On many occasions the C.G.E. full-backs sent back to their custodian when Beggs chased them hard for the ball. Half-time arrived after thirty-five minutes' duration, with the score still in the nil column.

Half-Time.

On resuming the Thistle were without the services of their centre-half, who strained his leg on a close tackle. Twice in succession Bolton made spectacular saves from the foot of Hutton, then from Mitchell on a close drive.

Bolton Brilliant.

For a few minutes, the Canadian General dominated the play around the Thistle goal, in which the whole forward and halves of the elevens put up a great struggle to gain a goal, in fact, Bromley and W. Beggs had the upper hand to allow Bolton ample time to clear the situation, but it was the Hutton and Dawson wing that caused all the anxiety with all kinds of tactics that deserved a better reward.

Penalty Gave a Brace of Points.

As time wore on it was noticeable that it was only a matter of minutes until the C.G.E. gained the goal that they worked hard to get, but unfortunately it came in the shape of a gift to the league leaders when Bromley on the edge of the dreaded area handled the ball intentionally, two minutes from the finish. Jack Wade, the custodian, was trusted with the kick, who sent in a rising shot into the rigging which gained the C.G.E. two points from the Thistle in a hard fought game. C.G.E. 1, Thistle 0.

C.G.E.—J. Wade, goal; Munkley and Westwood, full backs; Galvin, Mann and Blowers, halves; Hutton, Dawson, Mitchell, Laidler and Burgess, forwards.

Thistle—Bolton, goal; W. Beggs and Bromley, full backs; Hallam, Falcroft and Houston, halves; Mayette, Griffin, A. Beggs, House and Fergusson, forwards.

Referee—J. C. Russell. Linesmen—D. Dick and T. Stewart.

SUNSHINE AND SNAKE POISON

That there may be truth in the belief that poisonous desert snakes are the deadliest is suggested by report in Popular Science Monthly of two investigators of the French Academy of Sciences. After exposure to ultra-violet rays of light, snake venom, they found, became increasingly fatal. Animals injected with the poison after it had been exposed to the rays succumbed more quickly than others on which ordinary snake poison was used.

GAIN LEAD BY 10-2 SCORE FROM KIWANIS

Winners Hit Behind Opponents' Errors to Swamp Deannard's Crew.

KIWANIS INFIELD POOR

Gather in Seven Runs in Wild Streak on Crary's Part in Sixth.

All Saints' Royals are leading the Junior series of the City Baseball League because they took advantage of their opponents' lapses to win out over the Kiwanis team, 10-2 and break a tie which existed for the group leadership. The winners hit behind their opponents' errors and a wild streak on the part of Crary to garner seven runs in the sixth inning, before which time as tight a little contest as one could wish to watch had progressed.

To Russ Kitchen goes a great deal of credit for the win. The lanky twirler struck out eleven of Jack Deannard's hopefuls, including all three batsmen who faced him in the second inning, and pitched himself out of a nasty hole in the sixth, fanning Howden on a called strike over the corner with the bases full to retire the side.

Prominent both in attack and defence were Hatton and H. Hollingsworth. The catcher held up his pitcher well and contributed a timely double in the third to put the Royals ahead for the first time. "Red" played a whale of a game at second, covering acres of ground, and also had two hits.

Crary was largely responsible for the magnitude of his own defeat. He got into a bad hole in the sixth by walking two and hitting two, and a couple of errors and three singles were consequently good for seven runs. Outside that inning, however, he twirled nice ball, allowing only one untainted run and retiring eight batsmen on strikes.

The fielding behind Crary was ragged, especially with men on bases, and outs were missed through dumb playing and poor throwing.

"One For the Book."

The Kiwanians pulled one for the book, Terry Hall being the chief performer. With one out in the third and Hatton on second and L. Hollingsworth on first, Jones dropped a Texas Leaguer over second. It looked good for a hit and both runners advanced, but Frank Carroll, by fast running, got under the ball for an out. He tossed to Hall, who was standing a couple of steps from second and needed only to touch the bag to get Hatton, who was half way to third. Instead of doing this the second baseman turned and threw to LeBarr to get Hollingsworth. The throw was none too good but the first baseman scooped it up to get the returning runner by a step. A double play resulted but it wasn't Hall's fault.

The Kiwanis team got the jump in the first inning. LeBarr slammed the first ball thrown past Hartley for a hit. Rishea hit a hot one right at Kitchen. The pitcher knocked it down but threw wildly to first, allowing LeBarr to score and putting Rishea on third. Hall struck out and Kennealley grounded to Gordon, but Carroll hit a hot single through Hollingsworth to score Rishea, going to second when Hollingsworth threw wildly to first.

The Royals got it back in the second. Len Hollingsworth walked. Jones flied out. Hall messed up Hartley's grounder, putting runners on second and third. Gordon struck out but Rishea missed Kitchen's roller and the two men scored. Hope forced Kitchen.

The winners forged ahead in the third. Red Hollingsworth led off with a double. Beavis struck out but Hatton doubled to send the runner home. Then Len. Hollingsworth walked and the aforementioned double play occurred.

The losers had their best chance in the sixth. Kitchen fumbled Kennealey's tap. Carroll flied to Hartley. Gillespie looped one into to centre and Kennealey held first. Beavis took the ball on the first hop and had Kennealey cold at second for a force but threw wildly. Crary forced Gillespie but Starr walked, crowding the sacks. With the bases full Kitchen pitched cooly to Howden, getting the batter with a called strike when the count was three and two.

The sixth was the big frame for the winners. Hartley and Gordon walked to start it. Rishea missed Kitchen's roller, Hartley scoring, but Gordon was caught at third, Howden to Starr. Hope and Hollingsworth were hit, the latter being somewhat injured, filling the bases. Beavis singled, scoring Kitchen and Hope, and Rishea erred on Hatton's grounder, allowing Newson, running for Hollingsworth, and Beavis to score. Len Hollingsworth singled and stole second. Jones grounded out to Hall, Hatton scoring. Hartley singled, sending Hollingsworth in, and stole second. Gordon struck out.

KEENE BEATEN BY LAKEFIELD

Losers Lead Until Fifth and Outhit Winners, But Field Poorly.

FINAL SCORE 7-6.

KEENE, June 21. — Keene went down to defeat here last night to Lakefield seven to six. Keene had the game well in hand until the fifth pitcher well and contributed a timely double in the third to put the Royals ahead for the first time. "Red" played a whale of a game at second, covering acres of ground, and also had two hits.

For the losers, A. Fletcher's fielding at first base was a feature, as was the relief pitching of McCarthy, after Robertson weakened. George Heffernan made a great catch of a hard drive from the bat of James McCarthy. It was labelled a two-bagger, but Heffernan came over fast to centrefield and made the put-out.

Madill pitched good ball for Lakefield, striking out the side in the seventh inning to finish the game.

Keene outhit the visitors nine to five, but errors on the part of the home team were responsible for the defeat.

WIN FOR PETES SATURDAY WILL TIGHTEN RACE

Only a Game and a Half Separates Last Four Central Teams.

BELLEVILLE LEADS.

But Petes Hope To Bring Their Winning Streak To An End.

The Belleville team, with a double victory over Oshawa yesterday, are well in the lead in the Central Ontario League race, and they hope to consolidate their position by a win over the Petes here on Saturday.

It is up to the home crew to put a crimp in the Nationals' winning streak in this game. The Petes can do it with their full strength on the field if they get out there and fight until the last man is out. They beat Walter Gerow's men on their last appearance here and there isn't any reason why they can't do it again Saturday. The Railroaders are going good, it is true, but they have no new combination of strength to overcome and they have been beaten plenty in the past and will be again.

Saturday's game should be a real argument if the past history of Belleville-Peterborough clashes means anything.

The Petes were terrible last Saturday, but they promise a different showing in this engagement with their old rivals.

The Central Ontario League standing is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Belleville	6	2	.750
Kingston	4	4	.500
Deloro	3	3	.500
Oshawa	3	4	.429
Peterborough	2	5	.286

The race is thus so close that only a game and one half separates the last four teams. On Saturday Oshawa plays in Deloro and Belleville will be here. A win for the two home teams would materially tighten the race.

LEGION BEATEN BY WIDE MARGIN

Outlaws Win League Game 19-4—Losers in Cellar.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21.—If the order of things were exactly reversed, the Legionaires would be so far ahead of the rest of the teams that they could almost have their names engraved on the trophy without waiting for the other games to be played. As it is, they are so far behind that they will probably never know that there is a trophy being played for. Much of their failure is due to indifference on the part of the manager of their team. There appears to be plenty of first class material for a real team, but it is not being properly used. This is the opinion expressed by several of the players, and it is possible that the manager will be asked to resign.

Last night, the Outlaws took the Troops for a ride to the tune of 19 to 4. Until the Rev. Ernest Harston arrived, the Legionaires were playing with an eight-man team. Since the game had been twice postponed and the executive of the association had not been notified that it was to be played last night, the regular diamond had been loaned to the ladies' teams from Warkworth and Brighton. This made it necessary for the Town League game to be played on the old diamond which is overgrown, with long grass and with a wire fence running across the middle of the outfield. A batter who managed to knock a fly over the fence was practically certain of a three-bagger if not a complete circuit. Either on account of long grass or long fingers, the Legionaires suffered a double loss. As well as losing the game, they lost their ball. Faint hopes are entertained that it may yet put in an appearance.

The line-ups:

Legionaires.—N. Reynolds, p; E. Harston, c; H. Hoard, 1b; R. Stanbury, 2b; W. Owens, 3b; G. Free, ss; J. Waters, cf; J. Dickson, rf; L. Henson lf.

WARKWORTH GIRLS WIN COUNTY TITLE

Defeat Brighton 22-7 For Right To Play at District Picnic.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21. — Warkworth ladies will represent Northumberland county in the play-off at the Junior Farmers' Picnic at Presqu'ile Point, on July 6th. This was decided last night when they met the Brighton Ladies' team at the Seymour Agricultural grounds here in a sudden death game which was organized for that purpose.

Campbellford was selected for the game since each team wished to play on neutral ground. The score might not have been so one-sided had not the Brighton ladies 'blown up' in the 5th innings and allowed Warkworth to start what is locally known as the 'old merry go round,' which was not stopped till 12 runs had been scored. Warkworth scored in every innings while Brighton did not manage to get a count till the

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

TO-NIGHT THE CAPITOL OFFERS A THRILLING STORY OF SLAVERY DAYS, IN THE SOUTH, "THE LOVE MART" WITH BEAUTIFUL BILLIE DOVE AND NOAH BEERY IN THE LEADING ROLES

Billie Dove, who, with Gilbert Roland and Noah Beery, appears in "The Love Mart", which is now showing at the Capitol Theatre is one of the most versatile and charming girls on the screen. In this George Fitzmaurice production for First National Pictures, she enacts the role of an aristocratic French girl who is wrongfully accused of having mixed blood and sold as a slave in the public mart of New Orleans, as it existed more than a hundred years ago.

In "American Beauty", a recent picture, she was a modern American girl struggling to maintain her position in society against financial odds.

In "The Stolen Bride", she was an Hungarian countess: and in "The Tender Hour", she was also a lady of nobility.

In every case, she gives a convincing performance. "The Love Mart" is a romantic story of the early years of the Nation, when slave-running was at its height and pirates from the Gulf infested the borders and waterways of the Southern States.

AT THE REGENT.

MOST DISCUSSED MAYNARD FILM REACHES REGENT

The Regent Theatre will be the scene of the latest Ken Maynard western, "The Devil's Saddle," Charles R. Rogers' production for First National, which created more discussion in the movie colony than any single picture during the present season.

"The Devil's Saddle," gained distinction for two reasons—the daring of its director, Al Rogell, and the "scoop" it won over previous western dramas where the Indian tribes were involved.

For the first time on record the company obtained governmental permission to film the actual pictures of an Indian ceremony — on the Hopi reservation near Flagstaff, Arizona. Then the invasion of Red Rock Canyon, in the heart of the Mojave desert, resulted in scenes previously sought but never filmed due to the dangers which lurk in the snake-infested region.

Heretofore scenes in which Indian tribes participated were chiefly studio creations, btu the privilege to film the reservation scenes enabled Director Rogell to go much further and arrange tribal dances and a celebration.

"The Devil's Saddle" is a Charles R. Rogers production for First National starring Maynard, the handsome cowboy hero. Others in the cast include Kathleen Collins, Paul Hurst, Earl Metcalfe, Will Walling, Tom Bay and Francis Ford.

CUTICURA HEALS SKIN TROUBLE

Sore Eruptions Broke Out Over Face, Itched and Burned.

NEW NASH CAR IS LUXURIOUS

Sixteen New Models Included in '400' Line Introduced To-day.

TWIN IGNITION.

Twin-ignition, high compression engines, and custom finished, Salon type bodies led an imposing list of advancements new to the America automobile industry when The Nash Motors Company formally introduced its exclusive "400" series of cars to the motoring public.

This impressive presentation of sixteen entirely new models, engineered to a degree of operating efficiency and riding comfort never before attained in the same price class, is the answer of C. W. Nash to a universal demand for luxurious motor transportation at moderate cost. It is also a fulfillment of personal engineering ambitions that have extended over thirty-six years of sound, successful manufacturing in the vehicle field.

"It has been the dominating ambition of my whole manufacturing experience," he said in commenting on his company's crowning achievement, "to develop a line of cars of moderate price which would have everything in the way of appearance, performance, comfort and quality that the country's costliest cars offer. This ideal has been completely realized, I believe, in the new '400' series. More than $2,500,000 has been invested in dies and machinery alone to enable use to build this entirely new type of motor car. Nothing I might say could add emphasis to this: it has been the ambition of my career to build such a car as the '400'."

Three complete groups of cars, equipped with the new motors of revolutionary but proved principles, enclosed bodies that set new high standards in coach building, and with a dozen separate but perfectly co-ordinated advancements in design and equipment, are included in this Nash offering to a nation of experienced and appreciative automobile users.

All models are equipped with full hydraulic shock absorbers, front and rear—Houdaille on the Advanced Six and Lovejoy on the Special and Standard Six. Bijur centralized lubricating system, on the Advanced Six models, sends automatically metered fl changes to 21 chassis points at the depression of a convenient foot pedal.

All of the new models embody engineering accomplishments of unusual interest to both the industry and the public. The most striking performance feature, however, lies in the twin-ignition, high compression motor finally developed by Nash engineers after months of intensive experimenting and exhaustive tests. This motor unites for the first time in the history of automotive engineering multiple ignition, high compression, the valve-in-head engine principle, the seven-bearing crankshaft improved with hollow crank pins, and aluminum alloy pistons which employ embedded Invar-struts to guarantee the closest, possible fit.

Briefly, these engineering accomplishments and their relationship to one another, may be explained as follows: Twin-ignition is perfected at last by the use of twelve new "aircraft" metric type spark plugs instead of the customary six, one throwing its measured flashes of white heat into each cylinder head and one flashing into the cylinder proper. Their combined operations give each of the six cylinders 360 flashes per second at top speed with a resulting thoroughness in combustion, smoothness in motor operation and maximum economy in the fuel consumed.

The high compression pressures are brought about by the new symmetrically shaped combustion chambers which have been reduced in size to give each charge of gas its greatest possible explosive power. The perfected, valve-in-head- construction, of vital importance in fine motor car design, permits complete machining of the combustion chamber so that there is an absolute uniformity of explosion in all six cylinders.

The seven - bearing crankshaft, which has been improved with the introduction of hollow crank pins, operates under a greatly reduced centrifugal load and at increased speed, while the new Bohnalite aluminum pistons also lighten the load, reduce operating temperatures and permit increased speed and power. All of these advancements in the Advanced and Special Six groups combine in the new Nash "400" motor design to bring about unequaled engine performance.

In the Standard Six models there is a new-type motor which combines the advantages of high turbulence, high compression, aluminum alloy pistons with the same Invar-struts, and the seven-bearing crankshaft and torsional vibration damper, with the L-head principle of construction to make a motor design especially favorable to quality manufacturing in the field of lower-priced cars. High turbulence contributes directly to greater motor efficiency and economy, due to the intense agitation of vaporized gases it sets up in the manifold and combustion chambers. The torsional vibration damper eliminates all vibration from the power stream.

The new Advanced Six models are capable of smooth speed from 75 to 80 miles an hour. The Special Six easily reaches 70 to 75 miles an hour and the Standard Six models have a speed "ceiling" of 65 to 70. Of even greater interest than this safe speed range is the quality of performance delivered by the new motors. At the get-away, top or intermediate speeds, in second gear or high, the performance is smooth and quiet and powerful beyond any comparison in this field. The pick-up is alert and sure and the acceleration even and luxurious to the last degree.

Pure riding comfort in the new "400" series parallels their quality of performance in their motors. Each chassis of the three series has a new type double-drop frame, stronger, more rigidly trussed with tubular members and supported with deeper side members. These frames serve to bring the over-all height of the cars to the lowest modern vogue and also lower the centre of gravity in the cars to achieve even greater road balance. At the same time the new treatment allows more headroom in all of the bodies.

AUTO IN USE FOR 37 YEARS

Remarkable staying powers of some of the pioneer automobiles is evidenced by a French machine that is thirty-seven years old and still going strong. The car, says Popular Science Monthly, is owned by the priest of a little French village, and has traveled more than 200,000 miles in its long and useful life. A one-horsepower engine drives it.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1928.

One of the rarely fortunate days in the circle of the year is forecast in the reading of the stars for this date. Astrologers find many benefic aspects strongly active.

This is a time to push all constructive plans and activities. The rule is most favorable to building.

Many remarkable beautiful public buildings are to be started in 1928 and they will transform familiar cities within a decade, astrologers foretell.

The new era has advanced to a place where what were once miracles will multiply and material prosperity will merely foreshadow spiritual development, the seers prognosticate.

This day's configuration is especially helpful to psychic research, and it is believed to impart great clarity of mental vision.

Women continue subject to the best planetary direction which presages for them tremendous public service.

Under this sway love affairs are supposed to be peculiarly fortunate, for romances will last because there is true understanding.

There is a sign of promise for all who seek promotions or employment of any sort.

Prosperity is to be great as the autumn advances, but there will be many dark prophecies that never come true.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year marked by unexpected good luck, especially in health conditions.

Children born on this day probably will have unusual artistic talents. Many musicians are born under the signs which presages great fame.

Bathe Them in "TIZ"

MIXED TOURNEY GREAT SUCCESS

Bowlers Plan To Hold Several Such Events During Summer.

T. C. ELLIOTT WINS.

Yesterday was an ideal day for the first mixed lawn bowling tournament of the season, held on the Brock street green. At 1.30 p.m. an eager crowd of men and women bowlers assembled and the darw was soon made. Some really fine games were played which resulted in most cases with very close scores and excitement ran high to the last minute.

T. C. Elliot's rink, composed of Mrs. H. Staunton, lead; B. Coleman, second; Mrs. F. Williams, vice-skip, T. C. Elliott, skip, carried off the honors with three wins and a plus of 18.

George Gimblett's rink, composed of Mrs. Tedford, lead; N. Routley, second; Mrs. H. H. Graham, vice-skip; G. Gimblett, skip, won second prize with two wins and a plus of 10.

Dr. Allen's rink, with two wins and a plus of 8, and H. Martin's rink with two wins and a plus of 7 were third and fourth in standing.

The following is the personnel of the rinks:

Several of these tournaments are being planned for the summer and it is anticipated that even more rinks will enter for the next one, as a number of the members were out of the city yesterday.

Ladies' Bowling Club.

On Tuesday afternoon the lady lawn bowlers enjoyed some great games. In some cases the result was very uncertain until the last bowl was thrown. Mrs. Graahm's rink beat Mrs. Miller's rink by one point and Mrs. Coleman's rink defeated Mrs. Greenslade's by two points, the latter rink being penalized on account of the absence of players. The following is the score for Tuesday's games:

Mrs. Graham 12, Mrs. Miller 11.

Mrs. Coleman 15, Mrs. Greenslade 13.

Mrs. Gimblett 18, Mrs. French 12.

Mrs. Wright 18, Miss Allen 9.

Attack First In Connaught Cup Race

MONTREAL, June 21.—Canadian Press. — Despite the fact that she was giving away pounds in weight to her opposition, Attack, owned by the Riverdale stable, and ridden by C. Ralls, had little difficulty in winning the Connaught Cup handicap, the outstanding event on yesterday's program at the Montreal jockey club's Blue Bonnet race track, from a select band of Canadian breds. Of the seven horses that started in the mile and an eight journey two were coupled as the Seagram entry.

The daughter of Gallant Foe, by Atwell was kept within striking distance of the leaders for the first half mile. She took the lead entering the stretch and finished the race galloping. Ichitare and Meeran finished second and third respectively. Ferry of Fate and Evermore, the Seagram stable entry, finished out of the money. The winner was second choice in the wagering and returned $5.50 for the usual two dollar straight investment.

When Equation won the Vercheres purse in the third race the longest prices of the local racing season was marked up. The winner was overlooked in the wagering and paid $63 for each two dollars winning ticket. Sun O'Chen, who was made the public choice for the event, made all the early pace but weakened towards the end and was passed by Equation.

Soccer Friday Night De Laval Vs. Quakers

Kick-off is Scheduled For 6.20 Prompt at King Edward Park.

A soccer league game is scheduled for Friday evening, instead of Saturday afternoon, at King Edward Park. Kick-off at 6.20 prompt. Referee Alex McKinley. The reason for the change was made through the DeLaval executive who desired to cooperate with the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club in their annual picnic to Orillia on Saturday, when many of the players will participate in their outing. After the application was made to the local executive, the Quakers Football Club consented to the change and completed arrangements immediately for the evening encounter.

Many new faces will be seen in the Quakers' line-up, namely: W. Curtis, goal; Hotson and Craig, backs; Buchan, Carmichael and Rankine, halves; A. Wilson, Lovat, Studely, Logan and Foster, forwards.

All players associated with the DeLaval are requested to be at the pavilion as soon as possible so that the team may be chosen.

Dear Lord wilt thou a message take
To one who walks thy golden ways,
She is my own, my best beloved,
Without her al lare empty days,
Whisper that my heart is with her
In the kingdom u pabove.
Tell her that I miss her always
And send all my love,

WEDDING BELLS

BENNETT—JENKINS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. J. Finn at the Rectory of St. Peter's Cathedral on Saturday, June 16, at 12 o'clock, when Alice Edith Jenkins became the bride of William Charles Bennett. The bride looked pretty in a powder blue dress of silk crepe, with blonde hat and shoes and Isabella fox fur. She carried a bouquet of ophelia roses and lily of the valley. She was attended by her sister (May), Mrs. W. H. Sickler, wearing a pretty dress of green flat crepe trimmed with silver lace, with large hat to match, blonde shoes and hose, and bouquet of Columbia roses. The groom was supported by Mr. Harry Jenkins of Toronto, brother of the bride. A reception was held at the home of the bride's mother at one o'clock, where a sumptuous repast was enjoyed by about forty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennett left on the afternoon train for a trip to Toronto and Rochester, the bride wearing a dainty frock of blonde celanese with navy Prince of Wales coat and blonde ribbon hat. On their return they will reside in the city.

The gift of the bridegroom to the bride was a white gold wrist watch; to the attendants, white gold ruby ring and gold cigarette lighter.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. C. Compton, Mr. and Mrs. F. Simmons of Oshawa, Mrs. S. Stevenson of Rochester, N.Y.; Mrs. Berkeley Irwin of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. W. Whitnell of Toronto, and Mr. H. Jenkins of Toronto.

VOL. LXI., No. 146 PETERBOROUGH, FRIDAY, JUNE 22, 1928 PRICE THREE CENTS

BAD ACOUSTICS TO BE REMEDIED

County Council Appoints Committee to Improve Court Room.

WILL COST $300

The acoustics of the county court room are on the way to that remedial alteration which judges and successive grand juries have urged since the restoration of the building and the quick discovery of its only flaw. When the expenditure of money raised by taxes is involved the County Council is not close, nor is it conveniently negligent, but it can exercise infinite patience. And so at last they got around to this item yesterday.

They had previously made a tentative inquiry and their engineer, A. W. Connor of Toronto, had obtained prices and information which had been filed away for the day of use. While he was present Thursday afternoon he was asked if Prof. Anderson, the expert acoustician, was still available. Mr. Connor said he was and promised to call on him at once.

Treatment of the walls and ceiling of the court room will cost $540 and the walls alone $300. The walls will be muffed first, and it is expected that this will be sufficient to prevent the echoes which the hard plaster finish has been tossing back and forth when courts are sitting.

Reeve Rye moved, seconded by Reeve Middleton, that Warden Smithson and Reeves Rye, Montgomery and Curtis be a special committee to attend to this work. This resolution was adopted by the Property Committee with Reeve Curtis in the chair.

The committee also decided to call for tenders for the removal of the old registry office building.

No Shower Baths.

The Grand Jury of the Spring Assize had recommended the riddance of an old boiler which is said to heat water for baths in the jail. The bathing facilities themselves are reported to be antediluvial in their general arrangements, but the boiler is put down as dangerous.

"This has been mentioned since I came to the Council in 1924" Warden Smithson remarked.

Several of the members worked off a wise crack or two about the boiler and the putty that is said to stop up its cracks or holes, but nothing particular was done about it.

And the Grand Jury's recommendation of shower baths for the jail was apparently the only other humorous item in the report for it drew a round of laughter as some member visualized the councillors filing under the showers after a strenuous session, a game of golf or some other sweating labor.

RAIN SPOILS U.F.O. PICNIC

Keeps Many People at Home—Baseball and Horseshoes Played.

DANCE MUCH ENJOYED.

WALLACE'S POINT, June 22. — Rain put a very effective damper on the Cavan and South Monaghan U. F.O. picnic scheduled to be held here yesterday afternoon, only the dance at night being unspoiled. There were very few people present, and for those who arrived there was little to do except try to keep from getting wet. The Bailieboro baseball team was on the field, but the Keene team, which was to have played them, did not show up. A like fate met the Frazerville ladies' softball team, which was to have met the fast Canton outfit, the team from near Port Hope not arriving.

A horse shoe pitch gave many of the men a little fun after the rain ceased, a number of scratch games being played. On the ball diamond Bailieboro met a pick-up team in a game which started out in a promising manner, but was suddenly ended when Red Paul, catching for the pick-ups, tripped over a boy while chasing a high foul, and fell in such a way that the ball lit on his head. Both small boy and catcher carried home large bumps as souvenirs. The score at the time was 8-4 for Bailieboro, and the line-ups were:

Bailieboro — Woods, 3b; G. Dean, ss; Dawson, 2b; J. Barnard, cf; H. Dean, c; C. Barnard, lf; R. Barnard, 1b; F. Barnard, rf; Deyell, p.

Pick-ups — Cardwell, 1b; Hewett, 3b; Paul, c; Carroll, p; McGregor, 2b; Archer, ss; C. Anderson, rf; Scott, cf; A. Anderson, lf.

Mutinous Stowaways Are Placed Under Control On Liner Jarvis Bay

LONDON, June 22. — Canadian Press. — The final chapter of an extraordinary sea story, rivalling in the thrills the most fanciful romances of the deep, was written last night when Captain Daniels of the Australian Commonwealth liner "Jervis Bay," sent news that the mutinous stowaways aboard his vessel were finally under control. His message said: "Twenty-first night. Everything going well. Stowaways under safe control. Expect to arrive Monday morning."

Earlier in day there had been frantic calls for help from the steamer. They indicated that the stowaways (eight in number) were under hatches, but that a mutiny had broken out among the crew and that threats had been made to set the vessel afire

A party of marines was at once embarked on the auxiliary steamer Slavoi with orders to bring the Jervis Bay to Colombo, Ceylon. Captain Daniels had called for the aid of a warship, but there was none in the immediate vicinity.

At the London offices of the line comment was made that last night's message fom the vessel indicated that the press reports had been a bit overdrawn. The company had throughout considered it reassuring that the master of the vessel had not thought it necessary to communicate with the owners.

In shipping circles generally, however, there was an impression that serious trouble was to be expected on the Jervis Bay because she is about to be transferred to the White Star line on the completion of this voyage. The pay of the crew will then be reduced from about $75 to about $40 monthly.

COUNCIL FREE FOR EXCURSION

United Counties' Business For June Session Finished Yesterday.

REPORTS ADOPTED.

COBOURG, June 22.—With the object of winding up all unfinished business that Friday might be an open one in the County Council session week for the enjoyment of Warden Charles Davidson's excursion to Rochester, the Council of the United counties, Northumberland and Durham held a lengthy and intensely busy meeting here on Thursday afternoon. Reception and discussion of reports submitted by the various committees which had finished their work previous to the session, the passing of by-laws made necessary by certain recommendations in the report of the finance committee particularly and attendance to other details, occupied the full afternoon.

School Report

Following usual opening ceremonies, the council went into committe of the whole for the purpose of receiving the report of the schools committee—a report including recommendations which provoked no little discussion, though it was finally adopted as read. Nevertheless, it was threatened with more than one amendment.

The report recommended that no action be taken on the communication received from the chief inspector of schools relative to supplying typewriters to the various school inspectors, while another "no action" suggestion was applied to the communication from the Deputy Minister of Education, relating to a proposed change in the Continuation Schools Act, whereby Section 41 of the High Schools' Act would be made applicable to continuation schools also.

Grants in Order.

A report of the Finance Committee necessarily deals with the matter of grants, and among the first recommendations of this report was the payment of $126.64 to S.S. No. 2, Cartwright, being the balance due of the 1925 grant. The payment of $2,125.56 to public schools and $48.20 to separate schools, being the equivalent of legislative grants for accommodation and equipment for the current year, was also recommended, while grants of $50.00 each were voted to the following schools:

Bowmanville High School.
Bowmanville Public School.
Port Hope High School.
Port Hope Public School.
Cobourg Collegiate Institute.
Campbellford High School.
Campbellford Public School.
Colborne High School.
Mill brook Continuation School.

The counties' clerk was also instruct to advise the Oshawa Board of Education that the United Counties accept terms offered for maintenance of counties' pupils at Oshawa Collegiate: 100 per cent. of maintenance and 80 per cent. of debenture costs. Additional maintenance grants for counties pupils for 1926 based on expenditures for 1925 for High Schools be paid in December after the necessary corrections have been made was another suggestion under the "we recommend" section.

Other Maintenance Grants.

Rather a new departure was the paragraph in the finance report suggesting that all secretaries of the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes in the United Counties be asked to meet a committee comprising the chairman of the Schools Committee, J. M. Bygott, A. R. Wilmott, Deputy-Reeve of the town of Cobourg, the chairman of the Finance Committee, and the counties' solicitor at as early a date as possible to arrange proper

Two Pacific Fliers Try Atlantic Next

LONDON, June 22.—Harry Lyons and James Warner, the Americans who accompanied Captain Kingsford-Smith in the flight from Oalfland, California, to Australia, plan to make an East to West flight across the Atlantic late this summer according to a Sydney dispatch to the London Daily News tonight.

It was expected the dispatch stated, that the flight would be started from England.

NORWOOD REEVE WANTS BRIDGE

Asks Council to Build Structure But Gets Only $300.

BRIDGE FOR ONE FARM

They were "all taking a whack at it", as Reeve Hawthorne of Dummer alluded to the distribution of more or less small grants to the townships for roads and bridges yesterday, so Reeve Montgomery of Norwood took his turn at the whacking rite, but with rather dubious success. He wanted a new Elm street bridge for the village, and he enlisted the aid of the County Engineer A. W. Connor of Toronto who was armed with estimates and drawings.

A bridge of 36 feet in length and raised two feet higher than the present one would cost $1,880 for an 18 feet roadway, $2,000 for a 20 feet roadway and $2,150 for a width of 22 feet. The plan for an 18 feet roadway provided an attachment for a sidewalk to be laid some time in the future, maybe.

Mr. Montgomery emphasized the need of this bridge, and said he understood the provincial government would pay 30 per cent of the cost. The provision for that contribution seems to have been rescinded, at least some of the members so contended, and Reeve Curtis of Havelock questioned the need of the bridge. He had seen some traffic over it, but it was far less than a trickle. Besides Havelock had built a 26-foot bridge and couldn't get a cent from any pocket except the railway village treasury.

"I know our municipality will never build it by themselves", said Mr. Montgomery, "and I consider we are entitled to the county's help."

"It's your own problem", Reeve Curtis remarked, "we'll give you a grant."

The grant proposed by Reeves Hawthorne and Scott is $500, although Waterman and Rye of Monaghan suggested $300 in an amendment that was unsupported. So Norwood gets the $500, and Mr. Montgomery must turn to the provincial government for the rest. And there's a cloud of doubt in that direction.

Bridge For One Farmer.

The Montgomery disappointment was no doubt sharpened by a prior incident in which Reeve Parker and the Warden were authorized to fix up the North Squaw River bridge in Harvey township. Reeve Parker admitted that it had generally been known that this bridge serves just one farmer. Since it was built, not so long ago, it has cost altogether $3,098, that was practically the construction expense, but a pier has "canted" out of line to the tune of $700 or $800, possibly more, and of course must be blown out, or whatever they do, and replaced.

Gambler Visited Mayor.

VANCOUVER, June 22. Canadian Press. — Testifying at the police probe yesterday, C. P. Bench, a private detective, swore that he had seen Shue Moy, a reputed king of the gamblers, walk into Mayor Louis B. Taylor's apartment, on about 50 occasions.

FLIERS AWAIT LIFTING OF FOG

Will Set Out To Look For Amundsen, Now Nobile Has Provisions.

NO TRACE OF EXPLORER.

KING'S BAY, June 22 (Canadian Press).—While the heavy fog which had settled upon Spitzbergen this morning was slowly lifting during the day, the Italian fliers at King's Bay were planning to seize the first opportunity to take off in two large flying boats to bring further aid to General Nobile and to seek for the missing expedition of Raold Amundsen.

Now that more than six hundred pounds of provisions and supplies have been dropped to General Nobile and his five stranded companions near Foyne Island, off North East Land, thus ensuring their safety for the present, the attention of rescue expeditions here has been turned sharply toward the missing Amundsen group.

No Trace of Party.

The radio operator of the Nobile base ship Citta di Milano has been busy trying to find some trace of the huge French plane, in which Amundsen and five companions took off from Norway on Monday night, but thus far the search has been fruitless.

The Citta di Milano has communicated with the ice cutter Braganza, now off the North Cape, and with the Russian icebreaker, Maligin, which is near South Cape, in a rough sea, slowly making her way northward in an effort to break through to Nobile. Neither of these ships, however, had anything to report concerning Amundsen.

Lieut. Luetzow Holm and Capt. Riiser Larsen, Norwegian fliers, who have made numerous air reconnaissances over the Nobile party, again flew to the vicinity, but were unable to see the men. The party, however, wirelessed that they had sighted the plane.

Miner Is Rescued By Search Party

GOLD LAKE, Man., June 22 (Canadian Press).—His memory gone, his neck eaten raw by flies, and near death from exposure and starvation, Dan Sheen, a mining worker, has been found after wandering, lost for 11 days in the northland. The story of the long hunt for Sheen and his rescue was brought to this mining camp by the men who scoured the district for days in an attempt to find a trace of the miner.

Sheen was returning to camp one evening when he lost the trail. When he was missed numerous search parties set out but returned without trace, and nearly exhausted by their efforts.

The last search party trailed Sheen's route for eight miles to a small lake. Walking further they stumbled upon the missing man, who lifted his head from the underbrush and in a feeble voice called for help. He mumbled meaningless words.

TROOPS QUELL RIOT AT LAGREB

Four Killed in Uprising Following Slaying of Deputies.

180 UNDER ARREST.

ZAGREB, Croatia, June 22 (Canadian Press).—After a night of rioting which followed the slaying of the Peasant Deputies in Parliament, order was restored to-day only after all the troops in the vicinity had been mobilized. A police check-up revealed that four persons had been slain in the rioting, 62 injured, and 180 arrested.

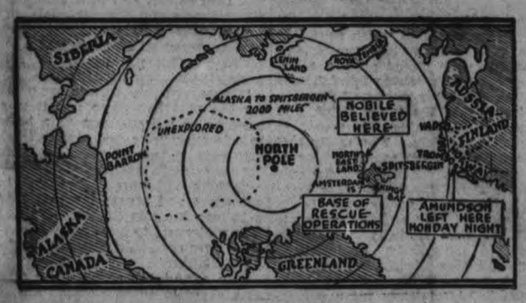
LOST IN NORTHLAND

Having left Tromso Monday in search of General Umberto Nobile, since located, Roald Amundsen and his party aboard the big Farmer rescue plane still are missing in the northland. Fears are expressed that the plane may have crashed. In the illustration above (1) is Rene Guilbaud, French flier aboard the missing plane; (2) Amundsen, veteran arctic explorer, whose prowess is expected to bring his companions through if they were not injured in landing, and (3) is Lief Dietrichson, third member of the rescue attempt.

WHERE MEN ARE MISSING



This map tells the story of the missing arctic expeditions. Rescuers are near Nobile but the Amundsen plane, which set out to succor Nobile, is still unreported.

DELEGATE TELLS LOCAL COUNCIL OF NATIONAL COUNCIL MEETINGS

Mrs. C. H. Edwards Tells of Ramifications of Film Industry.

OTHER ADDRESSES.

Paper On Adult Education Proves Most Informative Part of Program.

An interesting insight into some of the ramifications of the moving-picture industry was afforded by a brief review of one of the deliberations of the National Council of Women, meeting in annual session recently at Toronto, given at yesterday's meeting of the Local Council of Women, by Mrs. C. H. Edwards, president of the local society and delegate to the annual convention The meeting, held as usual in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., will be the last until September.

Mrs. Edwards spoke of the attendance at the convention of the National Council of Colonel Cooper and Mr. Hanson, the former, who is connected with the Hayes Corporation which stands between producer and patron of the movies, giving the ladies some idea of the difficulties encountered by moving picture promoters.

Colonel Cooper said that practically eighty-five per cent of the amount expended in getting pictures ready for production in the Dominion was spent in Canada, as they arrived from the United States in rolls, to be set up at Mount Dennis, Ontario, and finished at Montreal, Quebec.

He also pointed out that the demand in Canada for British pictures was impossible to fill. Mr. Hanson had gone to British producers with money in his hands for pictures and could not procure them, as the British manufacturers informed him that they sold only through New York. Between $4,000 and $5,000 had been lost recently in putting on two British films here; the "Battles of Falkland and Coronel," shown locally some time ago, and "The King of Kings."

There are ten moving picture distributing organizations in Canada and 1,100 theatres, with 400 of these in Ontario and 120 in Toronto. The problem is to find suitable pictures for two changes weekly. It was also pointed out at the national convention that the majority of people who are anxious to have an improvement in pictures are not those who attend the pictures regularly. Colonel Cooper said that three types of pictures would always have a market: the sort that would make people laugh, the sort that would make them cry, and the sort that would shock them. A combination of all three effects would make a very successful picture.

During the annual meeting in Toronto, the ladies saw a private performance of the much-heralded picture "Dawn," showing the execution of Edith Cavell.

In speaking of this picture, Mrs. W. R. Morris, who said she had not seen it, but had heard a good edal about it, remarked that an ex-soldier was of the opinion that it might not do much harm, but could do no good.

Norwood Farmer Fixes Machine To Open Gate

Harry Williams, of R. R. No. 4, Norwood, believes in convenience. He can open and close his farm gate from his house, which is a distance of 560 feet. An Examiner representative was surprised to see the gate swing open as he drove up before it and prepared to open it. Mr. Williams explained the reason of his invention as a remedy for people who would persist in passing through the gate and leaving it open. The invention does not interfere with the opening of the gate. Anyone can open it, but when they do it rings a large, old-fashioned dinner bell on top of a post.

3RD DRAGOONS ARE SETTLED

Cavalrymen Find Comfortable Camp Awaiting Them at Barriefield.

BEGIN PARADES.

The 3rd Prince of Wales' Dragoons left on Tuesday to encamp at Barriefield, near Kingston. The Dragoons did not arrive in Kingston until late at night, and it was after midnight when they arrived in camp at Barriefield.

Blankets and tent equipment were issued to the men, and as all provisions had been made by the advance party, there was no time lost in turning in for the night, as each was very tired after the long hours spent en route.

The Dragoons were placed north of the Kingston-Montreal Highway just one mile east of Barriefield Village, in the centre of the Brigade. The 4th Hussars are on the east, and the Princess Louise' Dragoon Guards on the west.

Th first day's weather was ideal. The permanent equipment for mess of the N.C.O.'s and men was good. Splendid arrangements for washing and conveniences for men were found. Horse troughs, with running water, also were very good.

The first morning there was mounted parade, with musketry parade in the afternoon. In the evening there was muster parade for the paymaster. The short first night meant everyone was tired, so all retired willingly.

The men were well settled by Thursday, and the cooks limbered up to supply the well developed appetites. There was mounted drill in the morning.

The weather was wet and looked

GRANT SOUGHT BY FAIR BOARD

Mayor Denne Heads Deputation Which Asks for $1,500.

ACCOMMODATION NEEDED.

A deputation from the Peterborough Exhibition Board Thursday afternoon petitioned the County Council for a grant of $1,500 toward the cost of additional improvements which the remarkable progress of the Exhibition demand.

"To-day's rain has made millions for the farmers and the country", said Mayor Denne in introducing the deputation and its mission, "and we know you are all in good humor. We hope you will be able to see your way to giving us this grant. We have plans all ready for a new cattle barn, 180 feet by 38 feet, which we need right away, and a grant from the county will be a real help and encouragement."

"You've been good to us in the past and we appreciate what you have done in the past", Mayor Denne said. "If you want to earmark any grant we will see that it is spent that way. We still hope to get that grant from the Ontario Government. You realize that the Dominion Government has just cut off the B class shows, and they won't let us in Class A for which we are now eligible."

William Knox, superintendent of the Peterborough Exhibition, recalled that accommodation for the cattle exhibited last year was so inadequate that fifty head had to be left out in the open.

"That is not desirable for the class of stock at our show", he continued. "Our proposed new barn will house one hundred more head of cattle, and should take care of the expected entries this year. We have been assured of a good entry from M. J. O'Brien's farm at Renfrew where he has four or five hundred Herefords. Boyd of Bobcaygeon told us he would show his best stock. Last year he showed only his second best stock here. Milligan and Son of Cannington are bringing two cars of Guernseys and we are opening up a new class for them.

New exhibitors are assured from the vicinity of Hamilton and also from Northumberland county; so we must have increased accommodation. When I was at the Royal Fair, breeders of hogs and sheep told me they were coming to Peterborough this fall for the first time, and they said if we were short of funds they wouldn't mind contributing to help us out. We are also going to have horses from Quebec. So you see we are off to a good start for 1928. If you had our new prize list it would help you to a favorable conclusion. We are extending our educational features for the young people with two classes, one in judging livestock and the other domestic science. This is something very much worth while."

The Fair Board's request was referred to the Finance Committee on a motion by Reeve Curtis of Havelock.

Mr. Rye suggested that the matter be dealt with at once in open council.

"There's no reason for making a specialty of this question", Mr. Curtis commented.

In a few concluding words to the deputation, Warden Smithson said: "I'd like to say something as to what may be done about this, but perhaps I'd better not. I know it will get earnest and fair consideration."

Personnel of Deputation.

Representatives of the Exhibition Board were: President R. Denne, Vice-President T. McIndoo, W. R. Shields, Tom Brown, William Knox, T. Cruikshanks, C. E. Moore, J. W. Fraser, Webber Turner, John Gillespie, Dave Jordan, William Steinkrauss, J. T. O'Connell, Ken Denoon, C. S. Cummer, Smith Milburn, W. A. Roseborough, T. H. Hooper, Gordon Hancock, L. Maguire, Hugh Bertram.

$800 FOR FAIR; $1000 FOR C.A.S.

County Council's Finance Committee Recommends Several Grants.

$250 FOR RED CROSS.

A grant of $800 to the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was recommended by the finance committee of the County Council this morning. Reeve Breckenridge presided. The Fair Board had asked for $1,500, making a special appeal for assistance in financing this year's additions to the Exhibition plant.

Other grants that were passed were $1,000 to the Children's Aid Society and $250 to the Salvation Army's maternity home.

No action was taken on the request from Rev. Mr. Dwelly of Young's Point for a grant to a proposed community hall in that village. Deputy-Reeve Coons of Smith explained that the township had received two petitions, one in favor of this project and the other opposed. The adverse petition was the larger, representing $16,000 more in assessment than the other.

"If Smith didn't do anything for them, I don't see why the county should," remarked Warden Smithson.

Last year's grant of $250 to the Red Cross hospital at Apsley, was renewed on a motion by Mr. Caldwell, seconded by Mr. Windsor.

Nothing for Legion

A petition from the Canadian Legion for a grant of $150 was rejected on a tie vote, which the chairman, Reeve Breckenridge, decided. The county has contributed to the Legion for some years.

"Let us cut it out this year," Reeve Curtis of Havelock suggested, and moved to that effect, seconded by Reeve Parker of Harvey.

Messrs. Rye and Waterman submitted an amendment for a grant of $150, and the council divided 8 to 8.

The Havelock undertaker, in the role of watch dog of the treasury, also seconded Reeve Hawthorne's motion to throw out the Peterborough Poultry Association's request for a grant of $40.

Mr. Middleton moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. Rye, that $25 be granted. The Amendment carried.

$100 for School Fair

The committee also recommended a grant of $100 to the rural school championships fair, to be held at Norwood as a feature of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society's Exhibition.

Reeve Curtis proposed that a lump sum should be requisitioned for fairs and this money could then be apportioned among them.

"We would know by that means the exact total of our grants to fairs," Mr. Curtis said.

"I suggested a course along that line some years ago, but was jeered at," said Mr. Rye. "I am still in favor of it, and it might be well if we had a special committee to deal with such appeals and make a recommendation to the council. It would not prevent the council discussing every item separately."

Mr. Tanner tried to have the Legion grant reconsidered, but it was stated that this request would probably come up again in December.

Grants to Fairs

The committe then took up the applications for grants to the various fairs in the county.

Reeve Middleton moved that the

Roses On Farm Bloom Long Time

K. Brown, of R. R. No. 2, Millbrook, showed an Examiner representative a wonderful garden of which he is very proud. There are roses in this garden which have been in bloom since the first of June and which, according to him, will blossom until the earth freezes up. He takes a great deal of pride in his flowers, which are among the finest in the country. Mr. Brown and his two boys work 350 acres of land and he has as a hobby his flower garden.

MISS EARHART VISITS SLUMS

Views One of London's Largest Settlement Houses This Morning.

GOING TO RACES.

LONDON, June 22. — (Canadian Press.)— Miss Amelia Earahrt, who halted her social work temporarily to fly the Atlantic, returned to it this morning. Visiting Toynbee Hall, one of the largest settlement houses in London, she exclaimed, "There is no place like home."

After enjoying several days amid the heights of London society, the Boston girl went to the other extreme and spent several hours among the lowliest in the city.

Miss Earhart went to the slums in the East End of London after laying a wreath on the cenotaph in memory of Great Britain's warrior dead. Wilmer Stultz and Louis Gordon, who flew with her, assisted her in placing the wreath.

Miss Earhart later visited the statue of Nurse Edith Cavell. This afternoon she went to Ascot for the races and luncheon.

SPECIAL SPEAKER ADDRESSES YOUNG PEOPLE AT BANQUET

Rev. Mr. Todd, of Peterborough, Talks on Work of Society.

AT BAILIEBORO

Members Are Entertained by Losing Side of Attendance Contest.

BAILIEBORO, June 22.—Rev. Mr. Todd of George Street Church, Peterborough, addressed the Young People's Society of the United Church on Tuesday evening, at a banquet put on by the "Blues," the losing side in the contest, which was held during the Winter months. The Reds having won by 34 points.

Mr. Todd stressed upon the importance of the young peoples' society and of the training toward a higher goal that the young folks were receiving in the young people's societies.

The speaker stated that it was from the rural churches that the most efficient leaders were being trained from. The young folks from the country find their enjoyment in the church organization and attend the leadership training schools in greater numbers than do the city young folks. Thus the rural communities are receiving a greater training in leadership training than are the young people of the large city churches.

Congratulates Members

Mr. Todd congratulated the young people of the league upon their large membership and competent work which is being ably carried on in the local Y.P.S.

The President, Fred Barnard, acted as chairman and at the close of a sumptuous repast a short period of worship was indulged in, after which an excellent program was enjoyed. The chairman introduced the league executive and they each in their turn spoke briefly, referring to their respective duties.

The honorary president, Rev. H. W. Foley, was the first speaker. The president, F. H. Barnard then spoke briefly; other members were: Herbert Dean, secretary; Mr. John Porter, first vice president; Mrs. N. Thompson, second vice president; Archie Deyell, third vice president.

A solo beautifully rendered by Miss Margaret Falls also added greatly to the program.

Presentation Made

The last number was a presentation made by Mr. Ray Barnard, representing the Tuxis Square, while Miss May Earl, representing the Young People's League read an appropriate address to Rev. H. W. Foley, who is leaving the Fraserville Circuit to take up his new field of work at Selby. Mr. Foley was presented with a handsome club bag from the Young Peoples' Society and the Victor Tuxis Square. Mr. Foley made a very suitable reply, after which the last league meeting for this season was brought to a close with the Mizpah Benediction, to open again the first Tuesday in October.

About sixty-five were present at the banquet. Among those present were Rev. and Mrs. Todd, Peterborough, Rev and Mrs. H. W. Foley, Mr. and Mrs. N. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. P. Barnard, Mr. and Mrs. J. Jewison, Mrs. F. C. Jewison, Misses M. and L. Earl, E. and M. Falls, E. Lang, E. Wallace, J. and M. Falls, K. and M. Barnard, M. Seense, D. Dawson, E. Snelgrove, I. Johnston, V. and I. Dawson, Mrs. C. Dawson, J. Dawson. Messrs. E. White, F. and J. Barnard, N. Earl, A. Deyell, S. and M. Johnston, K. and W. Lang, B. Gainer, M. Henry, H. and G. Dean, C. and F. Barnard, J. Porter, C. If you buy out of town, and I buy out of town, and all our neighbors buy out of town, what in thunder will become of our town? Ever think about it?

JAMES STEVENSON WAS PERCY PIONEER

Died in Hastings Recently at Age of 95—Native of Ireland.

James Stevenson, Senior, one of Hastings' oldest residents, who died on the 11th of this month at the age of 95, was born in the year 1833, near the town of Lugan in County Down, Ireland. He was one of ten children who with their parents were strict members of the Church of England.

Mr. Stevenson with his parents and seven of his brothers and sisters came to this country in 1847. The voyage was made by sailboat and took five weeks to come from Belfast to Quebec in this way.

His father made a verbal agreement on the purchase of 100 acres of wild land but the agreement was claimed not to be binding by the seller and so the land was lost. Another tract of land was purchased in the township of Percy where all worked together. At this time the country was without schools or churches.

When 16 years of age Mr. Stevenson secured a job as cook in a lumber camp working in the Fleming district for Wilson and Grover at the wage of $7.00 per month. Next winter he drove a team of oxen for Bullock and Pentland at the same salary. Shortly after he went to help with the construction of the bridge across Rice Lake from Harwood.

He saved his money and purchased a few acres of land in Percy Township and after seven years while still a youth, he paid for the farm with the money he had earned while working on the bridge.

The next step was to start work on the land but as there were no roads, he hired a man to cut a trail in order to get an ox team through. The first summer a small frame house and barn were erected and potatoes were planted.

On January 30th, 1862, Mr. Stevenson married Susan Bedley, eldest daughter of Ecibod Bedley, Percy Township, who aided him greatly in his pioneering and home building.

The country became more settled and good crops were soon raised on the cleared lands. This time the people were like one large family, lending and borrowing, and giving aid whenever it was wanted. Mr. Stevenson prided himself on his fall wheat. He raised the record crop of 1,600 bushels in one year.

As the years passed a school and churches were erected and it was great pleasure to travel to church on a bob sleigh behind a team of oxen. Later a church was built, half way between Campbellford and Hastings and was called Bethany church.

Mr. Stevenson had purchased 20,000 bricks to build a home but he gave these to the church and denied himself for seven years in order to clear the church debt. He was appointed secretary-treasurer of the church, which was paid for entirely by residents of Hastings and Percy.

Many happy years were spent on the farm with their family of ten children, living with their parents. Those now living are: Mrs. J. Merrils of Campbellford, Mrs. J. W. Fairman of Hastings, James and George of Hastings, Mrs. H. Beavis of Norwood, Dr. T. B. Stevenson of Wetoskin, Alberta, and Mrs. A. V. German of Hastings.

William died as the result of an accident and Samuel was drowned at Campbellford in the Trent River. Ernest died while serving in France, where he received the Military Cross for bravery in the field.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson moved to Hastings twenty-five years ago. His wife died in 1910 and from that time Mr. Stevenson made his home with his yongest daughter, Mrs. A. V. German.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 22. — Mrs. Brooks, Peterborough, is spending a few days with friends in Campbellford before joining her husband in Montreal prior to proceeding on a vacation abroad.

Rain stopped the softball game last night between the Electrics and the Outlaws. This leaves the League still with two postponed games to be played.

The deputation to the Counties Council at Cobourg was successful in obtaining a grant for the completion of the paving of the connecting links of the county roads. This will add approximately another mile to the paving plan for the town of Campbellford for the present season.

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

Discussion on Education Features Gathering at Warsaw.

CLOSE FOR SUMMER

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, June 22.—The Warsaw Young People's Society held its regular meeting in the United Church Sunday school room. After the opening exercises led by Mr. Currie, in which Miss Tedford read the scripture lesson, and Rev. H. B. Herrington led in prayer, it was decided to close the meetings during July and August. Ivan Drain, vice-president will call the executive and arrange for their re-openings.

Mr. Currie said that these biweekly gatherings had become a factor in the community. It was with regret that, owing to the close of the school year, he could not attend.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Currie and Miss Young for the great assistance they had given. In his reply Mr. Currie said that the greatest renumeration is the ability to serve. The subject "Education" was taken up, not as a debate, but as a discussion. Mr. Currie was appointed to uphold that "Education is in the best interests of the progress of the race." Some of his main points were that man is engaged in a constant struggle to overcome environments. Any advance is largely due to this struggle, and anything that advances educates. Man is born with certain potentialities. These develop when properly stimulated. Education provides this stimulus. He named many things which education might mean to various people, and said education meant all and more. It means man's coming into full realization of all his powers. Education is training in the art of living, and need not be obtained in secondary schools or college. The method of education does not count so long as it is obtained. Education is the only safeguard for democracy. The highest efficiency in government is in democracy. It sometimes seems to fall but rises again, stronger than ever. A multiplicity of ignorance does not give wisdom, so that the constant appeal to people must necessitate those people being educated. Education renders man more self-reliant, more independent, and more conscious of his own resources. Education capitalizes hours of leisure and gives real happiness. Contrast the man who has something to fall back upon within himself, with the unfortunate who must have company. Education increases the sum total of human happiness. It enables man better to find the occupation for which he is fit, and makes him conscious of his own resources and limitations. He is more socially efficient. Educations permits enjoyment of the best thoughts and feelings, it holds the key to great minds, and great books become living characters.

Education makes one financially more contented. It places less value on the mere accumulation of money, but increases man's earning power. Questionaires sent out by various colleges revealed the fact that the better educated people became, the more their earning power increased, more of them became owners rather than tenants, and that bath-rooms, lighting systems, and other home conveniences increased from two to four times. The increase in automobiles, however, did not increase materially.

Education is the only way to get an understanding of national and international affairs. The League of Nations is the result of educating of the masses.

Fred Crowe could not be present to give his arguments against education. He had given his notes to Ivan Drain. He did not find fault with all education. He did with compulsory education. There are two sure things, taxes and death. Education would soon be another, and it stands well with these two, for education increases taxes, and taxes bring death. If children are forced to study, it does no good. Only 30

ROAD HOUSES ARE WIDE OPEN

Border Cities Star Makes Charges Regarding Defiance of Law.

WILL PRINT EVIDENCE.

WINDSOR, June 22. —Roadhouses in the border district are "itching to go," and in some cases openly violating the Liquor Control Act, now that summer has come and the people from the other side of the river are beginning to flock to Canada again, according to the Border Cities Star, which in an editorial charges laxity of law enforcement. The editorial says in part:

"During the past few weeks the roadhouses have become bolder. For some time they have been itching 'to go,' and now they are off. The gambling has not started yet, but that will be a mere detail when the dispensing of liquor begins to draw the old-time crowds.

"The Star is in possession of facts, facts gathered by itself; incontrovertible facts about liquor selling in at least three prominent places where the law is openly defied. And this paper is ready to print this evidence if the police, with the backing that must be forthcoming of those who are responsible for the enforcement of this Act, will not exert themselves strongly enough to close the illegal liquor selling houses now operating outside Windsor.

Price Promises Action.

"If there is anything to clean up, the police will go after it and clean it up," said Hon. W. H. Price last night, in comment upon the Windsor despatch. The city is headquarters for a provincial police post and about 14 men, he pointed out, and their instructions are to force the law. The Attorney-General expressed confidence that things were in pretty good shape at Windsor, and suggested that the editorial article quoted was intended by way of warning as to possible abuses as the tourist season opens up.

"Of course the police have instructions to keep the place clean and make everybody obey the law," the Minister said. "That is more difficult than many people think. With people coming over there as they do, I suppose there are bound to be some infractions, but I understand there have been some recent operations there, and that things are in pretty good shape."

methods of submitting claims for maintenance grants of county pupils.

The committee had passed upon the payment of the following amounts, being grants for maintenance of county pupils attending outside schools.

Frankford Continuation School — $1,617.26.
Port Perry High School—$545.53.
Norwood High School—$231.27.
Whitby High School—$32.12.
Omemee High School—$250.98.
Trenton High School—$3,773.25.
Lindsay Collegiate Institute — $3,103.06.

Maintenance grants will also be paid to the following High Schools and Collegiate Institutes in the United Counties: Bowmanville, Brighton, Campbellford, Cobourg, Colborne, Newcastle, and Port Hope. Continuation Schools similarly dealt with were those at Janetville, Orono, Millbrook, Blackstock, and Warkworth.

Report Adopted.

Some misunderstanding of the clause relating to the communication of the Deputy Minister of Education was responsible for questions asked by a number of the Reeves, but on the motion of Chairman Bygott, the report was adopted without amendment, thereby giving place to the finance report, which was submitted immediately afterward.

One Amendment.

The report of the Finance Committee, always an important one, was not overly long this session, though in it provision was made for attention to considerable counties' business. There was but one amendment attached to the adoption of it, that being to a clause which had previously recommended that no action be taken relative to a grant for the war memorial at Alderville. This was changed to provide a grant of $100.00 to be used in improving the said memorial.

Rates Struck.

For the purpose of equalizing bridge expenditure within the united counties, the Finance committee recommended that a rate be struck upon the county of Northumberland, the following figures accompanying this part of the report:

Expenditure in Northumberland $4,660.60
Expenditure in Durham 323.91
Amount to be equalized $4,336.69

Other rates for the United Counties for 1928 were suggested as follows:

Counties' rate ..... 8¼ mills
Scohols, Public and Separate ..... .0008 mills
Debenture rate ..... .00012 mills
Counties' road rate ..... 2 mills

That a rate of ¼ mill be struck upon the municipalities of the county of Northumberland to equalize the bridge rate between the two counties.

Other Recommendations.

That the turnkey of the counties' gaol be paid monthly rather than quarterly.

That a grant of $275 be made to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind and that appreciation of the splendid report on the organization and work of this institute submitted by Reeve Holman be voiced.

That a grant of $50.00 be made to the Canadian Red Cross Society, Ontario Branch.

That the policy with the Globe Indemnity Company be renewed.

That a post office box be rented for the gaoler of the counties' jail.

That no grant be made to the Orono Library as this is contrary to custom of the Council.

That the communication from Campbellford enclosing copy of a resolution passed by the said corporation accepting the tender of the Standard Paving Company for the paving of connecting links of the county road system in that corporation be received and filed.

That the auditors' report for 1927 be received and embodied in the printed minutes of this session.

That a copy of expenditures on the Provincial Highway for construction and maintenance in these counties for the year ending December 31, 1927, be received and filed.

That the account of Messrs. Jex and Smith re the burial of George A. Davidson, of Hope, an indigent, be not paid.

House of Refuge.

Matters pertaining to the Counties' House of Refuge were dealt with in the report of the board of management and discussion which it provoked. It was submitted by C. A. Wight of South Darlington and one of its first suggestions, that increases be made in the salaries of the House of Refuge superintendent and his daughter, brought out an exchange of opinions which resulted in this clause being struck out of the report.

Some doubt as to whether or not the board of management should take charge of certain repairs to the House of Refuge building, mainly the verandah pillars, was entertained, though the Council was of the opinion that some work should be done.

Repairing of Vault.

Blueprints and other details, including a price of $930.00, were introduced while the Council was considering adoption of the counties' property committee report, these relating to installation of new steel shelves and drawers in the vault on the lower floor in the office of the registrar of the Surrogate Court. Such improvements have been made necessary through instructions of the Department, and as it will save placing original copies of wills, as well as other valuable papers at the mercy of fire, action in the matter cannot well be withheld, the report stated.

The report of the counties' property committee was finally adopted and a number of by-laws made necessary by clauses in the finance committee's report were given their several readings, passed, signed and sealed.

Warden's Excursion.

With the closing of the session proper, the councillors prepared for the annual excursion of the Warden, this year provided by Warden Charles Davidson, of Campbellford. Leaving Cobourg at eight o'clock, standard time, this morning for a boat trip to Rochester were most of the councillars, many of whom were accompanied by their wives or other members of their families. Though the weather was none too promising, a happy time was almost a certainty.

OBITUARY

HOWARD WOOD.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 22.—Announcement of the death of Howard Wood, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Wood, Front Street, came as a great shock to the citizens of Campbellford. The host of friends in the district had made every attempt to keep in close touch with his condition, and it was believed that he was improving. While his condition was known to be serious, people here found it impossible to believe that one of Campbellford's most popular young men had passed away.

Following an attack of appendicitis, Howard Wood was rushed to Toronto, where an operation was performed. It was believed that his condition was improving. His death came most unexpectedly to people here.

Deceased was in his twenty-fourth year, having passed his twenty-third birthday on the sixth of this month. Born and educated in Campbellford, he had successfully completed his first year at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto, and was employed in his father's store here during the vacation in order to gain practical experience.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. The remains were brought by train from Toronto yesterday.

FRED SEABROOKS.

HAVELOCK, June 22. — The death occurred on Wednesday, June 20th, of Fred Seabrooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Seabrooks, of Belmont.

The deceased, who was 16 years of age, was only ill a few days and underwent an operation on Monday.

Besides his parents there are left to mourn his loss, one brother Osborne, at home; six sisters, Mrs. Harry Toms of town, Mrs. Charles Ellis of Belmont, Mrs. Harold Dunk of Campbellford, Miss Marjorie Seabrooks of Toronto, and the Misses Mary and Florence Seabrooks at home.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon. The service will be held at the residence of his brother-in-law, Harry Toms, and will be conducted by Rev. O'Conor-Fenton of Norwood. Interment will be in the Maple Grove cemetery.

A SUCKER'S GAME.

The smoothness with which the Toronto mail train robbers executed their coup is being so admiringly referred to that it might be well to point out that these bandits are playing a losing game, despite their apparent clean getaway.

There is no victory in an affair of that kind.

The culprits, it is true, have secured possession of a large sum of money, but it will do them no good.

It will be spent among those who will see to it that the robbers get nothing of real value, in the underworld, where their big haul will make them the target of all kinds of crooks and criminals.

"Easy come, easy go"—and all the time the shadow of the law is over them; at any moment the hand of a policeman may fall upon their shoulder.

Every stranger they meet may be a detective; they can trust no person, their own pals least of all.

No, the crooked way of getting rich quick is a sucker's game—it is a trail that ends only in the penitentiary or in a violent death.

The honest man who earns his day's pay by the sweat of his brow is infinitely richer than any of those Toronto bandits, because he has an easy conscience and can look the world in the face.

MR. ASQUITH'S SELF-SACRIFICE.

The will of Lord Oxford (Mr. Asquith) does much to show those who profess to think that all politicians are venial and all politics corrupt that these opinions are very badly founded.

Mr. Asquith left an estate of less than $40,000, and it is undoubtedly true that if he had not realized a considerable sum from the sale of his books and had not been helped by contributions from personal friends the former Premier might have died in poverty.

His self-sacrifice in serving the public interest instead of his own is proven by the fact that it is conservatively estimated that had he given his attention to the Bar instead of the state he would probably have had an income of $100,000 a year.

His reputation had been made by the Parnell case against the Times, and there seems no doubt that had he chosen to take advantage of this brilliant start and feathered his own nest, rather than to put his talents and ability at the service of his country, Lord Oxford would have died a wealthy man.

He was forty years in public life; it is not difficult to realize what he might have done for himself in that time if he had elected to practise law.

And it is well to remember, as the Ottawa Journal puts it, that Asquith was no isolated exception.

FOUR VISITS A DAY.

The London Advertiser calls attention to the case of a Strathroy citizen who last month purchased 25 bottles of liquor and 152 bottles of beer at the London liquor store.

In one day he made four different visits to the same store, buying altogether some 78 bottles of beer.

There is no justification for this kind of thing, which, if allowed to continue, will seriously menace the effectiveness of the Liquor Control Act.

Admittedly the staffs of Government stores have difficulty in dealing with a certain class of customer, but surely there is no excuse for allowing a man to make four visits in one day to the same store, and the purchases of a customer who buys in such quantities as this Strathroy man should be too closely scrutinized to allow such wholesale buying to continue.

The sales staffs can make or break the Liquor Control Act by the judgment shown in sizing up their patrons, and from all appearances the ease with which this particular customer managed to secure large supplies merits some investigation.

His case might never have come to light had he not became involved in a traffic accident.

COUNTY PROBLEMS.

Members of the Peterborough City Council, who may think that their lot is not a particularly happy one and their problems present peculiar difficulties, may have noticed, if they have been following the proceedings of the County Council attentively, that the members of that body have their own troubles.

Chief among these is the task of having to meet the very heavy expense of the county's share of highway construction and maintenance.

The advent of good roads has brought with it new problems in municipal financing.

It is difficult to convince rural ratepayers living far from Provincial highways that they get anything like full value for their share of the bill which the county has to pay for such roads.

The man who rarely drives on the highway fails to see why his tax bill should climb each year to help meet the cost of these costly highways.

Warden Smithson, in this regard, suggests closer co-operation between County Councils and the Highways Department, and there does not seem to be any reason why the counties should not be consulted more frequently.

THE DOUKHOBORS.

During recent days much has been said about the conduct of crusading Doukhobors in British Columbia. These people, who live in colonies of their own, have among their number certain religious fanatics. One of the customs is to stalk stark naked through the country, singing hymns. Quite naturally the other citizens object to the procedure. Nor are the paraders always amenable to discipline. For instance, it is told that on one occasion when some young men were arrested, the Doukhobors went back to their settlement to plan revenge. Their scheme was to take an aged woman, in a dying condition and bring her to town with much singing and demonstration. Then, she was placed on the steps of the jail where the men were held. The Doukhobors went home, leaving the dying woman unattended on the jail steps as a protest. The difficulties of managing the people are untold.

have made successful farmers. They have taken the waste mountain lands and cleared their holdings. On these, orchards have been planted and to-day the property is worth hundreds of dollars an acre. The orchards stands as effective testimony to what the people can do. There are individual men, who have broken away from the colonies, and have become respected citizens of the West. They, too, are examples of the capabilities of the race.

Stern measures are required to teach these fanatical newcomers the ways of Canada. They can learn, if they are made to understand they must. Lenient treatment in the past has served to encourage the people to retain their fanaticism, instead of acquiring Canadianism. They can make good citizens. It is worth the effort to insist on their respect of the laws of the country.—Border Cities Star.

ANOTHER WORM TURNS.

Last November Tony Straber, of Chicago, driving his nice new automobile, disputed the right of way over a level crossing with a Grand Trunk Railway train. Tony was unhurt, but his car landed in a messy pile and never was much good thereafter.

All over Canada and the United States automobiles have been doing this thing persistently, even though with remarkably small success. We do not recall any instance where an automobile got the better of a steam locomotive. The results of such encounters are written with deadly monotony in terms of dead and injured. Not many are as fortunate as Tony, who lost only his property.

At any rate Tony scrambled out of the ditch and proceeded to tell the engineer a few things about his engine, which eased his feelings and did the Grand Trunk no harm. Now the railway company has got in a last word. It has sent Tony a bill for $29.18 for damage done to the locomotive, and the procedure seems to be sound and reasonable.

We find extreme difficulty in working up very much indignation over the perils which surround motorists at rural level crossings. Literally every accident at such a place is preventable by the simple exercise of reasonable precautions. No case is known of a locomotive departing from its fixed course to pursue an automobile up the road. Only the motorist can prevent level crossing accidents and he—or she— only by coming to a full stop in plenty of time. The driver who approaches an unprotected crossing in anything less than absolute certainty that there is no train approaching is flirting with sudden death.

General adherence by the railways to the precedent set by the Grand Trunk might be not without effect.—Ottawa Journal.

CHINA AND THE WORLD.

The Washington News says that in China a vast new nation bigger than the United States, and with 400,000,000 people, is "aborning," a new word which we may "first endure, then pity, then embrace." It proceeds:

"About the cradle are grouped powerful influences that would gladly strangle it in its infancy.

"Almost alone among the great Powers, the United States sincerely desires a strong, united China. For almost alone—we hasten to add lest we be accused of assuming a holier-than-thou attitude in the matter—we have nothing to lose and much to gain by helping her to be strong.

"If China is partitioned we lose everything, for we would not accept an inch of Chinese territory. But if China grows we will profit directly as her purchasing power increases.

"Put it on this lowest of bases, if you will, but China's best interests are our best interests. As soon as possible, then, we should recognize the new Nationalist regime without, at the same time, leaping before we look."

Nationally we are not inclined to admit that the people of the United States are the only friends of China. It is just as true of Canada and the rest of the British Empire as of the United States that "China's best interests are our best interests," and this true of all nations. If China were regarded as a country to be seized and divided up among the Western Powers and Japan there would be a world war in which we should all suffer, accumulating war debts and sending our boys to kill and be killed. Some profiteers would make money, but on the whole every nation would lose.

That was what happened in the Great War in Europe. Great Britain and the Dominions did not gain by the losses of the continental European nations. They became burdened with billions of war debts, and lost a million of their bravest sons. If the continental nations of Europe had remained at peace and co-operated, they would have gained and so would we. If to-day those nations would bury their feuds and work together, the whole world would be better off. It is thought by some that Germany is not suffering as she ought for her part in the war, and is even making headway better than some of the victors. That is possible, but there is no way of preventing it, no matter how just the cause of the victors may be. War inevitably means loss for all the parties concerned.

We all stand to gain by Chinese unity, just as we all stand to gain by European unity. Chinese unity means freedom from the danger of a war which might involve the Western Powers. It means enormous opportunities for Western enterprise and investment and new markets for Western products. China needs thousands of miles of railways and motor highways. Vast mineral resources are to be developed, many new industries to be established, higher standards of living to be attained for millions of Chinese men, women and children. The benefit will be chiefly for the Chinese people, as it ought to be. But the whole world will share in the gain.—London Advertiser.

The Question Box

S.L. Q.—Why is green a color of jealousy?

A.—It really is not. Green is the color of the spring of hope—it is the color of the laurel and palm. Yellow signifies, in a bad sense, inconstancy, jealousy and deceit.

M.H. Q.—I have a bin 10 feet every way (nearly) and another 12 feet wide, 16 feet long and 10 feet high. How many bushels should they hold?

A.—(1) 804 bushels; (2) 1543 bushels.

I. McC. Q.—This spring an argument arose over plowing, and perhaps you can settle it finally. I have a field 2½ acres. How far do my horses walk in plowing it?

A.—A great deal depends upon the width of your furrow. Cutting an eight-inch furrow your horses would travel 31¼ miles. If you cut a ten-inch furrow, they would only travel 23 miles. If it were possible for you to cut twenty inches wide, your plow would only travel 11 miles. Tell me the width of your furrow and I can give you the exact figure.

Lakefield (name omitted): Q.—How many pounds of barbed wire do I require to fence two square acres. I think each pound of wire measures a rod.

A.—On the basis of every pound of wire measuring a rod (16½ feet), you require: 3 strand fence, 304 pounds; 4-strand fence, 405 pounds.

GOD'S MINUTE

My peace I give unto you.—John 14: 27.

• • •

O Thou Who art the giver of every good and perfect gift, in Whose unfailing love we live and move and have our being, and without Whom we should be poor indeed, enable us, we beseech Thee, to discern even more clearly Thine abounding goodness to us, and as Thou hast made us rich in blessings, make us also rich in gratitude. We praise Thee, our Father, for those revelations of Thy love with which we are most familiar, and which we are all too prone to forget; for rising and setting suns, and the stars; for clouds and winds and passing seasons; for the outer light in which we walk serenely and dwell securely; and the light within, the true light which witnesses to our oneness with Thee. Wilt Thou help us reverently to interpret all our blessings in terms of Thy love. We thank Thee for our friends and all that friendship has meant to us, and that we may think of ourselves as friends of Jesus Christ. Wilt Thou help us also to understand what high obligations such friendship lays upon us. We praise Thee for Thy gift of peace—that peace which the world cannot give nor take away, the peace of those who have found their sanctuary in the love and goodness of God. Evermore give us this peace. In His name, who came to bring us peace. Amen.

A Thought

"WISDOM IS BETTER THAN RUBIES."

Ill habits gather by unseen degrees. Little evil deeds slowly mould into one great mass and here we have stagnation of the soul. The brain thickens with evil thoughts and the tongue pours out the words which men should frown upon. The wisdom is gone; crowded out and destroyed by evil deeds.

Little things make up the great path of wisdom. To study hard, think quietly, talk gently, act frankly and to listen to others wiser than you. These little things joined with the strong will to do what pleases God will give you the knowlege of greater things.

A man who does not try to gain knowledge but who lets himself go as the world pushes him, then that man is slouching along in disasters. He is doing himself bodily harm, future calamity and in the end a fluttering death.

From the very dawn of time and in the darkness of the prehistoric nights, wisdom furrowed its way into the dormant brains of people. God meant man to be wise and to work wisely for himself.

A man is never too old to receive knowledge. Neither can he gather too much wisdom. Men can hold the rod of power over nations and through their wisdom a dying nation springs to life. But before God their wisdom sways like a tree before a wind. God is the master of true wisdom and it is through Him we must secure ours. Money or precious gems as the ruby are only dross when the time comes to secure wisdom. Wisdom cannot be bought but it is a gift from God to His people who will not destroy the great power.

By wisdom we gain a victory. Victory means value; defeat means depreciation. Don't stagger along with an undeveloped brain. The pen of wisdom moves slowly across the way. Are you the holder of the pen?

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 22 (Canadian Press). — The trade in cash grain here yesterday was quiet owing to the fact that exporters showed little interest and the demand from domestic and country buyers was confined to car lots to meet immediate wants. The undertone was steady and prices showed no change. Argentine corn was very firm at $1.21 per bushel, ex-store, on account of the very limited supplies now available on spot.

A feature of the flour trade was the increased demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for spring wheat and a very fair volume of business was accomplished, with the result that the market was more active in this respect, but there was no marked improvement in the local or country trade. A steadier feeling prevailed in the market in sympathy with the further improvement in the cash wheat prices at Winnipeg. There were no new developments in the condition of the winter wheat flour trade, prices being maintained with a small business passing.

The market for millfeed was without any new feature to note, prices being steady, with a fair amount of business passing. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continued slow and prices were unchanged.

There were no further developments in the local egg situation, but the undertone to the market was very firm for fresh extras on account of the continued small offerings from Ontario shippers, which is attributed to the warmer weather prevailing and the decreased percentage of this grade in the supplies coming forward from producers. There continues to be a good demand from dealers for extras and further sales were made at 35½c per dozen, f.o.b. Ontario shipping points. A good steady trade was done in a jobbing way. The receipts were 3,690 cases.

Owing to the smaller receipts of potatoes and the somewhat limited supplies available on spot at present, a very firm feeling prevailed in the market, and prices were fully maintained at the late advance established. There was a steady demand from local buyers and the bulk of the offerings of car lots met with a ready sale to meet immediate wants.

Trading in butter was rather quiet, but the undertone to the market was firm and prices were fully maintained. The receipts were 1983 packages.

There was no important change in the condition of the local cheese situation on Wednesday. A steady trade was reported to be passing in all eastern grades and undergrade westerns for both export and local account, but the demand for high-grade western cheese was said to be rather slow at the present level of prices. The tone of the market was firm. The receipts were 6,083 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 22.—(Canadian Press).—Uneasiness over black rust gave the wheat market an upward trend most of the time yesterday. For the first time this season presence of rust in the spring crop belt was reported. Likelihood of more rain in the harvest region southwest counted also as a bullish influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, at the same as Wednesday's finish to 1-2 cent higher, with corn 3-4 cent to 1 3-4 cents down, oats unchanged to 1-2 cent off, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

Announcement that black rust had been found in three fields of wheat near Mitchell, S. D., was made just before trading began yesterday, and the market responded with an immediate upturn in prices.

The news came from a widely known Chicago crop expert, who wired that he had discovered light spores of the rust on lower sheath leaves of Marquis wheat, and that the extent of damage would depend on weather conditions about the middle of July. He said wheat in the vicinity of the infected area is at a stage more susceptible to rust than is perhaps the bulk of wheat elsewhere in the Dakotas.

Although black rust is more or less prevalent every year in spring wheat, yesterday's news that the plague was already apparent gave some traders enough of a shiver to keep values pointing upward as a rule, even in the face of rather active selling on the part of houses with connections northwest. Considerable of the buying was ascribed to foreigners, but European demand was almost entirely for future deliveries, and not for wheat to be shipped at once. Domestic hard winter wheat, however, was disposed of to France, and it was noticed that late in the day the Winnipeg market showed relative strength.

Corn was under decided selling pressure, and dropped to the lowest prices which September and December deliveries have reached this season. Fine weather in the corn was an incentive to bears. The Argentine corn crop was officially estimated at 305,000,000 bushels, against 300,000,000 bushels a month ago. Oats sympathized with corn.

Scattered selling eased the provision market, despite an upturn in the value of hogs.

MONTREAL, Que., June 22 (Canadian Press). — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as:

TRAFFIC SUGGESTIONS.

5 Cottesmore Street,
Peterborough, June 20, 1928.
To the Editor of The Peterborough Examiner.

Sir,—I would like, with the aid of your columns, to commend the judgment of all the gentlemen responsible for the new traffic regulations. I had thought for some time now that a solution regarding parking of cars could be arrived at this way, but was not bold enough to say so. Now, seeing this step has been taken, I would like these gentlemen to take note of a suggestion. I am making in the spirit of community citizenship. As the by-law stands at present, a car travelling north on George Street can park on the east side; it can also make a right turn and park on the south side. Now, a car travelling south on George Street cannot park unless he makes a left hand turn on George Street or a right hand turn and then runs to an intersection on Aylmer Street and makes a double left hand turn. I think you will agree with me that left hand turns are very undesirable at any intersection, and while at present it cannot be avoided, they should be minimized as much as possible. I would suggest that cars park on the east side of George Street, as stated in the by-law, but would change the parking to the north side of all streets running east and west in the area laid down in the by-law. By doing this, I am sure the results will be more satisfactory. I would like you to state your opinion on this, because I think we should all work together for the best. I notice a few words to pedestrians whom you ask to educate themselves to the traffic lights. There is a little confusion here, because some motorists make a right hand turn with the lights against them. This is scarcely fair on the pedestrian. I would like to know the police ruling on this.

Thanking you for your valuable space,—Yours truly,

J. BARNES.

Planned to carry out exploratory and research work in the distant areas of Northern Canada and to seek relics and identifications of the ill-fated Franklin expedition, two Government parties are getting ready for the annual voyage through the sub-Arctic regions. One of the expeditions also will carry relieving personnel and provision for outposts of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. In the illustration above (1) shows Capt. E. F. Falk, chief navigating officer, and Geo. P. Mackenzie, officer in charge on board the C.G.S. Beothic; (2) is the Beothic pictured in the ice pack at Buchanan Bay; (3) is Major T. L. Burwash, explratory engineer, who will survey the character and resources of the vast northern hinterland and seek traces of the Franklin expedition; (4) is Capt. J. H. Berner, familiar figure of the Canadian northland, who has retired from active service. Capt. Falk is his successor.

Generally known by her maiden name, Mabel Boll, and as the "Queen of Diamonds," the aviatrix is Mrs. Robert Scott, wealthy Philadelphia matron in private life. In the picture above the aviatrix is shown with her son, Robert Scott, Jr., a freshman at the Acquinas Institute in Rochester, N.Y. One of her two pilots is Capt. Arthur Argles, a Canadian.

A western woman, Mrs. Peter Storms, who lives outside of Saskatoon, heard that her son, aged 22, was in trouble in Ontario, so she got on her motorcycle and rode all the way to Hamilton, Ont., on it, a distance of over 2500 miles. She finally located her son at Mimico. The two of them are now going back to the farm, the boy having been released on parole by the authorities. Here are shown (1) the mother and her son, (2) the front building of the Mimico institution, where the boy was located; (3) the building in which he worked.

ITALIA'S CREW STILL IN DANGER

Safe after a perilous landing on the Arctic Sea in the partially wrecked dirigible Italia, the crew of the Nobile North Pole airship, now afloat on breaking ice floes, was still in danger on Monday as expeditions by land, air and sea got under way to bring them out of the frozen wastes north of Spitsbergen. Divided into two parties men of the Italia are slowly seeking to reach Northeastland, the nearest body of land to the point at which the dirigible came down after her brilliant voyage to the North Pole nearly a month ago. The map tells the story.

Three stalwart crofters, all over six feet in height, who left the Hebrides where they "scratch a bare living by tending sheep", to settle in Ontario. They reached Canada last week in high spirits. The picture shows some cabin boys comparing their stature with the settlers aboard the liner Letita, on which the Hebrideans arrived in Canada.

PRESENTED AT COURT

Among the Canadians presented to their majesties at St. James' Palace on May 9 were: Left, Mrs. Robert J. Major, wife of the president of the National Steel Car Corporation of Canada, who was presented by Mrs. Larkin, wife of the Canadian high commissioner. She wore a gown of amber lace. Right, Miss Ruth Shatford, only daughter of Canon and Mrs. Shatford of Montreal, who was also presented by Mrs. Larkin. She was gowned in blue and silver.—Both photos are by Hay Wrightson, 41 New Bond street, W1, London, England. Copyright.

The latest picture of the infante James, oldest son of the King and Queen of Spain, who is the centre of rumors regarding the King's supposed attempts to seek annulment of his marriage to the Queen. The King, the rumor states, is dissatisfied with the physical condition of the Queen, which is alleged to have been inherited by his children. James is afflicted with hemophilia, a condition which leaves the sufferer susceptible to bleeding by the slightest scratch. With the Prince (in uniform) is Capt. Antelo, his mentor and constant companion.

Like father like daughter, Miss Emily Durnan, daughter of Edward Durnan, famous Canadian sculler who died recently, showed outstanding heroism when she saved Samuel Brennin, 14, from drowning in Toronto Bay recently. Brennin, his canoe capsized, was just going under when the plucky girl managed to grip him by the collar and get him ashore. The deed recalls the many drowning rescues effected by her father, who held the American professional sculling championship for many years. His son, Johnny Durnan, the youthful oarsman, regarded as an Olympic candidate, shares many of these. It is impossible to reckon just how many people owe their lives to this famous family. Photo shows Miss Durnan and Samuel Brennin.

PITTSBURG DEALERS TO VISIT PETERBORO

Party of 100 Members Will Arrive in City on July 15th.

A telegram received by the Chamber of Commerce confirms the Pittsburgh Automobile dealers intention to visit Peterborough. The telegram reads in part: "Our party of 95 to 100 members will arrive in Peterborough by special train on July 15th."

While here the dealers will be entertained by a complete itinery. The suggested one now under consideration includes a trip to Rice Lake, by boat. A boat trip to Jacob's Island where they will be the guest of Ed. Huff and where sports will be participated in. A boat trip to Lindsay when a change will take place and the car dealers will enjoy a few rounds of golf. Bobcaygeon will be visited. A sight seeing trip here will help entertain the guests. The final details have not yet been completed but a very entertaining as well as instructive outing is promised to the visitors.

The local Chamber has been in correspondence with these men for some time and it is gratifying they have selected Peterborough as the site for their outing. It also shows the possibilities of Peterborough as a resort city.

OTTAWA CITIZEN WINS $6,000 PRIZE

A Hupmobile Car, Major Award of Goblin Magazine, Goes to T. C. Dennis.

The prize winners of Goblin Magazine's most recent $6,000.00 contest has been announced, with Mr. T. C. Dennis, 252 Powell Avenue, Ottawa, winner of the major award, a six-cylinder Hupmobile car which was presented to him at the City Hall by Controller F. H. Plant of that city.

The second prize, a Chevrolet Sedan plus a cash bonus goes to Mrs. Walter D. Poole of Neepawa, Man. Mrs. Poole is the first fair contestant who has scored heavily in any of these contests. She is the mother of four children, the oldest of whom is seven.

The standing of the provinces in point of prizes won is: Ontario 52; Saskatchewan, 21; Manitoba, 12; Nova Scotia, 6; Alberta, 6; British Columbia, 3; New Brunswick, 1. Neither the Provinces of Quebec nor Prince Edward Island produced a winner,while the United States showed surprising strength, securing eight winners.

Another unusual feature is that only one of the larger prizes went to a city dweller, where one finds the majority of accountants, bankers, brokers and people whose lifework is the constant handling of figures.

PREMIER BALDWIN SEES VIMY RIDGE

Famous Battleground Much As It Was When Canadians Fought During War.

LONDON, June 22 (Canadian Press). — Reminders of the gallant activities of the Canadian Corps at Vimy Ridge intensely interested Premier Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin during their recent visit to the battlefields. They saw Vimy Ridge in company with Windham Baldwin, Sir Fabian and Lady Ware, General Hughes, chief engineer of the Canadian war memorials, General Sir Herbert Lawrence, and Colonel Goodwin and Major Inkpen, of the Imperial War Graves Commission.

On their way along the Arras-Lens road to Vimy they stopped for a few minutes at the Canadian Artillery memorial at Thelus. They then went straight to the Grange trench on the summit of Vimy Ridge. Here the Canadian and German front lines, as they existed before the storming of the ridge on April 9, 1917, are being cleared and restored to their original condition, while the remains of the trench mortars, machine guns, and other war materials [illegible] ground are [illegible] will eventually be treated in this way. About 50 yards of Canadian and German line have already been restored.

Premier Baldwin crossed a narrow causeway between two great mine craters, still littered with tangled wire and battered equipment, to the Canadain trenches, where steel helmets of the British pattern, rusty now for the most part, pierced and smashed by bullets and shell splinters, lie all along the parapet. In one place the twisted skeleton of a British airplane lies in the open.

When the inspection of the trenches was over, Mr. Baldwin visited the Grange tunnel. This extends for a total distance of about eight miles between Souchez and Arras, running under the whole length of Vimy Ridge. Part of the underground system has been cleared, strengthened with concrete, and fitted with electric light; otherwise it stands just as the Canadians left it. Mr. Baldwin was guided through this system by Mr. Stubbs, the Canadian foreman in charge of the work.

About forty feet below the surface Mr. Baldwin found himself in front of a serries of sculptured heads cut in the chalk walls with a clasp knife. The most striking of these is perhaps that of a soldier wearing a steel helmet with the inscription "Canada, 1917." A little farther on the badge of the Royal Canadian Regiment is cut in the chalk. A turn led to the head of a mine shaft, which descends steeply to a depth of 150 fee'. A small trolley, on which the charges were lowered, is still in place, with a few bricks of guncotton. Just after this comes a relic in which Mr. Baldwin was specially interested; it is a German 5.9 shell which just pierced the roof and failed to explode, and remained embedded there. At the end of the upper gallery an underground brigade and battalion headquarters is kept just as it was left

Mr. Baldwin spent about half an hour undergraund, while Mrs. Baldwin walked round the reconstructed area. They then went on to the site of the Canadian war memorial, which will look over Lens from the summit of the Ridge, and to the French memorial to the Moorish soldiers.

KEEN COMPETITION FOR CANADIAN TEAM

Bisley Team Hopes to Win Trophies at Great Empire Shoot.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., June 22. — (Canadian Press.) — With competition keen, and important alterations made in the program, the 1928 meet of the National Rifle Association at Bisley Camp the first two weeks of July, is expected to be the finest in the 68 years it has been held. It is recognized as the great shooting tournament of the military forces of the whole empire and is the largest of its kind in the world.

South Africa, Australia, India, Guernsey ,and other parts of the empire, and numerous marksmen from England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, will be present and contesting with the 18 picked Canadans in the classic team and individual events. The Canadian team, however, is again expected to be a leading factor in the whole meet, as it has been for years past. With two former winners of the King's prize—C. S. M., W. A. Hawkins, Toronto, (1913), and Lieut. Desmond Burke, Ottawa, (1924) the Dominion's soldier marksmen should give a good account of themselves.

Last year LiLeut. Burke lost the King's Prize by a single point to Captain Vernon of Hampshire. The Canadians last year, however, captured the two greatest 'team shoots,' the Mackinnon Challenge Cup and the Imperial Kolapore Cup. The Kolapore is an eight man and the successive times by Canada. The record for successive wins is held by the Mother Country, five times. The Kolapore is an elfht man and the Mackinnon a twelve man competition.

Among the individual events captured by the Canadians were the Prince of Wales trophy (C. S. M. Hawkins) and Times Silver Trophy Lieut. K. R. McGregor, Ottawa).

THE FRAMEWORK OF THE BODY

The main difference in the appearance of people is produced by the shape of their bodily framework. If the bones were removed from a person's body, the flesh would fall into a shapeless mass very much as a tent falls down when the poles which support it are removed.

During infancy and childhood the bones are flexible and easily bent. As a child becomes older, the cartilage out of which the bones are first formed becomes filled with a lime substance, and thereby becomes hard and brittle. After this hardening has occurred, it is exceedingly difficult to change the shape of the bones without breaking them. For this reason, babies and children often sustain falls with serious injury which would completely disable an adult.

The positions of the body are controlled by the muscles which move the bones. It has been found that children develop slight curvature of the spine from carrying their clothing habitually with the same arm, or sitting at desks that are either too high or too low. The clothing of children may likewise interfere with the proper development of the bone, sometimes caused by tight belts, hats, and tight shoes. We all remember seeing pictures of Chinese women who had their feet bound as children. Special care should be taken that children form the habit of holding their bodies erect while their bones are hardening. The bones may be altered in shape until about the age of twenty.

When a bone is broken the ends are soon covered with a cement. In a few days this cement hardens, and it is well to support the broken bone by splints in the position until this cement has been completely formed. A doctor should be called to set the bone. If it is necessary to move the patient before the physician arrives, splints or blanket should be applied to the limb, and pillows or boards placed around the outside to keep it rigid. If this is not done, there is danger that the powerful muscles attached to the ends of the bone may cause the sharp ends of the bone to penetrate through the muscles, blood vessels and nerves which surround it, causing a very serious, painful and difficult injury which is difficult to heal.

When the bones forming the ball and socket joints of the shoulder and hip sockets we have a different condition. In these people, these joints are very shallow, and the bones forming them are located without bracing ligaments. With most people the ligaments are torn at the time of the accident, inducing a very painful condition. The displaced bone may remain in this position and its place and the torn ligaments are replaced by scar tissue. In some joints, such as the knee joint, it is possible for the displaced bone to stretch the ligaments and slip back into its place, but this is usually a physician's task. The most important joint in the body is the knee.

In sprains, some of the ligaments or fibres are broken, and the joint is dislocated and painful. The joint should be bathed in very hot water, or, better still, hot and cold water alternately, to relieve the pain and swelling and prevent stiffness.

A dislocated joint should not be kept in use, but should be kept quiet by not exercising it, and by applying a good deal of heat. Hot water and this causes a flow of blood and other fluids to the injured part, thus promoting the healing process.

Once a dislocated joint has been reduced it is very easy to get it out of its place again.

Questions answered by letter only. Write to friend who has been troubled with constipation, sanitarium treatment, or other methods, but has been hopelessly addicted to the use of cathartics. Frequent use of cathartics is a habit that is very easy to acquire, but difficult to break. Many people have claimed that they have found relief from constipation by the use of Kruschen Salts, and there is no reason why you should not prove the matter for yourself.

J. A. McNABB HAS NEW STORE

Peterborough Merchant Locates in New Premises a Few Doors South.

METROPOLITAN SHOP

The J. A. McNabb Co., Ltd., new store for Ladies' Wear opened on Thursday. This new store situated in the same block a few doors below the old store represents all that is modern. It is a real metropolitan shop with a very artistic layout. Mr. McNabb told The Examiner that expense had meant nothing to him while he selected the fixtures and arranged the layout. His idea was to give Peterborough something that embodied every comfort and convenience to the lady shopper. The merchandise is in the wardrobes arranged in sizes and all are plainly marked. The ladies need not have a sales girls to help them select their purchase as everything is before them and arranged for their convenience. The staff of willing sales girls are there to lend any assistance that may be asked and to show the garments to whoever wishes to look at them. Every possible thought has been given to the convenience of the shopper and the proper handling of merchandise.

The window front is a sixteen foot arcade running from street line to entrance. An island window with an entrance on either side lends a modern and artistic taste to the passerby and invites entrance. There will be drop lights on either side of this island window which will add to the attractiveness of the already attractive front. The lighting of the windows is as near perfect as possible and give a very pleasing effect in the evening. The windows are finished in fourteen-inch scallops with pleated lambrequins.

The interior of the store, carried out in grey with fixtures finished in egg shell enamel, lends a most delightful and pleasing scheme of color. The lighting of the store is scientifically perfect as far as modern lighting is known. There is an absence of any glare and no shadows mar the inspection of the gowns which insures perfect satisfaction to all who enter the store.

The wardrobes along either side of the store, which are separated by individual mirrors, are so arranged as to display the merchandise to the best advantage and for the convenience of the customer. Here great thought and care has been used in giving the customer an altra-modern idea of service.

In the rear of the store are individual fitting rooms each equipped with a triple mirror and individual electric fixtures. There are also individual coat ranks and hooks in these. Nothing has been overlooked for the customer's convenience.

Chairs finished in egg shell enamel are placed in the salon for milady's comfort and baskets of artificial flowers lend color to the interior of the store.

The floor is of highly polished hardwood with rugs blending into the whole scheme of beauty and comfort.

Upper Floor.

In the rear on the right hand side of the store there is a neat staircase leading to the upper floor. Here will be more selling space carried out in the same beautiful scheme as the lower floor with fitting rooms and a rest room for lady shoppers. In the rear will be the offices and alteration rooms.

Mr. McNabb told The Examiner that there was not a store anywhere that could compete with it in regard to beauty, convenience and modern appointments.

The up-to-date wardrobes, complete fitting rooms, modern lighting, appealing windows and tasteful decorations combined with the thoughtfulness of the manager and the staff make this a real metropolitan store.

There is a spot light fitted to the ceiling and connected with the same time switch that operates the window lights that illuminates the interior under a flood of light when the store lights are out giving a very distinctive and attractive effect from the outside in the evening.

The new store is a real asset to the ladies of Peterborough. Here they will find even that which will not be found in the larger cities in the line of comfort and attractiveness and convenience in shopping. It is another addition to Peterborough's shopping district and is the last word in Ladies' Wear stores.

BRITISH COLUMBIA HAS FINE CLIMATE

Vancouver is One of Healthiest Cities in North America.

Vancouver in British Columbia is one of the healthiest cities on the North American Continent. Its climate, its geographical situation, its modernity all help to make it so, but there is added to those factors the magnificent sea bathing which every citizen and visitors alike enjoy.

The waters of the mid-North Pacific Ocean have a refreshing buoyancy, an invigorating tang which assists the thousands of visitors to enjoy the many beaches which are to be found in close proximity to the various cities of British Columbia.

Leading among the beaches of Vancouver is English Bay Beach, but a few minutes' walk from the heart of the city, and situated close to a residential area. Scarce a day in the whole year but what someone takes a dip in the waters here, but, when summer's elfin hands waft warming breezes, it is alive with old and young, who take pleasure and health from the salty waters fresh from the great Pacific.

Near by, in Stanley Park, are two smaller bathing beaches. Second Beach is a favorite spot for children, for close at hand is a supervised playground, while another cove, with sun-caressed sands, lies further on.

Kitsilano, across the bay, forms another vast, sandy foreshore, where countless thousands splash in the emerald waters; and still further away, and a spot that holds a charm as an all-day picnic nook, is Jericho Beach, near which is situated the airdrome whence the flying boats come and go.

Still further along Marine Drive, and reached only by motor, are Spanish Banks, a long sweep of sandy shore, where shallow waters, free from stones and debris, lure one to bathe.

In Vancouver there are seven beaches, all within easy distance from the city, while Victoria has an equal number of picturesque coves that lure one to bathe on the warm, sunny days.

The first mentioned in Vancouver have close at hand bathhouses, where suits and towels are to be rented and lockers obtained. The others are more primitive, with a background of imposing trees and shady depths. There is a generous choice for the visitor in British Columbia, and no one can fail to enjoy the sparkling waters with their health-giving and refreshing properties.

Intrepid Girl Trainer Meets All Comers

Smiles the Secret of Success in Handling Wild Beasts, Says Sparks Circus Star.

Madame Harriet, pretty trainer of jungle beasts with the Sparks Circus, weights slightly more than a hundred pounds, yet she meets all comers among wild animals including ferocious Bengal tigers and leopards.

There are three things that a trainer must remember, says Madame Harriet in discussing her profession. "Keep your animals apart while they are in the arena; watch them with unblinking eyes ;and most essential of all, keep smiling. To look worried is one way of showing fear, and once that is apparent, serious results are likely to follow."

A family of twenty Royal Bengal tigers, ranging from tiny cubs to the largest specimens ever exhibited, is coming to Peterborough next Thursday with the Sparks Circus.

Twelve of these superb striped beasts are presented in the mammoth steel arena by Franz Woska, master trainer, in what is said to be the most astonishing performance in the history of wild animal subjugation.

Pictured above, with Madame Harriet, are "Rex" and "Anthony," two half-grown members of the Bengal group, "freshmen" in the big show's school of advanced animal training.

A dozen acts in which lions, tigers, leopards, polar bears, and domestic animal actors appear, together with scores of other circus numbers, including four hundred men and women performers, are presented by the greatly enlarged Sparks Show this season.

The longest and most georgeous street parade ever known in circus history, with its magnificent array of wild beasts displayed in dens open uled to start at 11.00 a.m. on circus day. Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p.m., and for the convenience of the public, tickets may be secured at Bond's Drug Store throughout the day at the same prices charged at the show grounds.

THE FRAMEWORK OF THE BODY

The main difference in the appearance of people is produced by the shape of their bodily framework. If the bones were removed from a person's body, the flesh would fall into a shapeless mass very much as a tent falls down when the poles which support it are removed.

During infancy and childhood the bones are flexible and easily bent. As a child becomes older, the cartilage out of which the bones are first formed becomes filled with a lime substance and thereby becomes hard and brittle. After this hardening has occurred, it is exceedingly difficult to change the shape of the bones without breaking them. For this reason, babies and children often sustain falls without serious injury which would completely disable an adult.

The positions of the body are controlled by the muscles which move the bones. It has been found that many children develop slight curvature of the spine from carrying their books habitually with the same arm, or from sitting at desks that are either too high or too low. The clothing of children may likewise interfere with the proper development of the bone. This is sometimes caused by tight belts, tight hats, and tight shoes. We all remember seeing pictures of Chinese women who had their feet bound as babies.

Special care should be taken that children form the habit of carrying their bodies erect while the bones are hardening. The shape of these bones may be altered to some extent until about the age of twenty-five.

When a bone is broken, the broken ends are soon covered with a jelly-like cement. In a few days this begins to harden, and it is very important that the broken bone be held in its correct position until this hardening process has been completed. A physician should be called to set the broken bone. If it is necessary to move the individual before the physician arrives, a pillow or blanket should be tied around the limb, and boards or canes tied around the outside to keep it straight. If this is not done, there is danger of the powerful muscles pulling the two ends of the bone past each other, ripping through the muscles, blood vessels and nerves which surround it, and making a very serious, complicated fracture which is difficult to heal.

When the bones slip out of their sockets we have a dislocation. In some people, these joint sockets are very shallow, and the bones may be dislocated without breaking the ligaments. With most people, some of the ligaments are torn at the time of dislocation, inducing a very painful joint. A dislocated bone must be put back into its place and kept there until the ligaments are firmly re-established. In some joints, such as the finger, it is possible for the average person to stretch the joint and allow it to slip back into its proper place, but usually a physician should set the more important joints.

In sprains, some of the ligaments or fibres are broken or torn loose. Both dislocated and sprained joints should be bathed in either hot or cold water or, better still, in hot and cold water alternately. This keeps down the swelling and reduces the pain.

A dislocated or sprained joint should not be kept entirely at rest. Lightly exercising it, even though painful, keeps up a good circulation through the part, and this carries away the congested blood and dead tissue, hastening the healing process.

Once a dislocation has taken place, it is very easy for that joint to slip out of its normal position again.

Questions and Answers.

Question: H. V. writes: "I have a friend who, three years ago, was in a sanitarium for tuberculosis. She has been home for three years and is a frequent visitor in my home. She has a habit of kissing my children. She claims she is cured, but do you think there is danger to the children or to myself in having this lady visit us?"

Answer: Authorities now claim that only one out of one hundred is susceptible to tuberculosis through kissing. As ten out of every hundred deaths are from tuberculosis, it is apparent that there is some other more important cause. Keep your children strong and healthy by proper care, and they need not fear infection from any source.

Question: Mrs. D. H. J. asks: "Are onions, kidneys, and liver harmful foods? If not, what is the particular usefulness of each?"

Answer: The onions are too gassy, and kidneys and liver have their best use while in the living body of the animal.

Question: Constant Reader asks: "What causes a young man to take cold so easily, and to be troubled with boils. Tonsils and adenoids removed a year ago. Has good appetite, sleeps well, but does not gain weight and always has a pale, sallow color. If this means a run-down condition, what tonic would be advisable?"

Answer: Do not depend upon the removal of tonsils and adenoids to cure boils. The toxic cause of the boils and the enlarged tonsils is the same. The sallow color will disappear as soon as the blood stream is thoroughly cleansed of waste matter. A bodily house-cleaning is what this young man needs, and not a "tonic." I will be glad to send an article called "A CLEANSING DIET" if you will send a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

LYRICS OF LIFE

WITHOUT THE CROWD

The team that wins the pennant isn't one that wins at home
But loses all its battle when the road
it has to roam.
The team that wins the pennant is the team that does its best
When the crowd is all against it, and the umpires, and the rest.
Oh, it's easy to keep winning when applause is in your ears,
When the shout of commendation is the shout a fellow hears,
But the team that wins the pennant has some courage in its code,
Is a good team on the homelot and a good team on the road.

The man who wins the pennant in the baseball game of life
Is the man who fights the hardest when he finds the hardest strife.
The man who wins the pennant is the fellow fighting on
When the crowd is all against him, and it's dark instead of dawn.
Oh, it's easy to keep winning when they're yelling "Attaboy,"
When the sky is full of promise and the day is full of joy,
But the man who wins the pennant,
and who yet will make them proud,
Is the man who has convictions and can win without the crowd.

Only two new officers were elected. These were head watchman, J. A. Bradford, of Lindsay, and head sentry J. Hysel of Niagara Falls.

Other officers who were re-elected were: Charles Hanna, ex-M.P., of Belleville, head advisory lieutenant, and D. Cinnamon, of Lindsay, past head consul commander.

KIWANIS TO AID CITIZENSHIP WEEK

Chairman of Public Affairs Committee Tells of Their Plans.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 21 (by the Canadian Press).—Kiwanis clubs in Canada will emphasize throughout the entire Dominion, during Canadian Citizenship Week, July 1-7, the immediate need of a strong dominion and provincial policy, so that settlers may be more quickly placed on unoccupied lands, according to John M. McMillan, of Montreal, Chairman of the committee on Public Affairs for Canada, who spoke today to delegates attending the 12th annual convention of Kiwanis.

"In addition to this we should give some thought to making provision for Canadians who are now living in cities and who might be interested in taking up land settlements and agriculture," Mr. McMillan said. "Assistance and protection should be given these people while they make the change from the city to the farm."

Every one of the Canadian Kiwanis clubs will also secure members of the provincial legislatures, or members of the Cabinet or Parliament, to direct public attention, in July, to the natural resources of the different provinces.

"Kiwanians are securing farmers as members of clubs," said Mr. McMillan. "The membership of a club is made up of not more than two men engaged in the same business, so the requisite number of farmers are invited by all clubs to become members. When opportunity offers, clubs invite outstanding non-member farmers to join with Kiwanis in their meetings. These men can, from time to time, deliver constructive addresses in connection with farm interests."

Lynchers Arrested.

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22, Canadian Press. — Five men were held without bond here to-day charged with murder in connection with the lynching on Wednesday last of Robert Powell, 24, a negro accused of killing a detective.

They also reported the rescue of two injured members of the crew by Lieut. Luetzow Holm.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

FOR SATURDAY, JUNE 23, 1928

Although astrologers perceive certain adverse aspects today they find the dominating influences favorable for Earth dwellers.

Again the sway is promising for women and their ambitions, especially in all educational lines.

The stars presage for the United States marvelous development of colleges and universities. Many endowments for seats of learning are forecast.

This is held to be a lucky wedding day since it seems to foreshadow progress and prosperity.

Financial matters are well directed today which stimulates interest in international business enterprises.

Newspapers may expect large profits and honors will come to persons connected with them.

The rule of the stars is good for writers, especially for those who are interested in world problems.

Advertising is to be even more prevalent than formerly and it is to command record breaking outlays of money, the seers prophesy.

Merchants and manufacturers are subject to stimulating influences that will increase profits as the year ends. New manufacturing plants are to be established in many places in the south and west, if the stars are rightly read.

Dissatisfaction is forecast among farmers who will criticise what has been done to relieve them of trying problems.

They who cultivate the soil may be extremely susceptible to slander or libel concerning political candidates, the seers declare.

Military matters may be investigated in the early autumn when there will be agitation regarding army methods.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be extra cautious in business, especially where houses and mortgages are concerned.

Children born on this day probably will be clever in intellectual affairs, but not practical. They may easily lose money.

INTERESTING DAY OF WATER SPORTS

Good List of Events For Aquatic Exhibition To-morrow.

Peterborough's aquatic exhibition is all set for a big day to-morrow. If the weatherman is kind there will be a record crowd and an interesting list of events is promised. Several of these exhibitions will be held during July, but in August the committee has decided to co-operate with the other regattas and not hold any in the city while there are meets at the nearby summer resorts. However in the month of July there will be much in store for the people of Peterborough.

Added to the list of events the latest entries are a senior and a junior race, representing the Y.M.C.A. and a relay race between the Collegiate and the Y.M.C.A.

The outboard motor boat events will be run off in the three classes: Class A, representing the small 2 or 3 horsepower motor of 10 cubic inches displacement; Class B, which is the intermediate motor, with 20 cubic inches displacement; Class C, motor with 30 inches displacement, which is the largest. Motor boats participating will be entered according to those classes.

All motors must also be muffled, which is one of the strict regulations of the entries.

CALLED PARTISAN.

W. H. Moore, chairman of the Federal Tariff Advisory Board, was assailed in the House of Commons on Monday by Hon. R. B. Bennett, who accused him of political partisanship, and moved to debate the appropriation of $10,000 for his salary from the Government estimates. The motion was defeated.

Why the High-Powered Car?

RARELY do you need all the braking capacity of your car—rarely do you need all its Power—all its Speed. Use your excess power as you use your excess brakes—the latter to keep you out of danger, the former to get you out. It is not the high speed car but the "high-speeding" car that is the menace.

Drivers must use the power of their cars with caution. The speed limit on the open highway is 35 miles per hour, or such lower speed as conditions may warrant. Careless or reckless driving will not be tolerated. Traffic officers on the highways and police in villages, towns and cities, will summons those who make the highways unsafe either by reckless or careless driving. Your driving becomes reckless the moment your car travels so fast that you cannot control it under any condition that may arise. This may be at 10 or 15 miles an hour, as well as at the higher speeds.

Care for your own safety and that of your passengers, courtesy to others on the road whether in vehicles or afoot—these are combined in the two words COMMON-SENSE. If you do not exercise Common-sense in your driving, you are a danger and menace to yourself, your friends and the public. Sooner or later you will come to grief—either through injury to yourself and others, or by the penalty of imprisonment or the loss of your right to drive a car.

The Highway Safety Committee is engaged in an effort to make the highways more safe for both motorists and pedestrians. It is appealing for the support of all who believe in decency and safety on the road. Those drivers who will not heed and who persist in breaking the law will be dealt with as the law demands.

CARE
SENSE

Remember These 7 Rules for Safety

1. Have your car in perfect mechanical shape—particularly Brakes, Steering Gear and Headlights.
2. Give your undivided attention to your driving. In passing traffic, be sure there is a place for you in the traffic line ahead.
3. When other motor vehicles try to pass you—let them pass.
4. In entering main streets or highways, or in approaching a railway crossing where a full view of the track is obstructed, stop and look.
5. Don't "loaf" where traffic is heavy.
6. Always signal before you slow down, stop or change your course.
7. Never back up before ascertaining that the road behind is clear.

CHAPTER XI.

"Has any one meddled with these things since you saw them last?" Stone said in a most matter-of-fact tone.

"No," said Pelton, looking up in surprise, but turning red. "Who would do so, and why?"

"I don't know, I'm sure" and Stone turned it off lightly. "Was that suitcase locked?"

"It should have been," and Pelton examined the catch. "But it wasn't. It seems to be a little out of order."

"How about that man of yours?" Stone said, suddenly.

"Ross? He wouldn't touch it, I'm sure."

"Call him in, please," Stone said.

A moment later the imperturbable valet stood before them.

"Just a few questions, my man," Stone said affably, and though Ross looked a little startled, he stood quietly at attention, ready to reply.

"I know you've been through this a dozen times," Stone said pleasantly, "but just once again, please. Where were you when your master, Mr. Folsom, was killed?"

"Here in this room, sir," said Ross, his lips twitching a little with emotion, but otherwise calm.

"Waiting for his return, I'm told."

"Yes, sir."

"Where were you sitting?"

"I wasn't sitting, sir. I stood at the window looking down at the crowds and yet listening for Mr. Folsom's step in the hall."

"I see. You didn't see the commotion attendant on the bringing of Mr. Folsom's body from the water?"

"No, sir. It is not visible from these windows. Or if it is, I didn't see it. If I had I should have rushed out there, sir."

"Of course, yes. Now, Ross, you have another good master in Mr. Pelton?"

"Yes, sir."

"And he is confidential with you, as Mr. Folsom was?"

"Yes, sir." The man looked at his interlocutor with a mild wonder, as if not understanding the drift, but paying attention to the words.

"When he leaves the room, he doesn't lock up things from you?"

"It is not necessary, sir," and Ross' attitude was that of Caesar's wife at her best.

"No. I'm sure of that. Well, then, this evening, while Mr. Pelton was out, who could have come in here and meddled with his belongings?"

"I don't know, sir, I'm sure," and Ross showed no embarrassment or even undue interest.

"Yet somebody did so."

"I know nothing of it, sir."

"Nor I!" exclaimed Dan Pelton, unable to keep still longer. "What are you driving at, Mr. Stone? Who said any one came in here and rummaged my thin s?"

"You said it yourself, though not in so many words," replied Stone, calmly. "Is it not the truth?"

"Truth? That somebody rummaged—nonsense! Of course it is not the truth."

"And you don't care to admit it, nor tell me who the intruder was?" Stone went on, quite as if Pelton had said yes to his queries instead of no.

"Of course I don't! That is—" Pelton stumbled in his speech—"of course, nobody came in."

"You may go, Ross," Stone said to the man, "and as you go, send me the chambermaid."

These orders were obeyed, and in a short time Myrtle arrived.

She came in, pluming herself as with a sense of her own importance, but when she saw the crestfallen look and down-hearted appearance of Dan Pelton, she, too, began to look frightened.

This sequence of events was not lost upon Stone, who said, rather curtly:

"You are the maid of these rooms?"

"Yes, sir," said Myrtle, her air of bravado melting before that direct eye.

"You have been in here this evening?"

"I always come, sir, to turn down the bed, and bring fresh towels."

"I know that. At what time did you come for that purpose?"

"I dunno. 'Bout eight, I guess."

"And at what time did you come later? Come to let someone else in? Because you were well paid for it!"

At each sentence Stone looked a little more menacing, and spoke in a little sterner tone. At the climax, his voice, though not loud, was of a cold, deadly inflection and scared Myrtle nearly out of her wits, as was the detective's amiable intention.

She began to cry and Stone said, shortly:

"Cry all you like, my girl, but before you begin, tell me who it was you let into this room. Quick, now, out with it!"

"Mrs. Valdon," said Myrtle, impelled by the inexorable voice, and then she ran from the room.

"And so," Stone said, as the door closed, none too gently, after Myrtle, "and so, Mr. Pelton, your desire to shield Mrs. Valdon is so great that you clog the wheels of justice in order to gratify it."

"That's about how it stands," and Dan Pelton looked embarrassed, but far from penitent.

Miss Anastasia sighed.

"That's Dan all over!" she said. "He'd always do anything to save a woman from annoyance."

"But he hasn't saved her," and Stone looked indignant. "In fact, he has probably made more trouble for her than if he had been frank in the first place."

"What do you mean by that?" and Dan Pelton's voice held a great ear.

This did not escape Stone's alert attention and he pressed the point.

"The facts are self evident," he said. "Garrett Folsom had letters or papers that in some way incriminated or at least bothered Mrs. Valdon, and she was determined to get them. Mr. Pelton knew more or less about these papers, and he had possession of them, he supposed, in that suitcase full of papers. Right so far, Mr. Pelton?"

"Yes," was the answer, growled rather than spoken.

"Do you know the nature or contents of the papers in question?"

"I do not."

"I thought so. Well, the papers disappeared from the suitcase without Mr. Pelton's knowledge, for it was easily seen that he was relieved when he opened the case to find that the papers were not there. He spoke of some letters of his own but that was scarcely plausible."

"Then it was that woman, after all!" and Anastasia Folsom's voice rang out in triumph. "I knew you'd find out, Mr. Stone. And I knew it was a woman who killed Garry! She looks the adventuress. You can see it sticking out all over her—"

"Oh, hush, Aunt Stasia! Don't be ridiculous—" began Pelton, but Tite Riggs interrupted.

COUNTIES TO SPEND $225,000 ON PAVING

Will Assist Urban Municipalities in Permanent Road Work.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

COBOURG, June 22—"We, the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham agree to adopt the following program of road improvement to cover a period of eight years, 1928-1935, inclusive, said program to consist of paving the connecting links and extensions in the towns and villages, Bowmanville, Campbellford, Millbrook and Hastings to be completed this present year, 1923, and Port Hope, Cobourg, Newcastle, Colborne and Brighton to be completed next year, 1929.

"The location, mileage and amount to be spent to be determined by the road commission, government engineer and county road superintendent, together with the representatives of each town and village, but the total amount to be raised by the counties for this purpose not to exceed $225,000.00 including the $25,000.00 already spent in the village of Hastings.

"The towns and villages to agree to forego their rebate for a term of ten years.

"The United Counties of Northumberland and Durham also agree in adopting this program to raise by general levy for country road purposes, outside the towns and villages, for 1928, two mills. Then, for the following seven years, not less than two and three-quarter mills."

The above agreement, drawn up by and submitted in the report of the roads and bridges committee at the Wednesday afternoon sittings of the Durham and Northumberland counties' council through the committee chairman, W. F. Elliott had resulted from earlier discussion and a realization that the council must adopt some new policy to adequately handle the increasingly heavy traffic over roads in the united counties. The agreement also comprised the main body of the report in which was recorded details of the roads and bridges committee meeting held last evening and came in for considerable critical attention before being adopted with but one amendment—that the period during which the towns and villages forego their rebates be made ten years (as above) rather than eight years, as the agreement orignally stated.

A Light Session

Considering that yesterday afternoon's session was the first since Tuesday morning, the business slated was not extensive and adjournment until one o'clock on Thursday took place two hours after the sitting began. An aftermath of Tuesday's torrid session over payment of school grants provoked by the Cobourg High School Board writ against the council, was seen in that Bowmanville High School Board, as well as the Campbellford Boards tendered accounts for their grants due from 1926. The Bowmanville account totalled $2,849.00 while Port Hope sought a cadet grant according to custom.

"SALADA" ORANGE PEKOE BLEND TEA

"Pekoe" comes from the Chinese word "Pak-ho", meaning silver hair, which was applied to the tip leaves on the Chinese tea bush. Tip leaves are wiry in shape. In India they were more orange in colour, so were called "Orange Pekoe" (Pak-ho).

YOUNG PEOPLE HOLD MEETING

per cent have brains enough to profit by education. It is not wise to spoil the other 70 per cent. by forcing an education upon them. Very few educated people will do manual labor, and there are enough white collar workers. Let those who are able to make use of education get it; the others are better citizens without.

Mr. Herrington said the discussion was like the one which said, "Resolved that all men should drink water." He explained that in the Greek democracy all men had the chance or right to vote directly on any question that was brought up.

A contest in aviation terms was the social part of the meeting.

Executive Meets.

The United Church Sunday school executive met on Monday evening. Nearly all the members were present. It was decided to hold the annual Sunday school social on the lawn during the first week of July and the proceeds will be given to help pay for the piano.

The Ladies' Aid executive met at the parsonage to arrange for the social evening which it to be the wind up of the "auto race."

Hay Scarce.

There is at great fear of shortage of hay. Much timothy is heading when not over six inches tall. Clover is good in patches.

Much fall wheat is heading out already and not very high. However it will likely grow a good deal yet. Some oats and barley showed hardly any difference in over two weeks.

Corn is not all in yet. Many are sowing buckwheat and millet or hungarian instead of corn.

Foliage is very dense, and there is promise of a good crop of small fruits. Garden stuff is coming in now, even on heavy soils. Those gardens which are on light, warm soil are doing well. Potatoes seem to be coming along well.

Many savage tribes practice the custom of putting their kings to death every so often and electing new ones. They do this to keep their rulers from growing old and losing the power to protect the tribe.

W.M.S. HOLDS LONG SESSION

Presbyterial Meeting For Peterborough is Held at St. Andrew's, Campbellford.

ENCOURAGING REPORTS.

CAMPBELLFORD, June 21. — St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was open to the busines sof the Women's Missionary Society Presbyterial of the Presbytery of Peterborough all day yesterday. Although all the auxiliaries throughout the presbytery were not represented at any one meeting, all have been represented throughout the day. Delegates from out of town have been billeted at the various homes of the local members and everything possible is being done to make their visit to St. Andrew's a pleasant one. At the morning session there were the usual preliminaries, receiving of reports, the appointing of a nominating committee and the hearing of the minutes of the last meeting of the Presbyterial. The session was opened and closed with devotional exercises under the direction of the Havelock Auxiliary. Lunch was served in the basement of the church by the local auxiliary and a charge of forty cents a plate levied. After the afternoon session, tea was served for which there was no charge. The reports of the treasury show that during the year 1927, $4,976.30 was raised throughout the various auxiliaries in the presbytery for the missionary work of the society.

The devotional exercises at the afternoon session were under the direction of the Peterborough auxiliary. Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Campbellford, spoke words of welcome to the delegates and other visitors to the Presbyterial. It was a pleasure, she said, to welcome them to St. Andrew's, Compbellford. She had listened to the various reports with great interest and found them to be very encouraging. Yet the auxiliaries must not get the satisfied feeling which was practically certain to spell disaster. In her opinion the society should adopt the word "hope" at its watchword, and always hope to do better than in the past. Prayer was another necessity, and the burden of the prayers should be "Thy Kingdom come." Mrs. McCulloch was very sorry that some of the auxiliaries were not represented to this important session, but expressed the hope that all present would enjoy their visit to St. Andrew's, Campbellford.

Mrs. D. Ewart

The address by Mrs. D. Ewart, Cobourg, the president of the society, was very interesting and encouraging. After reviewing the work of 1927 she thought she might truly say, "The Lord is building with us." There had been difficulties, but this was the case with every organization and with life itself. It was necessary to keep the hearts lifted up to high ideals. The work of the society was not outstanding, but a simple and sincere work along physical as well as spiritual lines. As a slogan, Mrs. Ewart suggested, "New and enlarged membership in every auxiliary." As president of the presbytery executive, she wished to express her warmest appreciation and satisfaction for the support and co-operation of every member of the executive. That the W.M.S. had not only met but surpassed their objective for the year was a matter for rejoicing. On the other hand, it was a matter of deep regret to recall the names of several of the members who had passed away during the year.

The sympathy of the society was with all who mourned the loss of these dear friends.

Briefly then, Mrs. Ewart touched on the accomplishments of the society in their two new foreign fields—Manchuria and British Guiana. The information which she had at hand was of especial interest to the ladies of the various auxiliaries.

Reports Read

Mrs. W. N. McDougal, Lakeport, was unable to attend on account of illness. She is the treasurer of the society and had forwarded her report which was read by Mrs. G. F. Clarke, Brighton, the secretary, in conjunction with her own. Following these reports, the greeting from sister societies were presented by ladies from these societies. Mrs. F. deF. Free's solo, "Cast Thy Bread on The Waters," (Roeckel), was well received. The pipe organ accompaniment was played by Miss Winnifred Hay.

Following the dedicatory prayer offered by Mrs. R. Hall, Peterboro, Mrs. W. A. McLennan, Lindsay, addressed the meeting. Mrs. McLennan will preside at the W.M.S. Presbyterial of the Lindsay Presbytery which is being held in Cannington to-day. As a member of that Presbytery, she brought greetings for the "Next door neighbor." Although they are two distinct organizations, all have the same work and all are working for the same cause and along the same lines. She hoped that the Peterborough Presbytery would have the Lindsay Presbytery in mind when the latter meet for their Presbyterial in Cannington.

One of the things she had noticed was the number of members which had been claimed by death during the year. While these members had lived they had seemed unsparable, and yet the work progressed. This was one of the wonders of God's way. The story of the Church and of the W.M.S. was one and the same, said Mrs. McLennan. Wherever there was a church, there was a W.M.S., and sometimes there was a W.M.S. where there was no church. The society was the barometer of the spirit of the Church and its work is the reason for the Church as given in the word of Christ, "Go, tell, and I will be with you always."

Until the coming of Christ women had not been treated as God had intended them to be. Christ had lifted them up to their proper status. He was born of woman and loved His mother dearly throughout all His life. His first miracle had been performed at the request of a woman, and after His resurrection, He had first appeared to women. He was the only pattern for the work of the W.M.S. Their work was not only here in Canada, but abroad among all the nations of the world. It was their duty to contribute to both the spiritual and physical needs of the people. As a point of interest, Mrs. McLennan recalled the names of several missionaries who had labored for many years in the foreign fields. All were well up in years, a few were deceased and an occasional one was retiring, but the majority were anxious to continue their work and not be set aside. But the time would come when they too would pass away and the question for the society to face was whether or not there would be anyone to take their places. There was much to be expected of prayer since Christ had said that we might ask anything if "Ye abide in Me."

Work For All.

Every member should do her part in the work. All the common excuses were not proof of inability, and Mrs. McLennan quoted Scripture to prove her statement. She also cited cases where the promises of the Scriptures had been made good. We must use the talents we have been given, she said, and not hand them back to God, unused and rusty. In closing, she made a strong and eloquent plea to the young people to enter the work with all the energy and initiative that is part of the youth of to-day.

The reports of the Mission Bands were presented and the afternoon session was concluded with a most impressive memorial service for the late Mrs. William Hume. Mrs. Hume was a most ardent worker and a vice-president of the W.M.S.

Evening Service.

The evening session opened at eight o'clock with a brief praise service and devotional exercises conducted by the Rev. Dr. Thomson, Hastings, assisted by the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, Burnbrae. Dr. Thomson also brought greetings from the Peterborough Presbytery. He missed the familiar face of one who was a great worker for missions and the Church in general, he said, the late Mrs. Hume. He was pleased that the society had honored her memory by holding a memorial service at the close of the afternoon session. She had been an ardent and eager worker of the church with a gift of generous hospitality.

Dr. Thomson wished to assure the W.M.S. that the Presbytery was behind them in their work, and would assist them wherever it was possible. The Presbytery kept in close touch with the doings of the W.M.S., and was of the opinion that this society had excelled all others in the work of the church. They were not in favor of having the society contribute to the Budget, but preferred to leave well enough alone. The church today needed the missionary spirit, the want of it was being keenly felt. The missionary spirit was a sure means of developing character since it kept people from becoming self-centred. It should be cultivated from the time of childhood and early youth. Regarding money matters, Dr. Thomson said that there was a closer relationship between the spiritual and the material things of life than was sometimes realized. In order to gain ultimate victory it was necessary that the members and societies stick together, a long pull and a strong pull and a pull all together.

Miss G. Harvey's Presbyterial report followed Dr. Thomson's address, and gave much valuable information to those present.

The soloist for the evening was Mrs. Frank DeCarroll. Her solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple" (Knapp) was greatly appreciated. Miss Eva Brady played the pipe organ accompaniment.

Inspirational Address.

The inspirational address was given by the Rev. F. C. Harper, B.A., Cobourg, and was highly interesting. Mr. Harper believed that he had been asked to give the address for one of two reasons, that he was the newest minister inducted into the Presbytery or because of his own experiences along missionary lines. He did not intend to speak from a theoretical angle, but from a practical plane and from his own experiences. These were of a most matter-of-fact and prosaic life, he said.

As a boy he had pictured a missionary as a great soldier or a crowned head. But his imaginary image had been changed and he realized that missionaries were not men far removed from the ordinary plane of life. He recalled the case of Alexander Duff, who worked in the mission fields of India. On his voyage there he was shipwrecked, and all that was saved of his personal belongings was his Bible. This had been rescued by one of the sailors. Although the work of the foreign missionaries was done under different circumstances, it was the same work as was done in the home churches by the W.M.S. Human life was not expressed by glamor. Glamor was the product of the imagination, and there was none of it in connection with the life of a missionary, any more than there was about the ministers of the church in the days gone by.

Glamor had passed from the church and with it had come the change in the conditions under which the missionaries worked. There were no longer any great distances, thanks to modern means of travel and communication. The world had been brought closer together. The modern church standards were judged by the standards of the ministers of the church in question. All men were brothers under the skin, and the only difference in the churches in different localities was that the minister modified his teachings to suit the conditions of the locality. The gospel was the same the world over.

In support of these statements, Mr. Harper related incidents which occurred when he was a minister in the oil fields of South America. His charge had been in connection with the white men of the company but he had been able to devote considerable time to work among the native laborers as well. In his opinion the natives of Peru were in a worse conditions at the present time than when the Spaniards first landed there four hundred years ago. They were cruel to animals and to children. They had not, he said, the faintest trace of the milk of human kindness. Just how much this would accomplish was clearly shown by its effect on a native servant girl who had been employed in his household. He also related how a native driller had sacrificed his own life in an attempt to rescue a young Englishman who had been struck down by falling timber on an occasion when a well exploded. "Greater love hath to man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

When Mr. Harper had finished, Dr. Thompson expressed his appreciation of the address, saying that he had been engaged in missionary work in the slums of Edinburgh for two years and had found much the same conditions there that Mr. Harper had found among the native labourers of South America.

The evening session closed with a hymn and the benediction by Dr. Thompson.

This morning the final session of the Presbyterial began at nine-thirty, when the remainder of the reports were received and the election of officers and other business was completed.

SPARKS CIRCUS TO GIVE PARADE

World's Largest Show Giving Street Display Coming to City.

PARADE AT 11 A.M.

Sparks Circus, which exhibits in Peterborough next Thursday afternoon and night, is the largest show in the world giving a street parade. The parade hour is scheduled promptly at 11 a.m. on circus day, and it is announced that all wild animal dens will be wide open to the public's view.

Charles Sparks, at the head of the show today, takes the view that the millions of friends this circus has made throughout the country in its annual tours, look forward to the parade as one of the events of the season, bringing people from all the countryside to the town in which it exhibits, and therefore while the street parade entails great additional expense, requiring much equipment which is not used in the performance, he has not changed his policy in this respect, and his is the only big show giving a parade this season.

The parade this season is the most elaborate ever given by the Sparks Circus, there being more cages of wild animals, more horses, and more performers, including three score clowns, than in any previous season in the history of these famous shows.

The route of the parade will be as follows: From the Exhibition Grounds the procession will pass along George street to King street, to Water street, to McDonnel street, to George street, returning to the grounds.

DRESS
By MARY MARSHALL

For flying you may wear the ensemble at the left, consisting of leather riding breeches and riding boots, a leather aviator's coat and a khaki shirt—and for extra protection you may have the "cover-all" garment at the right made with patent fasteners.

Twenty years or so from now when the number of women flyers has very greatly increased it will probably be amusing to look back at some of the aircraft costumes as they were designed in the days when women flyers were few. In fact, some of the flying ensembles as designed by the French dressmakers only a year or so ago already seem amusin. After all one does not have to get one's self up like a lady from Mars or a deep sea diver to drive a plane. And save for the leather helmet any sportswoman possesses in her wardrobe the wherewithall for a perfectly adequate flying ensemble.

As a matter of convenience one would wear breeches, and I was assured at one of the leading sporting-goods shops that no special breeches are sold there for this purpose. Riding breeches are the sort usually worn, though it you do not ride you may have a pair of knickers of the sort you have used for mountain climbing or skating that will fill the bill.

Riding boots or riding shoes and leather riding gaiters finish the covering for legs and feet.

A khaki or flannel skirt open at the neck or worn with a mannish tie would be chosen to go with the breeches along with a leather coat made with a belt to draw it in snugly at the waist. Gauntlet gloves and a leather or woolen helmet would about finish the bill. Regulation overalls made with patent fastenings are also sold for women who are bent on playing the role of mechanic for their airplanes. These are very business-like and not expensive—quite different from the elaborately devised light-colored garments that were made for the first aviatrices.

There are, of course, specially designed leather coats for flying, and these are made with strapped cuffs to keep the cold from getting in at the wrists. They are to be had in bright green or red with helmets to match for the woman who wants to cut a colorful figure as she flies. There are also specially designed aviation sweaters and knitted woolen helmets, but in essentials these differ but little from the helmets and sweaters chosen for winter sports.

STRAWBERRY LOAF

(A tasty summer recipe from Tweed.)

Required: 1 package strawberry jelly (I use Jell-O); 1 pint boiling water; less two tablespoons; 1 cup heavy cream, whipped; 1 pint strawberries, halved; 12 marshmallows, finely cut; ½-cup sugar.

Add marshmallows to strawberries and sugar, mix thoroughly, and let stand at least an hour. Dissolve jelly in boiling water. When cold and slightly thickened, beat with rotary egg beater until consistency of whipped cream. Fold in whipped cream, strawberries, and marshmallows. Turn in a mold. Chill until firm. Serve in slices. I find this serves eight persons nicely.

QUEBEC WOMEN SEEK SUFFRAGE

Petitions to be Circulated This Summer Asking for Right to Vote.

Montreal, Que., June 22 (CP).—Though no cheering progress in the field of women suffrage in the Province of Quebec was reported at the annual meeting of the Provincial Franchise Committee, plans for the coming season's campaign were launched with unabated enthusiasm. Nor will the work cease over the summer. Convinced that the vote is not confined merely to a small group of women in Montreal, as some opponents of feminine suffrage suggest, the Provincial Franchise Committee is preparing petitions which will be circulated all over the province through various women's organizations or individually by members who are travelling about Quebec during the holidays. The names and the locations where they have been obtained will later be forwarded to the Government to show how universal is the demand for the vote.

Certain flowers will not bloom if they are subjected to continuous light.

INSTITUTES IN GREAT BRTAIN MAKE PROGRESS

Canadian Woman Established Institution in Old Country During War.

4,000 BRANCHES.

"Canada's Greatest Contribution to England" is Baldwin's Testimonial.

LONDON, Eng., June 22.—The women of Canada will be interested to note the progress of Women's Institutes in Great Britain, for it was a Canadian, Mrs. Alfred Watt of Victoria, B.C., who was instrumental in establishing here during the war these organizations, which Premier Baldwin has said constituted Canada's greatest contribution to England. The 12th annual general meeting of the National Federation held in London recently attracted 3,000 delegates from all parts of the country. The pioneers did not have an easy time, and as Lady Denman, the chairman, said, they were frequently told not to interfere but to "stay at home and mind the baby."

Today in England there are about 4,000 branches, while Scotland, starting from England, has 500. The situation has changed and the movement meets with encouragement and approval, partly perhaps because it has become self-supporting and for the last two years has been able to dispense with the financial assistance which at first it received from the Ministry of Agriculture. "Its effect," says The Times, "has been to enlarge the sympathies of cottage housewives by talks and lectures on art, history, literature and other subjects of interest, to institute a revival of old-time village industries and handicrafts, and, generally speaking to relieve and brighten the monotony of their everyday life." At the London meeting it was suggested that the practical usefulness of the work might be extended if urban and rural district councils were asked to co-opt members of local women's institutes on to their housing committees so that women might express their views, especially on the problems of rural housing.

This remarkable movement, which had its beginning in Saltfleet Township, Wentworth County, Ont., in February, 1897, now almost encircles the globe. The majority of other organizations have been founded on the plan which worked so well in Ontario, and many of them still look to Ontario for inspiration. In Belgium there are over 700 branches; in Germany the Countrywomen's Association was formed a year after the Ontario organization, and now has 1,313 local associations; in Ireland 21, Poland 900, Finland 39, New Zealand 13, India 150, while Australia, Czecho-Slovakia, South Africa, Southern Rhodesia, Natal, France, Sweden, Holland and other countries also have their association. Some are called by different names, as in the United States, where the Home Bureau reaches millions of people and is purely rural, but all have the same objectives, home and country.

Who Am I?

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

IF we are going to discuss the child, his looks, his habits and problems, it should be when the child is not there. It is neither wise nor kind to make him the subject of discussion in his presence. He is either embarrassed or so promoted in his self esteem that in either case the result is negative. The mistake of recounting the child's bright sayings and "cute" doings is so common that we often fail to remember it is poor psychology to so force a child into the limelight and augment his actions which were committed naturally and in good faith. If we must discuss his personal appearance, gifts, or shortcomings, let it be when he is not present.

I ALWAYS thought that I was just myself
Until Aunt Julia came to visit us.
It seems she thinks I'm parts of other folk,
And looks at me and makes a lot of fuss.
I've my Uncle John's hair
And Aunt Caroline's chin
I'm the image of Lou
'Cause I'm gangly and thin;
I've Great Grandmother's laugh,
And the look round my eyes
Reminds her of Jane
It's so selfish and wise;
I have Cousin Kate's smile
And my Grandpa Drew's walk;
I'm the picture of Maud
When I listen or talk.
I shall grow like Aunt Ann
Very stately and tall—
In fact when I breathe
Or do nothing at all,
I'm just somebody else
To Aunt Julia you see—
And yet I'm myself
As I still feel like me!

DON'T LET THE GRASS GROW

By H. Oxley Stengel.

"Better and better!" Ralph Wilcox exclaimed delightedly. "Why I didn't believe you had it in you, Max!"

Ralph balanced his wicker chair perilously on one rocker and, leaning over, knocked the ashes of his cigarette on the green grass a few inches below the piazza on which the two young men sat. He drew a deep breath of the soft, flower-laden air of a rare June night.

Max Crawford groaned aloud. "I say! Have a heart, can't you?" Just because I tell you I spilled a cup of tea—like the clumsy ass that I was—spoiling a dress and an afternoon fo a pretty girl and generally making a fool of myself—you think it a huge joke. I always did abominate teas anyway. That was what happened when I was weak enough to drop in on one."

"Drop a cup of it," Ralph corrected solemnly. His brown eyes twinkled. "Nevertheless wild horses couldn't have kept him away!" he explained in an aside to the moon. "You see She, the-One-and-Only-Girl - in - all - the - World, Lady Moon, asked him to go. There is the answer."

"What of it?" Max demanded fiercely. "She's asked others too!"

"What of it?" That's what I'm asking you, curly head," Ralph returned. "Why, man, I didn't think you were so clever!"

"Clever in getting myself in messes, yes. Say, Ralph, can't you let me alone?"

"Certainly, I can. But is it fair, I ask you, to begin a good love story and not finish it? I want to know how it is going to end."

Max did not follow his friend upstairs until the clock struck one. Even then he did not sleep. Had Mary really forgiven his clumsiness of the afternoon before? She had said so, of course. Why hadn't he invited her to go to dinner with him and at least shown her he was interested in her? Instead he had taken the 6:10 train for Tower Hill—knowing that Ralph and his mother would welcome him.

On the 8:10 bound for the city the next morning Ralph made no mention of the Tea and Max's part in it. For which Max was duly grateful. He did not know that his paleness was the real reason. But as they were parting at the Grand Central station Ralph reminded him that he could finish "that story" on Sunday. "Don't let the grass grow under your feet," he warned. "Dinner at two as usual. There may be company."

Acting on Ralph's advice, Max decided to call Mary up. He waited until evening, however. Miss Davis was out for dinner, he was informed to his dismay. Another man no doubt. He spent a miserable evening at the club. Where was Mary? That was Thursday.

On Friday morning Max was called out of town on business. He reached home late Saturday night. Too late to call Mary Davis! He tried at ten on Sunday morning. He would stay in town and see her. "Miss Davis was out of town for the week-end."

Max started out and walked miles before catching the 12:32 for Tower Hill. What was the use of staying in town if Mary Davis was away?

Max arrived at The Rookery just in time for dinner. Mrs. Wilcox greeted him cordially and ignored his silences. "Ralph is late, I'm sorry," she told him. "He drove down to the city early. He only said he would bring a girl home to dinner. I don't understand it at all, Max. I thought—"

"I thought so too, Mrs. Wilcox!" Max volunteered. Then in answer to her questioning look: "I thought Ralph was in love with Elizabeth Darrow—and she with him," he added simply.

Just then they both saw Ralph's car coming up the drive. It stopped in front of the piazza and Ralph jumped out. He was followed by a girl. Mary Davis! For a moment Max saw red. Then he realized another girl was being assisted out of the car also. Elizabeth Darrow.

Dinner was a wonderful feast. Max was seated next to Mary Davis. He saw that her every need was supplied and somehow he managed to talk to her.

After dinner what was more natural than to wander over the hills of The Rookery with Mary? Mrs. Wilcox had excused herself for a siesta. Ralph and Elizabeth had just disappeared.

It was nearing sunset. Max and Mary had been watching a sailboat on the Sound. Mary looked down at the carpet of green at their feet.

"Why, you can almost see the grass grow!" she laughed, tossing her dear brown curls out of her face.

"Oh, it mustn't!" Max exclaimed. "Stand on that rock please, Mary!"

"What do you mean?" The girl was puzzled.

"I mean—I don't want to let the grass grow under our feet—I don't want to lose you, Mary."

Then he held out his arms and Mary's dear head was on his shoulder. He drew her close. It was their hour. A golden hour on a golden afternoon.

"Now will you finish that story?" Ralph demanded when the two girls had gone upstairs with Mrs. Wilcox.

"Yes. And they lived happily ever after—thanks only to you! But how in the world, Ralph?"

"How did I find out about Mary? Easy. She and Elizabeth are friends, you remember. But even with you good start you surely needed help, old man."

"I surely did!" Max grinned. "Thanks pal. But congratulations are due you, too. All the happiness in the world!"

"Well, I go after mine! Here are the girls now."

A Tip or Two

GARLIC TOUCH

When cooking mutton, or any inexpensive cut of beef or lamb, rub your roasting pan with a little garlic and you will have a much tastier meat.

CHICKEN WAFFLES

Mix minced chicken with unsweetened waffle batter, and serve with maple sugar and you have an unusually fine luncheon dish.

SOFT SHELLS

If you want to boil soft-shelled eggs, put quite a little salt in the water. It tends to prevent their cracking.

FATHERS SHOULD SET AN EXAMPLE

Even If They Don't Like Spinach They Should Encourage Children.

Toronto, Ont., June 22.—If you don't like spinach, never by any chance let your infant son suspect it. Eat it like a man and say nothing, for, in the opinion of Dr. F. S. Park (speaking before the Child Welfare Council), a child of tender years is sensitive to suggestion—and he needs spinach.

The doctor described vividly two types of homes in which a doctor visits. The first, where the children welcome the man with the black bag gaily and frolic with him while he examines their tongues and throats. In the second home a howl goes up the moment the doctor enters the door, and his examination of the children is a fight from start to finish. In the latter type the parents use the doctor as a threat.

W.M.S. MEMBERS OF DISTRICT HEAR ADDRESS ABOUT KOREA

Miss Annette Rose Tells of Work Among Women of That Land.

ASSISTANCE NEEDED.

Report of Branch Meeting in Lindsay Given—Temperance Resolution Passed.

A sectional rally of the Peterborough Presbyterial Woman's Missionary Society was held in Knox United Church yesterday afternoon. Mrs. (Rev.) A. E. Thornley, vice-president of this section presided. Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, president of the Presbyterial, was also on the platform.

The section includes the six city United churches as well as Keene and Stewart Hall. There was a good representative attendance.

The meeting opened with a hymn followed by the Scripture Lesson, read by Mrs. A. Throop and prayer by Mrs. Bookhout.

A splendid report of the Branch meeting held in Lindsay in May, was given by the delegate, Mrs. M. H. Johnston, of Springville. Mrs. Johnston's report left nothing to be desired, bringing to those who were not privileged to attend the Branch all the interesting facts. Prayer, she said, was the dominating note of the convention. From one of the addresses she brought the motto, "We should think deeper, live better and love more."

Mrs. Bookhout brought before the meeting at this juncture, a notice from Mrs. Larke, of Brockville, the newly appointed temperance secretary of the Bay of Quinte branch, with the following resolution to the Dominion Board:

"Realizing that among the barriers to the establishment of Christ's Kingdom in Christian and non-Christian lands is the legalized liquor traffic, and further realizing that as a so-called Christian nation our good example and influence are greatly stultified by the protection through legislation of this traffic by our various Provincial Governments, thereby rendering our land in this respect an undesirable base for missionary operations, resolved that as missionary women, we co-operate in this connection with the Boards of our church and facilitate the work of kindred organizations striving for the elimination of this traffic in Canada, and that the members of the Woman's Missionary Society by urged to use their influence socially and by an intelligent use of the franchise towards this end."

It was moved by Mrs. Porteous and seconded by Mrs. A. I. Brown that the gathering endorse the resolution which was unanimously carried.

Talk On Korea.

Miss Annette Rose of Korea, was the speaker of the afternoon. In opening her address she spoke of the group of women in the homeland, who stood behind and made possible her work in Korea and thanked the women present for their support.

All work must begin with the study of the language, and Miss Rose described the method as being that of listening to sentences repeated from thirty to forty times by a native teacher, followed by imitation by the missionary. As there are one hundred and forty-six letters or characters in the Korean language, this task is extremely difficult, as well as monotonous to both the teacher and pupil. She added that if one had the stick-to-it-iveness and patience to sit day after day in this study it proves that she possesses the virtues required to be a successful missionary. It takes two years to acquire a working knowledge of the language. Miss Rose repeated the Lord's prayer in Korean.

The speaker proceeded to picture the life of the heathen woman in Korea. The baby girl is always a disappointment to the parents, baby boys being much more desired. The advent of a baby girl always elicits sympathy for the parents, while the absence of sons in a family is considered a calamity. Girls at five become nurse maids for their younger brothers and sisters, carrying the babies on their backs. At the age of eight they are taken to the women's quarters, seeing no men but those of her own household. Their lives are spent in household drudgery, cooking, washing, ironing and sewing. The Korean men dress in pure white garments and in order that they may do so the women must work unceasingly to provide a clean suit for each day. These suits, too, are taken apart for each laundering and must everytime be remade.

As early as thirteen years and not later than fifteen a Korean girl is taken from her father's home to the home of her husband whom she has never seen, and who was chosen by her parents. In this home she has no authority, her mother-in-law being mistress. Here her life is sad and lonesome, quite as lonely as would be the life of one of our own little girls in such condition.

Christian Homes Happy.

In contrast the Christian home in Korea is just as happy as one in Canada. Christianity does just the same for the Koreans that it has done for us. In the Christian home the men and women are equal. They live and eat together. They attend church together and enjoy the same social pleasures.

Now the girls are sent to school, while formerly it was thought they were incapable of learning. At first girls came to school with their baby sisters on their back. This Miss Rose called a "double-decker" school. However, now the girls come unhampered by any encumbrance.

At present Miss Rose is the principal of an eight-room school and has eight native teachers with her. In Korea there are all together only twelve hundred girls in the different schools.

These girls are wonderfully apt scholars, especially in drawing and needle work. This compares quite favorably with that of the girls in our own schools.

The Christian Korean women have already formed a Women's Missionary Society. They support their own Bible women and contribute to the foreign missionary work as well. They bring their offerings to the meetings in money, though sometimes when there is no money, they bring little sacks of rice, which they save from the amount they would have used at a meal.

Sacrifice to Give.

These women are as capable of sacrifice as Canadians. When an urgent call came for funds, one woman having no money, gave her greatest treasure, her wedding ring. This is the only jewelry a Korean woman is allowed to wear. "Do we know what it means to give?" Miss Rose asked. She compared the five million dollar allocation asked for missions with the one hundred and thirty-five millions of dollars spent in Canada last year for liquor. She urged that the women of this rally use all their influence to get some of this vast amount of wasted money to carry salvation to the Koreans.

In speaking of the direct needs, she told of a school built to accommodate 150 girls which has an enrollment of 450. The building was condemned long ago but up to the present there is no relief.

Homes are also badly needed for the missionaries. The house in which Miss Rose lives is a simple mud house, the ceiling of which has to be propped, but the request for a house at this place has been cut out of the estimates for this year and they must be occupied until 1930 at least.

There is also a great need for more workers. The United Church of Canada is responsible for two million heathen Koreans, and has only fifty workers in the field.

With all the discouragements she has met there, Miss Rose said she would not exchange her work in Korea for any position that could be offered in Canada. There is a joy in being the instrument in winning a soul from darkness to light that no other work could give. She closed her splendid address with a plea that the Christian women in Canada would continue to stand behind the missionaries and support them with their prayers, their money and by sending more workers.

Miss Alma Blanchard rendered very sweetly the solo "Sun of My Soul," ably accompanied by Miss Clarry.

Mrs. K. Denoon presided at the organ for the other music throughout the session.

Very encouraging and helpful were the reports given from the various Auxiliaries, Y.W.A.'s, Circles and Bands in the section, which were represented as follows:

George Street United Church, Mrs. E. Coon, Mrs. J. E. Todd, and Mrs. A. I. Brown. St. James', Mrs. Plunkett and Miss Mabel Dulmage. Knox, Mrs. Gerrard, Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. L. LeClair, and Mrs. Howard Clegg. St. Andrew's, Mrs. A. Porteous.

Trinity, Mrs. A. Barton and Mrs. Bookhout.

Mark Street, Mrs. Graham, Mrs Hunter and Mrs. Thornley.

Stewart's Hall sent a report which was read by Mrs. Thornley.

Mrs. Bookhout closed with prayer this most profitable rally of missionary workers.

Farmer Drives Two Implements At Once

William Hanbidge, R.R. No. 3, whose farm is on the Highway, believes in making every minute count. On Wednesday, he started to cultivate and roll a twelve-acre field, and he is doing both operations at the same time, by driving three horses on a cultivator and leading two horses behind him, hitched to a roller.

Mr. Hanbidge is without hired help, and he is making his ingenuity save him double toil. An idea of the difficulty of his task may be gleaned from the fact that one of the horses he leads is a frisky beast that makes a specialty of running away when the opportunity offers itself.

PROHIBITION QUESTION DISTURBS DEMOCRATS BEFORE CONVENTION

Endless Round of Discussion Caused By Series of Developments.

MACK STARTS IT.

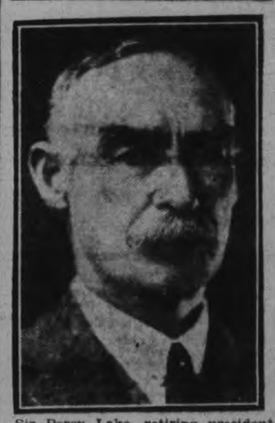
Smith's Chief Supporter Makes Statement Which Opens Rift.

HOUSTON, Tex., June 22 (Canadian Press)—The prohibition question has been thrown squarely into the Democratic National Convention here, even before the opening of the headquarters of Alfred E. Smith. It has provoked an endless round of discussion as to the effect it may have upon the convention's deliberations and the New York governor's candidacy itself.

Although all along it has been a smouldering issue, a series of developments both here and in New York State has served to centre attention on the question at a time when Smith men particularly were hoping to avoid any open rift on the subject.

It was one of Smith's foremost supporters, Norman E. Mack, National committeeman from New York, who inadvertently opened up the new prohibition discussion. He issued a statement yesterday in which he declared that Governor Smith was opposed to prohibition and stood for temperance.

The Governor himself got into a controversy when he declared in New York in response to a question that his belief that there should be amendment of the present prohibition provisions had not changed.



Sir Percy Lake, retiring president of the Canadian Legion, holding its second annual national convention at St. John, N. B., this week, delegates being assembled from every Province. Sir Arthur Currie, principal of McGill University and victor in the so-called "Third Battle of Mons," waged recently in the celebrated Cobourg libel case, is his successor.

FESTIVAL TE DEUM TO BE PRESENTED

George Street Choir Will Sing Composition of Sir Arthur Sullivan.

At George Street United Church at the evening service on Sunday next, June 24th, the choir, under the direction of G. F. Liddle, organist and choirmaster, will present a Festival Te Deum which promises to be a very interesting musical offering.

This Te Deum, a composition of Sir Arthur Sullivan, was composed for a special service of thanksgiving held in England on May 1st, 1872, in celebration of the recovery from a serious illness of the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII., and was dedicated to Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

It opens with a chorus entitled, "We Praise Thee, O Lord," followed by a solo and chorus, "To Thee, Cherubin," a chorus, "The Glorious Company of the Apostles," and soprano solo, "When Thou Tookest Upon Thee." Then comes a chorus, "We Believe That Thou Shalt Come" and "We Therefore Pray Thee," ending with a contralto solo and chorus, "O Lord, Save Thy People," caught up in turn by the different sections of the choir. A military band effect in the organ accompaniment enlivens the latter portions of the concluding chorus, to the melody of "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

Soloists for the Te Deum will be Miss Daisy Murray, soprano, and Mrs. G. F. Liddle, contralto.

MORTGAGE BONDS ONLY PUBLIC OFFER

Dominion Woollens and Worsteds To Put $2,250,000 Issue On Market.

The only public financing of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd., with which Canadian Woollens and its subsidiary Otonabee Mills, are now incorporated, will be an issue of 6 per cent. 20-year first mortgage bonds, amounting to $2,250,000.

The bond issue will be offered by W. A. MacKenzie & Co., Limited, and associates within the next day or two, and it is understood the price will be $100 and accrued interest. The balance sheet of Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Limited, indicates a very strong position. Properties and plant are carried at their depreciated value; goodwill is carried at $1. The net current assets of the company amount to $1,755,084, or 80 per cent. of the bond issue.

The depreciated net assets of the company aggregate $6,054,475, and the bond issue represents only 40 per cent. of the value of such assets. In 1927 the net earnings of the constituent companies available for depreciation, government taxes and interest on bonds amounted to $468,632, or three and a half times the amount required to meet the interest on the present issue. During the earlier part of the present week, W. A. MacKenzie & Co., Ltd., have been making preliminary offerings of the bonds and it is understood that several of the leading insurance and financial institutions have purchased substantial blocks.

According to W. A. MacKenzie & Co., the bond issue will be secured by a first mortgage on the real property of R. Forbes Company, Ltd., of Hespeler, and its subsidiary Orillia Worsted Company, on the Canadian Woollens and Otonabee Mills, Peterborough and on all the shares of Milton Spinners Ltd., and by a floating charge on all the other assets of the company.

It is stated that the major portion of the issue has been disposed of.

RANGERS READY FOR INSPECTION

Regiment Goes Through Ceremonial Drill in Preparation For Visit of D. O. C.

WELL TRAINED.

The ceremonial to be followed on Saturday, when Col. Commandant W. B. Anderson, District Officer Commanding, inspects the Peterborough Rangers, was carefully rehearsed last night by the regiment, and the precision with which the men went through the general salute and march past was most pleasing to Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D., and his officers.

After the ceremonial part had gone through the men were given squad drill and rifle drill under various officers in preparation for that part of to-morrow's inspection.

The importance of a full turnout for to-morrow night's parade, which is called for 7.45, was stressed by Col. Hall when he addressed the men before dismissal. The notice has been short and the night is not the most convenient, but the men have worked hard and there should be a showing most pleasing to the District Commander and his staff. Drills will be discontinued after to-morrow until shortly before the regiment goes to camp.

THINK BANDITS STILL IN CITY

Toronto Police Have No Clues, However—Well Known Robber Leader.

TOTAL LOSS UP.

TORONTO, June 22 (Canadian Press).—Apart from the fact that the local police believe the six bandits who perpetrated the sensational mail car robbery at the Union station early Wednesday morning are in hiding in Toronto, over sixty hours of intense man-hunting has yielded no developments in the chase of the gunmen. It is stated that the police feel certain that they are definitely on the trail of the robbers.

The leader of the gang is believed to be a well-known hold-up artist and one of the shrewdest and most desperate criminals on the continent, who is charged with nearly a dozen similar crimes, including the recent hold-up of The Detroit News. Local police are informed that this man was seen in Toronto the night before the robbery.

A further check-up on the amount of money taken shows that the loss was greater than at first believed. It is now thought that the estimate of $125,000 made yesterday is too low. One bank is known to have lost a parcel containing $78,000. In the bandit car non-negotiable securities to the value of $120,000 were found.

CARS DAMAGED IN TRIPLE CRASH

Stolen Vehicle Comes Off Worst in Accident on Chemong Road.

TWO PARKED.

A car belonging to L. C. Dunstan, local postman, was damaged badly in a triple crash on the Chemong road, Thursday night. Mr. Dunstan left his car at his home and when he went to get it later in the evening he found it had been stolen. The car was traced to the Chemong road, where it had broken down. Another driver stopped to lend the person who stole the car assistance, not knowing it was a stolen car.

He parked his car immediately behind the stalled auto and a few minutes later three youths in a coupe crashed into the first standing car and the impact drove it into Mr. Dunstan's car, which was badly damaged. All three cars suffered some damage in the crash.

33,000 MILITIA MEN TO TRAIN

Camp Season For Non-Permanent Units Has Opened.

MANY CAMPS USED.

OTTAWA, June 22.—Canadian militia regiments are commencing their annual training this week with some 33,000 troops under canvas or receiving instruction at their armouries. This is about the same number as last year, while the period of training will cover twelve days instead of ten, as formerly. That Canada is not a warlike nation is indicated by the fact that only 3400 of the men in uniform are enrolled in the permanent force, and these are used chiefly for instructional purposes. Thus it can truly be said that Canada has neither a large navy nor a large army.

Major General Thacker, Chief of the General Staff, will inspect the camps of Eastern Canada, while Col. T. Victor Anderson, Director of Military Training, will perform similar duties in Western Canada. General Thacker will be at Niagara Camp on June 27 and 28, at Barriefield on June 25 and 26, and at London on July 10 and 11.

Cavalry at Niagara.

The cavalry regiments of Toronto and district took possession of Niagara Camp this week and will be there until June 29. These include the Governor-General's Bodyguard, the Second Dragoons, the Mississauga Horse and the Tenth Brant Dragoons. The Third Field Brigade of Canadian Artillery, including the Ninth, Fifteenth, Thirtieth and Fifty third Field Batteries, is at Petawawa this week and the Eighth Field Brigade, from the Hamilton and St. Catharines district will be at Petawawa from July 26 to Aug. 2. The Fifth Infantry Brigade, including Lincoln, Haldimand and Norfolk Regiments, is now at Niagara while the Fourth Brigade, embracing the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry, the Dufferin Rifles, the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders (Prince Louise's) of Hamilton, and the Wentworth Regiment, will train throughout the year at its Hamilton headquarters with the exception that the Wetnworth Regiment will be at Niagara from June 27 to 29.

None of the Toronto regiments will cross the lake but will receive training at home. The Twenty-second Infantry Brigade, including the Grey Regiment, the Simcoe Foresters, the Northern Pioneers and the Algonquin Rifles, will be under canvas at Collingwood from July 3 to 14.

The York Rangers, the Peel and Dufferin Regiment, and the Ontario Regiment will be at Niagara in August, while the Canadian Machine Gun Corps, the Army Service Corps, and Field Ambulances will also train there.

At Barriefield.

To Barriefield Camp, Kingston, this week, went the Second Mounted Brigade, including the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards from Ottawa, the Third Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons from Peterborough, and the Fourth Hussars from Kingston. Petawawa will hear the boom of the big guns, as most of the artillery units of the Toronto and Kingston districts will train there during the summer.

Barriefield also will be the training ground of the Third Divisional Engineers, the Signallers and the Seventh Eighth and Ninth Infantry Brigades, including such well-known regiments as the Princess of Wales Own Regiment ,the Argyll Light Infantry from Belleville; the Hastings and Prince Edward, the Frontenac, the Lanark and Renfrew Scottish, the Brockville Rifles, the Grenville Regiment, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, the Ottawa Highlanders, le Regiment de Hull, the Northumberland, Victoria and Haliburton and the Durham Regiments, the Peterborough Rangers and the Governor-General's Foot Guards of Ottawa.

In Western Ontario

The First Hussars from London and Leamington will be at Port Stanley from July 3 to 14, while the Bruce Regiment is training at Tara this week. The London camp will be in full swing during the first part of July with the following regiments under canvas: The Middlesex Light Infantry, the Perth Regiment, the Huron Regiment, the Highland Light Infantry from Galt and Preston, the Wellington Rifles, the Kent Regiment and others.

Mrs. Edwards, who saw the performance in Toronto, thought it was a very fine picture, and said that the anti-German spirit was not stressed at all.

Adult Education

Mrs. Edwards also reported on a second address which she thought of much interest, given to the convention on the subject of Adult Education, by Dr. Soulandt, professor at the University of Toronto.

After the war, it was brought strongly to the attention of the people of England that the growth and encouragement of the spirit of Communism and Sovietism flourished mainly among people who were uneducated and unthoughful and they formed a sort of education institute for the continued reading of the classics in literature, aiming chiefly to interest the residents of rural districts, on the assumption that a happy and contented rural community makes for the benefit of the country as a whole. In 1920, they found that 95 per cent of the population was taking an active interest in such reading, as compared with a former 57 per cent.

They also formed wagon libraries, and opened their regular libraries to lecturers along cultural lines.

The Danish nation has formed an ideal organization along these lines, and it is suggested that Canada copy its methods.

A suggestion made at the convention and passed along by Mrs. Edwards for possible local use was a list, to be made by readers at the Public Library, of books that interested them, this list to be displayed prominently in the building for the benefit of others.

Foundation Fund.

Mrs. Edwards spoke of the projected Foundation Fund of the National Council, which it is hoped will do away altogether with the present system of allocation of expenses to each Local Council. The annual upkeep of the National Council is charged to the various local units, who contribute to the general expense account. The new idea is to raise a fund of $200,000, the interest of which will be sufficient to pay running expenses. At the National Convention, the scheme was broached. An organizer engaged for the campaign suggested that each Local Council member pay $1, but this was not definitely decided upon. During the Fall months, the method will be outlined more fully.

2,000 Singers Meet At Toronto Station

TORONTO, Ont., June 21. — (Special.) — Two thousand members of the Canadian National Exhibition choir, thronged the North Toronto station of the C.P.R. this morning to bid 'bon voyage' to their leader, Dr. S. A. Fricker, who is sailing to-day from Montreal for a short holiday in the old country and Europe. It took eleven street cars, and one hundred automobiles to convey the choir party to the depot and half an hour before the train pulled out at 9.30 the approaches to the station were thronged. Drawn up on the platform the two thousand choir members sang with great effect, as the train carrying Dr. Fricker started on its eastern journey.

ORPHAN TELLS TALE OF TORTURE

Child of Six Lies in New Jersey Hospital Badly Beaten.

HAIR PULLED OUT.

CAMDEN, N.J., June 22.—Elizabeth Hinkle, a six-year-old orphan, tossed on a cot in the Camden County Hospital at Lakeland yesterday, and told a tale of torture almost beyond the pale of human comprehension. Both of her eyes were blackened from blows, patches of scalp showed through where her hair had been pulled out, the bridge of her nose broken, the palms of her hands burned, blue marks of choking on her throat, her wrists lacerated and her legs from thigh to heel, masses of welts, lacerations and bruises.

As she talked the Camden County grand jury plunged into an investigation of the case, Mayor Winfield Price of Camden and William Heiser, member of the County Board of Freeholders, expressed active interest, and Allen Robertson, 49, and his wife, Della, of 5 Lawrence Street, who are charged with the cruelty, both entered denials.

In April, 1927, Mrs. Eliz. Hinkle died in the Cooper Hospital here, and left her orphaned girl in the case of an aunt, Mrs. Helen Higgins, of 1111 Third Street.

With an invalid father, several children of her own, and a none too stable or satisfying income, Mrs. Higgins felt that her household was already too troubled for this added responsibility, and so she turned Elizabeth over to the Robertsons, believing, she told Assistant-Prosecutor Joseph Varbalow, they would take good care of the child.

About a month ago Mrs. Higgins paid the child a visit and found her the victim of mistreatment. But, she told Prosecutor Varbalow, she was threatened by the Robertsons with dire punishment if she told, and being frightened, she said nothing.

In some manner not explained by him, the case came to the attention of Freeholder Heiser on May 26. He ordered the child to the hospital at Lakeland, but also failed to complain. On Tuesday, at the instance of Mr. Heiser, Mrs. Higgins finally agreed to sponsor the complaint, and on it the Robertsons were arraigned in Police Court on Wednesday, on a charge of wilful neglect.

Both pleaded not guilty. Robertson was held in bail of $500 he furnished, and Mrs. Robertson was released on her own recognizance.

Mr. Heiser, however, was not satisfied. He took the case to Mr. Varbalow and Mayor Price. Mrs. Higgins was called, and told her story. A visit was made to the hospital, and there Elizabeth told her's.

Ruth Loses First Home Run in Baseball Career

RAIN HALTS SECOND GAME

Yankees Whitewash Athletics 4-0 in Opener, Philadelphia Leading in Second.

RED SOX WIN 9-2

NEW YORK, June 22.—(Canadian Press). — The Yankees whitewashed the Athletics, 4 to 0, here yesterday in what was to have been the first game of a double-header, but rain washed out the second clash with the visitors leading, 3 to 2, in the third. The Athletics had one run in and men on second and third with one out when time was called.

For the first time in his major league career of fifteen seasons, Babe Ruth lost a home run in a game halted by rain. He hit his twenty-sixth in the first inning of the nightcap with Combs on base, and took a lead of sixteen games, twelve days and four home runs over his 1927 record, only to see it vanish.

The completed game was featured by the sensational pitching of young Henry Johnson, who gave the Athletics their second shutout of the season. He yielded nine hits, but they were scattered through eight different innings. Bob Grove pitched well, but the Yanks made use of six of their seven hits.

Rube Walberg opposed Waite Hoyt in the second encounter, and neither was effective.

Boston and Washington.

The Boston Red Sox yesterday pounded two Washington pitchers for eleven hits and won 9 to 2 at Washington.

The Red Sox bunched their attack in the second and fourth innings, respectively, scoring four and three runs. Berry and Myer took the Boston hitting honors with three hits apiece.

Chicago and Cleveland.

Revenging themselves for the relief pitching of Willie Hudlin, which sent them to defeat in the first game, Chicago came from behind and with a three-run ninth inning attack clinched the second game of a double-header at Cleveland yesterday. The Sox were nosed out in the first, 4 to 2, but won the second, 4 to 3.

In the first game, Hudlin stepped in when Walter Miller was driven from the box in the fifth and proceeded to hold the Sox hitless for 4 2-3 innings. Joe Shaute allowed only four hits for eight innings of the game, but they pounded him heavily in the last inning, Cissel driving in the deciding runs.

The play was especially marked with many costly errors on the part of the visitors, while the local boys did some heavy slugging.

The teams lined up as follows:

HOLDS CUBS TO THREE HITS

St. Louis Cardinals Split Double-Header With Chicago.

GIANTS WIN ONE

NEW YORK, June 22.—(Canadian Press).—Sylvester Johnson held the Cubs to three hits in the second game of yesterday's double-header at Chicago and the St. Louis Cardinals won four to one to divide the contests.

The Cubs had taken the first game 2 to 1 after Sheriff Blake had let the Cardinals down with two hits. Bottomley led the St. Louis attack in the second game with a double and a triple. It was Charlie Root's fifth consecutive defeat.

The second game was held up in the ninth when Hack Wilson, Cubs' centre fielder, and a fan sought to settle an argument. A crowd of five thousand swarmed on the field before the police and players succeeded in parting the player and fan.

Braves and Giants.

After Fred. Fitzsimmons held the Braves to 6 hits and won the first game for the Giants, 9 to 2, at Boston yesterday, Arthur Delaney pitched the home entry to an even break by holding the Clan McGraw to 5 safeties in the nightcap to win, 3 to 1.

Johnny Cooney, making his first start in two years, was knocked out in the first inning of the opener by Bill Terry's seventh home run with two on bases.

Rogers Hornsby's two doubles in the second game each drove in a run and helped tumble Larry Benton, who had won seven straight and a total of eleven. Benton extended his complete game record to fourteen and his winnings without relief to 127. It was his third defeat.

The games were played in a chilly east wind, yet only one error was made.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

Critz's sacrifice fly in the ninth inning of yesterday's game at Pittsburgh allowed Pittinger to score, breaking a four-to-four deadlock and giving Cincinnati a 5 to 4 victory. Jablonowski doubled, followed Pittinger's single to advance, what proved the winning run.

TORONTO HORSE BEATS FAVORITE

Defeats Alan's Bay to Win Jacques Cartier Purse.

MONTREAL, Que., June 22. — (Canadian Press.)— Coming with a rush in the last eighth, Polls, owned by H. G. Hatch, of Toronto, Ont., overtook the heavily played Alan's Bay and won the Jacques Cartier purse, main event of the Montreal Jockey Club's program at Blue Bonnets yesterday. Five horses contested the issue over a distance of one mile and the winner was second choice in the wagering. A two dollar ticket on Polls returned a dividend of $7.80.

Alan's Bay took the lead right from the start and held its advantage until the eighth pole, when Jockey McIver, on Polls, put his mount to punishment and passed the tiring favorite, who finished second. Terrible Prince came with a rush to get third portion of the purse.

Successor scored his third successive win of the meeting when he captured the third race, which was fashioned for Canadian Prince over a distance of one mile. The winner jumped itno a good lead from the break and finished galloping. Succesosr returned $4.50 for the usual two dollar investment.

NORTH-ENDERS WIN 17-1 TILT

Play Tight Ball to Swamp Knight of Columbus Team.

FOUR CIRCUIT CLOUTS

In a game that was more burlesque on the part of the Knights of Columbus than softball, the Harrison North-Enders won by the score of 17 to 1. Clancy, for the Knights, saved the day by scoring a lone run and that run turned out to be a homer. The Harrison men played real ball and it is hard to pick the outstanding men on the team; the most noticeable was probably Smith on first base, who looked very nice on several plays, as well as scoring two home runs. The Northerners made three circuit clouts to K. of C.'s 1, while Baird and Ecobichon made a double and a triple. The Knights were held scoreless until the sixth, when the home run saved the day for them when they got their lone counter. In the whole game there were never more than four men to bat for K. of C., Ecobichon cutting many men off on foul tips and Smith, at first, stopping the rest with a world of support from his team. For the K. of C. there was only one man made third base beside the lone runner. Dundas, Harrison's pitcher, had a world of speed and should be mentioned among the best players; he made five strike-outs for his team, which equals that of Routley of the C.G.E. made in the last game this week. When the C.G.E. and the Harrison North-Enders meet there should be a real battle, as both teams play nice ball and a game fairly free from errors.

The game only went eight innings and in the last frame took the form of a burlesque, when Sheehy tried to steal a second chance at the bat and Legros wanted to finish his cigarette and let Murphy bat for him. LeBarr on the mound for K. of C., was replaced by Murphy in the fifth, but returned again in the seventh to strike out two men. Dundas played the whole game from the hurler's ditch for Harrison.

The line-ups:

K. of C.—Clancy, 1b; Archambault, c; Kearns, 2b; LeBarr, p; Lynch, 3b; Sheehy, ss; Turley, cf; Legros, lf; Murphy, rf.

Harrison's—Dundas, p; Dorrington, 2b; Smith, 1b; Ecobichon, c; Maudsley, rf; Montgomery, cf; E. Vinette, lf; A. Baird, 3b; H. Vinette, ss.

Score by innings:

K. of C. ..... 00000100— 1
Harrison's ..... 2303135x—17

W. Ranger was behind the plate, with C. Haskill at the bases.

Home Runs—Smith, 2; Montgomery 1. Clancy, 1.

LEGION RECEIVES FIVE NEW MEMBERS

Campbellford Branch Active in Relief Work—Deficit On Banquet.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, June 22.—Vice-President George Free occupied the chair at the regular meeting of the local branch of the Canadian Legion in the Armouries last night. Major J. M. Bygott, president, is absent in Cobourg attending the June session of the Counties Council. The business to be transacted was disposed of in a most efficient manner and in less than an hour the official meeting was closed.

There were five new applications proposed, and after the members had heard the details, all were accepted. The secretary was instructed to express the appreciation of the branch to Comrades Redden and Dutton for the pictures which they had donated to the club rooms. There were only four letters to be read and these were received and filed.

Under the heading, reports of committees, the social committee reported a deficit of $48.25 as a result of the Legion birthday dinner. The report was accepted and the secretary instructed to pay the caterers.

Permission was given to the sports committee to purchase a new softball to replace the one lost at the last game. It was pointed out that the Legionaires had yet to break into the list of winners, but hopes were still held out that something better was in store.

Relief work was discussed at some length and fifty-five dollars was voted to assist in one case. The same case will be further investigated by the relief committee and reported on at the next meeting. It was indicated last night that further assistance would be forthcoming at that time, but the meeting did not favor a larger expenditure at the present time.

Great Britain And States Break Even

LONDON, June 22. — (Canadian Press).—In the international team tennis matches at Eastbourne yesterday Great Britain and the United States broke even. John Hennessey put the American team in the lead by winning the first encounter from N. Sharpe, 6-3, 6-1, 5-7, 6-1, but England evened when H. W. Austin, captain of the Cambridge University team, took a fierce four set match from George Lott, of Chicago.

Lott started off by winning the opening set and fought hard through the other three, carrying them to deuce before yielding to the British star. The scores were: 4-6, 7-5, 7-5, 7-5.

In the London championships at Queen's Club, Bill Tilden, Frank Hunter and Junior Coen, representing the United States Davis Cup team, continued to make their way towards the finals. Tilden defeated the Australian Davis Cup player, J. C. Crawford, in straight set, 6-4, 6-0.

SPEND DOMINION DAY AT PORT HOPE

Always the Biggest Day in the District—Sports and Amusements For Everyone.

The citizens of Port Hope are again celebrating Dominion Day on July 2nd this year.

The program shows a great deal of thought and all classes of the community have been considered.

There will be three classes of horse races, pace or trot, 2.13, 2.18 and 2.28, which will draw the best horses from this district.

The Pat's A.C. and Lakesides of Toronto, two of Canada's fastest softball ladies' teams, will be a drawing card in the line of sport, while Bowmanville and Port Hope, in a league fixture, will be the hardball feature.

Evans and Irwin, said to be the outstanding stunt aerpolane artists of the continent, will provide many th ls in a speedy aeroplane. Irwin walks the wings, and hangs suspended by his teeth and has other death defying stunts well worth going a long distance to see. The vaudeville platform will be on the go with the highest class vaudeville in years.

Daylight fireworks will add to the afternoon, while two bands will provide the music and in the evening, the afternoon show will be repeated, the whole concluding with the best display of fireworks ever shown at the park.

The natural grand stand provides an excellent and safe place to entertain the family, parking arrangements are good, and the committee in charge should be congratulated on the excellent program offered. Take your family and spend the day with them.

Mine Market Active With Many Issues Up

TORONTO, Ont., June 22 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange was more active to-day, although no unusual activity was displayed. The higher priced issues were stronger and trading was brisk. Pend Oreille made another nice gain of 40 to 13.00, and Noranda continued to show strength with a gain of eighty at 36.80. Teck Hughes was up five points at 10.55. Marriott failed to hold the gains made yesterday, droping 2½ points to 15½. Amulet was down at 3.65, losing 15. Hollinger, with very few sales, was firm at 14.00. Sherritt Gordon was weak at the opening, but strengthened later in the morning, closing at $5.90. Hudson Bay was down five at 16.65. Central Manitoba was weak at 1.24.

Trading In Toronto Still Light But Firm

TORONTO, June 22 (Canadian Press).—Trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning was no livelier than yesterday, although the general trend of prices seemed to be either holding firm or moving upward. Trading was fairly active in the industrials as compared with yesterday, but the number of transactions was much smaller than is ordinarily seen on the Exchange.

Hayes Wheels showed a little more strength to-day, holding firm at 294. Trading was considerably heavier in Brazilian, which held yesterday's closing price of 53¾. International Nickel slipped down a point again to-day to 90¾. The oils were firmer to-day, Imperial recording a gain of ½ at 65 while British American and Canadian Oils were firm at 36½ and 50 respectively.

Gains At Liverpool Cause Rise In Wheat

CHICAGO, June 22 (Canadian Press).—Unexpected brisk upturns in Liverpool quotations helped give a lift early to-day to wheat values here. Harvest weather conditions in Kansas and Oklahoma were of an unfavorable character. Various places reporting rain, winds, and hail. Opening ½ to 1¾ cent up, Chicago wheat later held near to the initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were also firmer, with corn starting at ⅛ to ⅞ cent advance and subsequently gaining a little more.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, July 138⅝, September 140¾. Corn, July 98½, September 95¾. Oats, July 53½, September 45¾.

Dull Trading To-day In New York Market

NEW YORK, June 22 (Canadian Press).—Desultory trading characterized to-day's stock market, one of the dullest full sessions of the year. Prices started forward at the opening, slipped back before mid-day, and then started upward again in the early afternoon, repeating the performance of the last few days. Except for a decrease in Federal Reserve brokers' loans, which was somewhat smaller than generally expected, there was practically nothing in the overnight news to influence the price movement.

Radio was again an erratic performer, climbing nearly five points to 174⅜, dipping to 171½, and then rebounding to 176¼, or nearly twenty-five points above the week's low. A jump of 5½ points in Pierce Arrow Preferred was based on reports that negotiations are nearing completion for the merger of that company with Studebaker.

Willys Overland Common fell back more than two points on the traditional "selling on good news" following a dividend announcement. General Motors also encountered selling resistance, despite unofficial predictions of a substantial dividend distribution at the August meeting.

Concurrent strength of Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and Western Maryland, which advanced five and three points respectively, was based on the recent decision of the Inter-States Commerce Commission granting the former permission to build a new line to connect with the latter near connellsville, Penn. Pittsburgh Coal and Pittsburgh Terminal Coal also recorded substantial gains.

LAWN BOWLING

Some exciting games were played last night with close results. In the game between Martin and Seymour, an extra end had to be played, Seymour winning by one point.

The usual Friday night tournament will be held this evening at 7.30. The greens are in better condition than ever and with good weather promised, an unusually large turnout is expected to-night. Be on hand at 7.30 sharp for the draw.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE LOVE MART"

Two interesting actors have a place in the dramatization of "The Love Mart," the feature picture at the Capitol Theatre for the last three days of this week. They are Gilbert Roland, a youthful actor with a resemblance to John Gilbert, and Billie Dove, a beautiful, doll-like lady who gives the proper romantic touch to a romantic picture.

The story centres about the taint of the "tar brush," the suspicion of black blood which casts its shadow over the heroine, the proud, haughty belle of New Orleans, Antoinette Frobelle, daughter of a wealthy citizen. When Captain Remy (Noah Beery) returns to New Orleans, after many years' absence during which he has been thought to be dead, he demands an accounting of his goods from his old overseer, Frobelle, and also asserts that Antoinette is an octoroon and the slave child he left many years back, as a baby of four years of age.

Antoinette, who has been the acknowledged belle of New Orleans, is then sold on the public slave market and is purchased, after much hectic bidding, by the young barber of the place, Gilbert Roland, whose aristocratic bearing has at one time attracted the notice of Antoinette. She has snubbed him in public, however, but he proves to be her friend in adversity and, after purchasing her, gives her the freedom she craves.

A little touch of modernism is injected into the finale by the rather unromantic way in which Victor Jallot, the hero, wrings a truthful confession from the fat Captain Remy, but the production has a romantic and very satisfactory conclusion. It is interesting and likeable, with an atmosphere of old-time action and a very fine cast.

The introductory short reels show some entertaining close-ups of stars of the screen, with several episodes in the wedding ceremnony of Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky, and the comedy is a hilarious affair entitled "Smith's Modiste Shop."—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT.

"THE DEVIL'S SADDLE" SCORES BIG HIT AT REGENT.

Excellent treatment of an unusually good type of story makes "The Devil's Saddle," the feature picture which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre, one of the outstanding western screen dramas to adorn a local screen for a long time.

The Charles R. Rogers Company, producers of the outdoor drama, which brings Ken Maynard back with a new bag of dare-devil riding tricks, are to be complimented on its judgment in making a western drama. Directors have escaped the temptation of using the crude devices which so many westerns have shown lately.

"The Devil's Saddle" is an exceptionally suitable story to exploit the handsome Maynard. It concerns the pioneer days of the west, but doesn't involve the conventional happenings of a hero and girl which has been told and retold in pictures of the early settlers' days.

"The Devil's Saddle" has the picturesque region of the early Hopi Indian and the scenic beauty of Rock Canyon for its principal locales. The action, which starts where the average "western" leaves off, develops when white settlers invade the settlement of the Hopis. Maynard, as the daventuresome cowboy, is led through a hectic pace trying to thwart a band of land-grabbers, and is afforded more than the normal opportunities to thrill the audience by his riding and fighting.

Supporting Maynard are Kathleen Collins, who is keeping apace the cowboy in popularity, Francis Ford, Earl Metcalfe, Paul Hurst, Will Walling and Tom Bay.

BIG PROGRAM FOR C.G.E. PICNIC

Open Events as Well as Many Contests For the Employees.

The second annual picnic of the Canadian General Electric Company's Social and Athletic Club at Orillia to-morrow promises to be a huge success. A great programme of sports has been arranged, which in addition to many contests open only to the employees, includes several events. Among the latter is a two mile relay race with teams representing the C.G.E. and Peterborough Y.M.C.A., and the Orillia Y.M.C.A., and open quarter miles and 100 yards events. The prizes will all be electrical articles manufactured by the C.G.E. In the race for children five and under, there will be prizes for all the entrants.

The following is the score for last night's games:

BELLEVILLE IN LEAD, TO PLAY HERE TOMORROW

Will Send Hoot Gibson Against Petes in Week-end Battle.

UP TO HOMSTERS.

Can Get Back in Favor if They Get Out There and Hustle.

Belleville sweeping along triumphantly at the head of the Central Ontario League race, will be here to-morrow for a battle with the Petes and the latter hope to be down to earth and in shape to give the cocky Railroaders a trimming.

The Belleville crew have been beaten only twice this season, the Petes doing the trick once, while the other game was dropped to the Ponies when the Railroaders gambled on a third string pitcher to save Gibson for the Petes.

Incidentally the same Gibson will likely be sent in against the local crew here to-morrow, Belleville hoping to increase their lead by grabbing off this fixture.

The Petes can take the invaders if they go to work properly.

If they do they'll be right back in the race and in possession of some of the favor they lost by their sorry exhibition last week.

It is up to themselves.

SAFETY BROADCAST ON SATURDAY NIGHT

J. E. Corcoran, of Toronto, Will Talk on Accident Prevention For Children.

(From the Ontario Highway Safety Committee).

TORONTO, June 22.—This week's radio broadcast from the Ontario Highway Safety Committee will be from Station CFRB on Saturday night at 8 p.m. Daylight Saving Time. The speaker is J. E. Corcoran, chairman of the Toronto Board of Education, and he will address himself to the subject of accident prevention in regard to children.

Stomach Troubles Are Due To Acidity

Tells of Pleasant Home Treatment to Bring Swift Relief.

So-called Stomach Troubles—indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, sourness, etc., are, in probably nine cases out of ten, evidence of "too much acid in the stomach" souring the food, causing the formation of gas and starting acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes a full, oppressive burning feeling known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining. Get rid of Gas and Acidity, and you get rid of Indigestion.

To stop or prevent the sourness and gas, to neutralize the stomach acids and keep the stomach sweet and free from Indigestion, a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia should be taken in a little water after eating or whenever gas, sourness, pain or acidity is felt. This quickly sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acidity, stops the pain, and is harmless and inexpensive to use.

Bisurated Magnesia, powder or tablets only, can be obtained from any drug store and its daily use keeps the stomach in fine condition, enabling it to do its work without the aid of artificial digestants.

Sliding stairs that pull out of ceilings have been invented to conserve space in homes.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE FORGIVE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author of The Springs of Human Action.)

"To err is human; to forgive, divine." Yet we do find forgiveness among the human traits. It is rather common. The usual thing is to overlook an offense. It is an unusual person who holds a grudge any length of time.

Sometimes we forgive for our own good. Holding a grudge is a very unpleasant state of mind. Most people would rather avoid it. Even milder forms of ill will the person has a disturbed attitude and is ready to forgive primarily to rid himself of an unhappy condition.

We forgive primarily because we forget. Fortunately the unpleasant experiences of life are easily forgotten. We instinctively put away from us everything that is distasteful. The normal healthy person prefer to think of pleasant things. The result is that the unpleasant experiences have a tendency to drop out.

A few years ago we could not say anything mean enough of the Germans, who happened to be our enemies in late war. The German language was stricken from the high schools and everything German was barred, including classical music by German composers of international reputation. We have forgotten most of this hatred and are ready to forgive. The brave German airmen who shared honors with an Irishman as being the first to fly across the Atlantic from the east received tremendous ovations from the throats of the American populace who only a few years ago shouted hate.

Most offenses come by way of emotional upheaval and an emotion is the most fickle of our mental traits. The bitterness of the emotion drains off in time, the tension is released, changing the attitude from anger to one that is favorable to forgiveness.

We are herding animals. We prefer the good will and friendship of our fellows rather than their displeasure and enmity.

EXPERIENCE

By Meh a K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

Experience is the best teacher because she exacts the biggest price. We usually think more of an article if we pay dearly for it.

Experience is also more direct and intimate as well as more costly. It comes home to us and grips us. We are more likely to remember the lessons of experience because they are impressed upon us in a vivid way. It is well to tell a child that fire burns, but it is the burnt child who fears fire. The same holds for every experience.

Learning through experience is more effective because it usually involves some feeling and emotion and what we learn under the stimulus of an emotion is more likely to stick. It takes a long time to get over an embarrassment because it was burned in on us by humiliation which is distinctly emotional.

Experience is the best teacher because she really makes us study. The first law of pedagogy is that there is no learning without mental activity on the part of the pupil. Ordinary teachers usually fail to arouse the mind to self activity, whereas experience has a way of keeping us awake and interested.

The lessons we learn through experience are extremely practical. They are as practical as bread and taxes.

The one great disadvantage of relying wholly on experience as a teacher is that many of the lessons learnt will do us no good. In the old days of public executions while they were preparing to hang a man, a bystander remarked, "This will teach him a lesson."

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LITTLE BIRD

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

"Those were fine stories, Uncle Wiggily. I liked them a lot!" barked Jackie Bow Wow as he began to chase his tail.

"So did I. Thank you!" whined Brother Peetie, who began to scratch his left ear with his paw. "I liked the one best about Old King Cole."

"That was good," Peetie said, "but I liked best the one about Jack and Jill."

"You are two clever little puppies!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily, as he looked at three puzzle pictures he had drawn in the sand. The old rabbit gentleman had taken Jackie and Peetie adventuring with him. They had teased him for stories and he said he would tell three if they guessed the names of them from the pictures he drew.

"Come and see this little bird."

So Uncle Wiggily drew a picture of a goose lady teaching her baby goose how to swim and, of course, Jackie and Peetie at once guessed, as I suppose you did, that this was Old Mother Goose. The rabbit gentleman told that story. Then Jackie, looking at a picture of a king sitting on a pile of coal guessed that it meant Old King Cole, and Peetie, pointing to the pictures of a boy and girl going up hill after water, guessed that they were Jack and Jill, as, of course, they were.

"But we have had enough stories for a while," said Uncle Wiggily, as he arose from the toadstool where he had been sitting. "Let's go along over the fields and through the woods to see what happens."

Jackie and Peetie were very glad to do this. On ahead of Uncle Wiggily ran the two doggies, sniffing and snuffing with their noses into this bush, under that stone or close to some hollow log.

All of a sudden Jackie gave a jump for, just as he was sniffing around a old stump there was a loud rustling noise in the bushes.

"Look out for snakes, Jackie!" barked Peetie.

"Oh, don't talk about snakes!" sang a cute little voice, and a tiny bird fluttered up out of the grass, perched on a tree branch near a small hole in the tree trunk, and began to sing.

"There wasn't any snake," said Jackie, when he had looked around in the grass. "I guess the noise was made by your wings, little bird."

"Yes, I guess it was," sang the bird, and then Peetie called:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily! Come and see this little bird. It's the smallest bird in the world, I believe."

"No! No! I'm nothing of the sort," chirped the little feathered creature as Uncle Wiggily hopped up close to look. "The humming bird is much smaller. He is hardly larger than a bumble bee."

"Oh, aren't you a humming bird?" asked Peetie. "I thought you were."

"No, I am a wren," was the answer. "I am small, but the humming bird is much littler."

"And do you live in there?" asked Jaskie, pointing to the small hole in the trunk of the tree. It was about as large as a twenty-five-cent piece.

"Yes, I live there," sang the wren. "That is my front door."

"Do you lock your door when you go out, so no snakes can crawl in your little house?" barked Jackie. The wren laughed and said she did not, and just then there was a fluttering sound and such a tiny bird flew up and hovered over some flowers, that Peetie and Jackie cried out in surprise.

"That is a humming bird," said Uncle Wiggily. "The smallest bird in the world. It doesn't need a house even as large as Mrs. Wren's."

And as Jackie and Peetie were looking at the two littlest birds, all of a sudden along came Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman.

"Ug-i. Ug-i" grunted Mr. Twistytail. "I've lost the key of my pen. Has any one found it?"

"Here are four keys," chuckled Uncle Wiggily, quickly drawing four puzzle pictures on the white bark of a birch tree. "Take your choice, Mr. Twistytail."

"Four keys!" grunted the pig. "I only see one key."

But the puzzle is to find more

IN POLICE COURT

David Lee of the Fourth Line of Dummer and Walter Rusaw of the same locality, appeared in County Police Court yesterday, charged with stealing the use of Dr. H. Long's car of this city. Lee was found guilty and fined $25 and costs and judgment was reserved in the case of Rusaw.

Alex. Elliott defended the two young men, and Crown Attorney Hatton, K.C., prosecuted.

On June 13th, Dr. Long, H. Lowes and T. Irwin went out to Centre Dummer to fish. When they got there they asked Lee and Rusaw to show them the way to a creek to fish. The boys were unwilling at first to go, but at last guided the men to the fishing grounds. The men had a bottle of liquor along with them, and they gave the boys a drink, which resulted in one of them being fined $100 and costs in police court. While the men were fishing Lee and Rusaw started to go home and when they came to the car they commandeered it. They got only a few miles up the road when they turned it over in the ditch, causing considerable damage. An appeal against Magistrate Langley's judgment was entered on behalf of Lee.

A fugue is a musical composition of one or more short themes which are reintroduced from time to time.

Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a French engineer, planned the layout of the city of Washington in 1791.

$800 FOR FAIR

following grants be made: Peterborough, $800; Norwood, $250; Lakefield, $200; Galway, $150; Apsley, $150.

Warden Smithson said Mr. Middleton was known to be a supporter of the Peterborough Fair, and he was conceding a great deal to meet the situation.

"I don't think we should take a slice like that off Peterborough," the Warden continued. "All the economy should not be made at the expense of Peterborough. I have supported that Fair since I came here, and I have seen no reason for changing my stand."

Reeve Scott of Asphodel urged $300 for Norwood, but Mr. Middleton said that Peterborough had been "cut" $200 and Norwood $50, whereas Norwood had the advantage of the grant of $100 for the school championships.

Reeve Cavanagh seconded the Middleton motion, which carried without opposition.

The Children's Aid Society was given $1,000, the same amount as last year. The motion was by Reeve Scott, seconded by Reeve Montgomery.

The Trent Valley Waterways Association appeal for a grant was turned down. Reeve Clark was the perpetrator and Warden Smithson the abettor.

OBITUARY

NAPOLEON GAGNON.

Word was received in the city yesterday of the death of Napoleon (Paul) Gagnon, of Asbury Park, New Jersey.

The late Mr. Gagnon was born in this city and lived here a number of years before making his home in New Jersey.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, three sisters, Mrs. John Murphy, Mrs. John Simmonds, and Mrs. Thomas McGinty, all of the city; also three brothers, Fred of Buffalo, Armedos and George of Niagara Falls, N. Y.

CAPTAIN WILLIAM EYRES.

With a simple but impressive service, the ashes of the late Captain William ("Billy") Eyres were interred this afternoon in the family burial plot of St. John's Cemetery in Cavan, near Ida.

The deceased was a native of Cavan but left this district over half a century ago to embark on a life on the rolling seas. He sailed the Pacific Ocean for many years, was several times around the world and became the captain of a sailing vessel. He died on May 21st in the Marine Hospital at San Francisco, and his remains were cremated on the 23rd. His widow arrived in the city on Tuesday and the burial services took place this afternoon.

After a life of interest and adventure, crammed full of the manifold experiences of a sailor on the bounding main, the quiet ashes of the sea captain came home to rest beside the ashes of his brother Richard, also cremated two years ago, and other members of the Eyres family, who have many relatives in the city and district. His wife, who was Miss Josephine Graham, was a former resident of the city.

MRS. MICHAEL McCLURE.

Terminating a brief illness, death occurred on Thursday evening, June 21, of a former resident of this city in the person of Mary Darling, widow of the late Mitchell McClure, in her 65th year. Though she had resided in Lakefield for the past two years, the death occurred in this city.

The late Mrs. McClure was born in Dummer Township, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Darling, and a wide circle of acquaintances, not only in this district, but in Clayton, Saskatchewan, where she formerly resided, mourn her passing. She attended the United church in Lakefield.

Surviving three sons, Frank, of 658 Bethune street, Jack, of Gull Lake, Sask., and Wesley of 435 Smith street, Peterborough, as well as three daughters, Mrs. John Trennum, residing at 235 Murray street; Mrs. Lila McCauly, Swift Current, Sask., Mrs. William Perry of 435 Smith Street, Peterborough.

The funeral will take place on Saturday, June 23, from the residence of her son, 658 Bethune street, at 1.45 p.m, proceeding to the Warsaw cemetery for interment. Services will be conducted by the Rev. J. E. Todd of George street United Church, Peterborough.

TRY TO KIDNAP CHIEF WITNESS

Armed Gangsters Try To Break Into Home of Chicago Negro.

TO PREVENT TESTIMONY.

CHICAGO, June 22 (Canadian Press).—A new attempt was made with shotguns last night to cripple the special Grand Jury investigation into Chicago crime.

Armed gangsters attempted to break into the home of James Huff, a negro, and kidnap him, thus silencing the chief witness against Johnny Armondo, held for the slaying on primary election day last of Octavious Granady, who was a candidate for ward committeeman.

The men were frightened away first when they mistook three passers-by for detectives and again when they heard Huff call to his wife to hand him his revolver.

OTONABEE MAY GET POWER LINE

Public Meeting Held in Keene To Discuss Hydro Terms.

CANVASS AUTHORIZED.

Extension of the Hydro-Electric system from Peterborough to Keene is being promoted by a committee which was appointed at the public meeting held at Keene on Tuesday night. The Hydro-Electric Commission requires three customers a mile, and twelve houses in Keene will be equivalent to three farm contracts.

The terms of the Hydro contract were fully explained to the Otonabee residents who attended the meeting, and a number of contracts are already assured, although active canvass has not yet been undertaken. Warden Smithson and Deputy-Reeve McIntyre were appointed to interview the farmers living on the Keene road, but they have been prevented by County Council duties from beginning the canvass this week.

It was stated at the meeting that the local rural power rate is the lowest in the province.

COUNTY COUNCIL DECIDES TO PAY PART OF ROAD CHARGE THIS YEAR

Will Put Two Mills On Tax Rate and Issue Debentures For Rest.

TOTAL BILL $50,800.

Two Mills Will Raise $20,188 —Long Discussion Precedes Decision.

Confronted with a Provincial Highway construction bill for $50,000. the County Council in Finance Committee Friday afternoon decided to allocate two mills in this year's tax rate to pay part of the debt, and to fund the remainder with ten-year debentures.

This plan was proposed by Warden Smithson, and an alternative "cash down," pay-as-you-go policy was advocated by Reeve Middleton of Smith. The Council divided as follows on Mr. Middleton's amendment, seconded by Reeve Hawthorne, that the money be raised in this year's taxes:

For—Middleton, Hawthorne, Scott, Leahy, Coon, Montgomery, and Waterman—7.

Against—Smithson, McIntyre, Rye, Cavanagh, Windsor, Tanner, Parker, Caldwell and Clark—9.

The motion, embodying the Warden's method, was moved by Reeve Cavanagh, seconded by Deputy-Reeve McIntyre. It carried.

One mill yields $10,094 in the county budget. Hence the two mills in this year's rate will account for $20,188 of the total $49,711.53 charged to the county as 20 per cent. of the cost of the Provincial Highway west of the city through North Monaghan Township.

To the Highways Department account for $49,711.53 must be added interest from July 6th until December 20th, amounting to $1,100. County Clerk Elliott said that the general rate would be 7 mills, the same as last year, House of Refuge was 1-5 of a mill less or .8 mills this year, several debentures had matured, and there was no bridge work this year.

An increase of 3 8-10 mills over last year's rate of 11 6-10 mills would wipe out the Provincial Highway debt this year.

Financing this $50,000 item was the major decision of the session, and Reeve Frank Breckenridge called on all the members present for their opinions in the discussion which occupied most of the afternoon.

Warden the Key-noter.

Warden Smithson reminded the committee that Northumberland and Durham had funded their highway debt by paying the Highways Department $60,000. The Department was not so favorable to that plan now, but was willing to accommodate Peterborough, if the Council desired it. Contracts that have been let for the Peterborough-Fowler's Corners road aggregate $125,000. Maintenance of the highway and the cost of detours would be another expense. Hence a bill from the Department next year, on the basis of 20 per cent. of the $125,000 and extras, would probably amount to $30,000 or $35,000. This, with the present bill for $50,000, makes a total of approximately $80,000 to be aid by the county in two years, if the expenditure was defrayed out of the taxes.

"There is also the road east from Peterborough to Marmora," the Warden continued. "We were told it wasn't going to be constructed for some time. When the people ask for it, was the statement by the Department. So that this year's and next year's bills will be the two big ones.

"My idea is that we could issue debentures for part of this year's bill, and pay the rest out of the taxes. The highway has many years of permanence, and I don't see why we should pay all the cost at once. If we can keep the provincial highway rate at two mills, we can get through

SWEDISH PILOT LANDS SUPPLIES

Aviator Intends To Land On Ice and Bring Away Six Men.

RUMOR OF RESCUE.

ROME, June 23 (Canadian Press) —The Stefani News Agency announced to-day that a Swedish tri-motored Junkers plane reached General Nobile and his party at 8.30 p.m. Friday and left him provisions, arms, floating apparatus and radio accumulators. The plane was in charge of the Swedish pilot Tornberg.

It set out from Virgo Bay and on its return the north coast of North East Land, between Cape Platen and Cape Leigh Smith was explored minutely without any trace being found of the three members of the Nobile crew who set out on foot to search for land.

Pilot Tornberg informed the Citta di Milano that he had intended landing on the ice near Nobile with a plane equipped with ice runners and taking away the six men there. He asked the Citta di Milano to notify the stranded men of his intentions.

Rescue Reported

QUEBEC, June 23 (Canadian Press).—Le Soleil announces with reserve this morning a report from the local Marconi wireless station that at 3.30 a.m. they received a message from an unnamed steamer, stating that the Nobile party had been picked up and were on board a rescue ship. The station was unable to get further details as reception was difficult.

The message picked up by the local operator, C. F. Mason, was on a wave length of 600 metres, and read, "Nobile safe aboard rescue boat."

The operator endeavored to get more details, but the signals ended with the message and no name of the transmitting point was given.

The operator at Father Point reported receiving the same message there.

No Confirmation

MONTREAL(June 23 (Canadian Press).—No confirmation of the wireless message picked up at Quebec and announcing that General Nobile and his party, marooned on the ice in the Actic, had been saved by a steamer, had reached the Canadian Marconi Company's offices here at 9.30 this morning.

Faint Signals Heard.

LONDON, June 23. — (Canadian Press.)—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen says that the Russian icebreaker Maligan has reported picking up unclear wireless signals which it is believed may have come from the missing plane of Roald Amundsen and Pilot Rene Guilbaud.

The defense department at Oslo, Norway, stated that if the seaplane had had to alight on the sea between Norway and Spitzbergen, it would still be possible for her to use her radio, but only over a distance of about 60 miles.

DAIRY PRODUCE SELLS QUICKLY

Small Supplies of Eggs and Butter On Market This Morning.

EGGS, 38; BUTTER, 42.

Dairy produce had a quick sale on the farmers' market this morning, with fairly scant supplies of both eggs and butter. At eleven o'clock, eggs could be bought for 35 to 38 cents a dozen, and butter was quoted from 38 to 42 cents a pound. Cream was 30 cents a pint.

Little broilers weer priced from 35 to 45 cents a pound. Three-months-old milk-fed specimens with languid heads were 40 cents a pound in three-pound weights. Hens were 25 cents a pound.

Clover honey in glasses was 15 cents a pound.

Flowers had a brisk sale on the market this morning. Big, rich red peonies were a nickel a-piece and large pink samples were a dime, or three for 25 cents. Single peonies, like big pink wild roses, were 5 cents each, and 10 and 15 cents would buy a bunch of spicy yellow rambler roses or a bouquet of orange blossoms with pink briar roses. There were cream and purple iris and snowballs, providing a cool note on a sultry day, and gorgeous big California poppies in gold, flecked with black. White daisies were a nickel a bunch, and the pink flowers that resemble daisies and are called pyrethrum were ten cents for a long-stemmed bouquet.

There was plenty of home-made cooking in the basket section, in iced cakes, tarts and buns, the latter with the "shiny" tops that the little boys approve of.

On the open market, fresh fish were selling at 22 cents a pound for trout and 20 cents for whitefish.

Potatoes were $1.25 a bag this morning, asparagus 10 and 15 cents a bunch, rhubarb 6 for a quarter. Spinach was 25 cents for three pounds, and cabbage plants were 25 cents a bundle. An open-air vendor of flowers had striped purple iris, sweet william, and garden heliotrope, or "kiss me over the garden gate," as the popular fancy entitles it.

A little boy had a shivery big rabbit at 50 cents, and a lady was selling tiny Barred Rock chicks at 20 cents a-piece, "bred to lay" from a "culled strain."

PASTOR RETIRES

KEENE UNI TED CHURCH

where the Rev. John Archibald has been pastor for seven years.

Peasant Body Pays Tribute To Deputies

ZAGREB, Croatia, Jugo-Slavia, June 23 (Canadian Press). — Forty thousand persons packed the streets here yesterday as the bodies of Paul Raditch and Dr. Basaritchek, killed in the Chamber of Deputies at Belgrade, were borne from the railroad station. The coffins were carried to the headquarters of the Democratic Peasants' Party, where they lay in state while long lines of men, women and children filed past them.

The fatal rioting of Thursday and Thursday night gave way to sorrow. Augmented forces of troops were on hand to preserve order but there was little need for their services. For the time, at least, the angered friends of the slain delegates seemed inclined to follow the wish of Raditch's widow and let his life be the last sacrifice in the pacification of this three-nationed kingdom.

James Haggarty Loses Life When Buried in Bin at Lakefield.

BELIEVED ACCIDENTAL.

LAKEFIELD, June 23. — John Haggarty was suffocated in one of the drying bins at the Canada Cement Co. plant here at one o'clock this morning. He and a fellow employee named Pringle were working together at the time, and Mr. Haggarty entered the bin. No one knows how the accident happened, but it was declared to have been purely accidental. His body was recovered about 3.30 a.m.

Mr. Haggarty was a young London Irishman, 21 years of age, and was in St. Joseph's Catholic home in London for a while. He has been in Canada for about four years, and lived in Lakefield for about a year. He had many friends among his fellow employees. He was a member of the Holy Name Society, a very quiet and unassuming young fellow. His only living relatives are two sisters in the Old Country.

JUDGE REFUSES CASE AS TEST

Border Commuters Suit To Enter U. S. Is Heard in Washington.

JUDGMENT RESERVED.

WASHINGTON, June 23 (Canadian Press).—Justice Peyton Gordon refused to allow the suit brought by John Graber against Secretary of Labor James J. Davis of the United States to be a test case in the Canadian border crossing question, when the suit came before him in the Supreme Court of the district of Columbia yesterday.

Justice Gordon ruled that to allow Graber's suit to be a precedent might let down the bars to all aliens and swamp the United States with immigration. He questioned Graber's counsel as to whether or not he was appearing for Graber alone, and by whom he was being paid. The final decision in the case was withheld until next week.

KEENE PASTOR IS RETIRING

Presentation Made To Rev. John Archibald Before His Resignation.

LEAVING FOR WEST.

KEENE, June 23.—A very eventful and colorful ministry of almost seven years has just closed in Keene.

Rev. John Archibald

Under Rev. John Archibald's leadship not only did the Presbyterian churches at Keene and Westwood vote in favor of organic union, but he further enjoyed the privilege of linking together the Methodist and Presbyterian churches of Westwood, and was their pastor, until Westwood was formed into a charge of its own. Then a similar result was accomplished at Keene, and he became the first minister of Keene United Church.

During his nearly seven years' pastorate in Keene, church life and work revived, the church was strongly missionary in its givings. Splendid additions were made to the conveniences and equipment of church and manse. Mrs. Archibald also faithfully helping to lead all the departments on to better things.

On the evening of June 21, a company of 400 people gathered in the United Church to bid farewell to their minister and his wife. There was a bright musical program during the evening. The following took part: Stephen Miller, Alf. Fletcher, Miss M. Edwards, Mrs. D. Edwards, rendered orchestra music.

Miss Margaret Bryce, Miss Jean Knowles and Mrs. Charles Breckenridge sang choice selections. Robert and Marybell Humphries pleased the audience with popular songs. There were piano selections from Miss Annie McIntyre, Miss Alison Weir and Robert Humphries.

The chairman of the evening was Andrew Nelson, and toward the close of the program he asked Mr. and Mrs. Archibald to come to the platform. Mr. Paulin, an elder of Bethel Church, read a beautifully embossed address, and J. Burns, an elder of Zion Church, presented the retiring minister and his wife with a cheque for a substantial amount.

After which, Mr. Archibald delighted the gathering with one of his characteristic speeches in reply. Tea and cake was served by the ladies, the fine social evening closing by the singing of the National Anthem.

Mr. Archibald and family leave in the course of a few days for a 3,000 mile trip by car to British Columbia, and their new home will be Grand Forks, B.C., where it is hoped they will be as happy and successful as they have been in Keene.

Samoan Report Before Commission

GENEVA, June 23 (Canadian Press Cable via Reuter's). — The report of the New Zealand Royal Commission which investigated conditions in the Samoan Islands, administered by New Zealand, was before the League of Nations Mandates Commission yesterday. Sir James Parr, New Zealand's High Commissioner in Britain, told the League organization the New Zealand Government entirely endorsed the views of the Royal Commission which found that complaints against the administration of Sir George Richardson in Samoa had not been substantiated.

Sir George Richardson furnished the Mandates Commission with additional information in regard to the appointment of the Samoan Government officials, local banishment orders, the composition of the Samoan Legislative Council and the circumstances in which the naval demonstration was held at Samoa last February. Sir George also described present conditions in Samoa.

Two Tragedies Occur On the Same Day

QUEBEC, Que., June 23 (Canadian Press).—Two tragedies occurred yesterday at St. Nerse, Belle Chasse County.

Lucienne Alphonse, 8, was burned to death at her parents' home and her young brother suffered serious burns. In the absence of her parents, Lucienne used kerosene to light the kitchen stove. An explosion followed, which threw burning oil over her clothing. Her brother was burned attempting to save his sister's life.

Alphonse Labbe, 12, died suddenly while en route to school. Heart failure was responsible for his death, the coroner decided.

COUNTY RATE IS 12.8 MILLS

Increase of 12 Mills Caused By Levy For Provincial Highway.

PRESENTATION MADE.

The County Council completed its sessional work at noon to-day, striking a county tax rate of 12 4-5 mills as compared with 11 3-5 mills last year. The general current rate of 7 mills and the county road rate of 3 mills are the same as in 1927; the House of Refuge Rate is 4-5 mills as compared with 1 mill last year, and there is the new levy of 2 mills for the Provincial highway account.

On behalf of the members, Deputy-Reeve Waterman of Monaghan, presented Miss J. Batten, of the clerk's office with a cheque for $20 as a recognition of her amiable and efficient services. Miss Batten made a grateful acknowledgment of the surprise gift. County Clerk Elliott said he wished to thank the Council again for their kindndess to him last year as a result of which he had regained his health and was able to perform his duties this year. It was a great pleasure, he said, to be associated with the County Council, and their treatment of himself, Mr. Nesbitt and other servants of the county was indicative of the Council's considerateness.

The following reply to the Warden's opening address on Tuesday was presented this morning by Reeve Breckenridge, chairman of the Special committee:

"The committee, on behalf of the Council, thanks the Warden for his able summary of the matters now under consideration of the Council.

"We join with the Warden in expressing gratitude for favorable weather, carrying with it prospect of a bountiful harvest, upon which our prosperity so largely depends.

"We acknowledge the long service rendered the County by the retiring gaoler, Mr. Nesbitt. The duties of the position ,often difficult and onerous, were very satisfactorily performed by him, and we join with the Warden in wishing him many years of rest and leisure.

"We congratulate the new gaoler, Colonel Dalton Johnston, and have every confidence he will make a worthy successor of Mr. Nesbitt.

"The increased automobile traffic calls for a far higher standard of road than was considered necessary some years ago. This involves substantially greater demands on our Provincial and County Revenues, and while this cannot, under the circumstances, be avoided, we agree with the Warden that it is requisite to carefully scrutinize all expenditures in that regard, in order to avoid making our highways problems too heavy a burden on our people.

"In conclusion we assure the Warden of our appreciation of the able manner in which he is performing the responsible obligations of his office and further assure him of our hearty co-operation and respect."

KNOX MEN HOLD ENJOYABLE PICNIC

Visit South Beach On Wednesday For Games and Supper.

The men's service club of Knox Church held a very successful picnic on Wednesday last to South Beach. Quite a number of the men arrived there about 3 o'clock, followed up by three carloads at 6.30. A number of different games were enthusiastically enjoyed, notably among these being the quoit games. The quoit winners, after a hard battle, being Mr. Crocker and Mr. Mahood and Mr. McCannon and Mr. Anderson. All the members were particularly good at the supper table. MANY HAPPY RETURNS.

LONDON, June 23 (Canadian Press Cble).—The Prince of Wales is 34 years of age to-day. He has been at Ascot throughout the week, riding with the King and Queen daily to the course in the state carriage. Last night he attended the London school of economics' commemorative festival, where the students made a birthday gift to the Prince of a beaver, modelled in gold, the beaver being the school's mascot, besides Canada's symbol of industry.

The Prince will spend his birthday quietly at St. James' Palace. On Monday, however, he will present the new colors to the Honorable Artillery Company, London's premier volunteer regiment, dating from the time of Henry VIII., when the long-bow and cross-bow were reckoned first-class artillery weapons.

At the end of next week the Prince will fulfill a series of engagements at Glasgow, being the guest of Lord and Lady Weir at Eastwood Park, Renfrewshire.

7,000 BAPTISTS AT CONVENTION

More Than 60 Nations Represented at Toronto For Opening.

MANY PROBLEMS.

TORONTO, June 23 (Canadian Press)—Representing more than sixty nations and 12,000,000 communicants in all parts of the world, Baptists to the number of 7,000 are assembled in Toronto to-day for the opening of the fourth congress of the Baptist World Alliance. The sessions of the congress are being held in the spacious buildings of the Canadian National Exhibition and will continue for six days until June 29.

The Baptist World Alliance is a voluntary and fraternal body. It has no legislative authority over its constituent units and churches. Since the formation of the alliance in 1905 its chief activities have been in connection with missionary work in Europe and consequently European problems and conditions are expected to bulk large in the discussions of the present assembly.

Many social and religious problems will be aired in discussion during the convention. Particular attention will centre in addresses on militarism, racialism, industrialism, obedience to law, and religious education. The presence of a great many nationals from Asiatic countries, India, China and Burma, lends a touch of color to the gathering. The roll call of nations, the chief feature of to-day's proceedings, took place in the Coliseum and was an impressive affair.

BRIDGE OVER CHEMONG LAKE WOULD COST OVER $350,000

Council's Offer To Spend $20,000 Would Not Help Very Much.

WILL SEEK HELP.

Local Members Offer To Assist In Getting Grants From Governments.

A new bridge across Chemong Lake to Ennismore would cost at least $350,000, according to an estimate prepared several years ago, which was mentioned at a meeting of the County Council Friday afternoon, at which E. A. Peck, M.P.; W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., and J. J. Duffus were present.

"Engineering fees and other extras would bring it up to around $380,000," Mr. Bradburn remarked.

Mr. Peck said there had not been any appropriation during recent sessions of Parliament that was for a purpose like that of the Chemong Lake bridge. To refresh his memory he had looked through the estimates, and could not find a similar item. Because of the national debt and requirement for harbors, wharves and similar large public works, the Government could not assume all the works which might be needed in various localities. Mr. Peck said he would be glad to assist the County Council in every way possible in supporting the appeal for the Ennismore bridge.

Mr. Bradburn pointed out that the county was offering to pay $20,000 of the cost. This would leave $360,000 to be obtained from the government. The Dominion and Provincial governments would have to contribute $180,000 each.

Mr. Bradburn said he did not think the Ontario government would grant any such sum for the bridge.

"Suppose the two governments were willing to give $50,000 each, and that is quite a large amount these days, that would leave a very large sum still to be raised," said Mr. Bradburn. "I am putting this frankly, because there are so many heavy demands to be met, but I will be glad to co-operate with the council in every possible way."

Mr. Duffus urged that an energetic effort be made to lay the claim and need of Ennismore Township before the Federal and Provincial authorities.

The conference was an informal discussion of the bridge problem. Warden Smithson presided, and Mr. Cavanagh and other members spoke briefly. The Council's previous motion recommended an appeal to the governments by a deputation of the whole Council at a time to be decided by the Warden. Friday's meeting was simply a preliminary seeking of information.

START FLIGHT TO MEXICO CITY

Two Aviators Take Off From Walkerville This Morning.

MAKE DIRECT FLIGHT.

WINDSOR, Ont., June 23 (Canadian Press). — Joaquin Pacheco and Fritz Bieler, Mexico City aviators, took off from Walker Field here at 7.30 a.m. (eastern standard time) today on their projected non-stop flight to the Mexican capital.

Because of weather conditions which have held the two fliers back for the last week, a change in the original route was made, and instead of flying to Washington, they announced the pathway would be a direct line to the Mexican capital. It would take them, they said, slightly west of Dayton, Ohio.

The big Stinson monoplane, powered with a 220 horse-power air-cooled motor, was fueled with 410 gallons of gasoline, which the two fliers said brought the total weight of their craft well above 3,000 pounds.

The fliers faced a 20-mile head wind as they took off, after taxiing the length of the field, about three-quarters of a mile. The take-off was described as difficult. Only a few persons were on hand as the two fliers took their ship aloft.

The tall, blonde Bieler, former Germay army aviator, and the stocky, dark, good-looking Pacheco, a native of Mexico, were supremely confident as they started the long three-nations flight. For more than a week they had tested the plane at Northville, near Detroit, where it was built.

The head wind that faced the fliers at the take-off was expected to curtail their speed to about eighty miles an hour until the fuel load was lightened.

The primary object of the flight, Bieler and Pacheco declared, was to stimulate interest in aviation in Mexico. The early take-off defeated plans for a rousing send-off which had been arranged by the Windsor people.

SUITCASE FOUND IN BUSH CLAIMED

Mystery Puzzling Campbellford Officers Finally Cleared Up.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, June 22.—Local police have succeeded in establishing the ownership of the suitcase and clothing which was turned over to them some weeks ago. The finding of the articles in a cedar bush shortly after an immigrant boy had disappeared and caused the district to speculate on his whereabouts, gave the community more food for thought and mental speculation. On the outside of the imitation leather case was written, "No harm done." The words were written with a pencil and in a large flowing hand.

Police investigation led to the boy being located in the city of Ottawa. This was established by a letter received by Chief Light from the Catholic Immigration Association, Ottawa, over the signature, Mother Frances. The boy's name was given as Wm. Rainford, and the police were requested to forward the articles to his address at the Home in Ottawa.

MALE VOICE CHOIR VISITS NORWOOD

Pleasing Program Given in United Church—Appreciative Audience.

MANY FINE NUMBERS.

NORWOOD, June 23. — Twenty-eight members of the Peterborough Male Voice Choir motored to Norwood last evening, and presented a concert in the United church. They had a very appreciative audience and received plenty of applause for an exceptionally fine program delivered in the splendid style characteristic of these singers. They were directed by their leader, M. B. Chenhall, A.R.C.O., who also played the organ for the majority of the numbers. Harold L. Armstrong acted as accompanist on the piano for Mrs. H. F. Doig, who was the assisting soloist of the evening. A. H. White, president of the Male Voice Choir, announced the selections.

The choral program opened with the full-voiced, resonant measures of Gounod's "Hymn to Apollo," followed later by the "Song of the Jolly Roger," the jovial nautical ditty which has such a swing to its music, and demonstrates so well the compact, rounded tone and volume of the fine voices. "The Bells of St. Mary's" proved to be a great hit with the listeners, and "Come to the Fair," the old buoyant English folk song, zestful and vigorous, was another well-received number.

Other choral renditions included "Bells of the Sea," suited to the ringing tones of the varied sections; "The Lost Chord," a softly beautiful presentation of the well known spiritual, "Deep River," sung without accompaniment, "Abide with Me," and "At Even E'er the Sun was Set."

Mrs. Doig, despite the handicap of a severe cold, was in wonderful voice last night. The power, volume and sweetness of her vibrant soprano was admirably demonstrated in her first solo, "Love's Merchant," and its gay little encore, "Good Morning, Mister Sunshine," both receiving renewed and very enthusiastic appreciation from the audience. "Land of Hope and Glory," as sung by Mrs. Doig, was another popular favorite, and a bouquet of lovely pink roses and carnations from the choir was presented at its conclusion by little Willan Wildman of Norwood.

A vocal solo by Frank Pratt, "The Bells of the Lighthouse" was given in excellent, rich bass voice and received much applause which brought an encore in "Out of the Deep."

An octette of singers composed of Messrs. H. Ferguson, W. Northrop, S. Ivey, J. W. Ridyard, C. H. Crowe, Horace Hope, F. Pratt and W. F. Skitch, sang "Carry Me Back to Ole Virginny," in fine voice. An encore brought a repetition of the final verse.

One of the most interesting solo numbers of the evening was the splendidly-played organ number by Mr. Chenhall, giving variations of "Swanee River," with an encore in the Welsh National Anthem. An organ solo, opening the program, and delivered by Harold L. Armstrong, was also very well done in a Scherzo by Guilmant.

A very effective setting for the program, devised by means of flowers which had done duty for a recent wedding ceremony, was afforded by a bank of lovely blossoms, with spirea, bridal wreath, lemon lilies and iris, ferns and a wonderfully fine plant of the geranium-like pansy patagonia.

At the conclusion of the program, appreciation of it was voiced by B. Squire and supported by G. A. Brethen, ex-M.P. The ladies of the Sunday School who were responsible for the entertainment then entertained the choir to dainty refreshments, served in the church parlors and were thanked, in the name of the visitors, by D. R. Fleming.

LAKEFIELD SCHOOL PUPILS GATHER AT ANNUAL PICNIC

Gather at Hague's Point on Closing Day of Year.

PRESENTATION MADE.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, June 23.—On Friday afternoon, June 15, was closing day in the Public School with the exception of the Entrance Class which had one more week before the examinations, so a school picnic was held at Hogue's Point, which was so successful that it will no doubt be a yearly event, as the big family of boys and girls entered heartily into the teachers' plans to give them the best ever in the way of a "bumper" picnic. Miss Kidd and Miss Payne entertained their pupils on the school grounds and also had a pleasant time. Mrs. Ridpath, Miss Kennedy, Mr. Wannamaker and Miss Hill and their pupils went to the Point, and soon the fun was at its height.

An important event took place during the afternoon, while while especially interesting to the pupils, is of interest also to the scores of ex-pupils of Miss Duff in Lakefield and the vicinity. Mrs. Ridpath and the pupils of the Fourth Book called on Miss Duff and presented her with a French beaded bag on behalf of the pupils of the Lakefield Public School.

The presentation was made by Fred Hampton, while Thelma Hendren read the following address:

Lakefield, June 15, 1920.

Dead Miss Duff.—We would like to take this opportunity of expressing our appreciation of all you have done for us while teacher of our room. We regret the unfortunate circumstances which prevented your finishing the term with us, but hope you may be spared to enjoy many years of active service.

We would ask you to accept this little bag as a remembrance of our association with you.

Signed on behalf of the pupils,
Phyllis Morrison, Vera Moore,
Bob Kingdon, Ducie Chads.

Races Held

The picnickers spent a delightful time at the park, the open spaces affording ample accommodation for a great variety of games. A paper chase, a real novelty to most of the pupils, was very much enjoyed and the excitement waxed keen. There were singing games which gave the younger children much pleasure and two new games which won instant popularity and will be used again without doubt; these were the alphabet game and live croquet. Then there were races, without which no picnic would be complete:

Girls, under 9.—1, Jean Blewett; 2, Ethel Lake.

Boys, under 9.—1, Tom Junkin; 2, Jim Crowe.

Girls, under 11.—1, Bella Hamblin; 2, Phyllis Bolton.

Boys, under 11.—1, Ted Hunter; 2, Joe Blewett.

Girls, under 13.—1, Ada Riel and Mary Ruttle (tie); 2, Lula Smith.

Boys, under 13.—1, Joe Blewett; 2, Grey Kemp.

Girls, under 15.—1, Madeline Junkin; 2, Eva Hendren.

Boys, under 15.—1, Bob Kingdon; 2, Gordon Kidd and Harding Stuart.

Three-Legged Race, Girls.—1, Eva Hendren and Thelma Hendren: 2, Mae Dever and Madeline Junkin.

Three-Legged Race, Boys.—1, Joe Blewett and Douglas Dench; 2, Ollie Pearson and Ted Hunter.

The older boys went in swimming with the permission of the teachers, and their antics entertained the "littlest ones," chaperoned by Miss Hill, who took tea a little earlier than the older children, and with their meal they had a real aquatic exhibition. The children brought the "eats" and the teachers provided soft drinks which were very welcome after the strenuous activities. Besides the games and races there was also a ball game between Miss Kennedy's boys and Mr. Wannamaker's boys, and later a game between two teams of older boys.

What a picnic it was with all the delights which children look for and more than are usually provided. It was hard to leave the grounds and feel that only a happy memory remained, but this will doubtless be varried on as an annual event, one to be looked forward to as a fitting closing to the term's work.

BORROWED CAR CLIMBS GRAVEL

Disputes Right of Way With Truck, Some Damage Resulting.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 23. — Strange cars sometimes do strange things. Yesterday afternoon, a car which a local business man had borrowed for a few moments, climbed part way up the small mountain of gravel that is being drawn to River street, just north of the Regent Theatre. The gravel is to be used for the paving of Front street south.

The accident occurred when the coupe which had been borrowed, came in contact with a light delivery truck at the corner of River and Front streets. The truck was the "man on the right," and therefore, it appears should have right of way. Apparently it got it eventually for the coupe took a turn up the gravel bed. The damage to both cars was slight, being confined to fenders and hub caps. The drivers were not injured.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEET AT CAVAN

Regular Business Transacted at June Meeting of Society.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, June 23. — The June meeting of the Cavan Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Sutton on Thursday afternoon.

The President, Mrs. R. M. Howden conducted the meeting, which opened by singing the Institute "Ode." After the minutes of the last meeting had been read and adopted and the old business disposed of, the secretary, Miss Eileen Hunter, read several acknowledgments from persons who had received flowers during illness.

A letter was read from the neighborhood workers of Toronto, asking if it were possible to place a group of children among the members for a two weeks' fresh air outing. No action was taken.

Mr. Kellough sent a letter of appreciation for the prizes offered by the Institute for the Rural Fair.

It was decided to purchase a new boiler for the community hall.

Judging Contests.

Mr. Kellough, district representative, had taken up the plan, at the district annual meeting in Millbrook, of forming two classes of girls between the ages of 12 and 30 to be coached by a teacher from the Department, to take part in judging contests. He would like two classes in East Durham one in Cavan and one in Campbellcroft. These classes would have lessons at least two afternoons in each place.

It was decided to see how many girls could or would join such a class and give their names to the secretary. She was to find out how many girls Millbrook, Bethany and Mount Pleasant would send to such a class. At least ten would be necessary before a demonstrator would be sent, and as many as desired could join.

Suggestions were asked from the members for topics for the new program which will soon be gotten out. These suggested topics are to be 'phoned to the secretary.

Will Hold Picnic.

It was planned to have a picnic on Nicholls Oval, Peterborough, on June 26th. All to join to have dinner there at one o'clock.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

AS I SAT AT THE MANSE WINDOW and looked out upon the sunlit lawn, there came unsought the memory of a message I had once heard from the lips of an eminent speaker for God. It had to do with "The Return of Christ," and it made a deep, abiding impression upon my life.

He started off by saying that when Christ commissioned His church He did not give her an impossible work to do—the conversion of the world—but a reasonable task: to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature. We were told that our business is not to wear ourselves out with the vain attempt to convert the world, but rather to evangelize the world and give every creature the opportunity of being saved from the destruction that will yet come upon the unregenerate masses of humanity. And coupled with this commission is the promise that He will come again. This promise constitutes what the word of God calls the "Blessed Hope"—a hope which is the need of every Christian heart. It makes discouragement impossible and fills the human heart with the song of victory.

Two Views.

Most people know that there are two great views held by Christians in regard to our Lord's return. The larger number of these Christians believe that Christ's return will not be until after the Millennium of a thousand years.

Those who hold this view believe that the world will continue to grow better, until the highest degree of civilization has been reached and the power of the gospel has changed our world into a heaven upon earth. After a thousand years of this Millennial glory, then Jesus will come in person to bring the world to an end by what is called a general resurrection and final judgment. The people who hold this view are known as Post-Millenniarians, because they place the coming of Christ after the Millennium.

On the other hand, there is a growing number of those who are called Pre-Millenniarians, because they believe that Christ will come before the Millennium; and that there can be no Millennium while He is away. The King must come in person to bring it in, by setting up His kingdom in the world.

Names That Count.

This view has commanded the enthusiastic belief of many of our best men—of "almost all the Bible teachers of eminence who stand for evangelical truth, and almost all the successful evangelists who are winning souls for Christ." Among those are found the names of C. H. Spurgeon, Bishop Ryle, George Muller, D. L. Moody, D. W. Whittle, A. J. Gordon, Horatious and Andrew Bonar, R. A. Torrey, J. Wilbur Chapman, F. B. Meyer, G. Campbell Morgan, Robert E. Speer, A. T. Pierson, James M. Gray, and many other grand men, as well as a noble band of missionaries all over the earth.

Only a Dream.

I can remember it as if it had all happened yesterday. He said: "So many of God's dear children not being in accord with the view of our Lord's return as I am presenting it, I do not for a moment feel like speaking in a contentious or dictatorial spirit; but, with the great truth of Christ's second coming deeply laid upon my heart, 'we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard.' They have so filled our own soul with hope and joy that we want every one else to believe them, too.

"All my long life I have regarded a belief in Christ's speedy coming to be a dream of the wildest enthusiasts; now, with the light of God's word shining upon it, all that I seek to say seems only to be 'words of truth and soberness'."

It was a belief in our Lord's speedy return that inspired an Alexander Duff, a J. Hudson Taylor, B. C. Henry and Andrew Murray.

Truth Abused.

The shameful abuse of this Bible truth by fanatical and foolish, though earnest, people has been a great stumbling-block in the way of its belief. This, together with some difficulties in the way of understanding and accepting it, has led multitudes of our most intelligent Christians to disregard and reject its teachings.

Yet Christ's speedy return to earth was the universal faith of God's people in olden time. The apostles and early fathers who succeeded them, held it with earnest, believing hearts. Christ had told His disciples to watch for His return as coming at a time when no one knew, and they gave heed to His word. In those days it was the "Blessed Hope" of the church, and it should have remained so until He actually came. But it did not. As the ten virgins waiting for the bridegroom show us the original attitude of the church as waiting for the coming of our Lord, so the virgins falling asleep and ceasing to watch for the bridegroom because He delayed His coming, tell us of the church giving up her belief in, and watching for, Christ's return, because He seemed to delay His coming.

Vague and Far-Off.

It was when the church began to lose her simple spiritual character that she began to look at Christ's coming as a vague, far-off event rather than one coming we know not when. Because a thousand years are as one day with the Lord, and He did not come as soon as expected, did not make the fact itself any less certain, and should not have shaken the faith of God's children. The doubt never ought to have risen, "Where is the promise of His coming?" The promise is there, and will stay there "till He come."

Nothing is more needed in this, our day, than to believe anew, and re-affirm this great truth of God's word.

It is to be feared that too many of those who really believe it refrain from saying anything about it because of the prejudice that there is against it in many quarters.

Bible Full of It.

The Bible is full of Christ's second coming. The prophets foreshadowed it; Jesus Himself gave many details concerning it; the epistles are loaded with it—being mentioned fifty times by St. Paul alone, and over three hundred times in the New Testament; and the Book of Revelation is wholly devoted to it, where, in the only book dictated by Jesus, and ordered by Him to be written, the vision of Christ's coming is pictured in a panorama of surpassing grandeur.

What Might Be.

If we did but realize that Jesus in His own actual person is indeed coming back without any more delay than the world's preparation to meet Him demands, what a different people we should be! What a different church we should have! What a different kind of religion we should live! Ministers would preach less about the affairs of this life, and more about heavenly things to come. Christians would seek "to be found of Him in peace, without spot and blameless"—to be found of Him at work, so as not to meet Him in idleness, but in doing all they could before He comes, to save more souls for the kingdom.

There was much more that he said, but this will suffice for the present.

"Oh, the crowning day is coming,
Is coming by and by,
When our Lord shall come in 'power'
And 'glory' from on high.
Oh, the glorious sight will gladden
Each waiting, watchful eye,
In the crowning day that's coming,
By and by."

This will be the last of our musings for a little while as we shall soon be going off on vacation. The best of our work has come far short of what we should have liked it to have been. It has often meant the burning of electricity far into the hours of another day, but we have been compensated in knowing that an increasing number of readers have derived both pleasure and profit from this page. My best wishes are very sincerely tendered to one and all.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks--

The man who minds his own business generally succeeds at it.

Some men I know who consider themselves the soul of honor need half-soling.

For goodness sake, stop croaking! If you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.

You can visit quite a number of cemeteries without locating the grave of a man who worked himself to death.

The most dangerous humidity in a heat wave is the kind you buy in a bottle.

Few men light on a feather bed when thrown on their own resources.

One Sum Greater Than Another

THE Bible doctrine of sin is perfectly clear. Through disobedience we became alienated from God. Sin entails guilt, and guilt entails judgment. "The wages of sin is death." Through sin the sum of the forces of evil in the soul becomes greater than the sum of the forces of righteousness, and the inevitable consequence is death, spiritual death. To change the balance so that the life forces shall predominate was God's problem, and He solved it through redemption.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

IT is related of St. John that when he was very old and weak, and lay upon his death-bed, his friends gathered round him that they might listen to his words of wisdom and counsel. He lifted himself up, and repeated again and again: "Little children, love one another." And when, hoping that he might have said other things, which, perhaps, they would have treasured more eagerly, they asked if he had nothing else to tell them, he answered: "There is no need for more; for love includes all. Fulfil, therefore, this law, Love one another."

Who Am I?

I am more powerful than the combined armies of the world.

I have destroyed more men than all the wars of the world.

I am more deadly than bullets and I have wrecked more homes than the mightiest of seige guns.

I spare no one and I find my victims among the rich and the poor alike, the young and the old, the strong and the weak, widows and orphans know me.

I loom up in such proportions that I cast my shadow over every field of labor, from the turning of a grindstone to the moving of a railroad train.

I massacre thousands upon thousands of wage-earners in a year.

I am relentless. I am everywhere; in the home, on the streets, in the factory, at railroad crossings and on the sea.

I bring sickness, degradation and death, yet few seek to avoid me.

I destroy, crush or maim, yet I give nothing.

I AM CARELESSNESS.

—Adah L. Roussan.

ANSWERS TO LAST WEEK'S QUESTIONS.

1. The unalterable word of Christ that Sodom and Gomorrha would come into judgement (Mark 6:11).
2. The important thing in the "Parable of the sower" is the seed (Matt. 13).
3. Sin does not cease when we forsake it. Sin, like debt, must be met and dealt with in confession to the Lord Jesus (1 John 1:8-10).
4. Jesus gave an X-ray of the human heart to the Pharasees and Scribes at Jerusalem (Mark 7:21-23).
5. Many beside the old lady were healed through touching the Saviour. Contact with Christ always brings results (Mark 3:10-11).
6. If the language of Revelation is figurative, we do well to remember that figures stand for facts. God does not waste words.

A Pen Picture

IN the crowd that is running away you may observe a little group of men who are keeping together. Judging by their appearance, they ought to be influential men, and as such should try to encourage the fugitives; but they do not seem to think of this, and are desirous only of their own safety. Here is a place that seems to afford a refuge; it is large and dark besides—just the place where none can see them; they will wait until night falls and then they can go elsewhere. Vain hope! Someone has seen them, and soon their refuge is darker than when they entered—the entrance is closed, and escape impossible.

* * *

Again you see these men—this time not alone—they are the centre of a large assembly, but why do they lie upon the ground? and why so many men in armor come one by one and stand beside them?

* * *

Once more we see the same men; they are alone again, and in the same place where we saw them first. I do not think that anyone will disturb them now.

The key to the previous Pen Picture of Bible History is to be found in Exod. 2:12-15 and Acts 7:24-29.

The present Pen Picture will be the last in the series, and the key to it will be found in Joshua 10:1-28. The series has been from the pen of Rev. J. H. Townsend, D.D.

Without sentiment our life remains cold, formal and friendless. There is no lift in life apart from sentiment, no cadence, no charm, no glow, no landmark, no red-letter day, in the story of our sojourn on earth.

DO YOU SLEEP WELL?

FEW people seem to realize the value of sleep as a vital factor in success, and its importance to the physical and mental welfare is not always appreciated. Sufficient sleep is necessary if the tired and exhausted organs are to be allowed time for the full renewal of the waste. One may go without food for weeks and survive; he may endure an almost unbelievable degree of cold, but the limit of man's endurance without sleep is said to be less than a hundred hours. After that length of time either death or insanity or both ensue.

When the Chinese wish to inflict the most exquisite torture on a criminal they shave his head and, after binding him so that his head is immovable, they place him in such a position that water falls upon his head a drop at a time. After a few hours the victim becomes a raving maniac and death shortly ensues. No one has ever been known to survive this torture if it was continued for any length of time.

It is no exaggeration to say that no other requirement of nature is more important than sleep. Food builds up the exhausted tissues, but the complete repose which comes with restful slumber is essential for the proper carrying out of the building-up process.

In order to get the greatest possible benefit from sleep, it should be undisturbed by dreams. To this end a healthy condition of mind and body is necessary. To meet the demands of the day and perform our tasks properly, there should be a sufficient amount of refreshing sleep. No human being can neglect this important demand of Nature and expect to do the best bit of work, be it mental or physical. Burning the candle at both ends will soon leave you without a candle. It is a wise economy of time to spend a fair proportion of it in the enjoyment of a good sleep.

RURAL POWER LINES.

The campaign to extend the Hydro-Electric system through Otonabee to Keene and thus give the citizens of that village and the farmers along the route the benefit of electric energy deserves to succeed.

The extension of power lines in the rural sections of the county represents a long step forward in bringing to country homes the advantage enjoyed by urban residents.

While the farmers of many parts of Western Ontario and the Niagara District have had the benefits of power service for some years the development of the system in the rural portions of this section of the province is only beginning and there is every reason to believe that Peterborough County farmers will be eager to avail themselves of the opportunities that are now being offered them.

The Chemong extension serves a section of Smith township and a large slice of Otonabee will be taken care of should the Keene project be carried through to a successful culmination.

This development is welcome and should mean much to sections affected.

BETTER LIGHTING ALSO NEEDED.

With the paving of Aylmer street from Charlotte street south to the C.P.R. tracks well under way and the extension of the permanent roadway to Lansdowne street likely to be included in the near future, this heavily-travelled thoroughfare will be a greatly improved street.

But the improvement should not be confined to the road surface.

There is need of better lighting facilities on the southern section of Aylmer street, one of the city's main arteries.

At present it is poorly lighted; the system there needs to be brought up to date by the installation of the same type of lights that is giving so good service in other sections of the city.

The extension of permanent roads and the improvement of street lighting should go hand-in-hand; both are important and both are necessary and the progress that has been made in recent years is gratifying to those who remember the old conditions.

Aylmer street from Charlotte street south should be marked as the next thoroughfare to get modern lighting facilities.

A GOOD ADVERTISEMENT.

Members of the Canadian General Electric Company's big family of employees are enjoying themselves to-day at Orillia, chosen as the scene of the second annual picnic of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club.

These group outings are very desirable in industry and business; they add to the general esprit de corps and promote a better understanding and more pleasant relations among shop and office personnel.

And when they take the form of an exodus of so many well-dressed and prosperous looking people as made the journey to Orillia to-day they form an excellent advertisement for the firm by which the holiday-makers are employed and the city in which they make their homes.

The Social and Athletic Club, comprising most of the C.G.E. employees, is to be congratulated upon the success that has attended its efforts since its organization.

It has contributed much to a closer union among the small army of C.G.E. workers and to bring fresh interest and joy into their lives.

COURTESY TO TOURISTS.

In order that motorists may become acquainted with the requirements of the local parking by-law, police constables are placing cards in the cars of those who violate the regulations requiring them to call at the police station and report to the sergeant in charge there.

When they arrived at police headquarters they are warned and allowed to go.

This system is being carried out, not only in the case of local violators of the regulations but also of tourists.

In dealing with the latter, The Examiner would commend as desirable for local adoption the sensible practice followed in Windsor where what are known as "Courtesy traffic violation cards" are placed in the automobiles of tourists who are guilty of minor infractions of the traffic laws.

They read as follows:

"Windsor welcomes you and hopes your stay will cause you to carry away pleasant recollections. The fact that you are a visitor entitles you to special consideration with our traffic laws, your attention is drawn to violation by you of the parking regulations indicated below."

A polite notice of that nature is as fully effective a warning as an invitation to visit the police court and makes a much more pleasant impression upon the recipient.

The plan might well be given a try out here.

WHERE CANADA WILL LEAD.

Economists have been known to declare, with a mournful shake of the head, that an increase of 10 per cent. or thereabouts in the wheat crops of the world would enable the markets to get along nicely without Canadian grain. Not so long ago they used to point to Russia as a formidable rival of Canada in the world market, and the potentialities of Australia, India and the Argentine as grain-producing countries were cited. The latest indications, however, are that Russia can be counted out as a serious competitor in future. According to L. W. Lyde, professor of geography in the University of London, Russia will never again be a rival of Canada as a wheat-exporting country, and Canada is destined to be the great granary of the world.

Professor Lyde did not base his prediction on production figures, but largely upon density of population. Russia's population is 72 to the square mile as compared with Canada's two or three, and Russia's total grain crops are now hardly more than sufficient to feed her own people. The British professor's claim can be supported, as well, by the following statistics showing grain crops in Russia and Canada; Australia, Argentine and India being included for the sake of comparison, and figures representing millions of bushels:

	Canada.	Russia.	Australia.	India.	Argentine.
1915	393	748	179	377	169
1916	262	540	152	323	80
1917	233	567	115	382	219
1924	262	382	166	361	192
1925	411	557	113	331	191
1926	405	635	164	325	223

During these years the world wheat crop averaged 3,500,000,000 bushels annually. It will be seen that Russia has averaged only about one-sixth of the world production, whereas a decade ago she produced as high as one-quarter. Coupled with the drop in her percentage of world bushelage has been the great increase in the number of Russian mouths to feed. The same development is to be noticed in other big wheat-producing nations, particularly the United States. There will come a time, though it is still distant, when Canada's home consumption will be so heavy that the exportable surplus will drop, but in the meantime the wheat frontier is being pushed back so rapidly and so far in the Canadian Northwest that exports will increase, not decrease. In the light of this prospect, Professor Lyde's prophecy seems reasonable.—London Advertiser.

A MONARCHY—AND A DEMOCRACY.

The difference between a monarchy and a democracy, says the Border Cities Star, seems to be this: When King George goes on a holiday the newspapers print a brief item about His Majesty's departure for the grouse shooting. But when Mr. Coolidge takes a holiday the world is told the size of his shirts, the length of his fishing rod, the number of slices of toast he eats at breakfast, what hymns he sang loudest in church, his opinion on backwoods scenery, the number of times he patted little Ignatz Bazooki on the head, and a thousand and one details of equally vital importance.

GLAMOR OF CITY IS WANING.

(From the Acton Free Press.)

We are quite accustomed to the lamentable tale so often discussed of the migration of the young people of the country and smaller centres to the city. It has been debated from the public platform and widely discussed in the press. But is this trend going to continue always? It would seem as if the country had its attractions ,too, judging from letters we receive.

During the past few months the Free Press has received applications from three Toronto young people for positions on the staff. We have never advertised in the city about vacancies on the staff. So far we have been able to secure plenty of good young people raised in the town or surrounding country. The applicants in each case have had some journalistic experience. The last case was from Toronto, where the applicant states she has had a year's experience on a Toronto newspaper. She states as her reason for desiring a change that she would like a little chance for advancement and would like to obtain a position on a smaller newspaper.

That would appear to be the fault with the city institutions. Newspapers and every other kind of factory work in the city is highly specialized. It allows of little or no room for individuality or of receiving a general knowledge of all lines of a business. The individual is a part of the big machine. It is necessary that the city institution be run on that line. Another clause in the letter tells why such systematic ruling is necessary. "I am able to leave here at any time." The position vacated could be filled immediately by some one else. But what of the work in the smaller centres? It's individual, the staff must be competent in many lines. Each individual is part of the plant, not of a department. Men can't be secured on a moment's notice to fill a vacancy so that other members of the staff have to be trained to fill any vacancy that may occur. It's routine, slavish work to have to do only one operation, so many hours a day, so many days a week, for the span of life. The country training allows a development of the individual in many lines. If he prefers one line more than another he realizes it and adopts that line as his profession. No wonder the city youth looks with longing to the country for his training.

Small wonder, too, that many a city man looks to the country after years of city life for a place to enjoy the remaining days. Just as the youth, who desires a chance to develop his individuality is given the opportunity in the smaller centre, denied him in the metropolis, so is the man given the opportunity to express and develop his individuality in the smaller centre, denied him in the hum-drum of city life. Each has its place, each has only a few vacancies to fill. Transportation has robbed the city of much of its attraction. Nowadays the run to the city to see a show or any passing attraction staged is a mere side-line trip. It consumes less time than it takes some street car patrons to get to their destination in the city.

Yes, the country or small town is best for the laying of the foundation of youth. It is best for the man who fortunately secures a place and a livelihood on its environs and grows and develops with his community until the community is a part of him, and it's best for the elderly man, who in later years seeks after the friendly intercourse of real neighbors and friends.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Be doubly careful to-morrow. Remember the Monday headlines in the newspapers the last three weeks.

Miss Mabel Boll claims she was doublecrossed by the weather man. There are alibis even in the flying game, it would seem.

Reports are that an unusually large number of Ohio people who will receive their mail in the Peterborough district during the next two months. Many of them will old friends but this year's exodus is expected to include numerous first-timers.

The Globe gets there first with the statement that Aviation, the new magazine, has got away to a flying start.

While lacrosse is struggling for existence on this side of the border Canada's National game drew a crowd of 10,000 at the college fixture at Washington. It is a development out of which Canadians cannot expect much consolation.

The Mississippi Valley League fans are demanding two umpires, evidently because of the impression that it is easier to find a mark with a pop bottle when a pair of officials is concerned.

THE PARKING BY-LAW

Dear Sir:

There is one thing in the parking by-law that I think has been forgotten that is the busses being allowed to stop at corner of Charlotte street and George street completely hiding the lighting signals from cars going north and south on George street especially on the west side of George as two busses park there taking up half of the road, also busses being allowed to make a left hand turn. Thanking you for space, I remain,

Yours truly,

AUTOIST.

RECKLESS DRIVING

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear sir:

While a large number of cars were parked at Mathers Corners on Tuesday evening preparatory to visiting Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Adamson, a high-powered car bore down through the two lines of cars with the throttle wide open.

It is terrible to think of the consequences had they even touched one of the parked cars there, most of which had occupants in as they were on the point of moving off.

Again there were ten or a dozen youngsters playing on the side of the road and on a verandah of a house alongside and although they were not running across the road one of them might have easily ran out as this car was going by.

It was impossible to get the number of the car because of the dust, but it goes to show how the innocent may be the victims of somebody's recklessness.

Yours very truly,

A. E. FLETCHER.

A Thought

JOY.

There is more cause for joy than for complaint in the hard and disagreeable circumstances of life. Browning said, "I count life just a stuff to try the soul's strength on." Spell the word "discipline" with a final g—"discipling." We are here to learn Time's lesson of Eternity's business. What does it signify if the circumstances about us are not of our choice, if by them we can be trained, learning the lessons of patience, fortitude, perseverance, self-denying service, acquiescence with God's will, and the hearty doing of it. Circumstances do not make character. Just where you are, take the things of life as tools, and use them for God's glory; so you will help the kingdom come, and the Master will use the things of life in cutting and polishing you so that there shall some day be seen in you a soul conformed to His likeness.—Maltbie B.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, June 23.—Despite the fact that there has been a let up in the demand for heavy steers, and that the appearance this week on the market of a number of green cows off grass, not in best condition, resulted in a partial glut in these two classes, the market has been throughout the week and remains strong and active for the best types of light or handyweight butcher cattle.

Several loads of heavy steers were shipped back to the country. With the exception of these heavy steers and green half fat cows all other butcher grades are in demand at good prices.

Calves weakened to $13.00 tops early in the week, but were a little firmer at the close.

Springers and milkers, trade rather quiet, with little outside demand.

Stockers and feeders, trade quiet. Three loads of western heifers, 750 pounds sold at $7.90 to $8.25.

Sheep easier, heavy sheep hard to sell. Good yearlings, $9.00 to $11.00, and mediums $8.00 to $9.00. Light butcher sheep 6 to 6½ cents.

Lambs, spring, choice, 17 to 17½ cents.

Hogs, very strong at week's 50 cent advance to $12.75, off cars, selects.

Union Stock Yards — Receipts for the week: 4,641 cattle, 2,098 calves, 2,696 hogs, 1,960 sheep and lambs.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., June 23 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for grain here yesteday was of a limited character and the only business transacted was a few loads of wheat and oats. There was a good inquiry from New York exporters for tough No. 3 oats here, and bids of 67c per bushel, c.i.f. Montreal, were made freely, which price sellers would not accept, and sales were made at the lose of the day at 67¼ cents per bushel.

There was some demand from local buyers for oats and sales of No. 3 Canadian western were made at 6¼ cents per bushel over the Winnipeg July option, c.i.f. Montreal, and No. 2 feed changed hands at 66c, c.i.f. The trade in car lots was moderate, with country buyers, and prices ruled steady.

Owing to the further strength in the cash wheat situation at Winnipeg a stronger feeling developed in the local market for spring wheat flour, and millers generally marked up the prices 10 cents per barrel. There was a steady demand from English importers for supplies, and the local and country trade also showed improvement. There was no change in the condition of the market for winter wheat flour, prices being maintained with only a very moderate trade passing.

The millfeed market was moderately active, with a steady undertone. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and unchanged.

The trade in eggs was fairly active and the tone of the market was firm. There was a steady demand from dealers for high grade stock, and further sales of Ontario extras were made at 35½ cents per dozen, f.o.b. shipping points, and British Columbia extras sold at 32c, with firsts at 31c per dozen, f.o.b. Vancouver, for shipments next week. The receipts were 1,834 cases.

There was no further change in prices for potatoes, but the undertone to the market was very firm, with a good steady demand from local buyers. The trade in imported new crop potatoes was also reported fair, and as supplies were ample for all requirements, prices were unchanged for No. 1 grade at $4.00 per barrel, and for No. 2 grade at $2.75 per barrel, ex-store.

A good steady trade continues to be done in imported beans, and as supplies on spot were none too large for the requirements, the tone of the market was firm with sales of car lots of choice white hand-picked at $3.90 per bushel, and broken lots at $4.10 per bushel, ex-store.

A feature of the butter trade was the weaker feeling that developed, and prices scored a decline of ¼c to ¾c per pound. This was attributed to the increased offerings and the absence of any important demand, with the result that only a small volume of business was done. The receipts were 4,676 packages.

The cheese trade was quieter owing to the lull in the foreign demand, and in consequence trading between houses on spot was somewhat of a limited character. Spot prices were unchanged. The receipts were 9,646 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, June 23 (Canadian Press). — Prospective better harvest conditions in Kansas did much yesterday to overcome wheat price upturns, that accompanied big export business and more news about black rust. Houses with eastern connections led the selling which flattened the market out.

Wheat finished easy, ¼c to ¾c net lower; corn unchanged to ⅝c to ½c higher; oats varying from ¼c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions 2c down to 3c up.

Turn to page 10, please.

Although export dealings in North American wheat yesterday totalled 2,000,000 bushels, most of the business was in wheat from Canada, and the fact was given attention that the Winnipeg market showed weakness towards the last. Meanwhile, bears were putting special stress on a forecast of fair skies for Kansas, although the general run of reports indicated that several days of dry weather will be needed before Kansas harvest work can get under way in earnest.

GOD'S MINUTE

Ye believe in God, believe also in Me.—John 14:1.

Almighty God, in Whom we live and move and have our being, we adore Thee as the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, in Whose name we present our adoration, our thanksgiving, our praise, and our supplication. We thank Thee for the gift of Thy Son; through Whom we have our redemption, and in Whose name we ask for the pardon of all our sins. We beseech Thee, O Lord, to keep us this day, in all joy, health, and safety from the perils that may beset us. Grant that from day to day we may walk in all reverence and godly fear in the way of Him Who hath called us into His Church and Kingdom. Deliver us, we pray Thee, from all envy, and fear, and temptation. Grant unto us that which is good and profitable, and forgive us those things wherein we have sinned against Thee. Deliver us from all those things which estrange men one from another, from such things as cause men to stumble and err from the truth as it is in Christ. Keep us from the dominion of selfishness, and grant us willingness to bear one another's burdens. These, and all other needed blessings, we ask in the adorable name of our Saviour, to Whom with the Father and the Spirit shall be the praise and power and dominion now and forevermore. Amen.

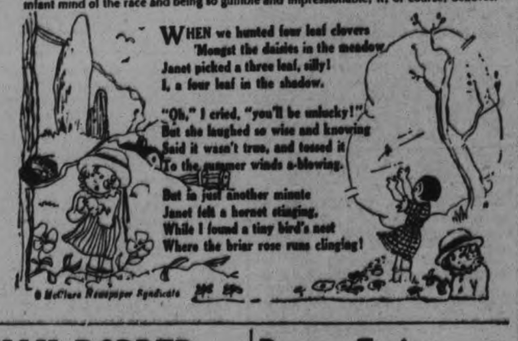
SUPERSTITIONS of all kinds are not far removed from ignorance. Superstition implies fear and folks are afraid of that which they do not understand. In olden days when anything unusual happened or a phenomena occurred people tried to explain it by the law of cause and effect—something was done to bring about this result. So there sprang up many superstitions which we find persisting even in this enlightened age. We find ourselves carefully not going under a ladder, picking up a hairpin to hang on a nail, avoiding a number thirteen and observing a hundred other superstitions. We do it with a laugh, a little apologetically perhaps, because we feel we know better and yet we continue to give in to our impulse of fear of an imagined result if we do not observe the superstition. More than that we go right on handing down to our children this heritage of bondage to ignorance. The child mind is like the infant mind of the race and being so gullible and impressionable, it, of course, believes.



MAIL ROBBED DURING VOYAGE

Bags Found Tampered With When Leviathan Reaches Southampton.

LOSS MAY BE $500,000.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., June 23.—(Canadian Press).—An extremely cunning and thorough robbing of mail aboard the steamship Leviathan, which arrived at Southampton yesterday, has been disclosed.

The extent of the robbery and the number of mail bags tampered with could not be determined to-day. Nothing that could be negotiated easily was touched, and this, together with the thoroughness with which the robbery was carried out, seemed to indicate that the letters were tampered with before they were placed aboard the Leviathan, which sailed from New York, June 16.

Although no official figures are yet available, it was reported cheques, bank drafts, bills of exchange, and bank notes amounting to many thousands of pounds were involved. Some official estimates placed the loss as high as $500,000.

GREAT HELP TO YOUNG MOTHERS

Baby's Own Tablets Have Many Uses and Are Absolutely Harmless.

To have in the house a simple, harmless remedy for the minor ills of babies and little children is a great boon to young mothers, and this is exactly why Baby's Own Tablets have been found in thousands of households. The Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels, break up colds and simple fevers, allay the irritation of cutting teeth, yet they have no drug taste and the children like them.

Concerning the Tablets Mrs. Ruthven Crommiller, Ruthven, Ont., writes: "Kindly send me your little book on the Care of the Baby. I have two children, one four years of age and the other a year and a half. Both are in excellent health and the only medicine they have had is Baby's Own Tablets. I always keep the Tablets in the house and am happy to recommend them to other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cts. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WORKMEN BURNED.

Boiler Explosion in Corbyville Plant Causes Injuries to Two.

BELLEVILLE, June 23 (Canadian Press).—When a tube in a boiler split at the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant at Corbyville, at five o'clock last evening, William Cooke, engineer, and his assistant, F. Campbell, received burns about their face, neck, forearms, and chest. The men were rendered First Aid at the plant and taken to the hospital for treatment. Both will recover.

A LITTLE HELP.

David Lupton 210 Gerrard St. East, Toronto, writes to The Examiner as follows: "I see complaints are being made by the gardeners of St. Thomas district. I would like to give you a good remedy for cut worms and wire worms. Get as much land lime from the kiln or after it has been burned just about as much lime as you think will sprinkle the ground over, not too thick, now that the crop is growing. Now slack your quantity of lime with gasoline just the same as you would with water. Cover the lime over with bags until it has become cool. Do not put lime too near to whatever you are growing and then work it in with the soil and you will soon be rid of such pests. After you get the crops off in the fall then give all your ground a liberal dressing with this remedy and you will find that you will have no further trouble with these pests, for a while anyway. I may say that the farm land in Ontario is greatly in need of lime, even starving for it, as you might say. If this advice was adhered to we would have far less complaints regarding these pests, and others also."

POLICE ENFORCE WEED-CUTTING ACT

Citizens Must Keep Weeds Cut On Their Property, According to Law.

Citizens must cut the weeds on their property, according to the regulations from the Police Department. Recently the entire police force were appointed weed inspectors, and hence from now on it will be their duty to see that the weeds in the city have been cut. The Board of Works has taken the first step in seeing that the new act is carried out to the letter of the law, and has a force of six men busily engaged in cutting the weeds on the city's streets.

Citizens who fail to cut the weeds will either be hailed before the police magistrate or workmen will be engaged to cut the weeds and their wages will be charged against the property in the tax bill.

There can be no picking or choosing on the part of the weed inspectors, for the Provincial Government has appointed an inspector, who is apt to arrive in the city at any time and investigate conditions and see how the act is being carried out.

PEST PREVENTION IS SIMPLE MATTER

Planting Right Sort of Tree Eliminates Various Moths, Etc.

Now what about the Oriental Beach Moth? I see one of our entomologists, not knowing particularly what he was talking about, blames the quince tree as most favorable or partial to harboring the aforesaid pest or moth, whichever you choose to term it. Now, why did he not know. Mind you, I say know, that the two weaker sexes in all plant life will always at all times in season, pester and ruin any kind of tree and fruit grown thereon of the above said sex. Therefore, why not get down to facts and common sense and cut down the trees which encourage this pest, and grow only the tree or plant which does not harbour this pest. It is very simple to distinguish between each tree and plant as they grow, as to what sex they are. Each one has a distinction in the growth and is easy to distinguish.

It may be interesting to know that nothing but the female tree should be planted in all kinds of fruit trees. Now, if this was adhered to, we would very soon eliminate all the insects which we hear so much about to-day from our learned men, who are at the heads of our different Entomology Departments. But, most of all, it would be the saving of millions of dollars now being spent each year, and the pests are becoming worse instead of improving. Now you must all know where that money has to come from in the first place, from the people, of course, in taxes, etc. Now, why not start right now to save the 33 per cent. which is wasted by insect pests, and let some of the money now being thrown away revert to the farmers' and fruit growers' pockets. Remember, they are the men and women, too, who have the brunt of the burden to carry long before you see the finished product set before you on your table to enjoy.

Now you will see the advantage over applied research which is attempting to remedy disease after it has attained a good foothold.

Now, then, why not try out the true or pure research, which will cure the disease before it shows itself on the surface. You will see my remedy for the Beach Moth, is just pure research. It saves a lot of useless theory and expense.

To know is golden.

GIFTS PRESENTED TO CLERGYMAN

Congregation Bids Farewell to Rev. J. W. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon.

At the conclusion of the preparatory service at St. Andrew's United Church last evening occasion was taken by the large congregation in attendance to make presentations to Rev. J. W. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon who are leaving shortly to take up residence in St. Catharines, where Mr. Gordon has accepted a call in one of St. Catharines' prominent churches.

The chair was taken by G. A. Gillespie who made both presentations.

Previous to the presentations, H. R. H. Kenner and J. Wells Fraser spoke for the congregation, regretting the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon from Peterborough. In referring to Mr. Gordon Mr. Kenner said that as a minister, as a man and as a citizen, he would be greatly missed.

The presentation to Mrs. Gordon was a five piece silver service, and to Mr. Gordon a purse of gold.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gordon replied feelingly, and referred to the very pleasant associations they had made during their residence in the city.

GIRLHOOD DANGERS

Too Many Growing Girls Are the Victims of Anaemia.

In their early teens it is quite common for young girls to outgrow their strength, and mothers should carefully watch the health of their daughters at this time. It is when the strength is sapped by too rapid growth that anaemia develops. The first signs may be marked by peevishness, langor and headaches. The face grows pale, breathlessness and palpitation become apparent, with low spirits and depression.

At the first sign of anaemia mothers should act at once. Neglected anaemia often leads to a decline, but if you see that your daughter's blood is enriched there need be no cause for anxiety. The finest blood enricher ever discovered is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pure, red blood created by these pills quickly banishes all signs of anaemia. They will build up your girl's health and ensure for her a healthy, robust womanhood.

Give your daughter a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Make her bright, vigorous and strong like the thousands of girls and women throughout Canada who have been rescued from the clutches of anaemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. and you will receive free a valuable little booklet entitled "Building Up the Blood."

RAINS HELPFUL.

To-day's Showers Pleasing To Farmers, But Not To Sport Lovers.

TORONTO, Ont., June 23 (Canadian Press). — Further heavy rains in parts of Ontario fell to-day, causing dismay to sport lovers anticipating many week-end events, but being quite welcome so far as farmers were concerned. Officials of the Department of Agriculture to-day indicated that the rains, though fairly frequent of late, had generally not been heavy enough yet to cause any apprehension in Ontario as to the condition of the grain and vegetable crop.

Cork legs are so called, not from the material used in them, but from their inventor, Dr. Cork.

Trading In Mine Shares Very Quiet This Morning

TORONTO, June 23.— (Canadian Press.) — Trading was dull at the morning session of the standard stock and mining exchange. Arno was the surprise of the morning, jumping four points to 30. Trading in Amity Copper was less to-day, but a gain of a point to 53 was recorded. Noranda responded to increased buying with a gain of 50 points to 36.90. Pend Oreille was the chief gainer amongst the western stocks, advancing five points to 13.05 with less than 1,000 shares traded in. Hudson Bay and Sherritt Gordon were firm at 16.76 and 6.00 respectively. Wright Hargreaves was up one at 4.21, Teck Hughes was down 11 to-day at 10.55. The general tendency was upward in the lower priced issues and general firmness was displayed in the higher priced issues.

Bad Weather In Kansas Brings Decline In Wheat

CHICAGO, June 23. — Better weather in Kansas and favorable conditions in the northwest with lower prices at Liverpool, had an early bearish effect to-day on the wheat market here. St. Louis reported the arrival to-day of the first car of new wheat from Oklahoma. Starting ¼c to 1¼c off Chicago wheat kept near to the initial range; corn and oats were relatively firm; corn opening unchanged to ½c down but subsequently scoring some advance.

Opening prices were: Wheat July 136¼; September 138 3-8; corn July 98 1-8; September 94 7-8; oats July 54 5-8; September 46 3-8.

Toronto Market Dull With Few Shares Sold

TORONTO, June 23. —(Canadian Press.)— Extreme listlessness again characterized trading on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, with a moderate volume of sales in every issue. The absence of stocks for sale is, according to local brokers, a sure precursor of better conditions in the near future. Heaviest trading was recorded in International Nickel, which dropped off a point and a half to 90. Brazilian, with only 50 shares offered for sale, held firm at 53 3-8. English Electric recorded the heaviest loss, losing four points to 94. Hayes Wheel, former market favorite, was off ¼ at 29½.

The oil stocks continued firm. British American Oil was unchanged at 36¾, while International Petroleum was down ¼ at 20, with transactions in only 20 shares. Imperial Oil was up 1-8 at 60.

—and the Roads That Once Were Open Will Be Open Once Again

Twenty million ordinary automobiles crowd the once open roads.

A hundred million people seeking freedom from the drabness of daily life ride up and down the modern version of the trails of pioneers.

Yet, still there throbs in every vein, the old American call to romance and adventure, still the lure of going somewhere to meet the thrill of the unexpected.

But it's hard to get beyond the multitude in ordinary cars. There are so many of them. They fill so much of highways that were lonely yesterday.

There is a way to leave the crowds behind. There is a car so swift, so comfortable, so dependable that you can reach and cross the farthest horizon with ease.

It is the Reo Flying Cloud of 1929.

Roads that once were open are open roads again when you drive this pleasure car.

For the Reo Flying Cloud laughs at sluggish traffic as it alertly beats the rest to every opening.

Hour after hour, it will hit a higher average speed to take you farther than the average car can cruise.

Gayly it takes the roughest roads, the steepest climbs, the widest plains.

With a zest that's all its own, it sails you out to the roads that are still open, while making the roads that once were open seem uncrowded because it does so many things better.

There's a new Reo Flying Cloud of 1929 here for you to test. Try it out in every way you wish. Let it tell its story to you in its own sweet-running way.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE
By Mary Marshall.

Generously proportioned beige ostrich feather boa, worn with a red and blue printed silk frock. The hat is beige with a band of red and blue.

Ostrich feather boas have come back into favor, and for the very reason that they are not as yet very widely worn, one of these new scarfs might well be chosen as an accessory for one of your summer ensembles. For daytime wear the smartest choice is a boa in one of the light fur shades—beige or gray. They are always full—being almost as large around as a fox scarf—and are sometimes quite short with ribbon ends and loops. Sometimes they are quite long, like the one shown in the sketch.

It has come to be taken for granted that most coats and other wraps shall be made without fur collars, and now that we have got into the way of this arrangement it is possible to see advantages in it that were not so apparent when the idea of the furless coat was first launched.

Seldom are these collarless coats worn without some sort of collars or scarfs however. Fox scarfs of many sorts are chosen, and there are all sorts of ways of wearing silk scarfs to give the necessary finish to the collar line. Recently I have seen several separate scarf collars made entirely of very wide velvet ribbon. One of dark blue to go with a dark blue ensemble had a large flat bow at the back and loops and ends at the front.

An amusing sports scarf I saw the other day was made of beige silk—long and only about eight inches wide—with a fringed end showing figures of tennis players in bright colored paint. These long narrow scarfs are decidedly smart and are usually worn knotted close at the throat or secured by means of one of the new composition scarf holders.

For evening wear there is nothing newer than the small triangular scarf of chiffon covered with paillettes.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

A BRILLIANT sunshade was seen at Chemong this week, with tiny frills of gathered ribbon in scroll effect. The color scheme, canary and pink, might not appeal to some, though it was very effective. Sunburn is no longer smart, and this year every woman will endeavour to protect her skin by carrying a sunshade as regularly as she does her compact. It is easy to cover old sunshades, and any reader desiring detailed information may have it on writing to The Examiner, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope. Dress materials of silk, or a mixture of silk and cotton, should b e used.

A lady who has just opened her cottage for the summer laughed when someone remarked that the greatest bore of vacation time is that breakfast must be cooked as usual. "I overcame that last year," she said, "by preparing breakfast while fussing around with the previous day's dinner. While waiting for dinner to cook I prepare the grapefruit (and it tastes better for having the sugar crystallize on it), cook the cereal in a double boiler so that it need only be heated next morning; prepare the fish or potato balls, if I plan to have them, and even mix the dry ingredients for muffins. I place all the dishes for breakfast on a large tray and cover them with a tea towel, ready to be placed on the table." Probably the greatest advantage is in having breakfast planned the day before, so that one knows just what she wants to do when she arrives in the kitchen in the morning.

In one of the stores is shown a jumper in yellow crepe de chine, suitable for wear with a cardigan suit or tailor-made. This model is sleeveless, and has pin-tucks on either side of the waist, with a slenderizing effect. It has a jabot, said to be returning this season, scalloped and edged with net.

Two acquaintances talking over skin bleaching in a popular city store were overheard, and it proved not at all difficult to glean a valuable secret from one. Homemade, and with simple ingredients, this bleach is well recommended by the beautifully-textured skin of its sponsor. To one cup of yellow cornmeal add sufficient buttermilk to make a creamy paste, and then let the mixture stand. Wash with soap and water the parts to be bleached and rinse well, then, without drying the skin, smooth over a generous amount of the paste. Cover with gauze or bandages and moisten with buttermilk for half an hour, then let it dry out naturally. Remove by moistening it again, and massage with a soothing skin lotion. Ten minutes is long enough to leave the pack on the face at one time, but it can be kept on the neck and arms for half-an-hour without inconvenience.

When it was remarked to an Aylmer street lady how bright her home looked in its garb of cretonne furniture "slip covers," she pointed out that they actually make the house cooler in summer. They certainly provide an invigorating change from the darker decorations of winter.

At a special church service last Sunday the choir sang, presumably, a very special anthem. Throughout the rendition only one word stood out recognizably, and that was a sacred name that occurred several times, and was doubtless known by that reason. That manner of singing may be interesting to those who appreciate music for music's sake, but all church-goers are not divinely gifted in that way. One would think that, in church music especially, the message of the anthem should be recognizable—but take note on Sunday.

Sheet metal cupboards are built into the kitchen wall of a new country home not far from Peterborough, and the lady of the house is enthusiastic in their praise. Steam and dampness fail to harm cereals, salt and sugar stored in such cupboards, she says.

Asked this week what struck her as being most strange in life here, a newly-arrived Old Country lady said without hesitation: "Serving fruit first at breakfast." It is true that orange marmalade of the Motherland is replaced here by halved oranges or grapefruit, stewed prunes or figs, or fresh berries and cream, and probably the Canadian custom is more healthful.

Not many homes in Peterborough are without pianos, but how many live up to the law recently published by a popular writer? "Pianos should be perfectly bare—not a vase nor a bit of bric-a-brac upon them." Observation shows that the piano top is like a magnet to jim-cracks and photographs, and some pianos rival the whatnot from which our column takes its name.

HAT IMPORTANT PART OF OUTFIT

June Bride Has Many Different Styles to Choose From.

The hat in which she goes away on her honeymoon is always important, and this year the bride will have an unusually large choice of styles.

Although the classic cloche continues smart, the hat with medium brim for sports has great claim to chic this season. Felt and straw appear equally divided in colors that harmonize with the costume, offering a note of contrast when desired.

One of the newest of these sports hats with wider brims, is a model by Rose Valois and is named "Ile de France." It is shown in various colors of felt, chiefly white, navy and bright navy with a band of three-tone grosgrain ribbon finished with a simple twist as its only decoration.

Straw this season is more important than it has been for years. Chief among the novelty straws are those quite rough in texture such as paillasson, basket weave straw, farmerette straw, tweed straw and gingham straw, woven in either one tone, such as natural or in two colors combined, as natural and red or blue. These appear in small, medium and larger shapes.

Bangkok, ballibuntl, bakou and sisol continue to be in favor, the natural shades with darker bands being preferred.

A felt copy of the Suzanne Talbot suede beret is extremely smart and popular, particularly with the younger set, while angora and straw mixtures and hats with angora crowns and straw brims are appearing in quantity.

CLEAN BRUSHES

Never use soap suds on hair brushes. Wash them by dipping up and down in hot water with a little ammonia, soda or borax. Rinse in cold water with a little alum added. Dry with bristles down.

MOTH PREVENTION

Never put a single winter garment away without cleaning if you would prevent moths. They dislike cleanliness. Air everything in the sunshine before packing away.

HALF-MATTRESSES

It is possible to get mattresses for double beds made in two sections, each the full length of the bed. They are easier to handle and more comfortable to sleep on.

JIM'S BIG MISTAKE
By Clarissa Mackie.

Perhaps Jim Edwards had earned his way a little too hardly, it might be that he had been bitter with the sense of money getting and of gain, so that his judgment was twisted, so that when the time came for him to fall in love, it had to be a daughter of the rich who attracted him and won his mad allegiance. And Sally Wright, who believed that she had already given her heart to Billy Jarvis, who had wooed her from cradle days, fell head over heels in love with handsome Jim Edwards, whose fascinating smile and dark expressive eyes, won her heart.

"You are not engaged then to Bill Jarvis?" asked Jim, one summer day that they idled along the shore in his motor-boat.

Sally surveyed Jim with soft, blue eyes. "Billy Jarvis?" she repeated innocently. "We were youngsters together—have always been the best of friends—but, why?"

Jim told her then that he loved her and when they finally came ashore, Sally had promised Jim that she would marry him, and that she did not care whether he was quite poor or not—that she possessed enough money for both of them! So Jim took a train for town the next morning because there was an engagement ring to be found for Sally Wright, and although Jim felt very complacent and quite as though he had done a good stroke of business, back in the farthest corner of his heart now, he locked the picture of another girl—Jean Blake, at the office. He had nearly fallen in love with Jean, but she was poor like himself and he had had to thrust his feeling for her in the background when he first met Sally Wright and her millions.

Thinking about Jean Blake this morning, all the sunshine seemed to be drained out of the summer day. The jeweler's shop looked gray and cold in spite of many windows, but because he was a dogged young man who had a vision of being a rich man if he married a rich girl, James Edwards proceeded to select an engagement ring for Silas Wright's daughter.

In the meantime Billy Jarvis was mounting the steps of the Wright summer home, twirling a tennis racquet. Sally was sitting in a gay chair of parrot red and green, thinking very tenderly of James Edwards, when she saw Bill's broad grin when he glimpsed her loveliness and her heart skipped a beat when she realized that she must break the news to this old friend of hers.

"Come and play tennis with me," invited Mr. Jarvis, his good gray eyes pleading for him.

"I am rather expecting a telephone call——" hesitated Sally, and she had the grace to blush.

"I will stay here, then," said Jarvis in rather a cooler tone than usual.

"Ah, do," urged Sally feebly.

"I heard some news about you last night, Sally."

"I wonder what it could be," she ventured.

"This morning Jim Edwards announced to some of the boys that he was engaged to you."

Sally grew pale and then very pink. "He has not spoken to daddy yet," she murmured.

"You promised to wait for me, Sally," said Billy's cold, hard tones.

"I know it, Billy dear—but he came so swiftly—and I—I——" she buried her face in her fingers.

"Rushed you, eh? And I suppose you're in love with him?"

No answer from the girl, and, after awhile, Billy Jarvis got up and went away—stumbled blindly along the country paths to his own bachelor bungalow where he fell into a great wicker chair and stared dazedly into the broad complacent countenance of Mr. Silas Wright, Sally's father, who was occupying the opposite chair.

"Well, Billy boy, what is the matter with you, eh?"

"I have lost Sally after all!" exclaimed the young man.

Mr. Wright's frosty blue eyes narrowed. "How?" he snapped out.

"Another fellow."

"Name?" prompted the older man.

"Edwards—Jim Edwards. Big fellow nice looking."

"Heard all about him from the man he works for," grunted Mr. Wright. "Ambitious young fellow—wants to marry rich girl and has thrown over nice girl in the office to marry my Sally! Some nerve, I'll say!"

"What can you do about it?"

"Watch me—I'm going to interview him when he comes and tell him that if my girl marries him, she doesn't get a penny of my money. If he truly loves her that won't make any difference to him—if my girl truly loves him, I shall have to let her go—and you know where I have hoped she would choose, Billy—yet, I have a hunch that things will break right after all!"

So after dinner when the late train came in and the hotel bus was crowded with homecoming men, he spied James Edwards among the lot, and waved a careless hand toward him. Long hours Billy sat there alone, smoking, and it was after ten o'clock when he heard a car stop outside the gate and saw Mr. Wright heave himself out.

"Cheerio," said Mr. Wright gayly. "The enemy has withdrawn in some confusion—I lied like a trooper and told him I was on the brink of failure (of course any financier is, my lad), and he backed out—and Sally is as mad at him—whew! Wait till she calls you, Billy—she will in a day or two—and then go to it."

It was a whole year after that before Jean Blake would listen to his pleading, but in the end she did marry Jim Edwards and it is said that they are very happy and slowly growing prosperous.

BRIDAL ROSE FOR JUNE

A new idea for wedding rings is to carve on them a symbol for each month of the year, as a snowdrop for January, continuing with almond blossom for February, violet for March, tulip for April, pansy for May, Bridal rose for June, lily for July, pond lily for August, daisy for September, maple leaf for October, oak leaf for November, and holly for December.

BUDGETING FOR PLEASURE

Last week we discussed a simple method of budgeting, and our program for this week calls for an example of how to budget on a salary of $80 a month in Peterborough. Future budgets used in this series will be based on an average family of five—two adults and three children—but for this first sample we shall discuss the case of a young couple just starting married life.

It is presumed, of course, that the house furnishings have been purchased before marriage. If marriage is attempted on an $80 salary without the plant being furnished, then disaster looms near and at the very best the adventurous couple may expect only a long, uphill struggle. It is also presumed, for this first year, that both parties to the contract have purchased their clothing requirements for the year (except incidentals).

The average rent over the Dominion is $24, and we know of comfortable houses in Peterborough that rent for $15 a month. One has parlor, dining room, kitchen two bedrooms and bath. It has not the best appearance; but much could be done with the use of flowers to brighten it up. There should be no difficulty in obtaining a house at $20, then—or perhaps an apartment.

Electric light will cost about $2.25 in winter and less proportionately in summer gas about $2.50 the year round six tons of coal and an allowance of $22.50 for wood should be ample for fuel, furnishings are practically nil, in a new home food for two should not cost more than $7 a week in winter and less in summer "health" is an item difficult to budget, but it is for emergencies which arise under this head that money is banked incidentals may be used for such by savings on other items "education" will be explained later in this article "recreation" provides for seeing two picture shows a month and subscription to magazines clothing, as intimated above, should be no problem for the first year bank savings, under this budget, amount to only $35 in the year, but many families fail to save even that "life insurance" provides for a policy of $2,000 (all that is necessary the first year) on the plan described later. Here is the budget:

		Jan.	Feb.	Mar.	Apr.	May	June	July	Aug.	Sep.	Oct.	Nov.	Dec.

Now, let us analyse this budget; with special reference to items which might be challenged, keeping in mind always the fact that the object is not to make an ideal budget, but to budget a salary of $80 a month, all that is available.

Rent has already been dealt with. The light bill can be cut materially if care is used to switch off all bulbs not needed. It is carelessness in burning lights that boosts the bill. Light and gas are reduced in August, when the budgeteers are away on a two weeks' camping trip—the least expensive and the most invigorating holiday possible. For this trip, $20 is allowed under "recreation," and the usual amount is entered for groceries, giving ample for a two weeks' holiday.

Fuel, of course, is variable with different houses and people. Some large houses in Peterborough are heated to the satisfaction of the tenants with only five tons of coal a season, while smaller houses use more and are complained of as being cold. The allowance made here is ample.

The item for "education" may appear out of place in the budget of a newly-married couple, but how is "he" ever to have more to budget than $80 a month unless he learns to earn more? It is the opinion of the writer that every man should be at all times studying ahead of his job, and the reasonable way is, of course, through correspondence schools. With the advent of the Vocational School in Peterborough it may be expected that evening classes will be thrown open to adults, but these may not give just the right kind of education a man desires. If $3 a month will buy a course of study that will fit a man to hold a better position, it is a good investment and is worth a great deal of struggle to save in other departments. This idea is commended to young wives, who may do much to encourage and help their husbands towards the making of dreams come true.

Besides the special item for vacation in August, "Recreation" has another boost in June. This is not advertising, but a reminder that The Examiner subscription should be paid in a season when other demands are not heavy!

The allowance for life insurance may appear small, but it is adequate at this stage of life. Under a scheme prepared by one company, eligible men under certain ages may insure at half the regular premium for five years. At the end of that period it is presumed the young man will have found his place in the world and will be able to pay the full premium. In the meantime he has full protection. The $1.00 a month, under such a plan, will provide $4,000 insurance for a young man around 25 years. This should, by the way, be increased on a regular plan. Don't take every new offer that comes temptingly along. The best insurance men are not high pressure salesmen; but men who will be eager to select for you the best possible policy and plan of payment. Ordinary insurance will run about $2,000 for the investment indicated.

As this budget is prepared, every month's total is just $80. It should be remembered that it is anyone's privilege to disagree with individual items to say "it can't be done." But it has been done. The family from which the information used (with some improvements) in the sample budget was gathered actually did it on less. The salary coming into this home was only $78 monthly, and there was one child. Stoves were used to heat the house, and unused rooms were closed in winter to conserve heat. Vegetables grown in the back garden were packed in sand for winter use. The cheapest cuts of meat were skilfully made over into appetizing dishes by the woman of the house. In a thousand little ways, throughout the year, means were found to trim and pare, and hew to the budget allowance of $78 a month.

Today this family has an income of more than four times the $78, and credit is given by both parties to their foresight in expending a few dollars a month several years ago out of their meagre resources in order that the husband might be prepared to advance when his opportunity came.

GIRL, HYPNOTIZED, GOES UNDER KNIFE

Chicago, June 23.—As she lay on her hospital bed, awaiting the call from the operating room, a woman patient in St. Luke's Hospital was hypnotized by Dr. Alfred P. Solomon, neurologist. Trundled off to the operating table, she underwent a major operation for adhesions in the abdomen without any anesthetic being administered.

Awakened after she had been in the hypnotic sleep for an hour, the girl said she thought she had been asleep only a few minutes, and that she had felt no pain.

WORK OF THE INSTITUTE

Many instructional booklets and pamphlets are issued by the Women's Institutes through the Ontario Department of Agriculture. These booklets cover a great variety of subjects of particular interest to women, and the treatment is comprehensive and interesting.

Some of the titles are: Why and How to Use Skim Milk· Milk· Cheese· Cream· Buttermilk· Cottage Cheese· Eggs, Their Place in the Canadian Diet· Food For the Family· Milk Drinks· The Preservation of Food (canning methods)· Food Value and Preparation of Vegetables.

Some of the myriad subjects discussed at club meetings are: The Business of Being Women; Giving the Baby a Right Start in Life; The Responsibility of Home Making; The Principles of Dress Eating for Beauty and Efficiency Opportunities of the Rural Girl; The Value of Self Control: The Value of Tact; Needlecraft; Education for Citizenship; Domestic Remedies; Keeping Out of Ruts; Making Life Count.

CAMPBELLFORD BRANCH

Since time began, organizations of various kinds have been brought into being. Some which originated many hundreds of years ago are still powerful, while others have long since been forgotten. Of the women's organizations, the Women's Institute is probably the strongest at the present day. Originating in the Province of Ontario some thirty years ago, the movement has spread to practically every country and nation in the world. Originally it was intended to meet some of the needs of the women of the rural communities, but has grown to much wider bounds and embraces women from both city and country.

At the present time there are more than 1100 branches in Ontario, and before the end of the present year, it is expected that this number will increase to 1200. The Ontario membership is more than 40,000 with a Dominion membership of upwards of 100,000. The Ontario branches are headed by a board of seventeen women who represent the Institute and co-operate directly with the departments of Agriculture, Public Health and Education. The same is true of each of the provinces of the Dominion and above each provincial board, there is the Supreme Federation for the Dominion. This body corresponds to the board of directors of any business concern.

During the days of the Great War, Miss Emily Guest asked and was granted permission to organize the Institute in the British Isles. Her efforts were rewarded with a remarkable degree of success. From there the movement spread to Belgium and France. Recently it has been started in South Africa, India and Australia, Roumania, Japan and China are considering the organization. Thus the Institute is a going concern in practically every great nation of the world.

The Seymour West branch was organized fifteen years ago with Mrs. Chas. Macoun as its first president. She remained in office for seven years, part of which time was during the war. The organization meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Chas. Longmuir on the eleventh concession of Seymour. Mrs. Parsons of Toronto was present as the official organizer. Mrs. George VanVolkenburg, Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Mrs. Thos. Dunham and Mrs. Reginald McCulloch are the other ladies who have occupied the president's chair up to and including the present time.

The work of the Institute, although along many lines all tends to one common end, the improvement of the home life and the betterment of affairs generally in the communities where branches are organized. It has been found invaluable particularly in the rural districts. Among the activities are child welfare, education, community recreation and activities, beautification o the homes and public places, historical research and agriculture. At the present time the Provincial board are asking for histories of the various communities and relics of past days for the purpose of preservation for future reference. The Institute also assists the needy and is instrumental in securing hospital and medical attention to those who are in need.

Its real worth has been proved by its phenomenally rapid growth in the thirty years since its origin. Beginning modestly in Ontario, it has spread to almost the entire world and not only in rural districts but in the larger centres as well. It has been termed the "Greatest university the world has ever known" not because of its great numbers but by reason of its achievements. It has been said that it is one of the great forces dominating human character and action and that the thought developed in the "University" will be a dominant power working for the future peace and welfare of the country.

MOUNT PLEASANT BRANCH

The Mount Pleasant branch of Women's Institute has been an active branch of the East Durham's Women's Institute ever since its organization, some twenty years ago.

Cement Sidewalks Laid.

The credit of the cement sidewalk laid throughout the village streets goes to the Women's Institute, under whose directions each year a new portion of sidewalk has laid until all the streets in the village can boast of a cement walk.

Piano Purchased.

A piano was purchased by the Institute for the use of the community, for the convenience of concerts and entertainments.

Bales of clothing are sent yearly in answer to Relief calls.

Fruit has been sent almost every year to the Sick Children's Hospital.

Donations are given to worthy societies, "Navy League," etc.

Needy families have been aided locally.

A shower of fruit and pickles was given strangers coming from a foreign land.

The distribution of Christmas Cheer to the sick, while the "visiting sick committee," visit the sick with fruit or flowers throughout the year.

Two splendid two weeks' courses have been held, both of which proved very beneficial. The first was in "Dressmaking" when Mrs. Delahae, of Toronto, was the instructor sent by the Department, and the second course was "Food Values and Cooking" instructed by Miss Duncan, also of Toronto.

During the past month the "Temperance Hall," an old landmark of the community has been given to the Women's Institute by the "Grand Templars Lodge" in Toronto.

Plans are already being made for the renovating of the condition of the hall which at present is in need of a great amount of repair.

Mrs. Thos. Graham is this year's President and Mrs. T. C. Morden is secretary.

MADOC BRANCH

Madoc Branch of North Hastings Institute had the honor of coming first in the eight branches in this district.

Seventy members were reported for the past year with eighteen papers and addresses.

Donations were made to the Children's Shelter, and to Bancroft Hospital.

Prizes were given to women's and children's work at the Fall Fair, also directors provided for the fancy work and domestic departments.

Receipts for the year were $382.82, of which fifty dollars was donated to the Memorial Fund.

Two cemetaries are looked after, and flowers or fruit are sent to all shut-in members.

A Millinery Class was held, with 26 members, which was a great success.

MILLBROOK BRANCH

The local branch of the Women's Institute has lived up to its motto of community service by a number of civic improvements which it has undertaken and successfully carried through in recent years, among these being: signboards at each of the four main roads leading into the village· flowers each season around the Soldiers' Memorial in the town hall square· a new piano in the concert auditorium of the town hall· and a new hardwood floor on the stage· improved pantry accommodation in the kitchen used when public social gatherings are being served with refreshments in the hall.

Mrs. Charles Thorndyke filled the chair as president for the past three years while many of these improvements were carried out, Mrs. T. H. Harkness being elected to this position at the annual meeting in May.

The Girls' Judging Competition, for which the East Durham Women's Institute voted $20.00 in prize money at its recent annual meeting, is open to every girl in the county, and is being organized by the Agricultural Representative, J. Y. Kellough· fifteen counties in the province carried on these competitions last year, the Women's Institute Branch, in each case, sending a teacher to coach the girls, and to make arrangements for the competitions. The junior farmers' livestock judging competition is usually held on the same day, and the two classes then come together for a banquet at night, when the winners are announced and the prizes awarded.

The local branches throughout Durham County are expected to help materially in interesting the girls in the competition, with its fine opportunity for gaining information along practical lines· each branch in East Durham will contribute $2.50 to make up the total $20.00 of prize money.

The boys' competitions teach them standards of quality in live stock, and the object for the girls is to lead them to know standards of quality in household articles, especially food and clothing.

The program for the province is uniform in character, and is used at the provincial competition to which the winners are sent at the Canadian National Exhibition. The program this year, according to information supplied by Mr. Kellough to the East Durham delegates, is threefold:

1.—Nutrition—Judging (a) school lunches· (b) family menus.

2.—Home Baking—Judging (a)bread· (b) loaf cake.

3.—Sewing—Judging (a) house dresses· (b) hemming and button-holing.

WARSAW BRANCH

The Women's Institute throughout the province have had an especially busy time. The branch annual meetings must be held during May, and these are reported. The department delegates come around during the latter part of May and June. These women are especially chosen for their work, and just how women of the stamp they all are, are secured, is a wonder.

The coming of these delegates is a blessing. Some are married, some not. Many have been school teachers, and are now living on farms. Many have lived their lives on farms· all are vitally interested in all that is meant by the Institute motto: "For Home and Country." Their talks are practical. Many people who give addresses do not understand rural conditions. These delegates understand conditions, and have visions and methods of making these visions realities, with the use of ordinary common sense, and application, and it is being done.

Besides these two special meetings, in each branch (though sometimes two or more branches unite for the delegates' address) there is always the District Annual, which is held at the different points in turn, at which representatives from each branch attend. This year it was held at Warsaw, and though there was rain all day, there were over one hundred in attendance, in the afternoon, and about eighty at the purely business gathering in the forenoon.

Mrs. Thomas Cooper is district representative, and visited Hampton and Lindsay in her official capacity last week.

The Warsaw Institute plans giving a dinner on July the twelfth. Mrs. Thomas Cooper is convener of the committee.

Favorite Recipe

The following recipes were given by Mrs. R. Bonny, of Havelock, who is a real home cook, in her address on "How to make puff paste easily," at the recent meeting of the Havelock Women's Institute. The formula for recipe No. 3, "Bonny's Southern Biscuits" being one of Mrs. Bonny's composition.

Recipe 1.—Puff Paste.

1 pound of sweet butter (without salt), 1 pound of best pastry flour, sifted twice, 1 lemon, cut in two· enough cold water to make a dough not too moist or paste will be tough.

Preparation: Cut butter into inch cubes and squeeze juice into water and mix to a paste with a knife. Flour board lightly and roll very thin. Gradually work in the butter three or four pieces at a time. Fold paste in three, and at every fold flop the paste so as to enclose as much air as possible. Continue rolling out and putting in three or four small pieces of butter until all is used, never omitting to enclose as much air as possible at the foldings. When all the butter has been worked in, take the remaining half of lemon and squeeze a few drops over paste. Fold and roll again. Fold once more and put away for at least eight hours in a tightly closed vessel to exclude the air or a hard top will form on the paste. Throughout the operation the handling should be very light. This paste can be kept for two or three days and is delicious for tarts and all fancy pastry.

Recipe No. 2.—Puff Paste for Pies.

1 pound pastry flour, half teaspoon salt, one quarter pound lard, half-pound butter, cold water to make a dough.

Preparation: Cut lard into sifted flour with knife and roll out. Then cut butter into cubes and work in a few at a time, flopping the paste in the same manner as in recipe No. 1. This paste is nicer if left on ice for an hour.

Recipe No. 3.—Bonny's Southern Biscuits.

Two cups of flour sifted twice, with half teaspoon of salt, four level teaspoons of baking powder· one egg beaten into enough sweet jilk to make a soft dough. Mix lightly. Roll out and cut. Place some butter in a frying pan and when real hot fill with biscuits. Keep putting in sufficient butter to keep pan moist as they will absorb quite a lot. When well risen turn over. If preferred cold water can be used in place of egg and milk.

A Tip or Two

COLD FEET

If your feet get chilled easily, bathe daily in cold water to which has been added a cup of solution of rock salt dissolved in boiling water.

FRESH GREEN

A few grape fruit, orange or date seeds, planted in some sandy soil in a fancy pot, make a soft, delicate bit of green for winter decoration.

STUFFED CABBAGE

One delicious way of using up turkey scraps is to take big leaves of cabbage and tie them around a paste made of meat, dressing, gravy or white sauce. Boil in salt water.

PREVENT SPOTS

In stitching white or other perishable finery, one sure way to prevent spots is to stitch tissue paper over the goods and tear away afterwards.

After taking 1000 ZUTOO TABLETS Says they are Harmless

Mrs. (Dr.) Shurtleff, of Coaticook, says "I must have taken 1000 Zutoo Tablets. After trying every remedy within reach, I discarded them all four years ago for ZUTOO, which I have taken ever since. I find the tablets a harmless and efficient remedy for all kinds of headache."

GIRL WHO MAKES HER CLOTHES CAN DRESS WELL FOR $180; UNSKILLED SISTER PAYS $300

This Week's Outfit Is For Business Girl Earning $30 a Week.

ACTUAL CASES.

Ability To Sew Means Big Saving in Year's Dress Budget.

(By Jeanette)

There are several angles to the dress question. The girl who can sew has it all over her sister who may be a very poor needlewoman, and she is sure to be farther ahead financially also. It is interesting to note just what saving can be effected by making one's own garments. In these days of intricate patterns which do most of the planning, and of expert advice at every hand, from magazine articles that describe in detail just how to go about making a frock or hat to the example of those engaged in teaching night sewing classes, it should not be hard for one with any capacity for sewing to make nearly every item in her wardrobe.

The following outline is designed to give an idea of the outfit of clothes for one year possessed by a business girl with a good position, one that nets her anywhere from $27 to $30 a week. It will be observed that she has a fairly extensive wardrobe, one that fits her for appearance anywhere, but business girls of the modern type do possess just such wardrobes.

It must be remembered, too, that many articles of dress are good for anywhere from two to three years and therefore the cost has been divided over a longer period than a twelve-month. The comparison is made between the actual cost, at fairly conservative prices, to the girl who buys everything ready made and the cost to the one who is able to make things for herself.

We know a certain very expert needlewoman who was able, on one occasion, by dint of much fine sewing and careful attention to pattern, to turn out a very nice winter coat of heavy weight grey tweed. But the average sewer could not compass such an ambitious undertaking, so we will consider the cost of a good fur-trimmed coat for winter wear as somewhere in the neighborhood of $60, and put aside $20 in either case for a garment that should give three years' wear.

For office use, this girl has two dresses in the winter season and one good frock for afternoon or semi-formal evening use. Buying carefully, she can get a tailored tricotine for $18 and a smart flannel dress for $7. To make the first would cost her about $8 or $9 and the second would cost about $3.50. These are frocks of a business type without much trimming. The third dress, made of silk crepe, would cost in the stores $20 at least, but it could be made for half that sum. This allows for the modish type of dress developed in crepe or georgette and worn over a silk slip, with possibly a flower for ornament, and also allows for from three and one half to four yards of goods at $1.25 to $2.00 a yard.

Many girls have half a dozen evening frocks in a season, but we think two will do for this particular demoiselle. She buys a taffeta gown for $30 and a georgette for $25. She could make the taffeta frock for $8, and the georgette for $6.50. The first is a little duck of a dress that relies principally on its mode for its fascination. It comes in the tight bodice and bouffant skirt effect, with a scalloped hemline short in front and long in back. It has no sleeves and the only adornment needed is a big silk chrysanthemum at $2. The second dress, of georgette, is made with a wide lace flounce to the skirt and a bertha collar of the same lace.

Spring comes along and this young lady gets a rainy day outfit. This can't be made, so we are going to allow her $20 for the slicker, rubbers and parasol. These items, with the exception of the rubbers or Raintees, will last for three years anyway, so that makes about $6.70 a year for moist weather clothes.

She doesn't buy a suit, at least not this year. Perhaps another year she will, but this season she purchases a light-weight coat of navy or sand or mixed tweed, and pays from $15 to $18 for it. Again, she might make this garment, but chances are she won't attempt it, so we give her two yeri' wear on it and charge up from $7.50 to $9 per annum for its use.

A sweater comes in here too, and for this she may pay about $4.50 for a good sample which will last, if it be of a conservative model, anywhere from two to four years.

Her summer frocks are three and she also buys a sports suit, one of cream flannel with short, trig coat and light silk blouse. For this she pays in the stores anywhere from $15 to $30, depending on the quality. We will have her buy a suit at $20 and divide the cost over two years' wearing. If she made it, she could get a pleated skirt and short coat of the flannel, with a silk blouse, for about $6.

One of her summer dresses costs $5, the second $8 and the third, a "Sunday go to meeting" gown, costs $25.

She could make the first sample of Fuji silk for less than $3, the second, of silk kasha, could be made for $4, and the third, a lovely thing of flowered chiffon, with a silk slip, could be made for—well, we know of a certain young lady who is manufacturing at the present time just such a frock and she says, when completed, it will have cost her in the neighborhood of $9. That includes three and one-half yards of exquisite flowered material, one-third of a yard of sapphire velvet for the tiny collar and streamers and enough thin silk for the slip. It is made with a little shoulder cape and long sleeves. The thin girl who will wear it will gain a little by the cape, which a plumper girl might discard.

Comes the question of underwear, another item which rarely confines itself to one season. Usually there are some articles left over from a former year, especially when one buys, as this young lady does, two winter sets of mixed silk and wool, at $4 a set. These should last her for two seasons, at least. For summer and everyday wear, we will allow her three sets of silk underwear at $3 a set. Of course, they can be purchased much cheaper than this in fibre silk. For 98 cents, one can buy adorable bloomers with tiny pocket, and for 49 cents, fibre silk vest s of good quality can be bought. A pretty silk slip edged with lace comes at 98 cents also, but this girl buys a slip at $2 and makes it last two seasons, while a really good slip for a party frock costs her $4.50 and lasts the same length of time. If she wears dimity, of course, that is much cheaper, and crepe is slightly lower in price also and is valued for its easy laundering qualities.

To make underwear is easy. Fibre silk can be bought from 25 to 50 cents a yard, crepe at $1 and dimity from 25 to 40 cents. Sets of underwear from any of these materials could be made at half the price given in the store.

The same rule applies to nightgowns. If bought, flannelette for winter (and most girls wear this type of nighty, even if they protest that they never have anything but silk next their skins) would cost anywhere from $2 to $3.50 apiece. This girl buys two for cold weather. If she made them, they would cost her in the neighborhood of $1 to $2 each, in light and heavy quality of goods. For warm weather, she has three gowns, costing from $2 to $3 apiece, in light-weight silk or crepe. They would cost her about $1 each, if made.

For corsets, she pays about $10 a year, with a fairly good pullover model for cold weather daily wear and two pairs of light-weight corselettes. These last only one year.

Her silk kimona will cost her from $5 to $15. We saw a delicious set of pyjamas and kimona the other day, developed in coral silk knit, with black trimming, that was priced at $10.75 for the set. And, in another store, we eyed the most gorgeous stuff in silver and yellow silk kimona cloth at 65 cents a yard. If made, a garment of it would cost her about $3.

The difference in price between a heavy bathrobe for cold weather and its making would be about $5, the boughten article coming at $8 and the manufactured garment at $3. We will allow her to buy a bathing suit and cap outright, without any suggestion of home making, and give her $5 for the costume, which may include sandals, if she buys carefully.

What about hats? These can be made for a song and some of the home-made articles are hard to detect, so pretty and dainty are they. A hat soon loses its shape in any case, and a girl with deft fingers can turn out a pretty new piece of millinery in no time and at almost no cost. But this girl buys four hats a year, and most of them never appear during the following season. A felt sports model costs her $2.50, a spring hat is $6, a winter hat the same price, and a summer shape comes at about $7.

We must give her a pair of goloshes also for winter use and allow her $4.50 for them. And a scarf must be purchased, something that is pretty, at about $3. She could make it of crepe for $1.50. For handkerchiefs, we allow her $5 a year. If she cares to make them, they will cost just about half that. She can supplement her supply from Christmas gift boxes.

A bag costs her $3.50 and she pays $7 a year for gloves. This gives her one good pair at $2.50, an ordinary silk pair for everyday spring use at $1.50 and a pair of winter gloves at $3.

She buys two pairs of mixed silk and wool hose at $2.50, a pair and six pairs of silk stockings at anywhere from $1 to $2 a pair. And her shoes cost her $22.50 a year, besides the price of a pair of bedroom slippers. For this, she gets one pair of evening slippers at $8, one pair of spring ties at $6, one pair of Oxfords at $5 and a pair of white shoes at $3.50. They probably overlap to the next season. At least one pair should do so, if she looks after the heels and has them re-soled.

Now, to sum up the difference in price to the girl who buys outright and the other who buys materials and makes them up, allowing for those articles which may last for two or more seasons and pointing out once more that this girl is really well dressed and probably possesses a few more things than the average girl would think was necessary. No allowance has been made for a fur neckpiece, or for a summer coat outside of her light spring coat and sports jacket.

She has been allowed, in this summary —three years' use of her heavy winter coat, her sweater, and her rainy day outfit, and two years for her light coat and sports suit. She will probably have a dress or two left over for another season, but we won't allow for that. In these strenuous days and ever-changing modes, most dresses last only one season. That, of course, is open to argument, and the girl who can sew and who believes in the efficacy of the dye bath as a means of renewing faded garments, again scores heavily.

Her winter underwear, we think, should last for two seasons and at least one set of silk should be good for another year. It is rarely that an entire stock has to be replenished. The same rule applies to nighties, to the kimona, the bathrobe and the bathing suit. A good pair of goloshes should last two seasons, but that does not always happen, so we won't allow anything for that contingency. The same flexible rule applies to scarf, gloves, bag and hose.

The girl who purchases everything ready made in the stores will spend about $300 a year in clothes, which is extravagant on a salary of $1400 to $1560 a year.

But the girl who makes her own apparel will only spend about $180 a year on clothes, which is not out of the way at all, with her salary of the same amount. The difference lies in the cleverness of the fingers of the two girls.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

It's just bewildering how much a girl can think — when she starts thinking of clothes.

MARION'S MAIL

Dear Marion:

The letters you have had from abused wives have been very interesting—and amusing. I wonder what they would do if they were in my place. Guns and swords can be hung up, and books can be stacked or piled on shelves, but what is one to do with whole outlandish sets of furniture? That's my husband's hobby—making furniture.

He takes a notion that he wants to make a table, or a stool, or a mission bench, or something else equally unneeded in the house. He gets out his tools, covers the floors with chips, and scatters dust over everywhere hammering—and the result is another piece of furniture with nowhere to go. I'm expected to (and do!) gush over the new triumph, but it's hard sometimes. The furniture is all right, but it's not needed and there's no place where it fits, and you can't hang it up or stack it up as you would guns or books. I wouldn't for worlds hurt his feelings by trying to discourage him.

Yours sincerely,
PRUDENCE.

This is indeed an interesting symposium that Mrs. C. B. started, and all the letters so far have thrown new light on the problems of the woman who would have her house looking pretty and at the same time cater to her husband's failings. Your problem, Prudence, is to get rid of the surplus product of your husband's ingenious hands—and I would suggest that it should not be difficult for you to find families where such furniture would be greatly appreciated. It would then be easy for you to suggest such gifts tactfully to your husband. Or persuade him to use the articles as gifts for your friends on appropriate occasions.

Let us have more of these little sidelights on life in Peterborough homes.

Dear Marion:

I have been chosen to deliver the address at the closing exercises of my school, and shall be glad if you will give me some idea of the line to take.

Yours truly,
PEGGY.

Usually, valedictories are collections of platitudes, telling the difficulties of students and expressing appreciation to the teachers and parents who have helped to smooth out the difficulties. The valedictorian's audience would prefer to hear the student's views on an absorbing topic. You might tell the opinions of youth regarding the restrictions oldsters would impose on them. This is your supreme chance to present youth's views. Is youth cynical, hardboiled, careless? Or is it just as frank, honest, generous and earnest as older generations were in youth? Do more than defend youth. Make your speech constructive by presenting youth's own opinions—and your audience will sit up and listen, instead of slumping down to yawn.

OUR BABY

Our baby has red hair,
But we don't care.
He has eyes as blue
As his daddy's, too.
And we don't care
If he has red hair.

Our baby has red hair,
But we don't care.
He has a gurgly coo,
And he chuckles, too.
And we don't care
If he has red hair.

Our baby has red hair,
But we don't care.
He'll laugh and play
With us all day.
And we don't care:
We like red hair.

ENTERTAINING GUESTS

A Series Giving Hints on Arranging Parties. By LAURA.

So much is written these days, either in papers, magazines, or books on entertaining, that it is no trouble at all to give a party, an afternoon tea, or any social event which takes any arranging. Some very interesting articles may be found in magazines, or even books, in the Public Library, which give a complete description of any social event, commencing with the "icebreakers" and continuing down to the menu.

A series of interesting articles on entertaining, giving outlines for staging a party which is just a little different from those we are accustomed to, has been chosen for each week to run in The Examiner.

"A Progressive Motor Party", is the title of the one chosen for this week, and was originally used by a group of girls who wished to give something different for one of their girl friends who was leaving the city. They chose to call it "A Progressive Rainbow". At four o'clock one Saturday afternoon, they all met at one of the homes, the porch of which had been decorated in a red color scheme, with Japanese lanterns hung from the roof, while gay red cushions were scattered about on the chairs and steps. After everyone had gossiped for awhile fruit cocktail, to which strawberries added a touch of red, was served, after which a tray of red ribbons was passed from which every girl took one to pin on her blouse as the beginning of her rainbow badge. The guest of honor found, with her favor, a package tied with red ribbons, which she was requested not to open until the end of the journey.

After this, they were taken in cars, (or it may be on a hike), to the home of another of the girls, where little tables had been set on the lawn, the color scheme being orange. Here jellied orange soup was served. The girls were given orange-colored ribbons as favors and the guest of honor received her package tied with orange tulle.

From there they were transported to the home of a third girl, where the main course of the dinner was served, the color scheme being yellow and green. Maidenhair ferns adorned the centre of the table, while tiny wood ferns were scattered around the white cloth.

Again the passing of the green and yellow ribbons and the green and yellow-tied package to the guest of honor, was the signal to move once more.

Upon arriving at the salad course, the girls found the dining-room lighted with blue candles; ragged blue ribbons were arranged as a centerpiece, and fluttering blue tissue butterflies marked the places.

By the time the girls had reached the fifth stop, the moon was coming up, and the girls sats on the verandah in the moonlight and sipped ices to the music of the gramaphone. Lavender streamers were added to

L. A. SOCIETY MEETS AT OMEMEE

Secretary and Treasurer's Reports Read at Monthly Meeting.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

OMEMEE, June 23. — The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Trinity Church was held in the Sunday School Room on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Henderson presided. After the opening hymn, the Scriptural reading found in Psalm 39 was read by Mrs. D. Weir, followed by prayer by Mrs. J. Bushnell. Reports were received from the secretary and treasurer, and upon motion the treasurer was authorized to pay for the new blinds which have been placed on the basement windows. The cleaning and re-decorating of the basement was discussed, also the cleaning of the property and mowing of the grass on the grounds adjoining the church to the east and west sides, and a committee was appointed to look after the same.

Mrs. H. Lamb was asked to find out particulars regarding the re-lettering of the church blackboard.

It was decided to withdraw the annual garden party and instead make a canvass of the congregation. Eight ladies wereappointed to fill this duty. Mrs. M. D. Earle and Miss Jane Earle were appointed a Flower Committee for the church for the month of July.

The meeting closed with the hymn, "I gave My life for thee," followed by the benediction.

arm, which was held, now aloft, like the Statue of Liberty, and now straight out, as she pointed, in emphasis, at one or another of her hearers.

Interested hearers, too, for Tite Riggs was getting a new light on the beautiful Carmelita: Croydon Sears was beginning to see a way out for himself, and Fleming Stone was hearing and weighing this information so freely given, and rapidly assigning it to its true place in his collection of evidence.

"Gently, gently, Miss Folsom," he said, looking at her kindly. "I know you think you have discovered the one who killed your brother, and it excites your sense of justice, but remember we haven't proved anything and, indeed, have little to bank on. A packet of love letters and a position next to Mr. Folsom on the rope in the ocean. I see no more than that, and that, dear lady, is not enough."

"It's enough for me!" Anastasia Folsom's eyes snapped. She snatched up one of the dolls that was perched on the mantel.

"That's the type she is!" she exclaimed as she waved the puppet in the very face of Fleming Stone. "That's the type of Carmelita Valdon; a woman with a serpent's soul!"

The doll, a superior specimen of French art, did indeed look like Carmelita, so much so that it was surprising. But it had a sly, even sinister, expression beneath the luring smile, and the exquisite features, while fascinating, were those of a wicked, designing nature.

Fleming Stone was interested.

"It does look like Mrs. Valdon," he declared.

"Of course it does," Miss Folsom said scornfully. "My brother was a fool about women, or rather, they made a fool of him. So whenever he could find a doll who reminded him of one of his favorites he bought it. All of these represent his sweethearts."

Anastasia was a strange mixture of scorn for these amours of her brother and a staunch loyalty and love for the man himself, whatever he might do.

"Why pick on that doll, then?" Tite Riggs said, thoughtfully. "Maybe the human prototype of some of these other dolls was the guilty person."

"No," and Anastasia took his suggestion seriously. "You see, I know many of these. I don't mean personally, but I happen to know more or less about them. No doll here is the image of a person down here, except that one."

"I gave a doll to the girl, Myrtle," said Pelton, thoughtfully. "She chose it herself—said it was Uncle Garry's favorite. Maybe she's the—"

"Oh, nonsense about the dolls!" Miss Folsom cried, impatiently. "I'm not using that point to fasten this thing on Carmelita Valdon. I only say she had the real reason to want Garry out of the way, and she had the nerve and the wicked soul necessary to the deed."

"And the opportunity," put in Riggs. "Those things are all required," Stone said, smiling a little at the glib repetition of the hackneyed terms, "but there are other things to be considered. A murder such as this one we are considering is the result of careful planning and preparation. Your ordinary bather does not carry a sharp knife around in his pocket on the chance of wanting to kill somebody in a hurry. Nor is that sharp knife easily come by or easily carried about. It means premeditation and that means a long time and definite purpose. Now, Mr. Folsom only arrived here the night before, so whoever killed him prepared for it in a hurry. I mean, in a hurry at the last. I insist that the motive existed long before. To me it seems that some one, who had the murder in his heart, was already down here and earned that evening that Mr. Folsom had arrived. That he then laid his plans and the next morning carried them out with such cleverness that he left no clue."

"The knife?" said Croydon Sears, who, saying little, was listening to Stone.

"That—and I think it was bought at the auction room—was a clever dodge. "I am not sure it was one of the knives bought that night; it may have been bought at any time, or, indeed, brought here from elsewhere. But it does seem to indicate a lover or collector of the antique, and that may or may not be a clue. Probably not, for to my mind a collector would use any weapon rather than one of his own curios."

"Yes," agreed Croydon Sears, "I certainly should have done so."

The Missionary Fathers of the Redemptorist Order, Toronto, will conduct a week's mission in St. Paul's Church, commencing Sunday, June 24. There will be short instruction after the morning Masses and a special mission sermon in the evening at 7.30. To the various exercises of the mission the public is cordially invited.

A large number of baseball fans accompanied the team to Keene on Wednesday evening last and cheered them on to victory. The news was received with enthusiasm in the village, not only among the sporting fraternity, but in the entire community.

The rain which fell on Thursday morning was worth a great deal to the farms and gardens of this community, and growth was advanced by the generous showers. The drouth had become a serious matter on some of the higher ground and the monetary loss would have been considerable if the rain had not come. Wells and cisterns were dry in many parts of the village and the need of rain was very great.

The work of oiling the streets was begun this week, and the streets will be put in first class shape for the summer. A coat of sand was put on over the oil, which improved it considerably.

The A.Y.P.A. picnic, scheduled for Thursday afternoon, was postponed till a later date because of the rain. A meeting will be called to make further arrangementas.

CHAPTER XLI.

"It isn't ridiculous, except that it's not wise to jump at conclusions so rapidly," said Riggs. "But I have felt all along that Mrs. Valdon knows more than she has admitted, and that she is a woman of—"

"Of murderous impulses and of desperate passions and capable of any crime!" Miss Folsom ranted on. "I knew her sort the moment I set eyes on her, and that was some years ago. She made a dead set for my brother, and they had an affair which, she thought, would end in Garry's marrying her—but it didn't. Garry was just a little too smart for that! But there was a bit of a scandal, and somehow or other Garry kept the whip hand. Since then Carmy and I have been friends outwardly, and she and Garry were seemingly friends, but she was afraid of him."

"Not afraid of him," amended Pelton, "but he had some letters of hers which were perhaps a bit indiscreet. These she naturally wanted to get back after his death. No woman wants her letters flaunted to the public. So, not un-naturally, she tried to get them. She knew it would be useless to appeal to the police, and she doubted the wisdom of asking my aunt for them, so—"

"You know a lot about it, Dan," said his aunt, with an accusing glance.

"I do, Aunt Stasia, and I'm telling all I know, because—well, because Mr. Stone rather implied that openness was the best way out."

"I'm not sure I implied all that," Stone said, and his face was grave. "Much depends on the nature of those letters. If they were merely indiscreet love letters, they might bring no suspicion on Mrs. Valdon. But if they were of a threatening nature, or proved a real intent for revenge—"

"They couldn't be as bad as that," Pelton said, and was stopped by his aunt.

"Shut up, Dan," she advised. "You've fallen for that woman, as you do for every specimen of that siren type. Given a low, wailing voice and a pair of dark-love-hungry eyes, and any woman can vamp you! Now drop her before you get in too deep. Before you get the reward your Uncle Garry got! I suppose she begged you for that packet of letters. By the way, where has it been all the time? I haven't seen it."

"I took care of it," Pelton said, obstinately.

"I know you did. But where did you find it? In the suitcase?"

"Yes. And I just laid it aside for the moment. I knew she never killed uncle. How could she?"

"Why couldn't she?" retorted his aunt. "She stood next him at the rope; that we know. Stood at his right-hand side. So she had motive and opportunity. As to the weapon, we've no real reason to assume it must have been one of those antique things. It may have been a hotel carving knife. Any woman clever enough to plan and carry out such a scheme of murder would be quite clever enough to manage the weapon part of the business. Now, Mr. Stone, there's your criminal; go and get her!"

Had the case been less serious, Fleming Stone would have been amused at the emphatic declarations of Miss Folsom.

She was striding up and down the room, her bobbed hair, escaped from the influence of brilliantine, waving in quivering tufts. Her black lace evening gown was short and the great red rose at her shoulder shook on its stem as she gesticulated with her bare

SCHOOL PUPILS GATHER AT PICNIC

Day will take place on Sunday afternoon, June 24th, when the graves of the brethren in both cemeteries will be decorated with appropriate ceremony, and in reverent remembrance. The members of the Order will assemble at the lodge room at 1.30 sharp and march to the Hillside cemetery accompanied by the Citizens' Band. The trip from the Memorial Hall to the Lakefield Cemetery will be made by motor. The larger number of graves to be decorated are at the latter cemetery and there the longer ceremony will be, with an address by Rev. T. M. Wesley.

This is a community event and one which in honoring those whose work on earth is finished and who have joined the breat brotherhood of man under God's loving care in a place prepared for them, are honoring their lodges, and showing to all the world that the partition dividing us from the other side is not too thick to be penetrated by brotherly love. COUNTY COUNCIL DECIDES TO PAY with more ease to our ratepayers."

Already at Work.

Mr. Breckenridge: "The Reeve of Marmora told me the road to Peterborough would likely be taken over in a year. It will be a gravel top. They get their information from the Hon. Bob Cooke. There will be pressure from the east and from Peterborough city for this road. They are working on the section from Foxboro to Marmora, and as soon as they have that in shape I expect they will ask for the section from Marmora to Peterborough. We were told that this would be the next road of any importance that would be undertaken east of Toronto."

The Warden: "I was told that Lennox and Addington are paying their highway bills by debentures at 4½ per cent. selling slightly under par."

Reeve Bert Middleton.

Mr. Middleton: "If we were assured that the Peterborough-Marmora road would not be built soon, we could issue debentures, and I would be in favor of it, but otherwise I think it would be good business to pay it off now if it means only 3.8 mills."

Reeve Scott— "I agree with Mr. Middleton. I was impressed by a speaker at the Good Roads convention who advised the municipalities to pay as they go. He said a lot of counties had got into such debt that it seemed they'd never get out."

Reeve Tanner— "I am inclined to favor the Warden's plan, but I have no great objection to Mr. Middleton's idea, and will fall in line with the others if they want to pay as you go."

Reeve John Clark.

Reeve Clark—"I have given this a great deal of thought. If there is any likelihood of the government taking over the highways, then I am in favor of issuing debentures. And I think there is a strong likelihood. I believe it will come in the next two years. The people are gradually forcing the government to do it. Before the next election I believe the government will do it. So I am in favor of the Warden's scheme. Next year we will be in a position to see what progress the demands of the people are making."

Reeve Hawthorne, Dummer— "I'd rather see it paid off now. We will have another big bill next year and the year after. There will be big opposition from the cities against the government taking over the highways, and the cities have a big representation at Toronto."

Reeve Rye's Reminder.

Reeve Rye— "If I could see the government taking over the highways I'd say pay the debt now; because I can't see that possibility I would say issue debentures. It would be detrimental to the interests of the people if they did take over the highways entirely. The 20 per cent. we pay by direct tax is a check on heavy expenditure on roads. If the cost is met indirectly, by gasoline tax or otherwise, we won't see it. But the government is the people and they've got to pay it one way or the other. The direct tax reminds us what the highways are costing."

Reeve Leahy—"I believe the Warden's plan is a good one, but I don't think it will make enough difference in the taxes to warrant debentures and the interest on them. It will only mean $12 or $15 more on my farm. I'm in favor of paying it this year."

Reeve Cavanagh said he would be satisfied with an indirect tax. He favored the Warden's plan.

Reeve Parker—"I am in favor of the Warden's views."

Deputy-Reeve McIntyre, Otonabee—"I agree with the Warden. I have talked it over with many of the ratepayers and I found that they favored the issue of debentures. I don't agree we should tax ourselves with this debt to be paid all this year."

Deputy-Reeve Con. Smith—"I am in favor of paying it out of this year's taxes."

Deputy-Reeve Waterman, North Monaghan—"I can see an expenditure for the next ten years in highway building. I am in favor of paying this debt this year. I think most of the people expect it that way."

Warden Smithson spoke briefly again, postulating the sound canon of taxation, "he who benefits shall pay." He believed the Government would eventually assume 90 per cent. of the cost of highway construction.

"Ten-year debentures issued for this year and next will spread it over a term of perhaps 15 years," he said, "and by that time we should be getting somewhere with Provincial highways. Some member said this was likely to be a yearly bill. At that rate this would be a mighty poor county to live in. Lots of good ratepayers find it difficult to pay their taxes. Personally, I'd like to pay the bill this fall and be through with it."

Chairman's Opinion.

Reeve Breckenridge: "In my own business I always try to pay cash, and I think that is the proper way for the county. But this is a little different. The county has no says in it. The highway is built and the bill is forced on us. I am inclined to agree with the Warden. Ninety per cent. of the people of Belmont never saw the Peterborough highway. Northumberland and Durham are rich and still they pay by instalments. I'm in favor of a two-mill rate and debentures for the balance."

Reeve Windsor, Burleigh, said that as a new member he had not made up his mind, but he was inclined to debentures.

good earnest. As a matter of fact, a decided bullish influence early was further crop damage reported in Kansas and Oklahoma by storms on Thursday night.

Unlooked for sharp upturns in the Liverpool quotations yesterday had only a transient effect on the market here. According to some advices they were caused by the Canadian Growers' Pool withholding any overnight offers of wheat for export. An additional bullish development was the news of black rust spreading in South Dakota. A Chicago crop expert telegraphed from Elk Point, South Dakota that rust was showing there in Ruby spring wheat, and is more pronounced than is the case further north. A noted authority, however, wired from Mitchell, S.D., that in a drive of more than 100 miles through the Jim River Valley he had found no tract of rust, and that the stand of wheat is too thin and short for rust to be a menace.

Corn held relatively strong, with July gaining on September and commanding about the best premium yet. A feature was gossip that some corn had been bought for export via the Gulf of Mexico, December shipment. Arrivals of corn yesterday were small, only 70 cars here. Oats followed corn. It will not be so good as was expected a few weeks ago. Alsike is not very good, as the rain did not come in time. Strawberries look very promising and are going to be good. The buckwheat and root crops are all in now.

CRANBERRIES CAN BE GROWN IN CANADA.

Canada imports nearly all the cranberries she uses from the United States, according to the Department of Agriculture, yet the friut could be grown profitably in many districts and sold at such a price that the home market could be kept for Canadians. Since most of the cranberries are from Cape Cod, the freight haul of the United States grower is no less than would be that of eastern Canada growers furnishing western markets. It would, therefore, appear that there is an excellent opportunity in Canada for the planting of cranberry bogs, utilizing lands which are lying idle at plesent.

PLEASANT AFTERNOON.

The annual picnic of St. John's Choir was held at Cobourg Wednesday afternoon, June 25. One large bus and several cars kindly loaned and driven by members of the congregation transported the members and their friends, all in good spirits, to the scene of pleasure. The weatherman had put forth his best efforts and the party, approximately 80 in all, could not have wished for a nicer day until 5 o'clock. Softball was engaged in by some of the energetic members whi : others wandered around exploring the beach and pier. The sports program then commenced and was carried out very successfully. The time walking race proving a source of great amusement to the racers or rather walkers and the onlookers.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN JULY 3

James Abraham is Again Chief Supervisor—Three To Be Open

SAFETY STRESSED.

School will soon be over and the kiddies will be without anything to do all day, but the playgrounds will soon be opened with careful and thoughtful supervisors, so when the children are taking part in supervised play, there is nothing for the mothers to worry about.

This year as usual there will be a man and lady at each of the three grounds opened. Central School will provide for the children of the busy section of the city, while King Edward will provide for the children of the south. King George school playgrounds will be the recreation field for the youngsters of Ashburnham.

The safety factor that if of present interest to everyone will be stressed this summer. Big posters with safety rules printed on them will be placed on each playground and each evening before closing time the instructor will march their young wards up before this instruction card and give them instructions in safety practices.

The supervision will take place over a period of approximately six weeks from July 3rd until August 16th.

In five years there has been only one mionr accident and no large accidents. A child persisted on standing up on a swing and fell off, resulting in minor cut, but if he had obeyed instructions this would not have happened. This has been the only accident during J. Abraham's supervision.

The supervisors this year will be: Chief supervisor, J. Abraham, and asisstant supervisors, Miss Marjorie McDonald, Miss Muss Cox, and Miss H. Parsons, also Messrs. K. Goheen and W. Yelland.

PRESENTATION TO MINISTER

Young People of St. John's United Church Present Farewell Gift.

TO REV. E. HARSTON.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 23.—Without any advance notice, the executive of the Y.P.S. of St. John's United Church called at the Parsonage last night to present the Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Harston with a wicker fernery as a remembrance from the Young People's Society of the church. To Mrs. Harson, Sr., they presented a beautiful crepe de chene scarf. The event was quite unanticipated by the minister and his family, and Mr. Harston's reply, though brief, carried a tone of sincerity which will make his words a treasure to the sponsors of the gifts. During his year as minister of St. John's Church, Mr. Harston has accomplished much along the lines of church work, and his work among the young people is particularly to be commended. In much of his work, Mrs. Harston has been a valuable assistant.

The presentation address was read by Miss Irene Stephens, and the presentation made by the honorary president, G. F.P hillips.

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Harston: We the executive of the Young People's League of St. John United Church, have gathered here to-night on behalf of the league to express to you our appreciation of the work and cooperation which you have rendered to our society. We will long remember the good times we have had together.

"While we regret your departure from our midst, we know that our loss will be others' gain. We are asking you to accept this gift. We would also ask Mrs. Harston St., to accept this gift, not for their value but for the esteem and high regard which we hold for you all. We earnestly hope that you will long be spared to continue in your work for the Master.

"Signed on behalf of the League."

In reply, Mr. Harston expressed the appreciation of his mother, his wife and himself for the kindness which the league had shown. He assured those present that he had always had good support from the young people of the church and hoped that his efforts had been of some useful service to them. If at any future time the occasion arose when he might in any way assist them, he would be delighted to be given the opportunity.

Following the presentation, the evening was spent in singing and later, lunch was served.

Jones Leads In U. S. Open Golf With 144 Score

AMATEUR CHAMPION PLAYS STEADY GAME TO GAIN LEAD

Hagen Stages a Sensational Comeback For 147 Score in Two Days.

VON ELM THIRD.

Best Players Gain Lead As Field Hits Halfway Mark.

OLYMPIC FIELDS, Chicago, June 23 (A.P.).—Bobby Jones, the master shot-maker, jumped out ahead of the national open golf championship field yesterday, breezing around in even par, to pile up a 36-hole two-day total of 144.

It was two strokes ahead of his nearest rivals and withstood a sensational comeback by Walter Hagen, British open king, who scored a record breaking 32 on the last nine holes to finish with 73 for the day and 147 for two days.

Jones, playing before the biggest gallery of the day, completed his brilliant round just before a terrific rainstorm broke over the links. Hagen, coming in when the downpour started, overcame soggy greens and a variety of hazards to bag four birdies in five holes with the most sensational scoring streak the tournament has yet seen.

Trailing Jones by two strokes, with 146, was George Von Elm of Detroit, the 1926 amateur champion, and Bill Leach, Philadelphia, professional. Von Elm added a 72 to his 74 of the opening day, while Leach reversed the order, tacking a 74 to his starting 72.

Tied with Hagen in fourth place was another former champion, Willie MacFarlane, who showed a two-day card of 73, 74—147.

Class asserted itself as the big field hit the half-way mark with only a scattering few to be heard from late in the afternoon, it seemed certain those beyond 158 would be eliminated for the final 36-hole dash to-day.

The two leaders of the first day, Frank Ball of Atlanta, and Henry Cuici of Stratford, Conn., cracked. Ball had to struggle to get an 81, to put with his par breaking 70 of the opening day, and total 151, virtually putting him out of the running. Cuici bagged a 77 and stayed up with the leaders, his total of 147 gaining him a tie with McFarlane and Hagen.

The defending champion, Tommy Armour, still experiencing trouble, took a 75 to total 151, the same figure showing opposite the names of Leo Diegel and Johnny Farrel of New York.

The British threat all but vanished. Aubrey Boomer, with 152, was the best of the invaders, while Archie Compston blew up, taking 81 yesterday and totalling 157.

"Lighthorse" Harry Cooper of Buffalo, runner-up a year ago, shot himself right out of the tournament with an 86 for a total of 163.

WILL CANADA AGAIN TAKE KING'S PRIZE?

Only Five Canadians in 33 Years Have Won Great Military Shooting Award.

BISLEY CAMP, Eng., June 23.—(Canadian Press).—In the past 33 years five Canadians have won the King's Prize, the most coveted award that a soldier marksman can win in the Empire. Lieut. Desmond Burke of Ottawa in 1924 was the last Canadian to take this prize. Last year he failed to repeat by a single point.

The big shoot is in three stages, each on different days. The first stage is this year of seven shots at 600 yards, seven at 500 and seven at 200. Formerly the shorter ranges were taken first but this meant that the longer distances were faced in a waning light. Also, the targets on ranges up to 600 feet have been made more difficult by lessening the bull's eye.

In the second stage the 300 best first stage scorers each shoot ten at 300 and 600 yards.

The hundred best in the second stage enter the final—15 shots at 900 and 1,000 yards.

The Canadian winners of the King's Prize:

1895—Pte. T. H. Hayhurst, 13th Regiment, Hamilton, Ont.

1904—Pte. S. J. Perry, 6th Duke of Connaught's Own Regt., Vancouver, B.C.

1911—Pte. W. J. Clifford, 10th Royal Grenadier Guards, Toronto, Ont.

1913—Sgt.-Maj. W. A. Hawkins, 48th Highlanders, Toronto, Ont.

1924—Lt. Desmond Burke, C.G.F.G., Ottawa, Ont.

Cartwright To Head Rugby Committee

LONDON, June 23 (Canadian Press Cable).—V. S. Cartwright, who represented South Africa on the Rugby Union Committee for many years, was the only name placed in nomination for presidency of the union when the annual meeting of that body was held here yesterday. Mr. Cartwright succeeds Rear-Admiral C. W. Boyds, the retiring president. He was loudly cheered on taking the chair and in returning thanks for "the great honor" conferred upon him said he would earnestly endeavor to carry out the great trust imposed in him. He thought his election to the presidency of the union would cause unbounded satisfaction in South Africa and would "alleviate the disappointment felt in South Africa and other dominions that they cannot persuade us to elect overseas representatives to the imperial body with full power."

PIRATES BEAT REDS EASILY

Get 10 Runs in First Two Innings—Cards Beat Cubs.

BOTTOMLEY LOSES HOMER.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Pirates rushed ten runs home in the first two innings at Pittsburgh yesterday and won easily over the Cincinnati Reds, 11 to 1. Burleigh Grimes never eased up, despite the comfortable lead he enjoyed.

Ray Kolp, Joe Edwards and Jimmy Beckman were victims of the Pirate flurries in the first two rounds, but Peter Jablonowski refused to allow the home team much freedom after he went to Beckman's relief in the second.

Bottomley of the St. Louis Cardinals hit his sixteenth home run of the season at Chicago yesterday after his team already had won a six-inning game from the Cubs, 4 to 1. His circuit clout connected with Frisch on base in the seventh inning, but a sudden deluge of rain stopped the game and washed his hit off the records, so his home run record stands at 15. Sherdel held Chicago at his mercy.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The Kiwanis Juniors will practise on Monday night in King Edward School Grounds at 5.45 p.m. sharp.

The Kiwanis, once leaders of the junior group in the city league have dropped down in the ranks through their failure to come across in the last three games. Defeated by the Royals twice and tied by the Lockworks once, the Kiwanis need to attend the practise games called between the scheduled fixtures if they would keep up with the early standard set by them. The season is young and with a much better brand of ball than they have shown in the past three weeks, Deannard's crew can repeat their performance of last year in capturing the group honors.

Peterborough golfers visited the Lindsay golf club for a friendly match on Wednesday afternoon when the Lindsay club held its field day. The visitors came out on the losing end of the play, the home team winning by a 26 to 22 score.

"Scotty" Maudsley turned in another no-run game at Bethany last evening when Raybestos batted Russell to a 3 to 0 victory, Maudsley allowed only two hits. It was his fourth win of the season, and the third contest in which opposing teams failed to score. He has allowed only one run in four games.

The Rays' star heaver was strong on control last night, and did not issue a pass. He had two hits. The League leaders played snappy ball and hit hard. Russell, who beat him here by 9 to 3, put in a busy evening trying to keep the Rays under control. He was given good support in the field.

The Teco and the DeLaval played the best softball game seen here yet this season last night, the factory crew scoring two runs in the final frame to win a 10-9 decision. The DeLaval had the edge of the play up to the seventh inning when the Eaton crew staged a five-run rally with two more in the ninth to even the count with the factory men.

Scates, a former hardball pitcher of the old Mercantile league days, was on the mound for the Storemen, and given good support by his teammates he pitched a steady game. (The whole of the Teco team made a much better showing than they had on any of their former appearances.) Carruthers for the DeLaval had five strikeouts, and made many nice assists.

With local softball at its height and the different teams of the league having the stiffness of the first few games worn off, the rest of the scheduled games should provide plenty of entertainment for the fans. Last night's affair was the best seen here this season but still there was only a handful of fans on hand to witness the encounter. Given a little support by the public much can be expected of the softball league during the remainder of the season.

BROWNS SPLIT WITH DETROIT

Senators Win Out at Home From Red Sox 1 to 0.

CLEVELAND LOSES.

NEW YORK, June 23.—The Browns and Detroit divided honors in a double-header yesterday, the home team winning the first by 8 to 3, and Detroit taking the second, 12 to 6. Home runs by Bettencourt and Brannon, each with a man on base, enabled the Browns to win the opener.

A parade of St. Louis hurlers, four of them, yielded 19 hits in the second game before Blaeholder took the mound and held the Tigers hitless for one inning. Beck, Strelecki, Wiltse and Crowder were pounded all over the lot in the first eight innings. Billings relinquished the mound to Vangilder after two were out in the sixth. The Browns found the former for seven hits and the latter for two.

Burke for the Senators and Ruffing for the Red Sox engaged in a pitchers' battle yesterday, Washington winning the home game, 1 to 0. Bluege's single in the second inning scored Goslin. Ruffing gave only five hits, but he passed three men. Burke allowed seven hits, but he did not give a base on balls.

Unable to bunch hits effectively off the delivery of Ted Blankenship, Cleveland dropped the last game of the home series to Chicago 7 to 4, while the Sox battered three Tribe hurlers for 16 hits.

George Uhle allowed Chicago five runs before he was taken out at the end of the fifth. Harder gave them another in the six, and they took the final off Bayne in the ninth. The Redskins finally got to Blankenship in the ninth and drove him out of the box with three runs, but Connolly went in and stopped them.

The highest wind speed ever recorded was during a typhoon near Hong Kong. The speed was 127 miles an hour.

DE LAVAL WINS IN 9TH FRAME

Bring in Pair of Runs to Defeat the Teco Crew 10 to 9.

PLAY GOOD BALL.

Softball was played at Confederation Park last night. That is a real game was played by both teams that kept the many spectators that turned out for a change on their toes. The game was not decided until the end of the ninth. Teco and De Laval met for the second time times year and both showed a decided improvement. The store boys have improved a lot since they last played on Monday. Scates steadied down and his team supported him well. A pair of doubles in the last half of the ninth by Fowler and Frick of the De Laval and a pair of passed balls which let the men on bases in to score ended the game with only one man out, leaving the score 10—9 for the factory men.

The De Laval played a real game of ball and had the edge over Teco until a seventh inning rally by Eatons gave them five runs with two more in the ninth to even up the score. But the Separators had the final punch and scored the winning counters.

Carruthers made his first appearance for De Laval and pitched a nice game of ball, getting five strike outs in the fixture. This makes three pitchers in the league with the same top number of strike outs to his credit. Carruthers not only pitched ball, but made many nice assists which he passed to Frick, who knew how to handle them. Jones, at short, also picked up the odd grounder and handled them with perfection.

Board turned in the usual good game for Teco at first, and Nesbitt, while not as heavy a hitter as usual, made two runs in four trips to the plate. In the field he is a real asset to the team and made a couple of nice running catches. White, the catcher, turned in a nice game. In short, both teams were so evenly matched last evening they turned in a ball game that was a treat to watch.

Fowler, the De Laval man, was the heaviest hitter on the field, scoring three runs at four trips to the plate and drove the ball for the only homer of the game, with a double and two singles to his credit.

Softball now seems to be in midseason form and the rest of the games on the schedule should be fast and furious now that the boys have worked off the rough edges and have acquired a little polish.

The line-ups:

Teco.—White, c; Williams, 3b; Sexsmith, 2b; Edgar, ss; Board, 1b; Scates, p; Saunders, lf; Maher, cf; Nesbitt, rf.

De Laval.—B. Miller, c; Killenbeck, 3b; Jones, ss; Fowler, 2b; Frick, 1b; Cooper, cf; K. Miller, lf; Simmons, rf; Carruthers, p.

Score by innings:

Teco .. .. .000200502—	9
De Laval .. .. .031021102—10

Struck out—Scates, 1; Carruthers, 5.

Umpires—W. Ranger at the plate; L. LeBarr on the bases.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By a Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, since I last wrote you our senior ball team has had a tough time. Last Sat. they had Mister Joe Daley's men here, and they had been looking forward to a very pleasant afternoon and to scalping the Ponies neat and clean, but, oh, what a day it turned out to be. The customers was out in droves, naturally, and when the Petes' defence begun to crumple up and the attack never did get started, the majority of the bugs in the stands woulda cheerily voted to toss the whole outfit in the river. Mac, it was a terrible game. Them young fellows what Mister Joe Daley sent out there to pitch didn't have no more idea where the plate was than I have of whom them Union Station train robbers was. They looked like they was trying to out-do Mister Cash and Carry Pyle. He started 300 walkers on the road, and this here Mister Buck and Mister Smith they put 17 pedestrians in motion. But most of them never got nowhere, for every time the home talent thought the walking process was too slow and tried to hit they couldn't do nothing but pop them up. It was sad to look at, Mac, and I don't mean possibly.

Our fielding was fuller of holes than a window screen, and the pitchers' crumpled, too, all but Mister Hap Harrison, what looked on the day's doings like the best of the six moundsmen to perform.

We've looked all the Central League teams over, Mister Sporting Editor, and if the Petes don't eventually land in the play-offs they can blame themselves. They ain't seen nothing that should cause them to curl up and die. Oshawa, what led for the 1st two weeks, is skidding fast. They only got a fair fielding team, most of them is weak hitters, and Mister Duke Dainty, long past his prime, is about their sole pitching strength. The Ponies has some good hitters and fast fielding youngsters, but they got not a solitary 1st string pitcher, Mac, and few teams has won a amateur race without good heaving. Delgro is fair all round, but nothing outer-standing anywhere. The team to beat, Mister Sporting Editor, looks like Belleville, which has a nice infield, all their old-time punch, and several fair pitchers. To me, Mac, pitching is 75 per cent. or high of the battle, and right there the Petes should top the whole gang with everything going right. They got a flock of games to go, and if they come down to earth and get working smoothly they oughta to at least cop 2nd place and lick the uniforms off of the 1st placers in the play-offs.

I told you last week, Mac, them Motorists wouldn't be up there long. Take a look at them now. They're surely slipping fast.

Hoping that you are the same.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

Retain Second Place In Campbellford Softball League Standing.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 23.—With one man less than the required nine last night, the Electric conceded the honors to the Outlaws to the tune of 24 to 15. The game went the full nine innings in spite of the fact that the light was none too good for the last two innings. Basil Reynolds started the ball rolling with a home run right off the bat. He was the first batter up when the play was called. In the second innings he did the same thing. Horkins for the Outlaws hit a homer in the fifth and Darling also got in on the honors when he made his complete circuit in the eighth.

The game was supposed to have been played on Thursday, but was postponed on account of rain. On Monday night, the Electrics meet the Mill. The umpires will be Farrell and Massie.

DORA VIRTUE WINS HONORS

Defeats Rival For Provincial Golf Championship Crown.

PLAYS GOOD GAME.

MONTREAL, Que., June 23 (Canadian Press).—In a splendidly-fought ding-dong struggle which ended in an exciting finish at the twentieth hole, Miss Dora Virtue, of the Whitlock Golf Club, defeated her friend and rival, Mrs. S. Dagenais, of Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, on the latter's home course yesterday and captured the provincial ladies' golf championship crown.

Miss Virtue, played a hard and accurate game. She acquired a lead of three in as many holes at the start, but saw her lead gradually reduced until the match was squared at the thirteenth green. Mrs. Dagenais moved in front at the fifteenth when her opponent was short on her approach putt, but Miss Virtue pulled herself together, and evened matters again at the sixteenth.

Mrs. Dagenais topped her drive into the water at the seventeenth, despite a good recovery, the Laval player lost the hole, and the two went to the home tee with Miss Virtue one up. Both had good drives from the tee. Straight down the middle of the fairway, and both followed with two shots which brought their balls side by side, slightly to the left of the green. Miss Virtue was away and her approach landed some fifteen feet from the pin. Mrs. Dagenais landed her approach dead two feet from the flag. Mrs. Virtue's putt was short, and Mrs. Dagenais sank hers to even the score on the round.

The battle was continued from the first tee. There was little to choose between the two drives, and once more the two balls reached the green together on the third stroke. Each approach putt stopped about five feet from the pin. Mrs. Dagenais was away and her attempt stopped several inches short. Miss Virtue's putt just rimmed the cup.

Miss Virtue drove first at the second, the twentieth, hole, and her ball landed safely on the green.

Mrs. Dagenais's stroke was a trifle short, and her ball, hitting the top of the bank, hesitated and then rolled back down instead of up and on to the green. Again in difficulty, Mrs. Dagenais made a splendid effort and her approach stopped about eight feet from the hole. Miss Virtue's putt ran right up near to the cup, and Mrs. Dagenais ha dto sink her putt for a half. The ball just rolled past the cup, and a tremendous cheer went up as Miss Virtue sank her putt to win the hole and the match. The two players embraced and the crowd surged on the green to congratulate both winner and loser.

PETERBOROUGH GIRLS ARE NOT SATISFIED TO LOOK PRETTY'; SPORT WORLD CALLS THEM OUT

She Who Used To Repose in Bottom of Canoe as Part of Picture Now Paddles.

ANOTHER EMANCIPATION.

First of Series of Articles Reviews Sports in Which City Girls Indulge.

(By Hilda.)

No one will deny that Peterborough girls are interested in sports, but few people, probably, know to just what extent we indulge in exercises that were formerly sacred to men. Softball, basketball, tennis, golf, lawn bowling, motor boating, and horse-back riding all have their devotees in summer, while in winter we go in for skating, tobogganing, skiing and snow shoeing. It used to be the thing for a girl to lie back in a canoe and look pretty, while her brawny escort wielded the paddle; nowadays many of us could show the decadent youth how to do it! A few years ago we were taken, under protest by our escorts, to see a baseball game. Girls couldn't be expected to understand the technicalities of the sport. Now we have girls who know the rules better than many of those who looked on with such superiority; and these girls are better sports than any mere "fan," because they play the game. In fact, what I mean to say, fellows, is that you'd better watch out, because we're coming along fast!

Softball has won many devotees among girls, and probably there is no better game to develop strength and quick thinking. Peterborough has had several good ladies' teams, and no girl who indulged in the sport has suffered mentally from the stimulus, or physically from the wholesome exercise.

Another sport in which city girls are rapidly proficient is swimming—a sport, by the way, that often proves its usefulness. Perhaps the change in costume has as much to do with the development of this sport as anything. We all remember the days (not so long ago, because I can remember them) when girls had to be covered from toe to crown when they went swimming, while men looked most immodest in "trunks." Nowadays a girl can swim in comfort, and many are proving their right to contest man's vaunted superiority in the water. As a natural development of swimming comes life-saving, and Miss Littlefield has been doing a lot to foster interest in this branch through her classes at the Y. W. C. A. Perhaps, some day before we grow too old to enjoy the sport, the city may provide adequate and safe bathing places with the proper facilities. Mark street wharf, where many devotees spend most of the summer months, is not what other cities would class in their advertising a "wonderful bathing beach," and even Inverlea is years behind the times.

Tennis—and Clothes.

Tennis, while a polite game, affords lots of exercise and is said to promote grace. Certainly, it is no game for the person with short breath or short sight! I asked a player a few days ago what one should wear when playing tennis, and though this is no place for fashion topics, I must give her reply, it was so priceless: "The less you can bear to wear the better," she opined. It seems to be a rule, nowadays, not only in tennis but in every game and in all work—in fact, we can rather afford to look down on our men friends, whose vaunted freedom from fashion does not extend to the limit of allow them to be comfortable—even in tennis.

Many girls find basketball just strenuous enough—and some of the games the Y. W. girls play do get them all "het up." There's something medieval about basketball, I think—it carries one back to the clashing of bodies in the knightly jousts, and all that sort of thing. If it's a bit rough, so were the "knightly" meets, and it's about as close as we girls can ever expect to come to physical encounter and still be "nice" girls!

Dignified, indeed, is our lawn bowling, and here one has the opportunity to carry her love of fine feathers into the sporting world. One can dress well and succeed on the green. The sport is not so strenuous that one's clothes wilt, or so fast that bloomers and middy are dictated for modesty's sake. And then, too, there's time for a gossip between the rolling of ends!

Golf—ah, here is the aristocrat of sports!—has its feminine devotees in Peterborough and here again woman is not far behind man in accuracy, speed and direction...nse. There's one woman player in the city, especially, whose par is better than the average for the men, and others are fast pulling up to speaking distance. At a bridge this spring the conversation was not of the traditional maids and babies, dishes and dresses, but covered every hole in the Peterborough course in detail, with mention made of the hazards and bunkers in a way that showed every bridge player was more than casually acquainted with the idiosyncracies of mashie and niblick.

And in Winter.

One thing for which we may hand a bouquet to the powers that be is the provision of free skating rinks. They are certainly a boon to the girl who wishes to be independent, and to the girl whose beau has to save five nights a week in order to stand a movie treat on the sixth—and perhaps more than that to the girl who loves the out-of-doors and hates having to take her sport in a stuffy atmosphere. To prove the contention, one must only look at the crowds that patronize the half-dozen outdoor rinks to be found in the city in winter. Doesn't it give one a deliciously cool feeling these days just to think of skating?

Discretion dictates omission of mention of the toboggan slide, but some people (mostly young) get a kick out of it. One has to have a great imagination to become thrilled, but then it's better than nothing, one supposes. But it really is tame, even for we girls!

Water sports developed over the holiday last year did a lot to again popularize aquatic prowess, and it is to be hoped that many more will join in this year. This is one branch where girls start from the same level with men, and the men can't go any higher!

There's one thing that girls can do to help boost their own sports, and that is give them more publicity. The men must have press-agents, judging by all the material they get printed. Let's tell the world what we are doing!

LOCAL TEAMS SUPERB SOCCER IN LEAGUE GAME

Combination Was the Main Feature of a Hard Fought Battle Last Night.

QUAKERS 5, DE LAVAL 3.

Every Goal Was Well Earned—Thrills Galore in Clever Forward Attacks.

Local soccer fans were treated to an excellent brand of the code last evening when the Quakers and De Laval contested a league fixture that the former won by five goals to three. The custodians had no chance to prevent the goals that were scored, in fact, it was the superb combination of the both forward lines that provided the thrills throughout the seventy - minutes battle. Hotson turned out for the Quakers; he is one of the famous local soccer players of the family, while Coleman of De Laval, put up a brilliant game in goal for the Separator team.

This game was played last night so as to allow the players the opportunity of attending the C.G.E. picnic.

Opening Fast

The first note of interest was a well-placed effort by Watkins to test the Quaker custodian, then Dyer had a drive for goal that Craig cleared. Buchan trapped the ball from the air to force the issue against the De Laval, but offsides spoiled the opening. Quick as a flash the De Laval forwards made tracks for the other end to cause the Quakers defence a lot of trouble; in fact, Curtis was saving all kinds of shots rained at him.

Missed An Open Goal

A break-away by the Quakers' left transferred the ball to Coleman's charge, where the forward line missed an open goal with only the custodian to beat.

Watkins' Drop Goal

From a free kick the De Laval right wing came into prominence when Dyer Junior, sent his mate away along the wing, who lifted the ball into goal. W. Curtis partially saved it, to bounce into the net from Watkins' drop drive. This reverse proved a stimulant to the Quaker boys because they bombarded the De Laval goal without any success until Williams, on the left, shot back a goal kick so quick against Coleman, who hadn't time to clear when Wilson caught the rebound with a left-footer that bulged the net for the equalizer. Lucas now completed the Quakers' eleven after twenty minutes' play.

It was pleasant to witness the combination play of the players, who introduced clever defensive tactics that enlivened the proceedings against the fast-moving forwards, but the attack replied with close-dribbling and long swinging passes that made the half-backs work hard to prevent disaster. The ball was in mid-field when half time was announced. Quakers, 1; De Laval, 1.

Half Time

On resuming, the Quakers increased their lead through Lovat, who travelled fast into goal to put the ball out of the reach of Coleman.

Two Goals Inside a Minute

A few minutes later, Hanson bewildered the defense on close dribbling and broke fast on the run to centre the ball to Dyer, Senior, who made no mistake with a low grounder. From the kick-off, T. Wilson carried the attacks against the equalisers so as to again be successful in harassing the defense and putting the rebound into the net. Combination prevailed for a long period until A. Wilson feinted a movement that went the other way, he tapped the ball back to his centreman, who left Lovat in a scoring position that he availed himself of by sending in a rising shot that Coleman had no chance to avert. The De Laval came back with many splendid efforts that never materialised. The Quakers' forwards were now working like a perfect machine around the goal area where T. Wilson accepted the opportunity to register number five.

De Laval Forced the Issue

After this registration the Quakers took matters too easy that finally reduced their lead when Dyer got Craig napping in front of goal. The De Laval centre-man outwitted the full-back smartly with a gentle touch to his cunning left foot that banged the ball into the net. The remaining three minutes was played at a rapid rate but the score finished at five to three in favor of the Quakers.

Goal scorers—T. Wilson (3) and Lovat (2) for Quakers. Watkins and F. Dyer, senior.

The teams:

De Laval.—Coleman, goal; Cross and Downer, full backs; Mitchell, Ward and Pulley, half backs; Watkins, F. Dyer Jr., F. Dyer, Sr., Hanson, and Gravelle, forwards.

Quaker Oats.—W. Curtis, goal; Lucas and Craig, full backs; Hotson, Buchan and Rankin, halves; A. Carmichael, Lovat, T. Wilson, A. Wilson, and T. Williams, forwards.

Referee—Alex McKinley.

Linesmen—A. Mitchell and T. Stewart.

LOCKWORKS WINS FROM LAKEFIELD

Defeat Home Team 7-3 in Keenly Contested Game.

LAKEFIELD, June 23.— Lakefield and Peterborough Lockworks met in a close game when Peterborough won 7 to 3. The game was not very exciting, but seemed to become a little faster in the last innings. Both sides fielded well and hit hard. Lakefield changed pitchers at the end of the third. When Madill's arm gave out, Northey replaced him for one innings, and Payne replaced him in the fifth. Payne, the manager, never pitched ball before, but turned in a very good game.

Lakefield did not seem to be in condition. They have played softball the last few years and are now just beginning to find their stride in the hard game.

Madill so far this year has pitched good ball, with the record of having struck out 21 in 31 innings of ball. The busiest ones in the field were the lads who chased the balls over the fence.

A good crowd witnessed the game of clean baseball. During the game, Rishea, the base umpire from Peterborough, was cut on the elbow by the ball. Miller of the Lockworks made the longest hit of the day, getting a triple.

The line-ups:

Lock Works.—Connors, p; Miller, c; Black, 1b; Baird, 2b; Westbrooke, 3b; Hunt, ss; Smith, rf; Griffith, lf; Green, cf; Ralph.

Lakefield.—Madill, p, rf; Payne, c, p; Fitzgerald, 1b; Stabler, 2b; Douglas, 3b; Briant, 3b; Northey, rf, p, c; S. Payne, lf; Hefferman, rf; Maracle, sub.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"WHY SAILORS GO WRONG"

The Feature Coming to the Capitol on Monday, is a Joyous Comedy Romance of Youth. Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara in the Laughter Roles.

Based on the riotous theme of the original story by William Conselman, Sammy Cohen and Ted McNamara, the incomparable comedy team, will open in "Why Sailors Go Wrong," coming to the Capitol Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Sammy and Ted form the Hebrew-Irish comedy team, which has made such a sensation during the last year as the comedy relief of some of Fox Films' biggest productions. The boys got their first break playing together when Raoul Walsh selected them for important roles in "What Price Glory."

In this production the two are now featured in a picture with a laugh every moment from beginning to end, proving official faith in them as a great team of laugh provokers.

The story is about a taxicab driver, played by Sammy Cohen, and a hansom cab driver, portrayed by his partner, Ted McNamara, who are cast by circumstances from a thriving metropolis to a tropical island. This environment of cannibals and hula girls proves a unique background for the comedy situations and adds to the humorous incidents.

Exteriors for the picture were taken in some of the most picturesque spots in California, proving that a comedy can be made more interesting with beautiful settings. Some of the places where the exteriors were made were on a palatial yacht, Balboa Park in San Diego, one of the largest parks in the world, and at Laguna Beach, noted for its large colony of artists.

Besides Cohen and McNamara, Sally Phipps and Nick Stuart are featured as the youthful lovers, and others included in the cast are Carl Miller, E. H. Calvert and Jack Pennick.

AT THE REGENT.

EDMUND LOWE FINDS ROLE WHICH FITS HIM PERFECTLY IN FOX FILMS PICTURE

Edmund Lowe has hit his stride as a comedian in Fox Films "Publicity Madness," in which he is co-starring with Lois Moran. The picture comes to the Regent Theatre on Monday for an engagement of three days.

In this clever advertising yarn, adapted by Andrew Bennison from an Anita Loos story, Lowe is cast as an enterprising, breezy soap salesman, with big ideas and but little cash-on-hand background. It is one of those things in which all of his natural humor and ability to characterise is called forth.

"I like this type of role," Lowe answered when asked about the part. "A chap like Pete King is so real and so life-like he just grows on a person as the story progresses.

"You meet so many Pete Kings in real life that his type will appeal to a greater majority than the sophisticated hero type. He will not only appeal to them but they will like and remember him long after the hand-some hero has faded from their conscious minds.

"Personally, I'm thoroughly enjoying Pete. He reminds me of a fellow I used to know in college, who could borrow money from anyone in town and make them enjoy donating, even though they knew it was gone forever. He had the greatest personality I've ever come in contact with—and while he should have used his imagination as a writer or a salesman, I think he finally settled down to a most prosaic business career."

Lowe, before entering pictures, was a favorite on Broadway and on the Los Angeles stage. His early training in theatricals was obtained in school plays at Santa Clara University, where he studied to be a lawyer. Most of his earlier successes in pictures were sophisticated characters, but since his phenomenal success as Sergeant Quirt in "What Price Glory," he has changed his screen character entirely, and very successfully.

Albert Ray directed "Publicity Madness" in which Miss Moran and Mr. Lowe are supported by an excellent cast.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S CLOVER TEA

All of a sudden Mr. Twistytail began to laugh.

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! Tee hee!" chuckled the fat pig gentleman until he seemed to shake all over like a toy balloon when the wind blows it. "Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Mr. Twistytail. "That's a jolly good puzzle picture you made of the keys, Uncle Wiggily. But I've found mine so I'm all right now."

The fat pig held up his door key which had slipped down through a hole in his pocket into the lining of his coat. Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, who were with Uncle Wiggily when he drew the puzzle pictures on the white tree bark, began to bark.

"I see where the four keys are!" cried Jackie. "At first I thought there was only one, but I see a regular door key and a piano key and—"

"A mon-key and a don-key!" shouted Peetie. That makes four. And there's even more if you count all the separate piano keys in the picture."

"Yes, I guess so," agreed Uncle Wiggily with a smile. "Well, now that Mr. Twistytail has his key, and you have guessed the puzzle, I think I had better hop home to my bungalow."

"And we'd better go to our kennel," barked the puppy dogs, "for we're getting hungry."

"So am I," grunted Mr. Twistytail.

So the four friends went their different ways and the next morning Uncle Wiggily started out again to look for an adventure. But before he could jump off the front steps, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy ran to the door and called:

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily, bring some clover leaves and blossoms when you come back home."

"Who wants clover?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"I want some to make tea for Jingle," said Nurse Jane.

"Is Jingle sick?" asked Uncle Wiggily, anxiously. "Poor little Jingle! What's the matter?"

"Oh, she isn't very sick," spoke Nurse Jane. "Just a little cold. Some hot clover tea will make her all better."

"I'll bring home the clover leaves and blossoms first thing without waiting for an adventure," promised Mr. Longears. "Poor little Jingle! Is her sister Jangle sick, too?"

"No, Jangle went to school," said Nurse Jane. "Bring lots of clover."

Uncle Wiggily twinkled his pink nose and said he would. So he hopped over the fields and through the woods and soon he reached a large meadow of clover. The old rabbit gentleman was pulling off the leaves and red and white blossoms, when, all of a sudden, out of a clump of weeds rose a pedler dog who carried three earthen jars on a rope tied around them.

"Oh, you rather frightened me!" said Uncle Wiggily.

"How so?" barked the pedler dog, setting down his three jars.

"I thought you were the Fox or Wolf," answered the rabbit. Then, all of a sudden, there was a noise in the bushes and out came the pedler dog's little puppy boy.

"You don't need to be afraid of me!" barked the pedler dog. Soon he and Uncle Wiggily were good friends. The rabbit told about gathering clover for tea to cure Jingle's cold and then the pedler dog said.

"I have here something very good for colds. I have some honey in one of these jars, and if you guess which it is in I'll give you some for little Jingle."

"What are in the other jars?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"In one there is a bone and in the other some roses," barked the dog. "But you must guess which jar has honey in." The rabbit looked at the jars, numbered 1, 2 and 3. See if you can tell which has honey in.

WESTERN CEDAR ONLY IN B.C.

The range of the Western cedar in Canada is confined to the province of British Columbia. More shingles are made from the Western cedar than from any other species. Over 2,500,000,000 were cut in Canada from this tree in 1926. In addition over 130,000,000 board feet of lumber, 10,000,000 laths, and an immense number of poles and posts were produced from it in the same year.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

Rev. Amos Binney, upon whose theological compound so many pin their faith, is half honest enough to say that the word "hell" translated from the Hebrew "sheol" and the Greek "hades" originally means the concealed place, the state or condition of all departed spirits, whether righteous or wicked, and therefore does not necessarily denote a place of torment. Nevertheless, he makes the abortive attempt to prove the dogma of "endless torment," by referring to Socrates and Plato, two heathen philosophers, who he says taught the doctrine of endless suffering, and states that in this they agreed with ancient mythology; hence the tenet is not unreasonable, since it is a principal of natural religion and of moral philosophy, etc.

This reverend gentleman finds the original meaning of the word "hell," is the concealed place (the grave), but gives the inference that it now means "endless torment," giving no reason for changing its original or real meaning, except it be that Socrates and Plato, who he says are the exponents of the highest uninspired reason taught "endless torment," and that it was contained in ancient mythology. Surely this reverend proves himself an adept exponent of fallacious reasoning.

This abominable, diabolical lie of "endless torment," if honestly believed in has no doubt made people insane; but a belief in the truth and love of God has the opposite effect.

When men commence to reverence Jehovah they begin to grow wise.

M. T. BUTCHER.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. David Atchison and family desire to thank all kinds friends and neighbors for kindness shown them, also for floral tributes sent during their recent sad bereavement.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Mrs. Hugh McDougall, who went to rest two years ago to-day:

When the evening shades have fallen,
And I am all alone,
Into my heart there comes a longing.
If you only could come home,
What would I give to clasp your hand,
Your happy face to see,
To hear your voice and see your smiles,
That meant so much to me.
You always had a cheerful smile,
Your smiles I see them yet,
Your tender love for everyone,
I never shall forget.
The happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still!
But death has left a vacant place
That never can be filled.

An Invitation

We extend to the people of Peterboro and its environs a cordial invitation to call and inspect our MINERAL FUME HEALTH PARLOR, beginning June 20, to familiarize themselves with our methods and service, see and read testimonials of grateful patrons who have regained perfect health after years of suffering.

The day of relief and absolute riddance of many ailments and diseases has come and has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the general public in many localities where this Health System is well known.

This is not a bath; while the body perspires freely, the perspiration is induced through the chemical action of minerals which assimilate through the pores the elements lacking in the human system.

Therefore there is no danger of taking cold and treatments may be taken by the weakest people with a stimulative and invigorating effect. Separate quarters have been provided to accommodate both ladies and gentlemen under the most sanitary conditions with competent attendants in charge.

We want the believers, the skeptical, the healthy, the chronics, those with minor diseases and THOSE WHO HAVE PRACTICALLY GIVEN UP HOPE, to pay us a visit on these our first opening days.

The inspection of ordinary intelligence is all we ask. To date, over seventeen hundred parlors are in operation in Canada and the United States.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. CLASS HEALTH FUME SYSTEM,

220 Brock St., Peterboro. Phone 3157.

MILITIA UNITS SHOW UP WELL ON INSPECTION

Machine Gunners, Artillery and Infantry Go Through Manoeuvres Snappily.

BEFORE D. O. C.

Col. W. B. Anderson Pays His First Official Visit to Peterborough Armouries.

Colonel Commandant W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., paid his first official visit to Peterborough on Saturday when the inspected No. 3 Company, 4th Battalion, C.M.G.C., Major H. Dodds, O.C., 4th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, Major J. W. Stevenson and the Peterborough Rangers, Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D. The recently appointed commander of Military District No. 3 was accompanied by Lt.-Col. W. G. Beaman, D.S.O. General Staff Officer of the district, and Major H. R. Sherwood, District Engineer Offier, who also called the muster rolls of the three unitis for the District Paymaster.

The three inspections showed the units to be well trained, with efficient officers and non-commissioned officers and men of a good type in the ranks. They went through their maneuvres and technical work with enthusiasm and accuracy, showing prompt obedience to the commands of those in charge and a good understanding of their work.

Machine Gun Company

The first unit to be inspected was the 3rd Machine Gun Company under the command of Major H. Dodds was with Captain J. A. Dewart, M.C., second in command. The unit paraded 30 strong before the ormournies Confederation Square where the general salute and the company put through rifle drill by the officer commanding and other officers.

In the armouries the company was put through all the evolutions of machine guns in action with each officer taking his part in the inspection. Company action was first demonstrated then followed section and platoon demonstrations. The workk was done with a vim and appreciesion that showed the men had spent many hours in training and work was done with a vim and presision that showed the men had work with the guns.

The officers of the unit are Major H. Dodds, C.O.; Captain J. A. Dewart, M.C. second in command; Captain J. Turnbull, Captain R. Scott medical officer, Rev. Captain Dr. R. C. Blagrave chaplan and Lieutenants H. J. Devey, S. Ward, and J. R. Heron.

At the conclusion of the inspection the officers of thte company entertained Col. Commandant W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., S.O.; Col. W. G. Beaman, C.M.G.; Major H. R. Sherwood, Lt.-Col. Gordon Hall, V.D., and Major J. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M. to dinner in the Empress hotel. The officers of the company present at the dinner were Major Dodds, Captain Dewart, M.C., Captain Turnbull, Lieut. Devey, Lieut. Ward, Lieut. Heron and Rev. Capt. Blagrave.

4th Battery.

At 7.30 the 4th Battery, Peterborough's artillery unit, under the command of Major J. W. Stevenson, paraded in the armouries for inspection. The battery was composed of men of fine physique who appeared to have a good knowledge of the technique of their work. Manning four 18-pounders firing at different angles and elevations was gone through with a degree of rapidity that was marvellous for men who have only had a few weeks training.

Lieut. H. Rogers, acted as second in command, in the absence of Captain J. A. Harstone, M.C., who was in Petawawa making preparations for camp. Sergt Major E. Sutherland who was responsible for a great deal of the training the men received issued the commands for many of the manoeuvers. The guns were in charge of Sergt. J. Weir, Sergt. J. Brunton, Sergt. Yeaman along with Bombadiers O'Brien, Curtis and Lance-Bombardier Weir.

Sergt. Parson was in command of the signal squad, Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie officer commanding the 4th field Brigade, accompanied Col. Anderson and Col. Beaman while they inspected the battery.

The battery goes into Camp at Petawawa to-day where it will have actual firing and more training.

Peterborough Rangers

The third of the day's inspections was that of the Peterborough Rang-

THE WEATHER

Another shower passed over this section early this morning—rain falling to .11 of an inch. Very heavy rains have occurred farther west, around Toronto and the Niagara Peninsula. About one inch fell at Toronto and something like a cloud-burst passed over Niagara Falls. Highest temperature yesterday, 78; lowest this morning, 59 degrees. Probably cooler.—W.P.

MASONS HOLD CHURCH PARADE TO ST. JOHN'S

Rev. Bro. R. C. Blagrave Bases Address on Solomon's Temple.

SYMBOLIC OF LIFE.

Two Hundred Members of Craft Attend Service Yesterday Afternoon.

"And Solomon's builders and Hiram's builders did hew them, and the stonesquarers so they prepared timber and stones to build the house." These words, the 18th verse of the fifth chapter of the First Book of Kings, were the text from which Bro. the Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., addressed the Masons of Peterborough district when they held their annual church parade to St. John's Church yesterday afternoon. There were more than two hundred members of the craft present, under the leadership of the District Deputy Master, W. R. Morris, who read the lesson. They marched from the hall to the church, marshalled by W. H. Lytle.

Dr. Blagrave's sermon was based on the building of the temple by Solomon according to God's plan, and he stressed the necessity of building the temple of the human life according to God's plan by the aid of His abiding grace.

There is no secret standard of virtue in Free Masonry, began the speaker, nor is there a secret key to a deeper moral and spiritual existence. Masons share with all mankind those ideals of truth and beauty which are inscribed in this sacred volume common to all mankind.

Masons endeavor to cultivate those ideals with a method that is secret but that does not relieve them of the struggle which everyone has to achieve them. By their system of fraternity they strive to inculcate them. They have a system that is symbolic because, being human, they can best understand the abstract matters when they are given in terms of human understanding.

The Old Testament gives the story of ever-widening spiritual and moral ideals and in the centre of it is the building of the Temple, the most symbolic building the world has ever seen. The tools used were of a common nature but because in this case they had a divine significance they are used as the basis of symbolism. The construction of the Temple and of its equipment furnishes more symbols, and brings home deep truths, which are personal and eternal.

After God's Plan.

The Temple was designed after the pattern God gave to Moses in the Mountain. Life is to be fashioned after the divine plan. The Temple shows that God has a plan for everyone and for the whole world. The purpose of life is to serve something higher than human wants. God has constructed an ideal plan and purpose for man and when it is shown to him he can strive to live by it.

That God has a divine plan for man is shown by the respect and regard man has for all that is good, beautiful, and true. Man is conscious, when the design is shown him by the Great Architect, that he can never reach it. It was gradually revealed until the coming of Christ to be a pattern and type for man. God has given His saving grace without which it is impossible to attain to the plan because man is enchained in sin. But man must co-operate with God's grace. God does not do anything for him that he can do for himself. That would weaken him morally. God has given man a plan and he must co-operate to try to achieve it.

Three Essentials.

There are three things essential to following God's plan of life, declared the speaker, just as they were essential in building the Temple. The first is organization. There must be system and co-operation. Solomon's workmen were organized for their various tasks and individual and community life must be organized. Intellect and strength must

WINDOW PLACED IN ST. JAMES' IN HONOR OF REV. B. GREATRIX

Work of First Pastor Honored By Congregation of South End Club.

FITTING SERVICE.

Rev. David Wren Preaches and Unveils Window—Tribute Paid Veteran Minister.

The services throughout the day held in St. James' United church yesterday were all of special interest and attracted large congregations, it being the Sunday school anniversary as well as Flower Sunday.

At eleven o'clock the teachers and pupils of the Sunday school, the tiny tots leading, and carrying beautiful flowers, entered the auditorium of the church. They marched in classes to the altar, where a cross was erected, on which they deposited their floral offerings.

The service was in charge of the Rev. Joseph W. Dudgeon, the brother of the pastor of St. James'. He took for the subject, "The Challenge of Youth," his text being "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" Speaking to the grown-ups through the children, his message was one of cheer and hope. He emphasized the fact that the child is fundamentally religious and should be given the opportunity for religious growth early in life.

Very appropriate and inspiring music accompanied the service, under the direction of the organist and choir leader, Frank Stevens. The anthem, "Praise Ye the Father" (Gounod) by the choir, and a duet, "We offer Thee Fair Flowers," Mrs. Kitney, A.C.A.M., and Mrs. Monks.

There was an open session of the Sunday school at three o'clock, with a junior choir in charge of the music.

Rev. Joseph W. Dudgeoen was again the speaker and took as his theme, "The Child Jesus," the culmination of the lessons for the past quarter dealing with the life of Christ. "And Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature and in favor with God and man," as found in Luke 2:52, being the text for his address.

Evening Service.

The evening service came as a fitting close to the day's worship, giving to the youth of this church a splendid example of life spent in Christian service, that of the Rev. Benjamin Greatrix in whose honor this service was held.

The opening prayer was offered by Rev. Joseph Dudgeon after which the pastor read the first seventeen verses of Second Samuel. This was the story of David, who in his day, built a house for God.

The pastor then voiced words of appreciation of Rev. Mr. Greatrix, and said that he felt it an honour to follow in the footsteps of such a man. He declared that "a church planted" gives the greatest possible joy to the heart of a minister. A church dedicated to the worship of God in which souls are born, is the reward of their work.

From all over the Bay of Quinte conference had come messages of good will toward the work begun by Rev. Mr. Greatrix in St. James' United church. A letter was read from the Mayor of Trenton, a former pastorate of Mr. Greatrix, in which he regretted his inability to represent his congregation at this meeting.

The pastor, in introducing Rev. David Wren acknowledged that while St. James was greatly indebted to Trinity United Church in many ways, they felt that this debt had been cancelled by giving Rev. Mr. Greatrix to Trinity congregation.

Rev. Mr. Wren said he had great pleasure in having a part in this service, and in a short program, spoke from the fitting text, Ezekiel, 36, 27, "And I will put my spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes, and ye shall keep my judgments and do them." Notwithstanding the controversy regarding the mind, and the spirit of God today, Mr. Wren maintained that the answer was always, "to walk by faith and not by sight," quoting the words of Christ "The works I do, I do not of myself, but of the Father within me."

When the Spirit comes upon the lives of men they co-operate with God. The greatest things that can come into the life of a man are the things he can do and say under the direction of the Spirit. In a recent drive to Keene, Mr. Wren was greatly impressed with the beauty of the surrounding country, and with the thought the farmer at work was in co-operation with God.

Speaking of the three great kingdoms in this world, plant, animal and man, he said that each, in a certain way, was able to express itself, but that originality and personality are found alone in man. Man connects and reproduces the thought of God. He reproduces it in song, in poetry, in art and in the temples of God. Will the instrument be fine enough to reproduce this inspiration?

Window Unveiled.

Approaching the climax of the service, the unveiling of the window, Mr. Wren said he was sure that this

Mexican Fliers On Non-Stop Flight Forced Down Because Lack of Fuel

TAMPICO, June 25 (Canadian Press). — Jacquin Pacheco and Fritz Bieler, Mexican fliers, who took off from Windsor, Ont., on Saturday morning on a non-stop flight to Mexico City, landed here at 11.50 yesterday morning owing ot a lack of fuel. They refuelled and continued their flight to Mexico City.

The fliers said they encountered bad weather all the way across the United States, which prevented them from making the speed they had calculated. They were considerably overdue when they landed, and for a time telephones in newspaper offices and telegraph offices were busy answering many anxious inquiries.

The airmen apparently passed over the greater part of continental United States without being sighted. Their route took them over parts of Tennessee, Arkansas, and down the Mississippi, thence to the Mexican coast where they headed straight for Tampico. When they landed their gasoline supply was totally exhausted.

DEPUTIES PASS BILL FOR STABILIZING FRENCH FRANC

Approve of Measure For Stabilizing Value at 3.39 Cents in American Money.

BY LARGE MAJORITY.

PARIS, June 25. — By the overwhelming vote of 450 to 22 the Chamber of Deputies yesterday passed Premier Poincare's bill for stabilizing the franc at a value of 3.93 cents in American money. More than 100 members of the Chamber abstained from voting but an analysis of the ballot showed that these were individual abstentions only.

None of the opposing groups, not even the Socialists, went on record as opposing the measure in principle. The days debate brought out a deal of party politics, the Radical and Socialist groups aiming especially toward proving that Poincare's scheme was a logical outcome of their own policies which had been adopted by the Union government.

So far as party lines are concerned however, the band wagon was crowded last night.

The stabilization bills were at once sent to the Senate. The finance committee of that body had already adopted them in principle, considering their general aspects while the debate was going on in the Chamber of Deputies. There was therefore no doubt but that the bills will be law by Monday morning.

Adopt Amendment.

The only change in the original drafts made in the Chamber was the adoption of an amendment providing for the coinage of 20-franc silver pieces in place of the 5 franc silver coins provided for in the original text. The bill as it reached the Senate authorizes coinage of 100-franc gold pieces and 10 and 20-franc silver pieces.

While theoretically anyone can change the worn little paper notes for bright new gold and silver coins to-day it will be many months before the man in the street finds himself receiving and dealing out hard money. It will take time to mint the coins and France will take no chance of a run on the Bank of France until recently restored confidence becomes a well-rooted habit.

Aside from a big profit on exchange operations the Bank of France and the French Government will make a nice little sum by some expert bookkeeping. With a stroke of the pen all pre-war stocks of gold and silver will be revalued with a profit of about $665,000,000. This will be used to wipe out all state debts to the bank and the bank's books will thus be wiped clean of a lot of war debts owed by Russia and other countries whereon France has been paying interest.

British Motorship Wrecked During Storm

PANAMA CITY, June 25 (Canadian Press). — The British motorship Cynthiana, of the Furness-Withy Line, bound from Vancouver for England with a cargo of 6,500,000 feet of Lumber, grounded off Puntamala, Los Santos Province, and probably will be a total loss. The crew of thirty-nine abandoned the vessel and was picked up by the steamer Myrtle and brought to Panama no Saturday night.

The ship struck a reef during a violent rainstorm. An agent of Lloyd's was sending a tug to ascertain whether the ship's cargo is salvageable.

SEVEN COUNTIES HOLD FIELD DAY

Peterborough Farmers Among Those to Attend Picnic at Presqu'ile Point.

FRIDAY, JULY 6

Peterborough County, along with seven others in the district, will participate in a monster picnic sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture which will be held on Friday, July 6th, at Presqu'ile Point. This is the second annual picnic of the Central Ontario district and it is expected that at least 1,000 people will attend.

Counties taking part in the picnic are Peterborough, Durham, Northumberland, Ontario, Victoria, Hastings, Prince Edward, and Lennox and Addington. The program will consist of softball games both for boys and girls and many standard events. A silver cup donated by the Farm and Dairy, Peterborough, will be awarded to the county winning the highest number of points in the standard events. This cup will become the property of the county that wins it twice, not necessarily in succession.

All events are open to boys and girls resident of the farms located in the counties taking part. Peterborough county girls' softball team is matched against Northumberland in the first round of the tournament. The boys have not as yet entered a team in the events. The softball games commence at 10.00 a.m. with the finals at 4.00 p.m. During the afternoon field events will take place such as jumping, running, weight throwing. A horse shoe contest will be held at 11.00 a.m. There will be dancing in the pavilion in the evening.

J. B. Nelson, B.S.A., district representative for Peterborough, is confident that a large number of the farmers and their families in this county will attend.

Liner Stowaways Are Under Control

LONDON, June 25 (Associated Press). — The mystery respecting the trouble on the steamer Jervis Bay, of Ceylon, was dissipated by the Admiralty last night. It was officially announced that an armed guard from H.M.S. Slavol boarded the Jervis Bay at midnight on Saturday. The officer in command of the marines reported that the stowaways, who had been giving trouble, were safely confined, and that Captain Daniels of the liner was satisfied that the assistance of a warship was no longer needed.

Up to full authorized strength, the 4th Field Battery, Canadian Artillery, left last night on the 12.50 train for Petawara, where they will have a week's firing practice. The men assembled at Armouries and marched to the station under command of Major J. W. Stevenson and Lieut. H. S. Rogers. Capt. J. A. Harstone, M.C., second in command of the battery was already at Petawawa with the advance party. Sergeant B. Sloan was acting Battery Sergeant-Major.

With the local battery went Lieut.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, commander of the 4th Field Brigade, of which the 4th Battery is part. The other batteries, which are located at Cobourg, are also going into camp this week.

REV. J. W. GORDON CONCLUDES MINISTRY AT ST. ANDREW'S

Preaches Farewell Sermon at Service Attended By Trinity People.

A WORD IN SEASON.

Pastor Uses Same Text and Subject As For First Sermon in St. Andrew's.

St. Andrew's Church was well filled last night when the members of Trinity Church and St. Andrew's met together in worship at the concluding service of the pastorate of the Rev. James Gordon, who is leaving for St Catharines. Mr. Gordon has conducted the union services of Trinity and St. Andrew's in the past and a feeling as if he was a co-minister with Rev. David Wren has sprung up and to this feeling the congregations responded and met together. Mr. Wren was with Mr. Gordon in conducting the service for the first part of the evening, when he left to unveil the memorial window in St. James' Church dedicated to his very dear friend, Rev. Benjamin Greatrix.

Mr. Wren delivered the opening prayer. Mr. Gordon, in reading the lesson from 50th chapter of Isiah beginning at the 4th verse, said that he took his opening sermon in St. Andrew's Church from that passage four and a half years ago, with the same text and his first sermon was the same as his closing sermon would be with very few minor changes. "I open and close my ministry in this church with the same lesson."

Mr. Wren took the evening prayer during which he offered thanks for the work of the outgoing minister and prayed that the spirit of God go with him and that the days in the future would be his best, that his ministry had just begun and that God be with him and his family. He also prayed for the minister about to enter on his ministry in St. Andrew's Church.

A Beloved Minister

Mr. Wren spoke many kind words about the retiring minister and his association with Peterborough's ministers. "I feel as if I am colleague and a deputy minister to this congregation, having preached in this church in the summon union services and have developed a great love and esteem for our brother who just concludes his services here. I doubt if there was ever a minister so loved in Peterborough as the Rev. Mr. Gordon. He has a high sense of honor and is a prince among men. In the years that I have met ministers, I have never felt so greatly attached to any minister. I believe a great deal of Mr. Gordon's success rests with his family. By now our families are like relatives. I know Mr. Gordon will be a sucess in Welland Avenue Church, St. Catharines, which was formerly a Methodist church. This is very fine going into a church that until a few years ago was of another denomination but which through Union has become one.

"He could fit into any society and community and bear with distinction and honor. It is with regret we see him leave. It is a larger church to which he is going and we wish him God's speed and every blessing, also you in relationship with your new minister. The two congregations lay side by side. There will be dark days in our family in the coming week.

Mr. Gordon replied: "One of the finest things of human character is that it wears well. It is not what one thinks at first, but what one thinks after two or three years. I did not know what to think of Mr. Wren when I first met him but now I love the pastor Trinity Church. It is a perfect delight to have been his friend. The Rev. David Wren wears well."

Mr. Wren then left to carry out the high honors that were his to perform in St. James' Church.

Mr. Gordon then continued: "As a congregation and as a minister we said good-bye last Friday and I want this last service to be the brightest. It has been brightened by two things: the presence of Trinity congregation. The former Methodist congregation at St. Catharines gives me no horror In Peterborough I have become very close and have had delightful relationships with persons of Trinity Church.

"Then I see others in the congregation whose presence is a very great comfort. These for very good reasons parted from us a few years ago, but their friendship was not lost. It is a great comfort. I have a horror of any demonstrations at a time like this and may we part with a happy feeling. There are hosts of things I would like to say, but cannot think of them or have time to say them now. May you all have God's blessing."

The text of Mr. Gordon's sermon was taken from the 50th chapter of Isaiah and the 4th verse: "The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary."

A Word in Season

"A word in season to a man that finds life too hard and too bitter; What would you say to a man in that position? Have you anything to say? Why, you say, is it of any significance? When Tennyson wrote his In Memoriam and spoke of the great loss of his friend, he received many letters saying he was making too

C. G. E. PICNIC IS SUCCESSFUL DESPITE RAIN

Five Hundred and Fifty Employees of Local Plant Go To Orillia.

FILL SPECIAL TRAIN.

Many Others Travel By Car and Enjoy Outing at Couchiching Beach Park.

Care free,
Good times for Everyone!

That's what C.G.E. stood for in big capital letters, when at 8.30 a.m. on Saturday, a special train of fifteen coaches pulled away from the Peterborough C. N. R. station, travelling Orillia-ward, with over five hundred and fifty employees of the local plant, and members of their families on board.

It was the employees' annual picnic under the auspices of the C.G.E. Social and Athletic Club. Orillia had been chosen by vote of those employees, and a threatening sky and a heavy downpour of rain until noon failed to dampen the spirits of the happy holiday makers.

Beautiful Couchiching Beach Park, a distinct credit to the town of Orillia, proved an ideal picnic ground, with its every facility for land and water sports, conveniences for preparing meals, pavilion, boat livery and covered stands. The rain cleared away by the noon hour, and at one o'clock, running true to schedule, the program of sports began.

Many Cars.

Augmenting the large number which had come by train, many motor parties arrived during the morning though the roads proved not entirely to their liking. Along with this additional force, many Orillia folk were welcomed to join in the day's sports, including a football team, a girl's and a men's softball team.

Owing to the rain, which was falling quite heavily when the train arirved at Orillia, the coaches, as well as open pavilions of the park, were placed at the disposal of the large crowd that dinner might be arrived at Orillia, the coaches, as so, the sky cleared, the short-cropped grass allowed a fresh breeze to quickly dry up the park and sports for the youngsters began almost immediately.

The first events, for girls and boys of twelve years, were so arranged that every child made a good showing, while prizes were handed out quite generously. In the boys' race, fifty yards, Tommy Wallace and Ashmore White won first and second prizes while the older men took a turn in the fun when the men's three legged race came. This event, won by Walter Jackson and F. Bowness, provided plenty of fun with G. W. Mongrow and his partner, G. LaPlante running them a close second.

Another novelty race, in which male participants were required to thread needles in the hands of their lady partners, provoked plenty of laughter while a balloon race presented what must have appeared the most absurd scene of the day — imagine a line-up of men attempting to push elusive balloons for a distance of fifty yards without allowing them to touch the ground if that were not enough, their lady partners pushing the same balloons over the same course on the return journey!

A "Go as You Please" in which the participants were tied hand and foot, and a Novelty coat race were the two remaining fun makers. Oth-

SWEDISH PLANE OVERTURNS IN SECOND LANDING

Had Returned For Rest of Party When Ship Crashed.

PILOT ESCAPES INJURY.

No Word Received Yet From Amundsen and His Five Companions.

Spurred by the rescue of General Nobile, the international group of airplanes and ships in Spitzbergen waters bent every effort to-day to rescue the remaining men. The Swedish fliers on the vessel Quest at Cape Mislopen were ready to fly to the Nobile Camp again, particularly to rescue Lieut. Lundberg, Swedish flier, whose plane overturned on his second trip to the camp.

Unconfirmed despatches reported that the Russian icebreaker Krassin was in communication with Roald Amundsen and five men of the French seaplane which disappeared a week ago while flying to Nobile's aid. These were later declared unfounded.

The base ship Citta Di Milano had left King's Bay for Virgo Bay to be closer to the scene of rescue work. General Nobile is aboard her.

ROME, June 25 (Associated Press). —General Umberto Nobile, leader of the ill-fated exploration party on the dirigible Italia, has been rescued from the ice after being marooned for a month. The other members of his party were left stranded when the rescue plane overturned on its second attempt to land.

Official word of the rescue came from the Citta di Milano, base ship of Nobile's expedition. It showed that the rescue had been accomplished by Captain Tornberg, pilot of the Swedish plane Upland, but that he escaped injury when he crashed on his second attempt.

The full message from the base steamer read: "During the Saturday night the Swedish plane, equipped with runners, landed boldly near the Nobile group and departed with General Nobile. It transported him to Hinlopen Strait whence another Swedish plane took him to Virgo Bay. There he was placed aboard the Citta di Milano.

"The first plane went near the stranded men again to-day in an attempt to continue its rescue work, but overturned in making the difficult landing. Fortunately the valorous pilot was not injured."

The official announcement did not explain why Noble was rescued ahead of his companions.

NO SIGNALS HEARD.

OSLO, Norway, June 25 (Associated Press). — Messages from Moscow, replying to specific requests for information, states yesterday that the ice-breaker Malgin had reported it received no signals from the Latham seaplane whereon Roald Amundsen and five companions went in search of the crew of the dirigible Italia.

Noble Badly Hurt.

ROME, June 25 (Canadian Press) — General Umberto Nobile, injured when the dirigible Italia crashed on the Polar ice cape, has a fractured shin and contusion to his back. His recovery is expected in forty days. An official bulletin issued to-day said his injuries were: "An incomplete fracture of the right shin bone, now healing; dislocation of the right foot and a tendon torn; heavy contusion of the lower right back with abundant hemorrhage."

Assists in Rescue.

KING'S BAY, June 25 (Canadian Press).—General Umberto Nobile today was aboard the base ship Citta Di Milano at Virgo Bay, recovering from injuries received when the dirigible Italia crashed on the Polar ice cape on May 25.

Soon after he was rescued from the ice floe by a Swedish flier, Nobile was aiding in the search for his missing comrades of the Italia with his advice and knowledge of ice conditions.

He hoped himself to lead an air expedition to search for the seven men who drifted to the eastward in the balloon part of the dirigible after the crash.

An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Copenhagen said that the Italian Legation at Oslo had received word that the Swedish plane also rescued another member of the Nobile party who was injured. The plane crashed on another attempt to land on the ice, and presumably the pilot is marooned there with the remainder of Nobile's party.

Help for Aviator

OSLO, Norway, June 25 (Canadian Press). — Advices from Spitzbergen state that Swedish airmen are starting to-day from the vessel Quest in an effort to reach Lieut. Lundberg, who overturned on the ice at Nobile's Camp off Northeast Land, while attempting to rescue the stranded crew.

Motor Chief Rescued.

ROME, June 25 (Canadian Press). —Natale Cecconi, motor chief of the dirigible Italia, and one of the men stranded off North East Land, has been rescued.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT WOOLER UNITED CHURCH

Congregation Fittingly Celebrates Occasion on Sundays June 10 and 17.

SPECIAL SPEAKERS

WOOLER, June 25.— Twenty-five years ago Christian progress was suitably observed on Sundays, June 10 and 17, when large congregations gathered in the United Church here. On Sunday, June 10th, Rev. S. F. Dixon, a former pastor, when the church was being built was present, and preached helpful sermons at both services.

It was under the capable leadership of Rev. S. F. Dixon, 25 years ago, that the congregation entered the new and beautiful church to carry on more effective work.

Rev. Archer Wallace

On June 17, the silver anniversary services were continued with Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., of Toronto, preaching at both services. Rev. Mr. Wallace brought inspiring and helpful messages at each service.

On Monday evening, June 18, Rev. Mr. Wallace gave his lecture, "Is the World Getting Better?" Those who heard him on Sunday and Monday will not soon forget his splendid messages.

The present congregation, before entering their new church home, worshipped in a much smaller building at the north end of the village which was erected in 1870. Rev. H. B. Neal, the present pastor, spoke of the days when the people worshipped there. Many changes have taken place since that time, as the church was lighted by the use of candles; there was no organ, but at that time of the dedication, a melodian was used to lead the music.

In 1876 Rev. I. N. Robinson became the first regular minister of the church at Wooler. Henry Fieldhouse was the first recording steward of the Wooler circuit.

The work of the present congregation is growing and expanding under the very capable leadership and efficient service of the present pastor, Rev. H. B. Neal and his loyal people.

A message was given on Monday evening by Rev. W. E. Honey, a former and beloved pastor, and messages from other former pastors, Rev. J. R. Butler, Rev. J. R. Bick, Rev. W. P. Rogers, Rev. R. A. Deine were read, expressing their regret at not being present and bearing greetings to the congregation.

EARLY SETTLER DIES AT ORONO

Fobert Fowler, 96, Settled in Clarke Township in 1867.

80 YEARS AN ORANGEMAN

In Orono, on Tuesday, June 5th, there passed to rest one of the oldest and most honored citizens, Robert Fowler, in his 96th year. Although failing in health, death came suddenly.

He was born of Scottish parentage, John and Jane "Peight" Fowler, on February 12th, 1833, in Bradge, near Derrygonnly County, Fermanagh, Ireland.

In April, 1867, he came to Canada and settled in Clarke Township, where he carried on farm operations.

On June 23rd, 1875, he was married to Esther Ann Elliott, daughter of the late William and Eliza Elliott, of Kendal.

The late Mr. Fowler owned and lived on lots 11, 12 and 13 in the 7th Concession, adjoining the village of Kendal, until December, 1916, when he removed to the village of Orono, where he continued to reside until his death.

He was a member of the Methodist Church Board while at Kendal and a consistent member of the Orono Park Street United Church. In politics he was a Conservative. He was a loyal Orangeman for eighty years. At the age of fifteen he joined Shankhill L.O.L., Fermanagh, Ireland, and for the past 61 years has been a member of Newtonville L.O.L., No. 311. During that period he missed only three or four celebrations, and the last four years was considered the oldest Orangeman at the Midland Counties annual celebration.

On June 23rd, 1925, Mr. and Mrs. Fowler celebrated their golden wedding.

The sudden death, August 30th, 1923, of his son, William John, caused from injuries received at the collapse of the Orono flax mill, was a shock from which he never fully recovered. This trouble was followed a little over a year later by the sudden death of his daughter, Mary Louisa Cruse, who died in Peterborough hospital, September, 1924.

Mr. Fowler had one brother and two sisters, who predeceased him some years ago in Ireland. He is survived by his wife and one son, James R. Fowler, of Oshawa, and one daughter, Eliza J. Eagleson, at home. Mr. George Fowler, of Millbrook, Mr. James Fowler, of Peterborough, and the late John Fowler, of Lindsay, also the late Mrs. N. F. Hall, of Orono, were cousins of the deceased.

The funeral on Thursday, the 7th, was attended by a large gathering of friends from Toronto, Lindsay, Millbrook, Bailieboro, Bewdley, Kendal, Newtonville, Newcastle, Bowmanville, Pontypool and the surrounding community. After a short service at the home, preceded by the flower-bearers, brother Orangemen, he was borne to the United Church for the public service.

The service was in charge of his pastor, Rev. William Sterling, who was assisted by his former pastor, Rev. J. Bunner, of Bowmanville, both ministers speaking in the highest terms of his Christian character and noble manhood.

The service at the grave was conducted by the district Orange Lodges, Bro. C. Brown, D.M., Gen. John Hughes, Chap., and Bro. T. W. Jackson, Marshall. The pall-bearers were near friends and brother Orangemen, F. J. Brimacombe, T. A. Reid, Harper Carscadden, Wesley Elliott, Wm. H. Robinson and Cecil Robinson.—Orono News.

ANNIVERSARY IS OBSERVED

Rev. V. R. Uren is Special Preacher at St. Andrew's, Campbellford.

FINE SERMONS.

(Examiner Staff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, June 25. — St. Andrew's Church yesterday celebrated the anniversary of its foundation. Large congregations attended morning and evening services, and the church choir sang special music to mark the occasion. The choir loft and pulpit were decorated with ferns and flowers, and the minister for the special services was Rev. V. Rudolph Uren, Ph.D., late of Edinburgh, Scotland, and at present under call to the church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, Montreal.

Dr. Uren is a native of Australia, and received his education in England and Scotland. His sermons were most inspiring and instructive. At the evening service there were many visitors from other churches. Many were from St. Andrew's Church, Burnbrae, where the evening service was cancelled in order to allow any who wished to attend the anniversary services in Campbellford. Rev. D. A. MacKenzie, minister of Burnbrae Church, was among the visitors present.

Before introducing Dr. Uren, Rev. James Grier welcomed those who were present as visitors.

In the morning, the special music took the frm of a solo, "The Ninety and Nine" (Campion), sung by Mrs. F. DeCarroll. At the evening service there were two anthems, "Angel Voices Ever Singing" (Neidlinger) and "O How Amiable" (Barnby). A soprano solo, "There's a Beautiful Land on High" (Taylor) was sung by Miss Helen MacDonald.

Address to Children.

At the morning service, Dr. Uren took as his text a verse from the Gospel of St. Mark, and as the background of his sermon, employed the story of Mary and Martha. These women represented two distinct kinds of Christians, and while neither of them were of the ideal type, a combination of both would answer to what is demanded of the perfect Christian. Dr. Uren's talk to the children was unusually interesting and illustrative. At the evening service Dr. Uren, before proceeding with his sermon, read the formal notice of call, and requested that the congregation meet immediately after the service in order to deal with the amtter. The call is for Rev. James Grier to Lindsay.

The twenty-first verse of the seventh chapter of Mtathew was the text of Dr. Uren's evening sermon: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven. But he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven."

Darwin's theory had been the means of revolutionizing many opinions. Its claim regarding the survival of the fittest was a good explanation for some biological facts, but not for all of them. Nevertheless it was not to be ignored. It was based on two facts, that there were more offspring born into the world than the world could support, and that there was a difference in the offspring. They all must fight for their existence, and in the struggle some went under while the others survived. The reason that some survived was because they were possessed of more useful organs. Thus had Darwin proceeded to his great conclusion.

It was all meant to show that nature decreed death for useless organizations. "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." Thus it was also true of the spiritual realm. The words of the New Testament showed that condemnation was the lot of lives and religions that were useless. As an example there was the story of the barren fig tree which bore an abundance of foliage but no fruit. It was cut down because it did not bear fruit. The tree was known by its fruit, not by its leaves. Thus were modern churches known, not by their extravagant forms of service but by the work which they accomplished for the Kingdom of Heaven. The same truth was manifest in the parable of the talents, of

FIELD DAY HELD FOR RED CROSS

Large Sum Realized at Apsley in Aid of Hospital There.

SPORTS AND PLAY

(Examiner Correspondence.)

APSLEY, June 25.—Favoured with fine weather and a band of enthusiastic workers, the field day on Wednesday in aid of the Red Cross Hospital was a complete success, financially and otherwise, the whole proceedings from start to finish going off without a hitch. When all receipts come in, it is believed that the objective of $300 will be within sight, if not actually realized. While the crowd during the day was smaller than expected, the evening brought out larger numbers, and the parish hall was packed with considerably over 200 for the performance given by St. Luke's, Peterborough, A.Y.P.A., many not being able to get in, the proceeds from the above amounting to about $95. Dinner and supper were served in the parish hall, and an interesting programme of sports held on the grounds of the United church parsonage during the afternoon. Miss Taylor and Miss Byers tagged everyone in sight, realizing the handsome sum of about $30.00, while the Misses Spence and Wilson solicited membership subscriptions. Two features of the sports programme created great interest and amusement, the barrel tilting, something entirely new, and the blindfold wheelbarrow race, M. J. Duffus, of Peterborough, winning the latter, finishing the course only a few inches from the stake. He also worked his way into the final in the tilting tournament, but was then defeated by his opponent, C. S. Windsor. The full results of the sports were as follows:

Barrel tilting tournament— C. S. Windsor.
